Recruits For The Defence Of Canada

The Department of National Defence began this month a recruiting campaign for the three armed services. It is a campaign which good Canadians will support wholeheartedly and which should bring adequate numbers of the right men to the colours.

* * *

Canada can never defend itself by itself. We have not the economic resources and man-power to cover the coastline with military installations, to pack the interior with mobile reserves, to police the three bordering oceans, to patrol the air above Canadian territory —by ourselves alone. We cannot hope and should not try to have an army, navy and air force as great as the United States', though our territory is as extensive. However, we should not fold our hands, close our eyes and merely trust in God and the benevolence of our neighbours.

* * *

In a defensive alliance with other democratic countries, should Canada offer itself as the 'arsenal of democracy', giving the products of its fields and factories and not its flesh and blood? There are these arguments in favour of this, of not increasing the size of our armed forces. We can never put an all-powerful army, navy or air force into operation. Is not a full loaf of products better in this case than a tenth of a loaf of man-power? Canada has not a militaristic temperament—it does not like to parade soldiers. Further, Canada will not be involved in any war unless it is a world war. In the next war Canada would not become a Belgium or a Bikini, for an attack against this country would be, in the opinion of many experts, divisionary. Would not the next war be a "push-button" war, when few men were required?

That kind of reasoning is not emotionally acceptable or realistic. A nation at war must provide troops as well as guns; its integrity cannot suffer half-way measures. Further, Canadian fighters are at least as good as their machines. The next war will not be a "push-button" war. The Chairman of the Joint Research and Development Board in the United States (Dr. Bush) reported to the Armed Services Committee of the U.S. Senate last April that it is a fallacy that the advances of science have decreased the need for men:

> If we were to enter a war tomorrow it would be a tough slugging match.... It would be a war in which we would need to gird ourselves by all means for sustained rigorous effort. It would be a war in which we would need men and armies as well as implements with which they could fight.

Canada must have adequate numbers of trained men to be the nucleus of a war-time army. It needs this for its own defence preparations and to give evidence of good faith to other democratic nations with whom it is allied and whose welfare is ours. We cannot talk big at international councils without power in [illegible]

* * *

[illegible] to be pondered at that with these factors affecting the situation, with U.N. impotent to prevent war, with Russia growling, with the United States adopting peace-time conscription, Canada is launching a recruiting campaign? The need at present is not for great hordes of men in uniform, but for a strong nucleus of fit, intelligent young men who can man our present equipment and be fully-trained to train others in the event of war. The types of men required are in general those who were too young for service in the last war and who are capable through training of rising to senior rank should Canada be mobilized for war.

* * *

The Active forces today present splendid opportunities for promotion, education and a wholesome life. The rates of pay are good. Young men who feel that they cannot leave civilian commitments will find an opportunity of serving patriotically and to their own advantage in the Reserve forces. The recruiting offices in Peterborough for both the Active and the Reserve forces are located in the Armouries.

Rain-Making And The Bards

The recent requests of the Niagara and south-western Ontario for the Ontario Government to provide rain artificially, as it did several months ago during the forest fires, has called forth editorial comment on the agricultural, social and economic implications of rain-making. We are concerned with the effect on our great heritage of literature.

If Man presumes to break the monopoly Nature has over rain, and sends aeroplanes hither and yon spraying clouds with dry ice, where will go the inspiration of mists and weeping rain, of the colours of the rainbow? Will there nevermore be a Swinburne to write of

A rain and ruin of roses
Over the red rose-land?

Or will some new voice in the Brave New World be heard proclaiming:

And lo! a puff of powdered ice
Over the parched peach land.

Walt Whitman flexed his strenuous rhythms on:

I am the Poem of Earth, said the voice of the rain,
Eternal I rise impalpable out of the land and the bottomless sea.

Must a later poet weakly stumble along with:

I am the mechanics of Earth, said the voice of the rain,
Planely I rise in packages out of the lab and the business street.

What will happen to the greatest bard of them all? Will Macbeth's witches meet again in thunder (of planes), lightning (sparks from the jet-engines) or in rain (de-dehydrated crystals of powdered ice)? How now will the Clown sing his final song in Twelfth Night? Like this?—

For the rain it raineth every day
On which the experts say 'O.K.'

What of Portias' noble speech? Must it be recast to make it comprehensible to modern audiences? Perhaps the National Association of Rainmakers, Inc., will offer a scholarship to the person who can best translate her lines. We have already been tinkering with them:

The quality of mercy is rather strained,
It droppeth as little pellets from a plane
Upon the crops beneath. It is twice blessed:
It blesseth him that gives
(For he is paid to do it)
It blesseth him that takes (For he gets bigger fru-it)
etc., etc.

Perhaps we are making much ado about nothing. Perhaps the rain will be allowed to fall in God's good time; or if not we, can search Shakespeare for the appropriate bits. He may not have writ better than he knew but more modernly. Is there not this line in The Taming of the Shrew: "To rain a shower of commanded tears"?

Jinnah

Mohammed Ali Jinnah died Saturday night at the age of 71. He was the leader — the 'Quaid-e-Azam' ('Great Leader') of a hundred million Moslems. He more than any other person was responsible for the division of India into two countries, the Dominion of India and Pakistan. At his death he was Governor-General of Pakistan. It is for time and the historians to decide whether in the granting of independence to India the creation of two states in that vast land was essential or wise. Both he and Gandhi had the satisfaction of seeing in their lifetimes the realization of independence for Indians, to which both devoted their lives. To Gandhi, the division into two states was a matter of sorrow, to Jinnah it was a necessity. He said in 1943 that if the British government permitted a Hindu overlordship, it "would lead to the gravest disaster for India". He died at a time when India, despite the granting of separate status to Pakistan, is gravely disturbed.

There is much similarity in the careers of Gandhi and Jinnah, though Gandhi was the greater man and more dedicated spirit. Both were educated in England. Both practised law in earlier years. Both had visions of freeing India from British domination. Both lived simply and had the affection of their peoples. Both died within a year of India's achieving independence, within a year of each other. Jinnah was himself, strange to say, born a Hindu. In his youth he adopted Mohammedism and became the tribune of the Moslems of India, with all the zeal of a convert. He was a politician and statesman, Gandhi was a statesman and saint. It is sad that the new India of Hindu and Moslem should lose her two greatest men in this year when her need is so great and her problems so complex.

On Old Pictures, Papers and Books

By F. M. DELAFOSSE

As long as I can remember I have had a veneration for old things,—old letters, old pictures, old papers, old books. This feeling has deepened with the years to such an extent that it is with sentiments bordering on disgust that I occasionally hear people inveighing against the practice of hoarding them as something that has no possible value. Surely anybody having any regard for the importance of history must acknowledge that without such material to assist us in research much valuable history would be inevitably lost. If this is true of nations and states it is certainly true of family documents as well.

This thought came into my mind a few days ago when I was engaged in delving into packets of old letters and photographs with a view to bringing back incidents and people to my memory. They were a mixed assortment. Photographs of ladies and gentlemen arrayed in habiliments as far removed from the precise and variegated styles of the Regency era as they were from the meticulously cut and startlingly scanty raiments assumed by society at large as most suitable for the present period. I see figures of stoutly built ladies clad in dresses trailing in the dust, with not a tip of a toe showing under the hems and men with the most shockingly tailored trousers and ill-fitting Albert coats that could be imagined, some of them looking fitter for a rag-bag than as clothing for a sentient man of fashion to wear.

My collection has been added to at odd times and in various ways, either by gifts or through purchase. Pictures of beauties of long ago are amongst them, but I miss many and especially one that I possessed in the days of my early boyhood which was bought in London. It was a likeness of Maud Branscombe, a noted beauty of the Mid-Victorian period. She was lauded for her transcendent fineness of features in much the same way that Lilian Russell and Mrs. Langtry, in their varied styles were lauded. Her photographs were to be seen in thousands of shop windows. I never knew anything about her, but when that likeness was stolen from me years ago, I felt that I had lost a link from my youth that could never be replaced.

Turning them listlessly over I come on several pictures of the Royal Family dating as far back as when King Edward VII was a young man and one also of Princess Louise before she was married to the Marquis of Lorne and came out to Canada as the wife of the Governor-General.

Most of these photographs, of course, are helps to history, but they have a double value to me as being handed down or acquired for the purpose of marking incidents in the career of members of my own family. They were collected for that purpose and will be handed down to others in order that they may be added to by those who shall hold the reins in the years to come.

Many members of well-known English families who migrated to the British Colonies four or five generations ago, forgot to leave to their descendants any but the barest scraps of information regarding their original forebears. They mostly implanted only one salutary lesson, that of loyalty to the Motherland from which their fathers had come. They heard little or nothing of the history of their families. I am writing of something that I am fairly conversant with when I say that there are very many people of English descent who are keenly anxious to find out the histories of their own families. If anyone doubts this he or she has only to enquire at the public library of any city, town or village in the Dominion to learn that it is true. If I can only impress on all the absolute need of keeping alive an interest in their own family histories, no matter how insignificant that history may seem, some good will have been done in this article. The most trivial details may prove of help and lead to some extremely vital disclosures.

* * *

Continuing my search I light on the photograph of the late Reverend Sabine Baring-Gould, whom I never saw in the flesh but of whom I heard a good deal at an early period in my life through his relationship to first cousins of mine.

My aunt, who knew him very well, wrote to ask him on one occasion if he considered a literary life would be a suitable one for me to follow and sent him a specimen of my youthful handicraft. Mr. Baring-Gould replied very kindly but his remark was as pointed as his pen.

In substance he simply said: "Tell your nephew not to think of trying to make money out of writing. It simply cannot be done". Mr. Baring-Gould wrote feelingly. He had spent years in compiling work (I think it was Myths of the Middle Ages) and had only received the munificent sum of three hundred pounds for it. He wrote some wonderful hymns. Two of the best known, sung wherever the English language is spoken, are the wonderful processional hymn "Onward, Christian Soldiers" and the evening hymn, "Now The Day Is Over". He was treated by badly misinformed reporters to three laudatory obituaries at different points in his life and could easily have forestalled Mark Twain's remark on reading his own obituary, that the news was really very much exaggerated.

Gumblfed

The typesetter tried to slip the following past the proofreader: "The girl gumblfed in her purse."

"Gumblfed isn't a word," admitted the typesetter when accused of balling up the line purposely. "Gumblfed is an invention. The copy said fumbled—but gumblfed is original, sort of."

Answering him back in his language the proofreader said: "It's pretty fubwicz, if you like it."

"Fubwicz?" asked the practical-joking typesetter.

"Sure—you have to admit that ginorial."

"I won't amtid angthin. Your're nust."

"Smea to you, maris guy!"

MYSTERY SHOW

Patriotism and Tobacco

(NEW STATESMAN AND NATION, LONDON)

When all men talked of liberty, the English, wrote G.K.C., talked of beer. Future chroniclers of our days may similarly observe that in August, 1948, there was much more talk in England of cigarettes than of the German crisis or Mr. Molotov. Indeed, the shortage of Virginians is a really important matter to which the Cabinet has to give very serious attention. Apart from the time lost in queuing and in going the rounds fruitlessly from shop to shop, there is little doubt that a cigarette famine would lead soon to a sharp drop in industrial productivity. The question is what can be done about it.

There is no mystery as to the causes of the present shortage. The last war led to an enormous increase in smoking. In 1937-38 we consumed about 185 million lbs. of tobacco a year; by 1946 consumption had risen to 250 million lbs., and in the twelve months ending April, 1947, manufacturers actually withdrew 258 million lbs. from bond. In the first six months of this year, dollar shortage has compelled us to cut down our imports of American tobacco to 36 million lbs., as compared with nearly 130 million lbs. two years ago; and total imports of tobacco from all sources in the half-year have been reduced from 150 to 69 million lbs. There are still stocks in hand sufficient to keep us going for over a year; but, by the end of last May, we had eaten into our reserves to the tune of over 60 million lbs. in twelve months.

It is not surprising, therefore, that the Government should have cut down the rate of permitted withdrawals from bond to just over 190 million lbs. annually. Indeed, unless there are bigger imports, it is evident that there are further, more drastic cuts ahead. No doubt, by blending more Rhodesian and Balkan tobacco, which can be bought with sterling, we can save perhaps 10 per cent. of our dollar expenditure, if the British smoker will accept a slight change in the flavour of his "gasper". Unless, however, Sir Stafford Cripps is prepared to use scarce dollars to buy American tobacco, our inordinate appetite for familiar brands of cigarettes seems likely to be unsatisfied. Smokes or machinery?

That is the choice; and there is no doubt that Sir Stafford will feel that we ought to take the hard way and cut down our smoking until we are quite sure that we can get enough imports of raw materials and capital goods to put our house in order. But he has a powerful combination against him. First there is Mr. Percy Belcher and his Tobacco Workers' Union, who evidently feel that full employment is the due of cigarette manufacturers as much as any other producers. Then there is the powerful "lobby" of the United States tobacco growers. They have a bumper crop, and have already succeeded in arranging for tobacco to figure largely in this year's Marshall Aid shop-window. Finally, most influential of all, there is the cigarette smoker who, at a ruinous cost to himself, unhesitatingly decrees, in the conflict of patriotisms, that he prefers to smoke as much as possible in order to balance the budget rather than to bridge the import-export gulf by cutting down his consumption of American tobacco.

How To Correctly Split

A heated controversy has been stirred among English stylists over the defence of the split infinitive made recently by Prof. H. S. Davies, of Cambridge University, in a radio talk. Among Prof. Davies' supporters is the writer of a letter to the Christian Century. To firmly buttress his argument, he cites Southey, Coleridge, Lamb, Wordsworth, Macaulay, De Quincey, Milton, Matthew Arnold, Ruskin as splitters all.

The soundest view seems to be that to split an infinitive, it is necessary to correctly split it. That is, the splitting must result in a harmonious sound, and must add to the easy flow of language. Usually, it is more natural to use an infinitive without splitting it. On such occasions, the rule should be: Don't split. On the other hand, the context of a sentence is often such as to naturally lead one to split. In that case, the rule should be: Split.

That seems to be the rule that is presently being worked out in England, through the dispute now in progress. The viewpoint that split infinitives are at all times abhorrent is being abandoned, and the English language, so flexible, is being accorded the right to embrace all infinitives, both split and unsplit.—Ottawa Citizen.

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And in the second year of the reign of Nebuchadnezzar Nebuchadnezzar dreamed dreams, wherewith his spirit was troubled, and his sleep brake from him. Then spake the Chaldeans to the king in Syriack, O king, live for ever: tell thy servants the dream, and we will shew the interpretation. The king answered and said to the Chaldeans, The thing is gone from me.... The Chaldeans answered before the king, and said, There is not a man upon the earth that can shew the king's matter....

Then was the secret revealed unto Daniel in a night vision. Then Daniel blessed the God of heaven.... Daniel answered in the presence of the king, and said, The secret which the king hath demanded cannot the wise men, the astrologers, the magicians, the soothsayers, shew unto the king; but there is a God in heaven that revealeth secrets, and maketh known to the king Nebuchadnezzar what shall be in the latter days. Thy dream, and the visions of thy head upon thy bed, are these.... Thou, O king, sawest, and behold a great image. This great image, whose brightness was excellent, stood before thee; and the form thereof was terrible. This image's head was of fine gold, his breast and his arms of silver, his belly and his thighs of brass, his legs of iron, his feet part of iron and part of clay.

Thou sawest till that a stone was cut out without hands, which smote the image upon his feet that were of iron and clay, and brake them to pieces. Then was the iron, the clay, the brass, the silver, and the gold, broken to pieces together, and became like the chaff of the summer threshing floors; and the wind carried them away, that no place was found for them: and the stone that smote the image became a great mountain, and filled the whole earth.

This is the dream. (Dan. 2: 1, 4, 5, 10, 19, 27, 23, 31-36.)

Letter To The Editor

SIDEWALKS NEEDED

Sir: A recent accident on Park Street North when a gentleman, who was walking along the roadway, was struck down by a motorcycle brings to the fore the urgent need for sidewalks or footpaths in the Parkhill community.

Every day cases occur where young children who play on these roads are narrowly missed by automobiles or trucks which are very often in the hands of careful drivers. In other instances these vehicles are driven by irresponsible drivers who delight in using our streets as speedways. It may be argued that it is the responsibility of parents to keep their children off the roads but where these children do not have sidewalks on which to run their waggons etc., it is very difficult to supervise them properly at all times.

In my opinion the life of only one of our children is of far greater value than the cost of providing sidewalks. I would respectfully suggest that consideration be given to this matter by our municipal council.

Yours truly,
C. B. BANKS.

A BRITISH OPINION

SINCE THE DEATH OF GANDHI, much of India's adulation goes to the first Indian governor-general of India, Chakravarti Rajagopalacha, Rajagopalachari who is more generally referred to as "CR" or "Rajaji" at most. During his recent tour of South India, huge crowds turned out to greet him and many of the women took gold necklaces from their person and put them over the neck of their loved "CR". Such a transfer is pictured here. This was a gesture that had previously been made to Mahatma Gandhi. This picture was made in Mysore, the most progressive of India's states. It was at Bangalore, capital of Mysore, that Rajaji received his college education.

Veteran Officer Knows Tricky Arctic Waters

ON BOARD H.M.C.S. HAIDA, Sept. 14 — (CP). — At least one man on this sleek destroyer is familiar with the tricky Arctic route now being followed by the Royal Canadian Navy's northern task force.

He is Cmdr. George H. Stephen, who spent years plying northern waters before he was called to active service by the navy in 1939. From 1934 to 1938 he was an officer on the famed Hudson's Bay Company's eastern Arctic supply vessel Nascopie, which sunk last year.

In 1939, up to the time he was called for active service, he was captain of the "M. F. Therese", the Roman Catholic mission ship which travels to northern areas.

"Going Home"

So when the Haida and the destroyer Nootka set out from Halifax for Churchill, Man., Cmdr. Stephen felt he was going home. His current civilian post is supervising office of yard craft and assistant King's Harbor master in the Halifax naval dockyard. When the northern trip was planned he was taken on to help guide the ships safely to their destination.

Arrival of the task force in Churchill marked the first time that Canadian warships had touched the northern Manitoba port.

Destroyers are not unfamiliar to Cmdr. Stephen. He was in command of a destroyer in the latter years of the war and was decorated for successful action against enemy submarines, for sailing a twice-torpedoed and abandoned tanker to port from mid-Atlantic and for winning a fight against a fire in another vessel.

Ship Stevedores Ignoring Call By Army

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 14 — (AP). — C.I.O. longshore headquarters announced today union stevedores will ignore a call by the United States army for dock workers to handle military cargoes in contract-struck ports on the United States Pacific coast.

The army called for qualified dock workers on a "first-come first-hired" basis for 8 a.m. today in San Francisco and said similar calls were being made in other west-coast ports. Loading cargoes for the army's Pacific areas will begin Wednesday, the announcement said:

"There will be a picket line around the army employment office this morning," longshore headquarters said.

In a bitter statement the union denounced the army's plan to bypass the union-controlled hiring hall as "an open-shop move."

"It means direct strike-breaking by the army," a spokesman for Harry Bridges, union president, said.

Earlier the union had expressed willingness to handle army cargoes for the Orient under pre-strike conditions and wages, and a C.I.O. regional director had said union stevedores could be on the job today.

The army announcement last night made no mention of hiring halls but said longshoremen for San Francisco would be hired at the port employment office.

Army Secretary Kenneth C. Royall announced in Washington Monday night the army would hire directly its own loaders, because all but one of the west-coast shipping and stevedoring firms "have declined or have failed . . . to carry out their current contracts to load and transport army cargo." (The one exception asked for more time before deciding what to do.)

Doctor Identifies Three Kidnappers

WINDSOR, Sept. 14.—(CP). — Identified last night by the man they abducted, two youths from Toronto and one from Montreal will be returned to Toronto today where they are expected to face kidnapping charges.

Dr. David Perlman, 55, Toronto physician who was forced at gunpoint Monday to accompany the trio from his home city to a Cottam tourist cabin, 23 miles southeast of here, picked the youths from a police line-up.

The doctor escaped his gag and bonds at the cabin and notified Provincial Police, who rounded up the suspects in Windsor. Police seized three revolvers and 150 rounds of ammunitions from the trio.

Cornwall Man Guilty Of Dangerous Driving

CORNWALL, Sept. 14—(CP).—Harry Smith, RR 2, Cornwall, charged with motor manslaughter, Monday night was found guilty by a Supreme Court jury on a reduced charge of dangerous driving. He was remanded until Wednesday morning for sentence by Mr. Justice Treleaven.

J. S. Latchford, defence counsel, announced he would appeal the decision.

The charge arose from the death of Patricia Gail Carr, eight, of Cornwall, on the highway last April 27. The child was struck by a truck said to have been driven by Smith.

Find Lawyer's Body With Wound In Head

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Sept. 14—(CP).—The body of 66-year-old Hartley F. Upper, KC, Niagara Falls lawyer, was found today in the hallway outside his office in a downtown building. There was a .38-calibre revolver found in his head.

In ill-health recently, Mr. Upper was returning officer for Niagara Falls riding in the last two provincial elections. He was born at Beaverdams, Ont., near here, and graduated from Osgoode Hall, Toronto, in 1906. He has been in partnership for the last 28 years here with Wendell M. Musgrove, KC.

Announcement!
TO PETERBOROUGH RESIDENTS!
PERSONAL FINANCE COMPANY OF CANADA OPENS PETERBOROUGH BRANCH

DALTON R. THOMSON
Manager
Mr. Dalton R. Thomson was born in Arden, Ontario. He attended local schools, graduating from Plevna High School in 1940. He enlisted in the R.C.A.F., serving until his honorable discharge in 1946. He was appointed Assistant Manager of the Company's Kingston Branch in December, 1946. He comes to his new position as Branch Manager with a sincere desire to be of helpful service to all who need loans or financing. He will make his home in Peterborough.

We are pleased to announce the opening for business of the Peterborough Branch office of the Personal Finance Company of Canada. It gives us additional pleasure to announce the appointment of Mr. Dalton R. Thomson as manager.

The Personal Finance Company of Canada has been in business in Canada since 1933. We are grateful to the thousands of satisfied clients since that date who have made possible our steady growth which has resulted in the opening of this Peterborough Branch. We are happy to have the opportunity of serving our neighbors in Peterborough and vicinity with the kind of Personal Loan service that may best be helpful to them.

We welcome applications for loans from any employed person, married or single, or from any one with an income sufficient to permit repayment of a loan. Loans are made in amounts from $50 to $1,500 or more. Repayments are scheduled on a monthly basis to fit the individual's income in reasonable amounts so that they are easy to handle. Loans are made on the following plans to suit individual needs. The various loan plans offered are:

1. Loans to salaried people on signature only.
2. Loans to husband and wife only.
3. Loans with auto as security.
4. Loans with furniture as security.
5. Business fixtures and equipment loans.
6. Farm stock and equipment loans.
7. Financing of autos and other articles with smaller down payments.

Most people will qualify under one of the above plans. It is never necessary to have bankable security to borrow at Personal Finance, and co-signers are seldom required to obtain a loan. Applications are handled in strict confidence and with all possible speed. Making loans and financing purchases is our full-time business and we endeavour to favourably approve every application received by us.

Recent announcement that Cobourg's Galloping Ghosts had joined a new ORFU intermediate group with Trenton, Picton and the RCAF of Trenton airport is interesting. For the reason that Cobourg withdrew two weeks ago from a similar setup including Peterborough, Oshawa and Orillia. On account of these clubs insisted that Cobourg observe the Sept. 1 residence rule on imports. Bill Fry of the ORFU in Toronto agreed that rules must be observed and accepted Cobourg's withdrawal. It is quite okay for Cobourg to join an independent group, or it is fine if they go in with another ORFU setup, provided in this latter case no imports—not residents of Cobourg by Sept. 1—are used. Local grid officials will watch the Ghosts' lineup closely.

Haven't heard the official Hydro word on it yet, but local softballers and lacrossers are wondering if the lighting at the Ashburnham Bowl and at Miller Bowl will be cut down shortly. A St. Catharines' item says that Haig Bowl there will only be able to use 12,000 watts for any night attraction, a two-thirds cut of the 36,000 watts employed in senior lacrosse games. They checked a Toronto firm which rents generators but found the cost awfully high. Rent of $500 a month, plus installation expenses, as well as salary and expenses for an employee to operate the machine. And daylight saving ends within two weeks.

Sails To The Title

Stony Lake sailboat racing is over after a most successful season. They average 18 entries for six races, open to all, on six summer Saturdays, and Peter Turner, local 15-year-old youth, was the winner this year. Gets the President's Trophy, put up in '39 by Bill Beatty, and won last year by Tony Lockhart of Toronto, and the year before by a Washington sailor. Mighty nice going, as some competent adult sailboat addicts are in there. Pete is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ford Turner. The competition calls for two races each on three courses, about six miles a week, and there's a lot of interest around the lake. Sailing is becoming more and more popular up there.

Jack Foote leaves this week-end for Toronto and more university. But the classy and popular rover of the Petes' lacrossers will come down for the remaining playoff games this season. He probably won't have the time to take the local peewees, bantams, midgets and juves into OLA playdowns, but these minor teams all have good local coaches. Jack handled all the minor lacrosse here all summer as a full-time job—sponsored by the Lacrosse Club—and he made a whale of a good job of it. We trust the Petes' playoffs won't be the last we see of him in Peterborough.

Setback For Petes

Local lacrossers took a 20-15 setback in Orillia last evening and that sews up their OLA senior "B" semi-final series at one victory each in the best-of-five scramble. Next one is here Friday and some of the boys say they're going to lay on the gad a bit. The O's didn't spare the rod on their home floor and a lot of slashing went on. One fist fight, too. Lacrosse playoffs usually see the opponents getting heated up after a game or two and carrying the odd grudge. The game was speedy and rugged, and certainly a free-scoring affair. Petes would look unbeatable for a spell, and then Orillia would sweep in for repeated markers without a comeback. And the homesters finished stronger this game. Jack Foote was probably the pick of the Petes over the whole route.

Ashby's had no trouble at all racking up a 17-3 victory over Lindsay at the Bowl last gloaming. To take a lead in the Girls' Softball League intermediate round-robin series. That's the local finals for these teams, and has nothing to do with PWSU playdowns. B. Reid pitched well, had fine support in the field and lots of hard hitting to help her cause. While Lindsay looked pretty bad defensively. Booted nine or so, and might have been charged with several more but for a soft-hearted scorer. E. McFadden and J. Reynolds—two steady players for Ashby's the past three years—led the hitters. Lock Co. plays Lindsay at seven p.m. Friday.

Gridders Get Set

A meeting at PCVS tonight of the Lake Ontario district COSSA to draw up grid schedules. Toronto Riverside juniors and seniors will open the season against our Collegiate crews here on Sept. 25. And the senior PCI-ers will likely play their annual exhibition game against TCS in Port Hope on Oct. 16. The newly-formed Ontario Federation of School Athletic Associations has drawn up a list of six suggested inter-league rugby games. Peterborough, as COSSA champs the last two years, are one of the two COSSA teams drawn for these proposed exhibitions. Guelph of the WOSSA will likely play here in late October or early November. St. Catharines, last year's COSSA finalist, is drawn to play in Toronto. The above info comes from Coach Bev Goulding of PCVS seniors.

Oshawa Colts Down Kingston

OSHAWA, Sept. 14.——Oshawa GM Colts opened their Eastern Ontario zone championship series with Kingston Nylons here last night in the OASA Senior B playoffs, with a 10-0 victory. Second game will be played at Kingston Friday evening.

With Preem Whiteley having no trouble with the Kingston batters, as he struck out 12, Colts breezed to victory after taking a 40- lead in the firts inning. Four scattered singles were all that Whiteley allowed. He gave up six walks but he was never in trouble, not a Kingston batter reaching third base.

Jubenville, Barker, Bidgood and Whiteley all had two safe hits for Oshawa.

Orillia Ties Up Semi-Finals By Beating Petes 20 to 15

Orillia defeated the Petes in Orillia last night by a 20-15 count to tie up their best-of-five OLA Senior "B" semi-final series at a win apiece. The third game will be here this Friday night. Quite a few Peterborough fans made the trip but the home crowd was not too large. It was a wide-open game with plenty of goals as first one side blew hot and then the other. Plenty of slashing was seen, too, as the series warms up, and Em Creighton and Hammond were gated in the final quarter with major penalties for fighting.

The Petes broke fast to start and ran in a neat lead, but Orillia had a good margin on play in the second chukker. It was first Peterborough and then Orillia in scoring in the third, and the homesters finished a bit stronger inn the fourth. They were paced by Pearsall, J. J. Hill, Hammond and Antonio. Jack Foote turned in a fine effort for the losers, with Creighton and Bob Breakspear also good throughout.

The teams:

Petes: Goal, Hill; defence, Chute and Magee; centre, E. Creighton; wings, R. Breakspear and Dugan; rover, Foote; alternates, Horton, J. Breakspear, L. Vitarelli, D. Vitarelli, Warren, Smith and Gordon.

Orillia: Goal, Fagan; defence, Pearsall and Varty; centre, Street; wings, Hammond and J. J. Hill; rover, Antonio; alternates, Payne, Price, Crowe, Johnson, Massey, Beaton and Scarlett.

Referees—J. Mullis and W Mullis.

Ashby's Romp To A 17-3 Win Over Lindsay Gals

Ashby's took over top spot in the Girls' Softball League intermediate round-robin series at the Bowl last night when they romped to a 17-3 victory over Lindsay. While B. Reid pitched good ball and had neat support, the visitors were real bad defensively and gave their pitcher no support. They booted nine and let a lot of scratch hits through. The winners had 17 safe bingles against seven, and four strikeouts to two.

D. Manley and E. Simmonds looked good in the field for the winners with M. Chase and D. Madill the pick of the losers. E. McFadden and J. Reynolds led the Ashby squad at bat with three safe blows each, several others having two safeties, including a few extra-base blows. D. Hunter topped the Lindsay lasses at the plate with a triple and single in four appearances.

The teams

Lindsay: H. Deyell, 2b; P. Graham, 1b; D. Hunter, c; M. Chase, ss; M. McGill, lf; M. Lucas, lf; D. Wood, cf; D. Madill, 3b; A. MacDonald, rf; M. Dockins, rf; M. Owen, p.

Ashby's: E. McFadden, 2b; J. Reynolds, c; E. Simmonds, 3b; M. Freeman, cf; D. Manley, ss; G. Dracup, lf; D. Callan, rf; J. Dunk, 1b; B. Reid, p.

Giants Dust Off Pirates As Brooks Dump Chicago

By RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The historic Polo grounds is fast gaining a reputation as the graveyard of National League pennant hopes.

Burt Shotton brought his Brooklyn Dodgers into New York Giants' lair over the week-end for a four-game series and left with only one victory.

The high-flying Pittsburgh Pirates showed up Monday night boasting a seven-game winning streak and Lippy Leo Durocher's fence busters cooled them off, 5-2.

By knocking off the pursuers of the leading Boston Braves, the Giants themselves are sticking in the running for the flag.

Monday night's triumph boosted the Giants into a fourth-place tie with the idle St. Louis Cardinals, 5½ games behind the Braves. The Giants and Cards are only .0005 percentage points behind the third-place Dodgers, who also trail the Braves by 5½ games.

Lefty Monte Kennedy, who has lost some tough games for the Giants, stopped the Pirates' surge Monday night. He scattered nine hits in picking up his third triumph.

Dump Cubs

Brooklyn wrested third place from the Cards by dumping Chicago Cubs—6-4 in a night game at Brooklyn. A four-run seventh-inning rally enabled the Dodgers to overcome a 3-2 deficit and win. Rex Barney, who hurled a 2-0 no-hit triumph over the Giants last Thursday, went the distance for Brooklyn to gain his 14th victory. He has lost 10.

Only one game was played in the American League, St. Louis Browns upsetting the third-place Indians 3-2 at Cleveland. Pinch-hitter Joe Schults singled in the ninth with the bases full to enable the Browns to break a 2-2 tie and win. The loss left the Tribe three full games behind the first-place Boston Red Sox.

The Indians also lost the services of pitcher Don Black for the rest of the season. Black is in critical condition in a Cleveland hospital with a hemorrhage near the brain.

Black apparently twisted his neck when he hit a foul ball in the second inning. He fell at the plate in pain, was helped from the field and later lost consciousness. Team physician Edward Castle, however, said Black had an excellent chance to recover.

Irvin To Take 28 Players To Training Site

By W. B. WHEATLEY

MONTREAL, Sept. 14 (CP)—Promising his squad plenty of hard work and a fight for their jobs, Coach Dick Irvin will lead Montreal Canadiens into St. Hyacinthe, Que., tomorrow to open the 1948-49 hockey training grind.

Irvin reached Montreal yesterday from his home in Regina and immediately set to work to name the players he will take to camp.

They include two of the brightest rookie prospects, Doug Anderson and Steve Merluk of Edmonton. Both are front-line Allan Cup players, Anderson a centre and Merluk a right-handed left winger.

Irvin was lavish in his praise of the youngsters and figured they may catch a regular berth with Canadiens. In addition, Irvin has George Robertson, a centre from Winnipeg who played last season with Montral Royals of the Quebec Senior Hockey League.

Two other forwards, Charlie Gagnon of Toronto and Eddie Dorohoy of Lethbridge, Alta., will also be with the squad.

Veterans Report

Except for Toe Blake, all the veterans of last year's team that slipped to a disappointing fifth-place slot in the National Hockey League will report at St. Hyacinthe. Blake, who suffered a broken leg last season in the twilight of a great career, will manage Buffalo of the American Hockey League.

After two weeks of intensive drilling, the squad will head west for a series of exhibition games, opening in Winnipeg Oct. 2. Playing six games in seven nights, the Canadiens are booked for Regina on Oct. 4, Moose Jaw on Oct. 5, Regina, Oct. 6, Winnipeg, Oct. 7 and Port Arthur Oct. 8.

The scramble for jobs is wide open and the players' showing in the western tour will decide who gets the call.

Bears, Royals Meet In Finals

By The Associated Press

Judging by their performance in the regular season, Montreal Royals and Newark Bears will meet in the final round of the International League's Shaughnessy playoffs.

The semi-final round of the playoffs begins tonight with the Royals entertaining Rochester Red Wings and the Bears playing host to Syracuse Chiefs, defending playoff champions.

During the regular season, the Royals, who walked away with the pennant, won 13 games and lost nine to the fourth-place Wings, while the Bears beat the third place Chiefs 13 times in 21 meetings.

Don (No - Hit) Newcombe (17-6) has drawn the starting assignment for the Royals and Lefty Johnny Mikan (9-9) for the Wings.

The Bears will send righthander Clarence Marshall (9-6) against the Chiefs. Either Ed Erautt (16-7) or Lefty Frank Fanovich (9-13) will work for the Chiefs.

Erautt has won 12 games and lost only two since June 24.

Both series are best-four-of-seven sets. The two winners will then clash in another best-four-of-seven series with the final victor meeting the American Association's playoff champion in the Little World Series.

KITCHEN IN WEST END HOME IS HOUSEWIVES' DREAM COME TRUE

Public Invited to Inspect Huffman Residence Most Modern in The City

Open Wednesday for public inspection, the spotless-new bungalow of Charles Huffman on Charlotte St., west of Monaghan Rd., embodies features included in private construction work in this part of Ontario for the first time. "Like a lot of other people, we decided to build first of all because we needed a home," explained the youthful owner, who is a contractor.

"But instead of building just an ordinary house, we decided to see just what the new materials and methods could make. We think it should interest the people of Peterborough to see some of these unusual methods."

The Huffman house is not large — just about the right size for the Huffmans, a family of four. With no cellar and only a small amount of storage space under the almost-flat roof, every effort is made to see that there is no waste space.

The bungalow is 53 feet long, 31 feet wide, with a 14-foot extension for the garage. It has about 18,000 cubic feet.

The outside covering is entirely of Weltex Striated plywood — a special type of manufactured plywood. The showing surface is cut along its length with thin ridges, which give a roughened effect. The same material is used on some part of the interior with unusually striking effect.

From the outside, the large proportion of glass-surface of the house is apparent, a feature which makes the inside bright with natural sunlight in all the rooms. Of a total area of about 1,750 square feet, more than 260 square feet is of glass — 15 per cent window, in other words! Protection from direct sun-glare is provided by wide eaves around the house.

The living room and dining room are separated by a large brick fireplace, which juts about seven feet between the two. Opening on the living room, the fireplace box is at an angle so that it can be seen from any part of that room. The firebox is raised from the floor about a foot. Underneath, space is provided for firewood.

Facing south, the living room main wall is a semi-circular surface of glass, and juts out from the main floor surface, which will be carpet-covered smooth concrete, like the dining room. Weltex plywood is used for the walls in contrasting squares along the wall opposite the big window.

Lined With Plywood

It is in the living room that the effect of the striped plywood is most noticeable. The ceiling-to-floor thin stripping seems to give a larger, more pleasant aspect to the room.

In the dining room, the walls are of glass-smooth Karnia plywood, a silky-sleek wood which is highly polished. This is the first time this has been used in a house east of Toronto.

Ceilings of both rooms are of brush-swept white plaster.

The ceiling of the hallway leading from the front door to the living room is of 16-inch squares of Weltex, with contrasting grain arrangement. On each side of the door are columns of "flutex" —a semi-transparent glass-block material.

Entering, and to the left of the hallway, is the "den." It is beautifully finished in plain mahogany, with invisible, flush joints. One wall is in raised mahogany blocks which gives a lovely panel effect.

The den has opening bookcases along one wall. One of the sections swings around completely to reveal a concealed cache for hunting equipment. Knee-height hinged sections opening onto covered louvres provide ventilation here.

The kitchen is a housewife's dream. With ample working surface over many general-utility built-in cupboards and drawers, it includes a sunken sink with large drying wing. A large window shoots north and west to give the housewife an airy, bright atmosphere in which to work. Cupboards around the walls have all been designed to play their special part — some with small shelves for canned goods, some large ones for specific plates and cutlery.

In the kitchen also is the central unit of the four-part intercommunication system which will enable the residents of the house to talk from room to room with each other. There will be four telephones in the building.

Vanity in Bathroom

Highlight of the modernly-appointed bathroom is the table-top style of the washbowl, on each side. It runs full-length, giving ample space for placing toiletries down. A full-length mirror and built-in vanity table complete its make-up facilities. Sunken bathtub, with shower attachments, is included. The bathroom is walled with "Kitrolite" glass tile.

In the main bedroom, the large bed is built-in, with concrete base under standard bed construction. At the head of the bed are hinged doors covering storage space for blankets. Equipped with friction runs, these can be set at any angle for reading in bed. On each side of the bedhead, are commodious drawers for clothing. On the other side of the room, flanking the sunk-in-dressing table, are two large clothes-closets, with full-length mirror on each.

The two front bedrooms have been designed especially for the son and daughter of the Huffman family. The boy's room is of white birch with flush joints. It has an open bookcase and ample clothes-closet room. In the next bedroom, to be occupied by the young lady of the household, is a built-in vanity table, with flanking closets and shelves and overhead sections. The room is of plaster walls and ceilings.

The care with which the whole house has been planned with an eye to utilizing every available cubic foot is illustrated in these two rooms. The wall-space between the two rooms is all used. The open bookcase in the boy's room is back-to-back with the dressing table in his sister's room.

All three of the bedrooms have large windows. All have the modern type of ventilation with neat louvres assuring lots of fresh air without draft. Hinged doors close tightly over them to close off the air in cold weather.

The flooring through the house, except for the living- and dining-rooms, is of contrasting shade and bordered Armstrong mastic-tile, in cheerful red-and-grey combinations.

Between the kitchen and the garage is a small "utility" room, off which is a small lavatory. The utility room houses the ingenous heating unit which supplies all the building. It has a built-in washtub, ironing-board, and clothes space for work.

The garage, with concrete base, covers the only part of the house which could be called a "cellar"— a small space which has been dug for pumping outlets and connections.

The roof is built of half-inch plywood throughout. It is an unusually small slope—5-in-12 ratio. This type of construction is simple to apply. The whole roofing job was done in 3½ hours.

All frames throughout the house are of B.C. cedar.

General contractor for the lovely home is the firm of the owner, Charles Huffman. Armstrong Lumber Co. has supplied the lumber. Rehill Supply Co. provided the cement, brick and some of the paint work.

The firm of Grant & Loucks did the wiring work. Comstock's supplied tile. All the glass is from Pilkington's Glass Co. Smith Bros. had the paint contract. Higgin's Hardware provided fixtures. Cassan & Hutchinson handled the plumbing work. J. Wolstenholme had the plastering work.

WIDE EAVES that block off the searing summer sun, and broad windows that let in the sun's rays in winter feature the new Huffman home on Charlotte street just west of Monaghan road. This is a view of the south side of the home. The vents shown below the windows are to let in fresh air, and there are steel shutters inside that close tight in winter.

Support Soars For Diefenbaker As New Leader.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 15.—"We have been told that a fund of $50,000 spent by the professional politicians could not have started the boom for Diefenbaker that our group of six political amateurs has created with a starting fund of $500 of our own money," K. B. Andras, chairman of the original "Diefenbaker for Leader" committee, said today.

Patterning their publicity after the campaign that in opposition to the machine obtained for Wendell Wilkie the Republican Party nomination for the U.S. Presidency, the support of the Toronto group for Saskatchewan's John Diefenbaker for leadership of the Progressive Conservative Party has drawn sufficient financial support to greatly enlarge the committee's newspaper advertising campaign, has created press comment across the country, and has been responsible for the formation of several similar committees. Because of the increasingly widespread public support for the movement, one national weekly newspaper has named it "Operation Snowball."

"Average Citizens"

"In our first advertisement soliciting support for John Diefenbaker as party leader," said Mr. Andras, "we described our committee as a group of 'independent average citizens.' That is what we are. Two of us are commercial artists; one of us is a lawyer, claims agent for an insurance company; one is a senior official of a bond house. One is a dentist. We are entirely lacking in practical political experience and we have no inside political knowledge. We decided to venture into politics because we believe that for the country's good the party must be kept alive, and that the choice of successor to Jack Bracken might very easily decide the fate of the party."

Using their own money, the group ran a small newspaper advertising campaign saying "Diefenbaker could be Prime Minister" and urging interested citizens to make financial contributions in support of the movement. As a result of the response ot this publicity, said Mr. Andras, the group is now running a second series of advertisements in newspapers throughout Ontario urging citizens to learn the names of their delegates to the convention in Ottawa later this month and to write each delegate stating the private citizen's preference for the role of party leader.

Grand Juries Have Outlived Usefulness, Judge Shea Says

TORONTO, Sept. 14 — Grand juries, first instituted under the Tudors in England as part of the British system of justice, have outlived their usefulness in Ontario, Judge Ambrose Shea suggested yesterday in his address to the grand jury at the opening of the General Sessions of the Peace.

He said that grand juries tend to duplicate the work of other officials and other bodies, and that they already have been abandoned in England and in all provinces of the Dominion which ever had them except Ontario and the Maritimes.

"You may agree with me," Judge Shea said as he instructed the sessions grand jury on its duties, "that grand juries have outlived their usefulness even in this province."

Judge Shea maintained that accused persons already had gone through a preliminary hearing before a magistrate before being committed to trial, and that, while the accused could call witnesses and give testimony at a preliminary hearing, he had not this latitude when his case came before the grand jury for decision as to whether there was enough evidence to put him on trial. He warned that, in dealing with the 35 cases before it, the grand jury must remember, in making its findings, that it was unfair for a man to go through the expense and humiliation and unfavorable publicity of a trial if there was insufficient evidence against him.

Excuse Inspection

His honor excused the grand jury from the duty of inspecting public institutions, since an assize court grand jury already is doing this. "The examination of public institutions formerly was more necessary than it is today," he said. "There wasn't the same freedom of the press years ago as there is now.

"Public institutions now are open to the press and are under supervision by public officials and inspectors. So that much of the work you are ordinarily called upon to do already has been done by others. You are called there at great inconvenience to yourselves and at small pay which doesn't begin to compensate you. There are seven grand juries every year in Toronto and York County. One grand jury already is examining institutions, as there seems to be no obligation on you to duplicate the work. Your particular function will be to examine the indictments brought before you."

Judge Shea observed that, of the 35 cases to come before the grand jury, 23, an unusually large proportion had to do with theft, burglary and kindred crimes.

Find Light Bulbs Tasty For Colt's Lunch

LONDON, Sept. 14 — (CP). — When a three-year-old colt named Fair Guess won his first race recently, owner Harry Wragg probably used the proceeds to pay the electric company. Reason: Fair Guess "eats" electric light bulbs.

He just can't resist them. Wragg tried cutting a hole in the ceiling and hanging the bulb inside, but Fair Guess stands up on his hind legs, pokes his nose through the hole and detaches the "delicacy" with his teeth.

So far, despite nets, screens and other devices, the colt's score is 15 bulbs destroyed.

Teachers Underpaid

OTTAWA, Sept. 14.—(CP). — Salaries paid engineering and science teachers in Canadian universities are definitely inadequate, the Canadian Council of Professional Engineers and Scientists said Monday. The council met in Ottawa to review progress during its four years of existence and to plan extension of its usefulness to professional engineers and scientists.

Oil Revenue High

EDMONTON, Sept. 14.—(CP). —Alberta reported Monday that the province is headed toward what may be its greatest oil-production year for both revenue and quantity. The economic affairs department's semi-annual oil review said revenue for the first six months this year was $12,533,512 compared with $18,078,907 in 1947, when a record was set.

Northern Beaver Go Further North

PORT ARTHUR, Sept. 14 (CP). —Ontario is sending its wild-life north.

R. D. Windsor, fish and wildlife specialist for the Department of Lands and Forests here, said a number of beaver were taken recently by air from the Geraldton area to Indian grounds on the north line.

He said the beaver, "an industrious fellow," soon rehabilitates himself. Manitoba has been doing the same with both beaver and fish.

New Zealand Sending Limited Butter Supply

WELLINGTON, Sept. 14 (CP). —Commenting on Canadian reports the Dominion is likely to receive supplies of New Zealand and Australian butter this winter, G. Pottinger, chairman of the New Zealand Dairy Products Marketing Board, said to-day Canada probably would receive limited quantities from New Zealand.

[illegible] per cent, or about 5,000 tons of New Zealand's exportable butter will go to countries other than Britain. This was intended to maintain contact with pre-war markets like Panama and India, and consequently the amount available for Canada would not be large.

More Diefenbaker Aid

MONTREAL, Sept. 14.—(CP). —A "Diefenbaker for Leader Movement" has been launched in Montreal, it was learned Monday night. Its sponsors are busy lining up Quebec delegates to support the Lake Centre member at the Progressive Conservative national convention at Ottawa Sept. 30-Oct. 2.

All This—And Death

BAGHDAD, Iraq., Sept. 14 (AP).—Shafiq Ades, Jewish merchant, was sentenced to death Monday by a military court and fined 5,000,000 dinars ($20,000,000) on charges of aiding the Jews in the Palestine war and organizing Zionism in Iraq.

HOT WATER PIPES IN FLOOR RADIATE HEAT IN NEW HUFFMAN HOME

Sun's Rays Also Utilized As Natural Heat; Utility Room But No Cellar

Just think of it: a house kept at an even temperature all winter long; with no ashes to shovel—in fact no basement at all—and the fuel bill cut 25 per cent.; with lights in the interior that don't cast a shadow; with no screens or storm windows to put on or take off as our Canadian seasons change, and with a ventilating system that catches and accentuates every little breeze. What more could a homeowner want?

To those who say it's too good to be true, the answer is: "OK my sceptical friend, trot over to the house that Charles Huffman has built at Monaghan Rd. and Charlotte St. It's open for public inspection on Wednesday.

The Huffman house is kept artificial and natural. It is so warm by radiant heating—both constructed that the semi-circular wall of picture-type windows faces south. Due to this arrangement the interior is exposed to the sunlight during the many daylight hours.

Overhanging these large windows are unusually long eaves built in such a manner as to exclude the fierce, beating rays of the sun when overhead in summer, but which allow the slanting rays of the sun, low in the sky during winter, to penetrate the double-paned thermo glass into the interior.

In short, this means added warmth in winter and cool shade during summer. The exact angle of the sun to the windows during winter and summer has to be calculated so that the overhanging eaves can be a protection in summer but no bar to the sun during the zero months.

Saves Fuel.

Describing this solar heating arrangement (the natural form of radiant heating) Mr. Huffman said that a friend of his in Sault Ste. Marie owning a similar house did not use his artificial heating plant from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. when there was bright winter sunshine even though the temperature sank to zero..

Even during dull days a certain number of the long radiant rays penetrate the glass, explains Mr. Huffman. They strike the floor, walls or some other interior object and are changed into short radiant rays which are unable to escape when reflected back against the glass. And they help to heat the room.

There are no hot air shafts or radiators in the Huffman house. The artificially produced heat comes from the radiations of hot water steam pipes buried about 2½ inches in the cement floor. The house, 53 feet by 31 feet, with an adjoining garage, are all kept warm by approximately 1,100 feet of coiled piping varying from 1¼ inches to ¾ of an inch in diameter.

Hot water in the piping never exceeds more than 110 degrees, and temperature of the flooring never more than 85 degrees — seven degrees less than body heat.

Can Cut Off Rooms

The heating system is operated by what is known as a moduflow system of controls. Outside temperature is the general controller of house temperature. A small thermostat tube projects into the out-of-doors, and as it records a drop in temperature it automatically opens a motorized valve allowing a stepped-up volume of hot water to be pumped through the pipes.

Each room is independently valved so that if a particular room is not being used it can be cut off from the heating system, thus proving an aid to fuel economy.

Overriding the outdoor thermostat, however, is an interior thermostat that records room temperature. This master control can turn the heat on or off independently of the outdoor thermostat. By the combination of these two control the room temperature remains constant; the slightest variation is soon corrected.

Dust is greatly reduced with no hot air or radiator system. There is little motion of air, which also cuts down on dust; and the stationary air allows the ceiling temperature and the floor temperature to be uniform. The house that permits drafts to chill the feet while the upper part of the body is comfortable, is now out of date.

The heating plant itself burns oil to warm the water—the only residential model of its kind in Peterborough. One of the safety features of this unit is that if it becomes clogged or runs out of fuel, it makes three attempts to run and then cuts off. Because of ultra-modern insulation, including windows, and the aid of solar heating, it is estimated that the burner can effect a 25 per cent saving on the fuel bill.

Lighting Is Newest

Lighting is also ultra modern. In the dining room and living room the main illumination is fluorescent trough lighting on the north wall opposite the windows. The reflected rays from the white ceiling eliminate shadows.

For a particular part of the room there is flush spot or flood installations. Over the dining table there is a heavy spot light. The bedrooms have hidden fluorescent lights for general use and bed lamps for personal use at night.

The kitchen and the utility room have flush fluorescent illumination. Only the garage has the well-known light bulbs. Mainly due to the low wattage of the fluorescent lights, the hydro electric bill is said to be drastically slashed. Only actual use will determine how much however.

It is the first house in Peterborough to have the Louver ventilator, and one of the first in Canada. This type of ventilator is like an almost closed venetian blind, but it is made of slats sloped downward at an angle of about 60 degrees. When painted it looks from the outside like shutters.

Air which travels along the ground and is reflected upward when it reaches the base of the house, is caught on the ascent and forced between the overhanging ventilator slats, thence into the house. Even if there is a slight breeze any gust of wind is channeled into the interior.

Bronze fine-mesh screens placed inside the ventilator strain out insects. An insulated ventilator door allows the draft to be shut off or increased as desired. And one of the best points of this simple though effective ventilation system, is that it does not admit either rain or snow, due to the downward slant of the slats.

The man of the house will bless this arrangement as it eliminates taking screens and storm sashes on and off. And because of the semi-permanent nature of the windows and ventilation it helps reduce the threat of thieves breaking in by simply prying up a sliding window.

Those who are eager to see what contribution modern science has to offer to the problem of house building have an excellent opportunity of doing so when the Huffman home is thrown open for public inspection on Wednesday.

Aid Operators Salvage Timber

TORONTO, Sept. 14.—Substantial financial assistance that may run into millions of dollars will be given by the Ontario Government to the operators who have been awarded contracts for the salvaging of timber in areas damaged by forest fires.

Lands Minister Harold Scott, in making this announcement yesterday, said the province is ready to help build roads into the Mississauga and Chapleau regions which at present are inaccessible by this means of transportation. The Government also stands ready to assist the operators to "water" their logs. This operation consists of felling trees, sawing them into log-lengths and skidding them into the nearest lake or river.

The work will start right away, and it is hoped to salvage at least 75 million feet of lumber. If the salvaging proves profitable the Government will be reimbursed for money it expends. The operators who have the contracts are for the most part local men with limited finances who would find it difficult to raise sufficient capital for the vast undertaking.

4 Men Adrift 3 Days On Boat

SIMCOE, Sept. 14 (CP)—Four men Monday told of living three nights in a cabin cruiser adrift on Lake Erie with only four tins of food.

William G. Smith of Delhi, Ont., Fraser MacFarland and Earl Phillips of Ailsa Craig, Ont., and Russell Parker of Watford, Ont., were rescued off Long Point.

They left Port Dover Wednesday to spend the day fishing off the Point, about 18 miles away. On the return trip that evening they ran into a storm, lost their bearings and finally ran out of gasoline. They waved shirts, fired flares and burned oil-soaked rags in an attempt to attract attention. They anchored Friday night and Saturday morning started to drift inshore.

Shortly before noon Saturday they were sighted by the fishing tug Ciscoe, captained by Leslie Murphy of Port Dover. There was no heat on the ship and only two blankets. Their food consisted of two tins of sardines, one of salmon and one of pork and beans.

Air Transport System Said Near Bankruptcy

BRUSSELS, Sept. 14 — (CP). —The world air transport system will be threatened with bankruptcy if governments continue to insist that the international airlines pay increasing shares of airport and ground costs without helping them to raise their revenues, Sir William P. Hildren, Director-General of the International Air Transport Association, said here to-day.

Reporting to the fourth annual general meeting of the world airline organization, Sir William said there has also been a tendency during the last year for the governments to reduce payments to airlines for the carriage of mail.

"The inevitable conjunction of these trends—costs up, revenues down—would be to reduce airline operations to an unprofitable and sorry conclusion," he said.

In his annual report on the state of the world air transport system, Sir William also:

Predicted that IATA's members would fly 5,000,000,000 miles in 1948 and increase their gross revenues 50 per cent over 1947;

Reported that the 1947 international airline safety record was "much the same as in prior years";

Said that progress in the effort to reduce border formalities was satisfactory, but still far from idal.

Thermopane Windows
Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.
are an Important Feature of this

No wonder the fine new Peterborough residence designed and built by Mr. Charles Huffman is attracting visitors from far and near. Every conceivable means for better living has been built into this ultra-modern home. One of the factors contributing to its beauty and comfort is the use of "Thermopane" for every window. "Thermopane" consists of two or more panes of glass, with an air-space between. The two panes are hermetically sealed with the patented Bondermetic Seal, to prevent dirt and moisture infiltration.

"Thermopane" cuts heat loss in winter, reduces down-drafts on windows—minimizes condensation and frost on glass, thus helping to maintain healthful humidities. In summer, "Thermopane" helps to protect your rooms from outdoor heat. "Thermopane" gives clearer vision and complete comfort.

RESIDENCES IN WEST END REFLECT INDIVIDUAL TASTES OF OWNERS

Wide Variety of Ideas For Beautiful Homes Embodied in Architecture

The ultra modern house that has been completed on the Huffman property at the southwest corner of Monaghan road and Charlotte street finds a natural locale in that enterprising area of the west end. Extensive properties beyond Monaghan road and north and south of Charlotte street have gradually become almost fully occupied with residences that reflect a wide variety of ideas and the wish to carry them into effect. One of the chief attractions of that large part of the city has been the individuality that shows in the diversity of home planning. Street after street almost from the beginning of interest in that neighborhood when Herb J. McCannan offered the first lots for sale north of Charlotte St. present a pleasing departure from the fatal uniformity that seizes upon too many subdivisions.

People setting out to build homes for themselves not only were directed by their own ideas and a sense of creating something and expressing something from within themselves, but they also had the substance to give direction and forms to their planning.

Progress of home designing, inside and out, can be traced through the last thirty years in that residential laboratory of Peterborough. It has represented a broad swing away from the accepted lines of the previous generation and into a freedom that gradually stressed the combination of utmost comfort with reasonable economies in space.

The Huffman house embraces the latest trends in structural deviations and will have many details of interest for those who visit it.

Percy Resident A. Harnden Dies

WARKWORTH, Sept. 14 (ENS). —On Tuesday, Sept. 7, the late Alex. Harnden died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Herbert Pratt, Oak Heights.

He had been in failing health for several years, but had been up and around until a week before his death, when he suffered a paralytic stroke and gradually weakened.

He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Harnden, and was born in Haldimand township 82 years ago. He had four brothers and two sisters, all of whom have predeceased him except one brother and one sister. His wife, whose maiden name was Hattie Ireland, also predeceased him 16 years ago.

During most of his married life he lived in Percy township and was a sawyer by trade. During the late summer and fall seasons he was engaged in the threshing business. He was a member of the Free Methodist Church for well over 50 years.

A short service was held at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Herbert Pratt, on Sept. 9, and from there the funeral cortege proceeded to the Free Methodist Church in Warkworth, where a large congregation had gathered, thus testifying to the esteem in which he was held in the community. The Rev. B. E. Stevenson of Hamilton, a former pastor, delivered the message. He was assisted in the service by the Rev. A. B. Moffatt, the new pastor of the church, also the Rev. D. White of Campbellford and the Rev. R. E. Dargan of Peterborough, who also gave a message in song, entitled "Good-Night and Good-Morning."

Surviving are his three daughters: Mrs. Herbert Pratt (Jessie) of Oak Heights; Mrs. Arthur Timmins (Inda) of Oshawa and Mrs. Harold Mack (Mabel) of Peterborough, and four grandchildren; also one brother John and one sister, Mrs. John Beatty (Carrie), both of Warkworth.

Relatives attended the funeral from Hamilton, Colborne, Grafton, Cobourg, Peterborough, Oshawa, Campbellford, Pickering, Toronto, Norwood, as well as locally.

The pall-bearers were: Archie Ferguson, George Bull, George Beatty, Wilbert Macklin, Ulysses Wartman and Merville Pratt.

The flower-bearers were: Jim McVerty, Edgar Ferguson, Allan Ferguson and John Ferguson.

Burial was in the Warkworth Cemetery.

F. BENJAMIN CARLIN, Australian mining engineer, says that he and his wife, Elinore, are leaving Montreal soon to go back to the United States to rest up before starting out again on an adventure that almost brought them death—crossing the Atlantic in this tiny "swimming jeep." The last time they tried, they were stranded 17 days, 1,000 miles off Florida in stormy seas. After rest, they'll sail the "duck" to Halifax for another take-off across Atlantic.

Republicans Sweeping Maine Elections

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 14 — (AP)—The Republicans did it again in Maine—with bigger majorities than usual. Party leaders called their clean sweep of top offices in Monday's early general election a portent of what will come nationally in November.

It was the seventh consecutive time the Republicans had captured all major offices.

The principal victor, Senator-elect Margaret Chase Smith, said her "wonderful" vote — 75 per cent and a 97,000 majority of the total tabulated—is "the forerunner of a great Republican National victory..."

The 50-year-old member of the House of Representaives armed forces committee is the first woman elected to the United States Senate without having first served by appointment.

Republicans also elected Frederick G. Payne, 47, as State governor; re-elected Republicans Frank Fellows and Robert Hale to Washington and named Charles P. Nelson, mayor of Augusta, to Mrs. Smith's House seat.

Unofficial Returns

Unofficial returns from 543 of 621 precincts gave Mrs. Smith 114,952 votes to 47,266 for Dr. Adrian H. Scolten (Dem.). Payne, in the same precincts, had 133,837 votes and his Democratic opponent, Mayor Louis B. Lausier of Biddeford, 56,589.

Hale beat James A. McVicar, former Democratic state chairman, 57,581 to 21,141 in 134 of 152 first-district precincts.

In 197 of 210 second-district precincts, Nelson polled 47,882 votes to 18,460 for Benjamin J. Arena (Dem.).

Fellows, in 212 of 259 third-district precincts, had 34,080 and the Democratic national committeeman, F. Davis Clark 12,940.

Senator Owen Brewster (Rep.) won re-election two years ago with 63.5 per cent of the vote. Brewster's majority was 47,416.

Siamese Twins Die

LANSING, Mich., Sept. 14. — (AP).—Siamese twin girls born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Rick of Holt, Mich., Sept. 5, died Monday. The twins were joined at the abdomen and pelvis. They had been kept in an oxygen tent since their birth.

Whisky Distilleries Fighting British Economic Recovery War

By JAMES McCOOK.

INVERNESS, Scotland, Sept. 14 — (CP). — Whisky distilleries stoutly fight the battle of British economic recovery in Highland glens where sheep occupy once busy farms turned to grazing in the grouse-shooting season's glory has faded with the decline in the wealthy families.

In wartime, Scotch whisky, made from peaty water and selected barley by past masters in the distillers' art, was the largest single earner of foreign exchange. To-day the distillers want more barley to make more whisky to earn more dollars, but Food Minister Strachey cannot give them all they want.

But conditions are better. In the fiscal year 1947-1948 production was estimated at 15,000,000 proof gallons, a good gain over the 10,000,000 proof gallons in 1946-1947 and helpful in easing the memory of 1942-1943 and 1943-1944 when all distilling was stopped and barley used for human and animal food. Still, the distillers like to remind their visitors that in 1939 they produced 29,100,000 proof gallons.

Set Post-War Record

Scotch whisky exports in the first six months of 1948 set a post-war record of 4,233,000 proof gallons compared with 1,285,000 in the same period last year. The United States took 2,206,000 proof gallons, an increase of 744,000, while Canada took 332,000, 124,000 more than in the same period of 1947.

Total whisky available for distribution in 1948-1949 is 10,500,000 proof gallons. The government wants 8,500,000 for export to earn about £17,000,000 ($68,000,000), of which 7,500,000 proof gallons will go to hard currency countries. Last year's earnings were about £15,000,000.

Whisky— known to the Scots as "The Water of Life" — won worldwide popularity in the last century when blending was adopted. Before that distilleries bottled their own whisky or blended it with that of their immediate neighbors. To-day, 20 or more different whiskies go into a blend, some made from malted barley others from grain.

By British law, the distiller must mature his product for at least three years, but the custom of the trade prescribes a longer period averaging about eight years.

Recover $25,000 Loot

MONTREAL, Sept. 14.—(CP). —Police Monday night raided a home in suburban Park Extension and recovered another $25,000 in loot said to have been stolen by a "lone wolf" bandit from homes in the Montreal district during the last year. The latest raid raised to $45,000 the value of goods seized in raids of a private home and garage in Park Extension.

GOVERNOR THOMAS E. DEWEY and Mrs. Dewey were in rare good humor as they registered for the November elections with the board of elections at New York. The Republican standard-bearer, whose election is practically conceded by all political pundits, exchanged a great big happy smile with his wife after making sure they can cast their ballots two months hence.

Fate of Pakistan Uncertain Now That Jinnah Dead

By WILLIAM PHIPPS

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 14 — (AP)—What will become of Pakistan now that death has claimed Mahommed Ali Jinnah, the man who forged it almost single-handed into a Moslem nation only 13 months ago?

That is a real question, for many Indians believe the great Indian sub-continent would be united in independence today had it not been for two men — had it ot been for two men—Jimmah, the Moslem, and Mohandas K. Gandhi, the Hindu.

Now both are dead. Thus, in the reasoning of these Indians—politically-wise Hindus and Moslems alike—the reason for splitting the country into the two dominions of India and Pakistan has been removed.

After Britain practically thrust dominion status upon them — still divided—Aug. 15, 1947; Hindu and Moslem visitors to the United States said repeatedly:

"Yes, we have our independence, but it is empty without political and economic unity. Perhaps when both Gandhi and Jinnah are dead we can be one nation once again."

Strongly Incongruous

At first, it seemed incongruous for fair-minded Indians to speak thus of Ghandi, the ascetic little leader of the Hindus who carried to the masses his doctrine of non-violence and even fasted almost unto death to enforce it.

Many Indian political observers saw Gandhi in a less spiritual light. They believed he cost India her independence years ago by insisting upon non-violence when Moslems would have been willing to fight for it.

The attempts for agreement were carried on under the banners of the predominantly-Hindu all-India, congress party and the Moslem League.

For all practical purposes, Jinnah was the Moslem league. He alone held the power. His stand for a separate Moslem state was unyielding.

Gandhi, on the other hand, maintained he did not even belong to the congress. Yet congress seldom made a move without his blessing.

Indian political critics contended that as a result congress policies often sounded like double talk.

This, they said, disgusted Jinnah to the point of being made adamant than ever. It also showed him congress weaknesses which he could exploit.

Ford Prepares To Make 8th Film In Row

By JACK QUIGG

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 14 (AP).—After seven films in a row, Hollywood's non-stop actor, Glenn Ford, is shelving vacation plans to begin number eight. And this time the busy star isn't complaining.

The native of Quebec City says he expects soon to sign a new and more favorable contract with his Columbia bosses, months before his present agreement expires.

In the past Ford has made no secret of his dissatisfaction with his all-work-no-play routine.

"I've averaged less than two weeks between pictures," he sighed on the "Mr. Soft Touch" set.

Lost Star

The screen lost a potential leading man when Eddie Rickenback chose an aviation career after the First World War. At a Hollywood preview of his "Air Power Is Peace Power," the distinguished airman disclosed he once turned down a $100,000 screen offer.

For a novice, Rickenbacker did a tolerable job of acting in the non-commercial movie, but expressed no regrets about his choice. His film's theme: a healthy airline industry, insured by government aid, is a vital requirement of United States defence.

Melvin Douglas reports he's "resting on his backlog," referring, of course, to his three unreleased films. He'll not be available in Hollywood, he says, until he finishes his own movie in Paris this Winter.

Count De Beronville In Superior Court

MONTREAL, Sept. 14 (CP) — Count Jacques Dudge de Beronville, 50-year-old Frenchman who once served Marshal Petain, was to appear in superior court today for hearing of a writ of habeas corpus in his fight against deportation for illegal entry.

His application came before the court Sept. 4 and hearing, while the Count and his family remained in immigration department detention here, was postponed until today.

Meantime a group of persons prominent in the life of French Canada, with Mayor Camillien Houde as one of the chief members, have come out in statements championing the cause of the Count. They claim this man under sentence of death in France for alleged corroboration with the Germans is a political refugee; that he is a much-decorated, much-wounded soldier of France.

At a tribunal in Toulouse the Count, in absentia, was sentenced to death in 1947 for alleged wartime treason.

Manufacturers Want Churchill To Speak

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 (CP) — The National Association of Manufacturers is seeking Winston Churchill as a speaker at its annual dinner in New York Dec. 3. An N.A.M. spokesman said today an invitation has been extended to the wartime British Prime Minister to deliver an address at the dinner, but no reply has yet been received.

How Nickel Steel in automobiles makes jobs for Canadians

The self-propelled vehicle dates back to the 18th century. As developed by engineers and designers of the present century, motor cars have widened horizons through providing fast, economical transportation.

Through intensive industrial research on design and materials the rugged durability of trucks and buses was improved through the use of Nickel Alloy Steels for parts subjected to heavy stress, strain and wear.

Cars became more enduringly beautiful through the use of heavy Nickel plating under that gleaming chromium finish. In the development of better Nickel alloys and improved Nickel plating methods, Nickel research laboratories gave their full co-operation.

So as a result of scientific research, more and more Nickel was used for rugged dependability, and to give gleaming beauty to passenger cars. Today the automotive industry is the largest single user of Canadian Nickel. This market for Canadian Nickel has created jobs for a large number of Canadians.

Thus does research develop better products, create more employment.

TWO MORE DIVISION MANAGERS have been appointed at the CGE. Right is A. L. Malby, now manager of the industrial control department. He is a graduate of the University of Manitoba and a registered professional engineer. Mr. Malby has been continuously employed in the local industry since 1935, and was senior assistant to the late D. V. Canning, whom he succeeds. At Left is Jack Copping, who has been employed at the CGE since 1927. He has risen from the ranks with steady promotions, and is now manager of the Porcelain Division, recently established. He was made general foreman of porcelain operations in 1941. An ardent bowler, Jack Copping is well-known throughout the city.

Gets Salary While On Leave For 8 Months At College

Dr. Harold A. Worton of the local health department is going to the University of Toronto at the beginning of October for an eight-months' course for his diploma in public health. He intends to study for the degree of Doctor of Veterinary Public Health.

In granting him leave of absence for the eight months, the Board of Health Monday decided to continue his salary during the period. Robert Jackson, junior technician with the board, was given a month's leave for a short course at the provincial laboratory, Toronto.

Mr. James Dutton, chairman, and Dr. R. A. Kelly, MOH, were authorized to engage a temporary substitute for Dr. Worton during his absence.

The resignation of Miss Marjorie Armour, public health nurse, effective Sept. 30 was accepted. Mrs. Ruth R. Gainer of Peterborough, was appointed in her place at a salary of $1,900.

The Board has expressed its approval of the plan of amalgamation of the city and Board of Education health services. The plan has been drafted by Mr. T. J. Carley, KC, solicitor for the Board of Education, but that body has not yet made any decision, it was said, on the proposals.

Reserve Regiment Parades Tonight

50th HAA Regt. RCA, Peterborough's one reserve force regiment, will parade tonight at the Armories, when detachments for the Army Week demonstraions will commence training.

Included in the agenda for tonight is a continuation of the quartermaster's check of personal kit, and the full equipment of the regiment will be deployed in the Armories' field for training.

Normal School Enrols 85 Students

Enrolment at the Peterborough Normal School today already shows an increase of eight teachers in training over the 1947-48 enrolment. A total of 85 students registered this morning, but Leo Copp, principal of the school, said that enrolment was not yet completed. The students come from counties surrounding Peterborough for 80 miles in all directions, from Orillia to Kingston and from Haliburton to Lake Ontario. A total of 12 public and separate school inspectorates are covered in this area.

Last year, the school had the largest enrolment of men for several years, when 23 men registered including three veterans. This year, however, only 18 men have enrolled so far as compared with 67 girls. Four of five are veterans, including Matthew Hutchison, ex-RAF, and formerly of Edinburgh, Scotland.

Mr. Copp said there had been no changes in the staff, which is exactly the same as last year.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE DINES

On Thursday night the Chamber of Commerce will hold its first of what is expected to be a series of membership dinner meetings at the Empress Hotel, 6.30 p.m. Guest speaker will be R. M. Optimists Have Raised $3,000 For Boys' Town

Peterborough Optimist Club got away to a good start in the first of their Fall-Winter bimonthly meetings Monday evening with Dr. M. G. McCartney, vice-president, presiding in the absence of President John Broadhurst. The main topic was a progress report on their Boys' Town project at Trafalger House, Nicholls Oval. Secretary W. Murphy reported that $3,000 was in the treasury for the building fund. Victor Barry, chairman of the building committee advised that wiring would be completed by tonight, brick work has been pointed up, plastering started and inside and outside painting will start next week. Painting is made possible by the generous donation of several merchants.

There is to be a busy social season ahead according to a report by Jack Rogers, chairman of the social committee, who said the first affair would be a weiner roast at Sheldon Huffman's cottage, Chemong, on Sept. 29. The club in its international scope has called for Nov. 7-13 to be known as Optimist Week during which time the Peterborough Club will hold the annual Optimist Ball. To assist Frank Hamon, Optimist Week chairman, to advertise the occasion, publicity programs featuring radio broadcasts are planned as well as newspaper advertising and various club stunts which will be mentioned later.

Future Club meetings will be held twice monthly and officials have planned that every second meeting will feature a club speaker. Clare Grady was inducted as a new member and two other applications were accepted and will be announced at the next gathering on Sept. 27.

Council Approves Coach House Change

Providing that she conforms with the building bylaw, the finance committee recommended to the council last night that Mrs. G. J. Bigelow be granted a permit to convert into apartments the old Lundy coach house on her property at Burnham and James streets.

The council recently had withheld a permit for the reason that part of this building extended four feet over the street line. Mr. W. B. Gordon in renewing her application wrote that Mrs. Bigelow would remove the encroaching part, and leave the building unfinished and with its interior open to the view.

Ald. Dick Raine recalled that City Engineer Chalmers had informed the council that the building was an old one and should be torn down. It was also said that other houses on James St. east of the Bigelow property were set back from the street line. The motion recommending that a permit be granted for the proposed alterations was moved by Ald. Gordon Armstrong and seconded by Ald. H. Dodds.

Cement Shortage Hitting Some Projects

Although the cement shortage is being felt here, the effects on major construction projects is not as great as has been reported from other centres. Kitchener, for example, is impatiently tapping its toes on the bare ground as it waits for enough cement to complete its sidewalk-laying program.

Most of Peterborough's sidewalk program has been carried out this summer with not much difficulty on account of cement. City Engineer Ed Chalmers said that only about 4,000 square feet of sidewalk in the McKellar construction project remained on the program. One car of cement is on hand for this and two others are on order.

The city's largest construction project at present, the new Civic Hospital, will not be effected. J. H. Eastwood, head of the contracting firm doing that job, said that wholesale cement supply firms have been co-operating by keeping sufficient shipments coming to such essential projects. Government priority orders have also been aimed in this direction. Although the hospital is not given any advance stock, there is always sufficient for the work at hand and the supplier has seen that there have been no work stoppages through lack of cement.

Two other Eastwood projects have been affected, Mr. Eastwood said. One is a commercial project, the other the new civic bandstand at Nicholls Oval.

"We just have to wait until we get it," he said.

It is not the fault of the suppliers, the contractor added.

"Everybody is using cement now and more than they have ever used before or likely to use again. It would ot be wise for them to expand their capacity, as there is bound to be a slackening in the demand. It is just unfortunate that it all comes at once."

Charles Huffman, contractor, said that none of his jobs has been delayed because of the shortage, although it has been "nip and tuck" through the summer "eking out what we could get."

"Probably the private builders are hit worse than contractors," he added, "as there are contacts there. The demand should ease before too long now, as the summer is always the [illegible]

City Quota 260,000 KWH Housewives, Merchants Asked to Reduce Lighting

Hydro-Electric regulations that are aimed at saving power and maintaining industrial employment throughout Ontario came into effect today. The same power that is used in keeping men and women at work and earning wages can be wasted in offices, stores, homes and elsewhere. Every kilowatt-hour that is saved for factory purposes eventually affects the pay cheques of the families of this and all the other municipalities in Ontario. It is a repetition of the power-saving appeal that brought in Peterborough last year an intelligent and economical response from the public. Summary cutoffs were not required here because the people in their cooperation with the Hydro and Utilities authorities kept within the quota of electricity that was allotted to Peterborough.

The regulations have been published and they have the sanction of penalties. Commercial lighting has to be reduced, store fronts dimmed, automatic water heaters, space heaters, the lighting of parking lots, service stations, playing areas and so on, are all lumped together as power outlets that must be curbed.

If this saving is not done voluntarily and immediately, then the authorities will simply have to step in. Domestic common sense will help greatly in meeting the demands of the Hydro-Electric Commission. Don't leave lights burning in rooms obviously causing a power waste. Essential illumination of homes is something every family understands, but beyond that limit is a wide margin permitting power saving.

Peterborough's consumption of electricity for four days last week Tuesday to Friday inclusive, averaged 308,000 kilowatt hours.

Peterborough's quota in the Hydro-Electric restrictions effective Sept. 14 is 260,000 kwh. daily.

Those figures from James Turnbull of the Utilities Commission convey a plain message to the local consumer. They have to cut out about 50,000 kwh every day until further notice.

The daily consumption last week was Tuesday, 292,000 kwh; Wednesday, 320,000; Thursday (water heaters off seven hours) 308,000; Friday, 312,000.

The order from Hydro is to the effect that if municipalities do not comply with the quota allowance the Commission will have to intervene.

The public has been informed by advertisement and news reports. The curtailment expedients of last fall will have to be adopted again—and at once. Turn off lights that are not essential in the home. Don't waste any electric power, and cut down the amount that is ordinarily used. This is the official appeal, and it is now up to the people themselves.

Send 2 Names To Council For Approval

Two nominations were proposed to the council by its finance committee last night,—Mrs. F. W. K. Harris to the Board of Health and G. H. Cutmore, 272 Burnham St., to the City Trust Commission.

Mrs. Harris, recently appointed chairman of the Board of Education, is named as successor to the late D. V. Canning in the health department's administration, completing his term. She was proposed by Mayor Ovens and Ald. Dodds.

Mr. Cutmore takes the place of the late W. R. Morris, of whose five year term two years remain. His appointment was moved by Mayor Ovens and Ald. Dick Raine.

Herbert I. Bradburn was proposed by Aldermen Waddell and Grant Miller. Ald. P. J. Anglesey voted with them, and Aldermen Dodds and Armstrong for Mr. Cutmore. Ald. M. J. Swanston was chairman.

507 Plumbing Jobs Still Unfinished

A. G. Metheral, plumbing inspector, reported to the welfare committee of the council Friday that at the end of August 507 plumbing jobs in the city were still unfinished. Forty-three were completed during the month.

New work permits for connections to the sewers during August included: 11 new houses, 5 old houses, one new church, one store and offices, and various others. Ald. Dick Raine presided.

The department completed that month six old age pensions and two mothers allowances. Persons receiving assistance total 154 of whom 30 are heads of families, 67 are their dependents, with 7 single men and 50 single women. August relief amounted to $2,293.81.

Saved From Drowning

Grove School Headmaster Addresses Rotary Club

Importance of intellectual maturity, emotional maturity and an ethical approach to life were stressed by Winder Smith, headmaster of the Lakefield Preparatory School, speaking at the Rotary luncheon on Monday at the Empress Hotel.

Mr. Smith said that to achieve a full education we must strive for intellectual maturity; read good literature, write well and think, take an interest in cultural subject and be curious about the world we live in. "Today," he said, "we are becoming spectators rather than players." Boys read the "funnies" and cheap magazines and we have increasing juvenile delinquency and Beanery gangs. Cheap radio programs are preferred to serious ones.

Emotional maturity, he emphasized, was of equal importance. "This," he said, "means we must learn to get along with one another, to live happily with our fellow men; to win without humbling our opponent and to lose without an alibi. We need statesmen who will talk out their diplomatic problems without walking out at a meeting, we need business executives and labor leaders who can sit together at a conference table."

"The third approach to education is the ethical approach. A person's word must always be good. For Freedom, we need reliable honest men, whose object is to make this world a better place. We need men who will be of service to their country, and business men who will devote their time and money to worthy causes."

He pointed out that education did not end when we leave school and quoted Principal Robert M. Hutchins, of the University of Chicago, who said, "Our knowledge, principally scientific, now exceeds our capacity to use it for the good. Civilization appears to be doomed unless the hearts and minds of men can be changed and this is the task of education."

In his speech, Mr. Smith dealt with the independent schools with particular reference to the Grove School. He said they had their origins in the English public schools of the last century, which were founded to train men to assume responsibility in community living, and govern an empire in a uniform manner.

The Lakefield Preparatory School was founded in 1878 by an elderly schoolmaster, Spurham Sheldrake, for the sons of local people who were dissatisfied with the education given at the government school. In 1895, he became ill and Dr. A. W. Mackenzie joined the school. Impressed with the beautiful country, the woods and the lakes, Dr. Mackenzie built up a typically Canadian school on the traditions of the English public schools."

Mr. Smith was introduced by Jack Arnott and thanked by Jack Mark. W. J. Hamilton presided at the meeting.

Britons Used to Dull Food Snack Bars Eke Out Diet

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, Sept. 14 (CP).—Ever since King Alfred the Great let the cakes burn, British cooking has been something less than famous. Now, it apepars, Britons don't care any more.

They're getting used to dull food.

Under subtle changes in eating habits enforced by rationing and shortages, urban workers are being forced out of the home to supplement their diets. Britain by and large is becoming a nation of restaurant and snack-bar eaters.

Volume rather than variety is the target today, particularly in urban and town areas.

"People have got so used to dull food they hardly want to change from it," is the stock sentiment among restaurant proprietors, "all they want is volume."

A survey on the feeding habits of young workers, prepared by the London Council of Social Service, showed that six meals a day were "almost universally accepted." Some even took a seventh meal, a mid-evening snack.

Among 56 boys and girls working in a London engineering plant, the routine was an early breakfast, 10 a.m. snack, mid-day meal, 4 p.m. tea, tea again at 5 or 6 p.m. and supper between 9 and 10 p.m.

Drab Snack Bars

Most extra "meals" are obtained at snack bars. These generally are drab, ill-lit stores lacking such taken-for-granted items as tablecloths, saucers and spoons. Canadians in Britain seldom have much appetite for the sticky rolls and margarined buns which form the snack bar's principal fare.

For those who can afford to pay more, many restaurants provide better food in better surroundings. If he wants to pay up to 25 shillings, ($5), the rich man at some restaurants can obtain so rare an item as fillet of pork. But he has to know where to go, and to "wink" at the restaurant's evasion of the illegal limit of five shillings for food.

"Luxury" Foods

Another food sidelight which help those with money to spend concerns "luxury" foods such as fruit juices, salmon and tinned milk. These are on points and the working-class housewife lets them pile up on the shelves because she can't pay for them. So, almost every week in London, street sales are held in the East End to dispose of the surplus usually to West End buyers.

But no matter what the "dodge," food generally seldom is prepared to the Canadian taste. Dominion athletes in London for the Olympic Games voiced a general complaint — the food was too heavy, too starchy, rather unexciting.

Eire Not Invited To Attend London Parley

LONDON, Sept. 14 — (Reuters). Britain has not invited Eire to the meeting of Commonwealth Prime Ministers in London next month, official government quarters stated Monday night. Eire will have no representati... the talks.

Government spokesmen did not disclose the reason, but indicated it was expected questions would be asked in parliament. If so, an official statement would be made.

South Africa will be represented at the talks. Prime Minister Daniel Malan, owing to pressure of domestic matter.. following the recent general election, is unable to attend. However, he will be represented by Eric Louw, Minister of Mines and Economic Affairs.

Commonwealth countries attending are the United Kingdom, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Southern Rhodesia, India, Pakistan and Ceylon.

Representatives

Prime Minister Mackenzie King, who left Ottawa Monday night, will represent Canada. Other representatives are: India, Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru; New Zealand, Prime Minister Peter Fraser; Ceylon, Prime Minister Senanayake; Pakistan, if possible Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan, thought the death of Governor-General M. A. Jinnah may possibly cause a last-minute change of representative.

Australia, whose Prime Minister, Joseph Chifley, was recently here, will be represented by Dr. Herbert Evatt, Foreign Ministr.

Southern Rhodesia's representative will depend upon the outcome of her impending general election.

The meeting will have no official agenda, but subjects high on the list will include the Berlin tension; the situation in southeast Asia, including the Malaya, Burma and Indonesia issues; western European defence in relation to the Commonwealth; Commonwealth defence as a whole; a full range of Commonwealth and United Kingdom economic topics, and the relationship of these to the economic problems of western Europe.

Drafting Of Resolutions Now Big Task For Conservatives

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL

OTTAWA, Sept. 14 — (CP) — Selection of delegates to the national Conservative party here Sept. 30, Oct. 1-2 now has been completed, a party spokesman said Monday.

The big task facing provincial associations is the drafting of resolutions which will be submitted at the convention called to choose a successor to John Bracken, 65, who is retiring because of age and ill-health.

Present indications are that the resolutions—about 400 have already been sent to headquarters here—will call for a statement of party policy on all the major problems facing the country, including such controversial topics as freight rates and Dominion-Provincial relations.

A total of 1313 delegates will be entitled to vote, but age or ill-health may keep away a dozen of the privy councillors, senators and others who support the party and who are automatically given the vote under convention procedure.

While all entitled to vote may not attend, it is expected that the convention will attract more than 3,000 persons. The federal ridings will send 765 official delegates and an equal number of alternates. In addition there will be the ex-officio delegates and the delegates-at-large.

Resolutions Committee

The 193-man resolutions committee will meet Sept. 28-29 to deal with the resolutions now being sent in by provincial associations. Deadline for the filing of resolutions has been set for Sept. 15.

The resolutions committee will be broken down into sub-committees on external affairs, agriculture, labor, natural resources, social security, veterans and trade and taxation.

Representation on the committee: Prince Edward Island, five; Nova Scotia, nine; New Brunswick, eight; Quebec, 50; Ontario, 62; Manitoba, 14; Saskatchewan, 16; Alberta, 14; British Columbia, 14, and the Yukon, one.

It is not known how many resolutions will be accepted by the resolutions committee and the convention. Those accepted will become new planks in the platform on which the new leader and the party will seek election at the next general election.

First test of the new platform may come Oct. 25 in federal by-elections in Rosthern, Saskatchewan, and in Ontario's Algoma East.

London Parley Opens Oct. 11

OTTAWA, Sept. 14 — (CP) — The Commonwealth Prime Ministers' Conference in London will open Oct. 11, it was announced simultaneously here Monday night and in London.

The Canadian prime ministers left late Monday for Europe. He is to attend opening sessions of the United Nations General Assembly in Paris this month and then go to London for the prime ministers' meeting.

In his statement Monday night Mr. Attlee said—as Mr. King had earlier—that it was not expected any formal decisions will be taken by the commonwealth leaders.

"As is customary on these occasions," he said, "the meeting will be a private one at which there will be confidential discussions and exchanges of views on matters of common concern between commonwealth prime ministers. It is not the practice on these occasions to take formal decisions."

7-Man Committee Makes Health Survey

TORONTO, Sept. 14 — (CP) — A seven-man committee will conduct a survey of health and hospital services in Ontario, Health Minister Kelley announced Monday. The survey will take about a year to complete and will be financed under the federal government's national health plan.

Chairman of the committee is George Davis of Toronto. Mr. Kelley said members are: Alec McKinney of Brampton, D. E. Catto, A. B. Meiklejohn, C. J. Telfer, Dr. H. A. Sellers and Dr. K. G. Gray, all of Toronto.

The health minister said the committee is to investigate health and hospital services and make recommendations for their improvement and expansion.

Important Russ Agent Came From Canada

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (CP) —A "Mr. Adams" educated in Canada and described as "one of the most important Soviet agents," occupied the attention Monday of the United States House of Representatives un-American activities committee.

Representative J. Parnell Thomas, committee chairman, described Adams as an engineer in electronics and plastics and said his wartime espionage assignments were in the atomic and radar fields.

Information received by the committee indicated Adams was of Finnish descent and was graduated from a Canadian university. He left the United States late in 1945.

The committee Monday questioned Eric Bernay, a former employer of Adams in a phonographic recording business in New York.

Today we Live in a Greater Canada

MORE JOBS for Young Canadians

TODAY CANADA'S manufacturing capacity has been increased—and diversified — to an extent never thought possible in pre-war years. Now Canada can do more — can make more — offers far more opportunities to young Canadians commencing their careers today. While established industries have been expanding, new ones have been springing up. Over 200 new products formerly imported are now being made here.

CAPACITY for steel production doubled; chemical output more than twice 1939 level; pulp and paper mills operating at 50% above pre-war: everywhere the magnitude of the advance is evident.

EMPLOYMENT figures, too, tell the story of our emergence as one of the world's great industrial nations; today almost twice as many Canadians are engaged in manufacturing as there were before the war.

DEVELOPMENT continues: on new plant and new equipment nearly four times as much was spent by Canadian industry last year as in 1939.

"... UNTOLD OPPORTUNITIES"

"If one wants to give service and work, Canada is full of untold opportunities — greater than ever. It is well, too, for young Canadians not to overlook small towns and rural parts, because in these places the door is ajar, life can be gloriously free and very full."

... says ROY SHIELDS of Coboconk, Ontario. He and his brother Charles have, by industry and initiative, supported by loyal, hard-working employees, attained a remarkable success as General Merchants in their rural community. Their store has been referred to as the "Biggest Little Department Store" in the country.

U.S. Believes Russians Got Valuable A-Bomb Secrets

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—A Congressional spy probe said today there are "well-founded' suspicions" that the Russians got enough atom bomb secrets to push their own atomic research substantially ahead of schedule.

Rep. Richard Vail (Rep., Ill.) said the suspicions arise from testimony the House of Representatives Un-American Activities Committee has been taking secretly.

But he said there is no way of measuring whether filched atomic information means the Russians are closer to the atomic bomb by one year, two years or any other specific amount of time.

Vail has quoted a high army officer associated with atomic bomb development—obviously Lt. Gen. Leslie R. Grooves—as being "certain that in some degree Russian efforts to penetrate atomic research safeguards were successful."

Groves, wartime head of the project that perfected the A-bomb testified to the committee behind closed doors Friday. He has retired from the army.

He is reported to have told the spy investigators that the Russians got wind of atomic bomb research a month after it began, and put their espionage agents to work on it.

The committee used Groves' testimony to fire another blast at President Truman, who has said over and over the spy hearings are a "red herring" to distract attention from Congressional failure to fight the high cost of living in the United States.

The committee says it has had testimony already, that some scientists slipped atomic information to Russian agents, and that several shipments of atomic materials were sent to Russia during the war.

Decoration Day At Lasswade Draws Crowd

APSLEY, Sept. 14 (ENS)—Perfect Autumn weather was enjoyed for Decoration Day at the Grace Church United and St. Paul Anglican cemeteries at Lasswade.

This is the second year the service has been held and an unusually large crowd attended.

Mr. Donald Hester, curate of the Anglican Church and Cleve Robb of United Church were in charge.

A service was held between the two cemeteries when both ministers gave short addresses. The procession, led by Messrs. Hester and Robb followed by choir, members of Canadian Legion No. 381, and other organizations went through each cemetery where flowers were placed on graves in memory of loved ones and a flag set up on false graves for those men who died but whose mortal remains rest in cemeteries overseas. Prayer in their honor was recited at each grave and their names mentioned in turn.

At conclusion of decoration ceremony, Albert Hall, reeve of Chandos, gave a few words of recognition of the dead in the community in which he has been reeve for eleven years.

The service was concluded by Benediction pronounced by Mr. Donald Hester.

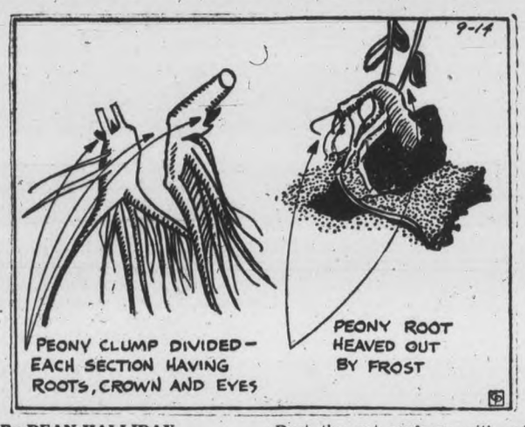
Now Is Time To Divide Peonies



By DEAN HALLIDAY

While peonies can be grown from seed, they will not "come true" to the parent plant in form and color. Therefore, peonies (except in tree peonies) are propagated by division of the clump. This is best done from September to November, but the earlier the better.

Dig up the old clump carefully so as not to injure the roots. Cut back the stem to four inches. Wash the soil away from the roots with a stream of water to see more easily where to make the divisions. Use a sharp knife and first remove any dead roots and then shorten back those which are overly long.

Each division should have a piece of root attached to a portion of the crown and three to five eyes or buds, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden - Graph. Dust the cut surfaces with sulphur before planting.

Good blooms should be obtained the second year after planting and with care and fertilizing the plants should continue to thrive for 20 years or more.

In November all peony foliage should be cut close to the ground and then burned to destroy pests and diseases.

Peonies when properly planted do not require winter protection except during the first winter after planting. The chief purpose of protection during the first winter is to keep the roots from heaving out of the ground, as illustrated.

Peonies should be cultivated throughout their growing period and occasionally during the summer to keep the weeds in control and the soil in loosened condition.

24,000 Hockey Sticks Cause Court Battle

TORONTO, Sept. 14 — (CP). — Hockey sticks—24,000 of them—were the main topic of argument in civil assize court Monday.

Jean Rioux, hockey stick maker from Bic in Rimouski County, Que., claimed Harry Polevoy, operator of the Dominion Specialty Company here, signed an agreement in 1946 for payment of the sticks. He is suing for $1,944 plus interest of five per cent and damages of $6,000.

In a counter claim, Polevoy is asking $10,000 for out-of-pocket expenses. Rioux claims Polevoy accepted one shipment of sticks and paid for them and then accepted three further shipments later the same year but refused to pay for them.

Polevoy claims the sticks were all to have been delivered to him by Nov. 15, 1946. He also charges the sticks were of inferior quality, unlike samples he had been shown.

The case is continuing.

BLACKHEADS
Don't squeeze blackheads—dissolve them. Get two ounces of peroxine powder from any drug store and apply gently with wet, hot cloth over blackheads. They dissolve and disappear by this safe simple method.

Jumps Are All In Day's Work To Flat Racer

By J. C. GRAHAM.

AUCKLAND, NZ, Sept. 14 — (CP). — A series of incidents led to a horse which had never even been schooled over hurdles competing in a hurdle race at a meeting of the Avondale Jockey Club here. He completed the course without the mistake being noticed and without the jockey even being aware that anything was amiss.

A horse called Gold Man had been entered for the Bledisloe Hurdles of a mile and three-quarters over seven flights of hurdles but his trainer, injured in a fall in the first race on the program, was taken to hospital.

The job of bringing Gold Man from the stable to the track was deputed to a stable boy who did not know the horse. He took out a gelding of the same build and color as had been described to him. He did not realize that the description applied equally well to both horses in the stable and that by mistake he had taken Peria Chief who was entered in a flat race later in the program.

Peria Chief was the younger full brother of an accomplished jumper Peria Prince, but had never done any jumping of any kind. The jockey engaged to ride Gold Man in the hurdle race did not know the horse, which duly started and was supported to the extent of $467 on the totalisator (pari-mutuel).

Peria Chief finished well back in the field, but his jockey said afterwards that he would never have realized the horse had never jumped before. It was not until later in the day, shortly before Peria Chief was to be paraded for the flat race in which he had originally been entered, that the error was discovered. He was withdrawn from the race.

The racing club subsequently decided to return the $467 laid by bettors on Gold Man on production of the betting slips.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

Erstwhile New York Rangers players Cal Gardner and Rene Trudel were missing Monday when the Toronto Maple Leafs' hockey school opened at St. Catharines forty-four "pupils" reported.

Gardner and Trudel informed the National Hockey League club in a telegram they'd had a car accident in Michigan and were waiting to have their car repaired. Another former Ranger, Bill Juzda, won't report until next Monday when Leafs' regulars arrive for the official training camp session. Juzda was unable to get time off his off-season job.

Young Roy McKeekin, Winnipeg Monarchs' starry goalie, drew high praise from Conn Smythe, Toronto director, for his nifty puck handling.

Said Smythe: "He's the best raw product I've seen in years."

A. G. Kennedy's brilliant filly, Victory Gift, Monday captured the $8,000 invitation Canadian three-year-old championship race at Winnipeg's Polo park.

Foaled on V.E.-Day while her owner was convalescing in an English hospital, Victory Gift, winner of the recent $5,000 Canadian Derby, led all the way over the 1¼ mile route to finish 2½ lengths ahead of Antonious, owned by E. Albertson of Dalroy, Alta. Sweepblu from the Carl Hatch stables of Toronto, finished third. The Whittier Farm's Lord Fairmond wound up in last in the four-horse field.

Catcher Hal Wagner of Detroit Tigers, was sold to the Philadelphia club of the National League Monday for the waiver price.

The Phillies claimed the 33-year-old Wagner for the regular $10,000 waiver price after none of the American League clubs bid on him.

A group of 20 amateur hockey players from Canada arrived at Saranac Lake, N.Y., Monday to try for berths on the New York Ranger squad.

Manager Frank Boucher of the Rangers will conduct the tryouts for several days preceding the arrival of members of the Rangers and two farm clubs next Tuesday for the opening of training.

Laurie Irwin of Toronto, manager of the Canadian Basketball team in the Olympic games, blames the team's dismal Olympic showing on interpretation of rules by European referees and lack of team co-operation. In Montreal Monday, Irwin said it often happened the two officials in a game spoke a different language and had a different interpretation of rules.

Bob Carse, who played with Edmonton Flyers of the Western Canada Senior League last winter, said Monday at Edmonton he will accept an offer from Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League. Carse played previously with Cleveland, Chicago Black Hawks, and Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League and the American League Providence Reds.

Two players with last year's Maritime champion Halifax St. Mary's Juniors, Don McLaughlin and Gordon Duggan, leave for the tryout camp of the Washington Lions of the United States Hockey League.

St. Catharines Athletics were crowned Eastern Canadian Junior Lacrosse Champions at St. Kitts Monday when they walloped the Quebec champions, Cornwall Community Club 27-3. Athletics now leave for Winnipeg and a best-of-three series with the Manitoba champs, starting Thursday. Winners of that series play in the Dominion Junior finals at Vancouver.

Charlie Conacher, coach of the Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League, probably will never forget his first visit to Moose Jaw. Attending the Chicago amateur hockey school, a cop who was hunting a worthless cheque passer, stopped big Charlie and asked him his name. Conacher wouldn't say, the gendarme threatened to lock him up but friends finally persuaded the policeman he had he wrong man.

Calgary Assured Playoff Berth

CALGARY, Sept. 14.—(CP).—Calgary Stampeders today hold a comfortable lead in the Western Inter-Provincial Union Conference and are practically assured of playoff spot.

Monday night, the powerful Stampeders racked up their fifth straight victory of the season by walloping Winnipeg Blue Bombers, last year's Canadian finalists, 18-0 before 7,000 rabid home-town fans.

The loss left Bombers in second-place with four points from two victories in six starts, while Saskatchewan Roughriders hold the cellar position with a single triumph in five games played.

Stampeders rolled to their second shutout over Bombers this year by scoring converted touchdowns in each of the last three quarters.

Lots Of Heavies But None To Match Louis

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—There's a growing suspicion that the boxer who succeeds Joe Louis as the heavyweight champion of the world isn't going to be another Louis.

Ezzard Charles, a light heavy who likes to mix with the big boys, heightened that suspicion Monday night.

True, the Cincinnati boy won a unanimous, though close, decision over Jimmy Bivins of Cleveland. True, too, it was a good performance, with lots of good boxing and a whirlwind ending that brought the crowd of 11,631 to its feet.

But this fact was inescapable:

Both the Ohio negroes landed blows that, had they been tossed by Joe Louis in his prime, would have ended the fight. But, neither was knocked down—and neither was hurt.

Yet the heavyweight situation is such that Charles' manager, Jake Mintz, was hollering after the fight

"Charles is the next world champion. Bring on whoever you got."

The clue to this statement are the words: "Whoever you got."

Look over the heavyweight crop, and you'll see the point: Lots of good boys, but no Joe Louis in sight, so far.

Louise Brough Has Big Plans

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 14 (AP)—Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., currently the best feminine tennis player among the world's amateurs, has outlined an ambitious program for herself.

If successful in defending her women's singles title in the United States National championships now under way, the California blonde will seek an unprecedented grand slam.

She hopes to win, and hold simultaneously, the championships of the four great tennis-playing countries — the United States, Britain, Australia and France—a feat never accomplished, even by such former net queens as Helen Wills, Alice Marble and Pauline Betz.

"I have accepted an invitation to play in Australia later this year," the 25-year-old Beverly Hills star disclosed today. "If I am forunate enough to win the Australian championship, I will enter the French championships next summer before going to Wimbledon."

"RED" MACKENZIE, golf pro from Elm Ridge who coaches the senior Shawinigan Falls hockey club, is trying his luck with a hockey stick after belting a terrific tee shot into the rough. Peeved, he muttered something about "I should try a hockey stick." Nelson Young (LEFT) of Rosemere and Bill Kerr of Beaconsfield promptly supplied same.

Olympic Secretary Discussing Olympic Grants

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 14 (CP)—Another development in a post-Olympics controversy was on the books today with Prof. Nelson C. Hart, secretary of the Canadian Association, backing up President A. Sidney Dawes of Montreal as a fund raiser.

Prof. Hart said last night in his second press statement since his return from the Olympics that Dawes raised about 75 per cent of the funds to take the Canadian team to the Olympics, outside of government grants.

"It seems advisable to inform the Canadian public" of the efforts of the C.O.A. financial committee in view of the "unfortunate personal controversy" between Dawes and George C. Machum, president of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, said Prof. Hart.

He quoted an "incomplete report" on receipts from honorary treasurer Robert Kerr which said receipts were $120,583. Although expenses have not been totalled, Prof. Hart predicted a surplus of about $12,000.

Asked Resignation

(Machum on Aug. 31 called upon Dawes to resign as head of the C.O.A. on grounds he was "undermining" the A.A.U. by attempting to set up the Olympic Committee as a separate body)

"On the whole is seems apparent that the finance committee of the C.O.A. did a good job, which was much superior to the efforts of previous committees," said Prof. Hart.

He noted that several branches of the A.A.U. of C. and private individuals collected funds to transport athletes to and from Montreal "but these funds were not contributed to the CO.A."

Hydro Restrictions Won't Halt Football

TORONTO, Sept. 14.—(CP). — The new Hydro restrictions on playing field lighting won't halt football in Hamilton.

Sam Manson, manager of Wildcats of the Big Four, said Monday night that the ruling calling for maximum 60-watt lighting for each 100 square feet of playing area, wouldn't affect games. The Wildcat-Montreal Alouette game scheduled for Wednesday will go on.

"We checked the area and lighting quota and we're okay," said Manson. "We're lightly lighted . . . our wattage comes within the requirements."

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Steve Donoghue announced his retirement as a jockey 11 years ago today after a great 30 years' record. His name became synonomous with the British turf and he finished out the season before taking up a career as a trainer. Donoghue, who died in 1945, headed for 10 consecutive years the list of jockeys and booted home six Derby winners.

GOING DOWN

Batting marks as a whole slipped in the National League during the last week but St. Louis' Stan Musial snapped out of his slump and advanced four points to .373. Pittsburgh's Ralph Kiner topped the loop in four-baggers with 39—four more than Musial. Musial also topped the runs batted in and front-ranking departments.

HANDS AT WORK... for ONTARIO

LEARNING MACHINE ASSEMBLY

ONTARIO'S products are desired and purchased by people all over the world and the capacity to produce such goods largely determines the economic welfare of every man, woman and child within her borders. Because the sale of every article produced in Ontario brings valuable dollars into this Province, we all are more assured of job security . . . and we and our children can have more of the better things in life. But to produce such goods in sufficient quantities, skilled labour is vital. That is why every single one of us should be glad that our veterans are constantly being trained to provide the skilled hands so needed by industry. They receive ON THE JOB training under expert instructors in our Ontario factories.

This training, provided through the co-operation of the Department of Veterans' Affairs, the Federal Department of Labour and the Ontario Department of Education, starts the veteran on the road to skilled craftsmanship. In assembling business machines, for example, veterans must have a thorough knowledge of electricity and must learn to perform intricate work on precision machines having thousands of separate parts. These Canadian-made business machines are sold in all parts of the world, creating new wealth for Canada and Ontario. Therefore every effort of these newly skilled veterans helps to make Ontario a finer place in which to live and contributes to the welfare and happiness of all her citizens.

MACHINE ASSEMBLY

John N. West, 25, of Toronto, a Royal Canadian Navy veteran, is shown here making an adjustment to one of the 10,000 parts in a business machine designed for a New Zealand firm.

Various types of business machines are produced in Ontario factories. Because of their intricate mechanisms it is essential that these machines be checked by expert craftsmen at every stage of their production.

Bride Widely Entertained

Honoring Mrs. A. T. Clark, nee Wilma Hunt, before her marriage Saturday, a joint shower was given at the home of Miss Margaret Quinlan, 500 Charlotte St., by Mrs. Roy Ballantyne and Miss Quinlan, and gifts of linen and cups and saucers were presented.

SUAVE SUIT—There is definite elegance in every line of this handsome afternoon suit. The fabric is black broadcloth cut on slim yet easy lines. Delphic folds of the material curve from the front of the jacket to the back and emphasize the rounded hipline. The fly front closing of the coat has rhinestone buttons at the neck and waist.

Mrs. Bruce Clark was hostess for a miscellaneous shower and members of Lakehurst United Church Ladies' Aid gathered at the home of Mrs. W. J. Stockdale for a shower. Girls of the office staff of the Quaker Oats gave the bride a shower of gifts and the couple also received a grill and coffee maker from employees of the Peterborough Bus Lines.

Clark-Hunt Nuptials At Lakehurst

The wedding of Wilma Josephine Hunt, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Hunt of Lakehurst, to Mr. Alexander Taylor Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Clark of Peterborough, was solemnized Saturday afternoon in Lakehurst United Church, with the Rev. Mr. Rowland officiating, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Stewart.

Floral setting for the ceremony was of gladioli and asters banked with ferns and Mrs. W. J. Stockdale played traditional wedding music. Great uneles of the bride, Messrs. Wilbert, Harold, Gordon and Elwood Harrison, formed a quartette and sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "I Love You Truly" during the signing of the register.

Wearing a wedding gown and train of Chantilly lace over satin with net yoke trimmed with seed pearls and sequins, the bride was given in marriage by her father. The dress was styled with long pointed sleeves and a bustle effect on the skirt. She wore a floor-length veil of silk embroidered net caught with orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of red roses. Miss Shirley Hunt was maid of honor for her sister, and Miss Isobel Clark, only sister of the groom, and Miss Margaret Quinlan were bridesmaids. They were frocked in ice blue net with embroidery on the peplums and wore hats of blue flowers with shoulder veils to match. Sandra Harrison the bride's small cousin was her flower girl, wearing a dress of pink net over silk jersey, and trimmed with pale blue velvet. All the attendants carried bouquets of pink roses with fern.

Mr. Llewelyn Clark was groomsman for his brother and Messrs. Robert Clark and Herbert Hunt ushered the guests to their seats.

For the reception following at the bride's home, Mrs. Hunt chose a gown of black crepe with satin drape and wore a grey hat trimmed with black and a corsage of white roses. Mrs. Clark, mother of the groom, was in black silk crepe and wore black accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Later the bride and groom left on a wedding trip to Toronto and Hamilton, the bride travelling in a suit of Victorian red with which she wore black accessories and a corsage of white roses. On return Mr. and Mrs. Clark will reside at 372 Dobbin Ave., Peterborough.

MR. AND MRS. KENNETH M. HANBIDGE, who were married Saturday afternoon in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. The bride is Doris Elizabeth Mary, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ross, and her husband is a son of Mr. J. H. Hanbidge and the late Mrs. Hanbidge, all of Peterborough.

Greta Grisdale To Live In Windsor

The Church of the Immaculate Conception was the setting for the marriage on Monday morning of Elizabeth Marguerite (Greta) Grisdale to Mr. Herbert William Dennie of Windsor, with the Rev. J. J. Killen saying the nuptial mass. The bride is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Grisdale of Peterborough, and the groom a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Dennie of Windsor and formerly of Peterborough.

During the service Mrs. D. Campararo sang a wedding hymn, "Ave Marie" and "Panis Angelicus." While the register was being signed she sang "Mother at Your Feet is Kneeling." Mrs. Cyril O'Donnell was the organist. Floral decorations in the church were done with vari-colored gladioli and roses.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Gordon Grisdale of Toronto. She wore a tailored gabardine suit in mulberry shade with navy accessories and her corsage was of white gardenias. Miss Kathleen Walsh attended her cousin, attired in blue gabardine suit and navy accessories and wearing a corsage of roses.

Mr. Clare Brady was the groom's attendant and ushers were Robert Grisdale and Clare Brady, Jr.

At the reception following at Hooper's Palm rooms, Mrs. P. Goselin and Mrs. J. Cranley, sisters of the bride, received with the wedding party.

After a short honeymoon trip the bride and groom will take up residence in Windsor.

Hundreds Attend Reception At St. Paul's

A host of friends from all churches of the city visited St. Paul's Presbyterian Church Monday evening on the occasion of their public reception marking the re-opening of the building after a complete redecorating during the past few months. They were cordially received by the Rev. C. G. Boyd and Mrs. Boyd and Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Dutton. Members of the Men's Association conducted tours of inspection throughout the rooms during the evening.

A delightful social hour was spent in the tea room where they were entertained by the ladies of the church. A charming tea table was set with a beautiful lace cloth and silver holders for pink and mauve 'mums in the centre with pink and mauve tapers in silver candlesticks on either side. In the background the platform was lined with baskets of white 'mums and banked with fern, on a green carpet.

The tea was poured by Mrs. J. Semple, Mrs. D. Diplock, Mrs. R. Fortye, Mrs. Ivan Morgan, Mrs. J. McLeod and Mrs. R. R. Hall. Mrs. W. Burrell was general convener for the evening and Mrs. H. Stewart and Mrs. Stewart Finnie were in charge of the tea table, assisted by ladies of the various organizations of the church. Others acted as visiting hostesses among the guests.

Splendid Profit Realized By St. James' W.A.

The Women's Association of St. James United church met Friday evening with Mrs. G. Harris presiding and a good representation of members and interested friends present.

Devotional service was led by Miss M. Bowers and a pleasing duet rendered by the Rev. F. W. Craik and Mr. A. E. Prest.

Following brief reports, an account on the organization's work providing meals at the Peterborough Exhibition was given. The following conveners reported: Mrs. W. Bromell, Mrs. G. Rutherford, Mrs. N. Dunbar, Mrs. G. Rowe, Mrs. B. Seabrook, Miss M. Bowers, Mrs. W. K. Sloane.

The financial statement as given by Mrs. M. Stokes revealed a splendid profit of $1,051.03.

Mrs. G. Harris voiced appreciation of the splendid co-operation and assistance given.

Committees were appointed to arrange for dinners to be served to the County Teachers October 8.

Mrs. W. Prest requested W. A. members to secure tickets for a film of "Switzerland" to be shown by the Mr. and Mrs. Club on September 25.

A reading was given by Mrs. H. Turner. Refreshments were served by Mrs. L. Gibson, Mrs. C. Murduff, Mrs. J. Finnie and Mrs. H. Zolymy.

Cecelia Mae Ball Bride Of J. T. McNamara

A pretty wedding took place in All Saints' Anglican Church Saturday afternoon when Cecelia Mae Ball, only daughter of Mr and Mrs. Thomas J. Ball, was united in marriage to John Thomas, eldest son of Mr. David McNamara of Kinmount. The ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. W. E. Kibblewhite.

Mrs. James Morley sang "O Perfect Love" before the ceremony and "Because" during the signing of the register.

The church was prettily decorated with baskets of asters, gladioli and fern. Lohengrin's Wedding March was played by Miss Margaret Flowers.

The bride was attired in a gown of white slipper satin, fashioned on princess lines, with long train and the neckline embossed with appliqued roses and seed pearls. Her full length veil of net was held in place by a heart-shaped coronet of orange blossoms, and she carried a cascade of Bettertime roses. Mr. Ball gave his daughter in marriage.

Wedding attendants were gowned alike in moire taffeta, fashioned with bustle backs and matching picture hats and elbow-length mittens. Miss Violet Ball of Hamilton, aunt of the bride, as maid of honor, was in orchid and carried a cascade of yellow gladioli. Mrs. J. Foster of Detroit, as bridesmaid for her niece, was in yellow and carried orchid gladioli. Miss Vera Buchanan, as bridesmaid, was in turquoise and held with a pink gladioli. The tiny flower girl, Beverly Jane Anderson, of Detroit, wore a pale pink taffeta and lace Crinoline-styled dress with an old-fashioned poke bonnet, and carried a nosegay of gladioli.

The groom was attended by his brother, Hugh McNamara of Kinmount, and the ushers were Harold Dodson of Detroit, cousin of the bride, and Brock McNamara, Kinmount, brother of the groom.

The reception was held in the church parlors, where the bride's mother received wearing a gown of turquoise facoone with black hat and accessories, and wearing a corsage of Bettertime roses.

The groom's mother, who also received, wore dusty rose crepe with black picture hat, black accessories and a corsage of tea roses.

Later the bride and groom left by motor for a trip to Ottawa and points East. For travelling, the bride wore a navy blue gabardine suit and grey accessories.

On their return they will reside at 287 Prince St., Peterborough.

Of Interest to Women

Meddling Incompetents Are Bothersome to Newlyweds

One of the curious things of life is that the more incompetent people are to manage their own afairs, the more certain they are that they can tell everybody else how to achieve glorious successes and become rich and happy. They are out at the elbows themselves, but they know just how Tom can make a million. They fight like cats and dogs with their own husbands and wives, but if the Joneses had just listened to them they would be cooing together like turtle-doves. Their own kids are little hellions, but that doesn't keep father and mother from being an authority on child culture.

Dorothy Dix

Why the people who are so free with their advice never take any of it themselves, is a mystery that no one ever has solved. Maybe it is a secret formula for working miracles that they are sworn to divulge. But, however it is, the man who makes a fortune doesn't go around broadcasting how he did it. Nor does the woman who is happily married give her recipe for keeping her husband in love with her. It is the failures who cannot turn the trick themselves who can tell everyone else how to do it.

This is a pity, for not only is it boring to have to listen to the boasting of people who hold you up and force you to lend an ear to their self-praise about the great things they might do if they only had a mind to, but it opens the door to the greatest trouble-maker in the world.

Eager Beavers

And that is the adviser. The one who undertakes to run your life for you and who is perfectly sure that he or she can settle all your problems and manage all of your affairs far better than you can. Maybe it is Grandpa, or Grandma, Aunt Sally, or Cousin Sue, or the man or woman who lives next door. They all are eager beavers who are ready to jump in and invest your money in Wildcat securities, or break up your marriage, or start a fued with your in-laws, or do anything else to stir trouble and give them something to talk about.

Nobody is safe from the machinations of the adviser, for the temptation to meddle in other people's affairs is more than they can resist. But its preordained victims are the bridal couple who, little suspecting the tortures their families are going to inflict on them by attempting to inflict their every move, are led as lambs to the slaughter.

It is a ghastly truth more marriages are wrecked by the advisers, who try to make the newlyweds follow their pattern of domesticity, than by drink, or philandering, or any other cause whatever. It is Cousin Sally who shakes the bride's faith in her husband by telling her you can't trust a man. It is Cousin Mary who urges Jane to get off on the right foot and not make a doormat of herself for her husband. It is Uncle Tom who impresses on the young husband that he must deal firmly with his bride and never give her any money of her own. And it is the whole mess of family advisers who scare the young couple into hating their in-laws before they ever get acquainted with them.

The moral of all of which is: Beware of the advisers. Don't lend them your ears.

Marie Huffman Marries Lakefield Man

A pretty Autumn wedding was solemnized at St. Michael's Church, Belleville, when Marie, daughter of Mrs. Bertha Huffman of Belleville was united in marriage to Stafford Laurence Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. D'Arcy Hill of Lakefield. Rev. Father Carly officiated.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Douglas Huffman, the bride was lovely in her bridal gown of white satin. Her floor-length veil of net was caught to a coronet of rosebuds and she carried American Beauty roses.

Miss Betty Hill, sister of the groom, was a charming bridesmaid in a floor-length frock of pale pink triple - sheer. Her shoulder-length veil was arranged with a head-dress of rosebuds, and she carried a nosegay of roses, carnations, and baby's breath, tied with pale blue streamers.

Mr. James Huffman was his brother's best man, and the ushers were Mr. George Huffman and Mr. Carl Hill. The soloist was Mrs. Ray Huffman.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was held at the Lanthorn Inn, and later a reception at the bride's home. Mrs. Huffman received her guests in a gown of grey crepe with old rose hat and rose accessories. She was assisted by the groom's mother wearing pink silk jersey with black hat and accessories.

Later the happy couple left for a motor trip to Eastern Ontario. They will reside in Belleville.

Guests were present at the wedding from Port Hope, Peterborough, Oshawa, Hastings and Lakefield.

THE STARS SAY . . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, September 15

It is indicated by benefic planetary aspects that a sudden and clever coup, a stroke of genius, based on, not only imagination and intuition, but at the same time fortified by sound logic and a rationalizing of perplexing problems, could bring about a most productive and expansive state of affairs. Optimism, sagacious management of fertile situations, with the aid and substance of those in high places, could be lucrative and enhance prestige and popularity. This in business, employment, professions and the home life, good judgment finally winning.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is, may find themselves soundly equipped to tackle quite ambitious objectives or static conditions, by an alert mentality, shrewd, and quick to see advantages, with reason and logic gaining by some subtle insight or intuition hunch. This show of astute and brilliant manipulation of problems is quite likely, to win the solid support, with capital and approbation, of those in influential positions. Astute business tactics may also enhance social, professional and finacial prestige, reacting with pleasure and personal gratification on all advanced aspirations and goals.

A child born on this day has high aspirations and ambitions, attaining cherished hopes and wishes by its versatility, good judgment, optimism and responsibility.

Chef Writes Menu For Food Parcels

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 (CP). — Because the semi-starved people of Europe do not make the best use of food parcels, a famous Fifth Avenue chef has devised a seven-day menu to be included in parcels being sent to Germany.

German-born Herman Edel, after two weeks' research, drew up a menu which uses the contents of one food package supplemented by the frugal European rations.

The type of food package he used is being sent to Germany by Save A Friend in Europe, the food-parcel concern representing non-profit Swiss charity organization, Caritas.

SAFE food parcels are bought and packed in Denmark and flown into Germany. At present food depots are set up in Paris, London and certain cities in Austria but it is hoped to extend the service to European countries. These packages take no longer to deliver than ordinary airmail.

The food cartons contain 24 pounds, providing 45,000 calories.

"Although everything seems to die a little during the summer months, there has been no letdown in the food parcels Americans have been sending," said Newton Randolph, international director of SAFE. "We expect a great increase this fall and winter."

Durban Hiring Women Posties

DURBAN, South Africa, Sept. 17 (CP).—The emergency measure of using postwomen to deliver mail in Durban and suburbs is to be introduced here because the post office cannot get enough men for the work. Its field staff is 25 per cent under strength, so it is seeking 50 young women to help make up the deficit.

The women will carry mailbags weighing about 30 pounds — five pounds less than postmen. Every six months they will receive a free uniform comprising tunic, skirt, shoes, helmet or cap, and protective clothing for wet weather. Postwomen were used in Durban and other cities for a time during the war.

SCREEN STAR LANA TURNER and her husband, Henry (Bob) Topping, are pictured on the SS De Grasse as they returned to New York from Europe. Lana told reporters the "poor press" she received in England and elsewhere was due to misunderstanding.

Ferns and Flowers Setting For Wilkin-McArthur Rites

HAVELOCK, Sept. 14—(ENS)—Ferns and cut flowers made a beautiful setting in Havelock Pentecostal Tabernacle on Saturday afternoon for the marriage of Lillian Ferne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin McArthur of Havelock to Lewis Arthur Wilkin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wilkin of Palmerston. Rev. W. F. Rourke officiated assisted by Rev. Ivan Raymer of New Glasgow, Nova Scotia, brother-in-law of the bride.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. W. F. Rourke, and the soloist, Miss Irene MacMillan of Toronto, sang "The Lord's Prayer" prior to the ceremony and "Oh Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her brother, Percy A. McArthur, Peterborough, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white silk jersey, cut on princess lines and trimmed with seed pearls and net. Her net veil was caught with a white silk halo and she carried a bouquet of crimson roses.

Mrs. Richard Jarvis of Brantford, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and Miss Violet Bound of Havelock was bridesmaid. They wore floor length gowns of taffeta with matching headdresses in pale yellow and pale green respectively. Wesley Wilkin of Palmerston, brother of the groom, was best man.

The ushers were Milfred McArthur, Toronto, and Richard Jarvis, Brantford, brother and brother-in-law of the bride.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the bride's mother received 33 guests. She wore a grey tailored suit with navy accessories and a corsage of red roses. The groom's mother assisted wearing a dark blue gown with matching accessories and corsage of crimson roses.

The bride's table was centred with a large three-tiered wedding cake.

Later the bride and groom left on a trip to Niagara Falls, the bride travelling in a navy moss crepe dress with matching accessories and pale blue shortie coat. They will reside in Toronto.

Among the out-of-town guests were: Rev. Ivan Raymer and Mrs. Raymer (nee Ada McArthur) of New Glasgow, N.S.; Dr. D. Welland and Mrs. Welland of Maine, U.S.A.

Previous to the wedding the bride was honored at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Varty, where the presentation and lunch was held on the gaily lighted lawn. Miss Violet Bound also entertained at a cup and saucer shower where the bride was the recipient of a beautiful bride's book.

Baby Brought Back to Life

VANCOUVER, Sept. 14 (CP).—A mother here now knows why hospital attendants last May 13 spoke of her infant as a "miracle baby."

Trudy was born to Mrs. Margaret Nystom with "RH" antibodies active in her blood. During post-natal surgery when the RH-laden blood was replaced by "replacement transfusions" the infant's heart stopped for five minutes, and her respiration for 30.

Trudy was delivered by caesarian operation. At the height of the operation her heart stopped and respiration ceased. To all appearance the child was dead.

Adrenalin brought the heart back into motion, the operation was completed and the child placed in an incubator. It was 30 minutes before respiration resumed.

PEERLESS MOTOR OIL IS BETTER – "it's Alloyed"

QUALITY

PEERLESS QUALITY rates above all others . because it is refined from better crudes . . . with the latest scientific knowledge known to the oil industry . and because PEERLESS, and only PEERLESS, IS ALLOYED.

PERFORMANCE

PEERLESS PERFORMANCE improves engine performance. No matter how high the temperature PEERLESS won't "thin out" . . . will provide maximum compression seal at all times . . . resulting in greater power and greatly improved oil milage.

ECONOMY

PEERLESS ECONOMY starts with better lubrication . . follows through by keeping motor costs down and giving your motor longer and longer life. PEERLESS is the all-season, all-temperature, expense reducer because it reduces the cause of many motor failures.

To improve PEERLESS MOTOR OIL and give it the stamina to stand up longer under a wider range of temperatures, an "alloy" is added which forms a protective film around each molecule thus eliminating breakdowns "It's alloyed"

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

THEY CAN'T RUIN IT

IF THE claim of infallibility for certain features of some players' bidding systems were well-founded, their authors should also boast of being the wreckers who ruined our game. Fortunately, their professions of perfection are not based on fact. Contract bridge is so truly a game that nobody can be absolutely sure what is going to happen in actual play when one partner holds a certain amount of strength opposite some other amount. It is that uncertainty which makes even the finest player enjoy the game, in fact makes him enjoy it more than those of lesser skill with whom there is still more uncertainty.

That simple bidding was done by two "point-counters," who rate an ace at 4, king 3, queen 2 and jack 1, 10 being of course an average hand and an opening 1-No Trump requiring a minimum of 15 with at least three suits stopped. Direct raises and rebids also are based on total count, most of them requiring 25 or 26 total in the partners' hands to reach a game contract in No Trumps.

We prefer that counting method for No Trump purposes to the honor-trick type of measurement for lots of reasons, but we would also prefer opening a hand like that with a suit bid and receiving a suit response before showing the No Trump. But the argument is not that. It is against claims of infallibility by some sponsors of the count method who soundly say that with 25 points there is usually a good play for game, but then go overboard by saying that with 26 "game is guaranteed."

Why can't people avoid such extreme statements? On this deal for instance, after West [illegible] 3 lead, the Q [illegible] the K [illegible] his game [illegible] then playing clubs to [illegible] When he held up his A, and East sent back the spade 2, his game was impossible. But more important is this—if instead of the spade 10, dummy had the heart 10 and a small spade, game couldn't be made, even with 28 points in the two hands.

Alphonse Moyse, Jr., in The Bridge World, who favors honor-tricks to measure No Trump hands, has delovered a tirade against extreme claims by point-counters. We who favor the point-count method join him enthusiastically in his opposition to such hollow claims of perfection.

6—In Memoriams

EVANS—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, who passed away September 14, 1940.

Deep in the heart lies a picture
Of a loved one laid to rest
In memory's frame we shall keep it
Because she was one of the best.

—Ever remembered by husband and family.

MOORE—In loving memory of Ethelbert Moore, who passed away September 14, 1946.

He is gone, but not forgotten,
And as dawns another year,
In our lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of him are always near.
Days of sadness still o'er us,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within the heart concealed.

—Ever remembered by his wife Gertrude, daughter Alice, son Ralph and Eva.

MOORE—In loving memory of my dear father, Ethelbert Moore, who passed away September 14, 1946.

His dear bright eyes and cheerful face
Are so pleasant to recall;
He had a loving word for each
And he died beloved by all.

—Ever remembered by son Walter and family.

MOORE—In loving memory of Ethelbert Moore, who passed away September 14, 1946.

Gone, dear father, gone forever,
How we miss your smiling face,
But you left us to remember
None on earth can take your place,
A happy home we once enjoyed
How sweet the memory still
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.

—Ever remembered by daughter Irene and son-in-law Russ.

SIMMONS, David—In loving memory of our brother who passed away one year ago.

In our hearts, your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true.
There is not a day, dear brother,
That we do not think of you.

—Fondly remembered by sister Betty and brother-in-law Westley.

SIMMONS, David—In loving memory of our son and brother who passed away one year ago.

Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear,
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps him near.

—Fondly remembered by dad, sisters Doreen and Ester.

Burleigh Falls Man Sentence Suspended

Eighteen-year-old Elmer Jacobs of Burleigh Falls, was placed on suspended sentence today to a when he pleaded guilty today to a charge of indecent assault on a female. On suggestion of Defence Counsel W. B. Gordon, the youth's bond included provision that he take up residence with his married sister, some distance from the scene of the offence.

"I think that the environment in which this boy has lived had a lot to do with this unfortunate incident," explained counsel.

Given Six Months

Edward Hummell, 62 Robinson St., was sentenced to six months in reformatory today when he pleaded guilty to an assault in his home occasioning actual bodily harm. The accused had been charged with a similar offence several times before and both Magistrate Philp and Crown Attorney V. J. McElerry stressed the seriousness of his repeated action.

Truck Driver Fined

Kenneth Anderson, 19, of 576 Rogers St., was fined $40 and $2.50 costs on his guilty plea to a charge of careless driving, in court today. The charge against the youth arose from an accident Sept. 3 on Water St. in which a truck driven by Anderson collided with the parked car of Frank Dracup, 1001 Water St. Extensive damage was caused to both vehicles and the accused suffered minor head injuries.

Another charge, of drunk driving, was dismissed after evidence was heard.

Postpone Case Of French Count

MONTREAL, Sept. 14 (CP) — The case of Count Jacques Duge de Bernonville, fighting deportation to France where he is under sentence of death for alleged wartime collaboration, was postponed today to Sept. 29.

The Count entered Canada illegally about a year ago from the United States under the name of Benoit.

He has been held in Immigration Department detention since Sept. 2 when his deportation order was signed.

In announcing the postponement in superior court Judge A. J. Campbell said this would give the defence lawyers 10 days in which to study a brief on the count prepared by the Federal Immigration Department and allow the department solicitors three days in which to study the Count's counter-brief.

Armed Robbery Charge Pending

TORONTO, Set. 14 — (CP)— The three youths, who were arrested Monday in Windsor and charged with the kidnapping and armed robbery of Dr. David Perlman of Toronto on Sunday night, were faced with another charge today.

They will be tried for the armed robbery last Friday of taxi-driver Nathan Bornstein in Toronto. Three armed youths robbed Bornstein of approximately $50 and took his taxi, which was later found abandoned.

The three youths are Allen Decker, 19, of Ajax, Ont.; William Glover, 18, of Toronto, and Rex Scott, 23, of Montreal.

Police said they face a possible penalty of 25 years imprisonment on the kidnapping charge.

The trio will also be questioned about other recent hold-ups in Toronto, police said. There have been hold-ups recently of tobacco shops and other stores by youths with descriptions similar to those of the arrested youths.

Income Tax Charge Brings $25 Fine

Robert Richmond, Nogie's Creek, was fined $25 and $11.75 on his guilty plea in court today to failing to make 1945 Income Tax returns.

A. R. Lagana, 303 Frederick Ave., was fined $5 and $2.50 costs for illegally passing a car on a highway.

Bergen Payne, Norwood, was fined $5 and $2.50 costs for parking on the travelled portion of a highway.

Whitfield Lawrence, RR 1, Bonarlaw, was fined $3 and $2.50 costs for driving with improper lighting.

Ivan Sopha, RR 1, Havelock, was fined $15 and $2.50 costs for illegal possession of liquor.

Convicted Of Theft

Voleny C. Woodcock, 405 Wellintgon St., was placed on one year's suspended sentence when he pleaded guilty before Magistrate Philp to a charge of theft of a wallet. The theft took place in a beverage room in the city on Sept. 3. Owner of the wallet, Norman Miller, said that during a "slight argument," the accused had been pushed against him. When he left the room, he had noted the loss of the wallet.

PC Douglas Farthing testified that information had been received that persons had seen Woodcock throw the emptied wallet in a basement window of a store. Woodcock admitted this in court.

See Birth Rate Rising In France

PARIS, Sept. 14—(Reuters)—France's birth-rate continues to rise, her death rate to decline.

The trend, first observed in this country following the liberation, shows no sign of changing. Groups whose business it is to study population charts put out by the National Institute of Demographic studies in Paris believe there will be no return in the near future to the pre-war situation in which France was one of the new European countries which seemed to be depopulating herself through an excess incidence of deaths over births.

A total of 860,000 births is forecast for this year in France — about the same as last year.

Deaths registered during the first three months of 1948 were 18 per cent less than for the corresponding period in 1947, revealing, as the Institute says, a "definite" improvement in the health condition of the population.

Work On Cathedral

GUILFORD, Surrey, England, Sept. 14—(CP)—Work on the new Anglican cathedral which stands on Stag Hill, overlooking Guildford, is to be resumed on a small scale after being suspended during the war. Permission has been given to roof the south transept, above the children's chapel, at a cost of £4,500 ($18,000). The original building was started in 1936 and was about one-third completed when war broke out in 1939. Work since then has been confined to maintenance.

Tax Discount Bylaw Passed

MILLBROOK, Sept. 14—(ENS)—Communications received, and dealt with, at the September meeting of the Millbrook Municipal Council included: From E. S. Clarry reporting the culvert out of repair on Park Roadway; Department of National Defence, requesting information regarding property owned by that Department in the village of Millbrook; Kilbron Engineering Company regarding installation of waterworks; H. R. S. Ryan, representing Floyd McMahon, regarding conditions of the village dump; Howard Murney, regarding defective outlet on drain where it crosses Bank St.; H. S. Lorrimer, requesting reduction in rental of town hall for the Wednesday night moving picture shows. The clerk was instructed to write Mr. Lorrimer and Mr. Burney immediately stating what action the council intends taking.

A bylaw was introduced by the clerk to regulate the amount of discount to be allowed on taxes of the current year, if paid on or before Oct. 31; also penalties provided by law to be added to arrears. After passing through the necessary stages, same was passed, signed, and numbered 750.

The clerk reported $35 paid out in direct relief during the month of August, and on motion of Councillors Fallis and Woods, the following account were ordered paid:

Treasurer, Municipality of Cavan, grading, $35; provincial treasurer, insulin, $2.72; Hydro Electric, streets and halls, $80.70; Docon Telephone, $5.96; Smith Garage, gas, $14.62; Millbrook Motors, oil, 45 cents; P. Handley, labor, $17.50; J. J. Kellett, salary, $125; John Trick, labor, $50.50.

Reeve H. D. Bigelow presided, and all members were present.

Hopes For Union In Europe King Declares

LONDON, Sept. 14 (Reuters)—The King said today in the Speech from the Throne proroguing parliament it is his prayer that out of the "hopeful beginning" of the Brussels Treaty "there will develop an increasing degree of union between all the countries of Western Europe."

The speech reviewed the past year's legislation as it prorogued the third session of parliament.

It was read by the Lord Chancellor, Lord Jowitt, in the House of Lords and by the speaker in the House of Commons.

A new session, at which the King will speak in person, begins tomorrow. It has been called specially to pass a bill to curtail the powers of the House of Lords to delay legislation passed by the Commons.

Close links had been forged "with our neighbors in Western Europe," the speech said.

A treaty of economic, social and cultural collaboration and collective self-defence had been signed with the governments of Belgium, France, Luxembourg and The Netherlands.

Permanent machinery for the co-ordination of defence with these countries had been established and "satisfactory progress" was being made with the other matters dealt with in the treaty.

The speech expressed hope that ultimately, in furtherance of the aims of the United Nations, "They may, with their common heritage of culture and freedom, constitute an area of peace, prosperity and ordered progress, in association with the peoples of my commonwealth overseas and with the United States of America."

High School Needs One More Teacher

NORWOOD, Sept. 14 — (ENS) — A meeting of the Board of Education was held Friday evening. Members present were Mr. John Marks chairman, Armar Weir secretary, Messrs. C. A. Copp, David McNeil, Earl Hamblin, R. Cuthbertson, George Millett, Mrs. Perrin Rork, and Mrs. Armar Weir. Moved by McNeil, seconded by Copp, that the transportation committee be instructed to advertise for tenders for transportation of pupils not already covered, that they feel can be transported economically.

The supply committee reported that a cot had been ordered, a cot cover washed and flags cleaned.

Mr. S. S. Breckon, high school principal was present, and asked for physics equipment, athletic equipment, 40 music books and the usual grant for field day.

There was a request also for athletic equipment for the public school.

Moved by Millett and Cuthbertson, that the supply committee be authorized to get the supplies as requested.

After some discussion it was felt that another teacher be engaged for the high school. The secretary to contact Miss Verner and enquire if she would accept a position on the high school staff and if unsuccessful to advertise.

Principal Breckon reported 128 students enrolled in high school.

Rev. H. J. Farrell Returns This Week

MARMORA, Sept. 14—(ENS)—Most Reverend J. A. O'Sullivan, DD, Archbishop of Kingston, accompanied by Rev. Father Walsh, also of Kingston, were week-end guests of Rev. R. C. Pickett on Sunday. Father Pickett bade farewell to the parishioners of Sacred Heart Church and will return to Ottawa this week. He was presented with a gift of money by the parishioners for which he expressed his appreciation and thanks. Rev. H. J. Farrell, parish priest, is expected to arrive home from Ireland in the course of this week.

Men In Choir Get New Gowns

HAVELOCK, Sept. 14—(ENS)—The senior choir of Havelock United Church started its fall activities with a pot luck supper in the school room of the church on Friday evening.

James Watson presided for a business session when it was decided that each member would contribute a small fee each month—toward a flower fund to be used when there is sickness among the members. Miss Joyce Agnew was appointed treasurer for this fund.

Choir gowns have been obtained for the men who wore them for the first time on Sunday.

A practice under the direction of Mrs. R. Campney organist and leader followed the supper.

Date For Bazaar Set At Bethany

BETHANY, Sept. 14—(ENS)—The first autumn meeting of St. Paul's Women's Association was held at the home of Mrs. Alex Sinclair on Thursday with an attendance of 18, Mrs. J. J. Hamilton presiding.

Mrs. Gault gave a very interesting talk on the aims of the Council of Churches held at Amsterdam in August, at which the Dominion president, Mrs. Wodehouse was a delegate.

The date set for the annual bazaar to be held in the town hall is Nov. 20. Several finished articles for sale were turned in, also considerable cash was received for orders made and sold during the summer months.

Rev. T. S. Gault gave a short address and closed the meeting with prayer. A social hour followed, tea being served by the hostess and members of her group.

ASKING FOR TROUBLE

REGINA — Political leaders, both Federal and Provincial, will only be asking for trouble if they attempt to increase their popularity by favoring a wider-open sale of beer, wine and spirits, Rev. J. R. Mutchmor, Toronto, secretary of Evangelism and Social Service of the United church said.

CALVERT 1622 Famous Families YOUNG 1799

In 1818 John Young, Scottish immigrant, wrote "Letters of Agricola" to the press which were instrumental in stimulating agriculture in Nova Scotia. His two sons, Sir William and George Renny, lawyers and statesmen, were both members of the Executive Council and Speakers of the Assembly. George founded the newspaper "Nova Scotian" while Sir William became Premier of the Province and later Chief Justice, a position he held for twenty-one years. A notable record of a truly distinguished Canadian family.

Great Families Create Great Nations

Distinguished English Statesman and Secretary of State to King James I, Calvert, head of the famous Calvert family, founded pioneer colonies in Newfoundland and Maryland early in the 17th Century.

Calvert and his descendants encouraged their settlers to clear and cultivate their land. The Calvert family also introduced principles of freedom and tolerance, hitherto unknown in the New World. These Calvert ideals were perpetuated down through the succeeding generations of the Calvert family.

The family is the corner-stone upon which great nations are built. Let each of us promote within the great Canadian family, the same concepts of freedom and tolerance pioneered by the Calvert family over three hundred years ago.

The Calvert family promote land clearing and agriculture among their settlers.

Use Indian Parachutists In Hyderabad, Control All Northwest

No Opposition From Civil Authorities Encountered By Invaders; Lodge Protest With United Nations In Paris

NEW DELHI, Sept. 15 — (AP). — India threw parachute troops into the invasion of Hyderabad today and captured Homnabad, 84 miles from the capital. The drive was from the west. The second largest city of the princely state, Aurangabad, and its cantonment surrendered in the northwest, giving India virtually all that corner of the state, the Defence Ministry said.

India asserted when its troops struck into the south central state at dawn Monday that disorder was rife and the will of the people, 80 per cent. of whom are Hindus, was being thwarted.

(A Karachi dispatch said Hyderabad officials have not confirmed the loss of Aurangabad. Hyderabad advices reported stiff fighting on the border of Berar, which joins the state on the north. Hyderabad claimed 2,000 of its irregular troops repulsed an Indian attack near Hospet in the southwest.)

Indians striking toward the capital and Secunderabad from the east were said to have advanced three miles east of Suriapet to within 74 miles of their goal. Aircraft strafed the defenders. A military spokesman said no Hyderabad planes have been seen in battle, although the state has some.

A Defence Ministry spokesman announced the capture of Aurangabad and this was supported by field dispatches.

He declared Indain troops are encountering no opposition at all from civil authorities or the populace anywhere in Hyderabad. About 80 per cent of the 16,000,000 residents of Hyderabad are Hindus. They are ruled by the Moslem Nizam who has steadily resisted all efforts to bring his state into the Hindu Indian Union.

The United Nations Security Council has been called to meet tomorrow to study the swift march of events in Hyderabad. Nawab Moin Nawaz Jung, Hyderabad's foreign minister, arrived in London Tuesday night on his way to Paris to back up Hyderabad's protests. He declared the Indian attack on his state was

Tighten Rules For Charitable Tax-Free Gifts

OTTAWA, Sept. 15 — (CP). — Tightening of regulations governing income tax allowances for charitable donations was disclosed Tuesday by the Revenue Department.

Several types of contributions, previously regarded as deductible from taxable income, now will not be eligible for this concession.

Main changes are in the regulations dealing with donations for "purposes beneficial to the community," in which allowable deductions are narrowed down to contributions to projects that benefit all members of the community.

No changes are made in regulations permitting deductions for gifts for the relief of poverty or the advancement of religion or education, when made through recognized agencies.

In all cases, the deductible amount remains the same—up to 10 per cent. of an individual's taxable income and five per cent. of corporation's taxable income.

Under the new set-up, tax reductions will not be allowed when gifts go to:

1. Projects not used for the general benefit of community or which are restricted to seletced groups.
2. Organizations formed by individuals for a particular purpose peculiar to them.
3. Organizations whose purposes are fraternal, benevolent or patriotic of which advocate political action.
4. Organizations in which any members make profits.

War Bride Given Week's Remand

LINDSAY, Sept. 15 — (CP)—Jean McAllister, 25-year-old Scottish war bride, was remanded today until Sept. 22 on a charge of murdering her husband, John McAllister, 30-year-old canal worker in a lonely backwoods cabin last Sept. 5. She did not appear in court.

McAllister was found in his cabin near Kirkfield, 40 miles northwest of Peterborough, bleeding profusely from pistol wounds. He died before he could be taken to hospital. Mrs. McAllister was arrested after spending the night wandering barefoot through the bush.

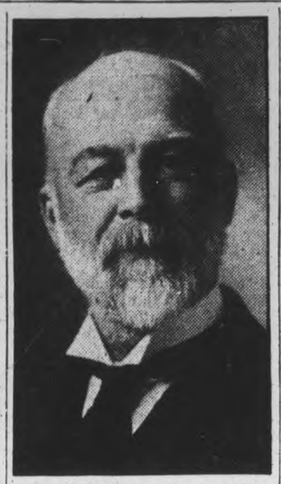
Russians Hand Over Two American Fliers

FRANKKFURT, Sept. 15.—(CP). — Two American airmen who parachuted into the Soviet zone of Germany are back safely today in the United States zone, the United States Air Force announced today. The two are Capt. Kenneth W. Slaker and Lieut. Clarence R. Steber. They bailed out over the Russian zone early yesterday when their plane developed engine trouble.

Steber was brought to Frankfurt by United States liaison officers.

Slaker, pilot of the transport, which was ferrying food from Wiesbaden to Berlin, was said to have been turned over to constabulary units of the Russian border shortly after midnight. He was flown to Wiesbaden.

Officials said Slaker suffered a minor back sprain in jumping from the plane after it developed engine trouble.



H. B. RYE, one-time warden of the county, and reeve of North Monaghan for eight years, died at his home today at age 74. This picture was taken several years ago, when he was warden of the county. For many years he operated a boat-building and boat livery at the foot of Lock St.

Begin Inquest Into Drowning Of Religious Girl

PALMER RAPIDS, Ont., Sept. 15—(CP)—District farmers gathered in this tiny farming community today for the opening of an inquest into the death of 18-year-old Violet Goglin, who waded to her death in the nearby Madawaska River Aug. 29 to the call "of the Holy Spirit."

Aimed at probing the circumstances surrounding the girl's death, the inquest opens this afternoon with Dr. J. Reeves, district coroner, in charge and H. B. Johnson, K.C., Renfrew County Crown Prosecutor, questioning witnesses.

It was expected the questioning would embrace all members of the girl's family, who live on a farm not far from this Eastern Ontario town which lies 40 miles southwest of Pembroke.

One of the principal witnesses will be Henry Goglin, the girl's father and founder of the deep-rooted family religion known as "Jesus" which led her to her to her death in a religious frenzy.

The girl, said by the family to have been "called by the Holy Spirit," walked out into the river in the early hours of Aug. 29 while her 23-year-old sister, Viola, watched from the shore. The body later was recovered and buried on a hillside on the Goglin farm.

The father later told reporters the family was not sorrowful about the girl's death. His daughter had been called by God, a fact which those who had not been "saved" would not understand.

There are 10 other children in the family.

ILLEGAL TRANSACTION

HAMILTON, Sept. 15 (CP) — Illegal income tax transactions of far greater scope than the three for which Henry Breakell is at present standing trial were alleged when Harvey McCulloch, the crown attorney questioned Victor Nathanson, a witness and admitted accomplice of Breakell, this morning before Judge W. F. Schwenger.

US Sending 40 Planes To Bolster Airlift

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP) —The United States Air Force is sending about 40 more C-54 four-engine cargo planes to Germany to reinforce the 105 C-54s flying the airlift to Soviet-blocaded Berlin.

The planes, now going over, will use expanded airport facilities which have been constructed to handle the task of supplying Berlin.

The air force said it will continue to meet such requirements as may be laid down by Gen. Lucius Clay, United States Military Governor, during the coming months.

United Nations to Decide Fate of Italy's Colonies

PARIS, Sept. 15—(AP)—The problem of what to do about Italy's pre-war empire in Africa will go to the United Nations for decision.

Representatives of Britain, Russia, the United States and France wrangled over the question until 3 o'clock this morning, but agreed on only one thing: that they could not agree.

By the terms of the Italian peace treaty, signed a year ago today, the problem now passes to the U. N. Assembly, which convenes here next Tuesday. The veto does not apply there.

In two days of conferences, the Big-Four delegates, summoned to consider the future of Eritrea, Libya and Somaliland, spent most of their time arguing about whether they had the necessary authority to do anything. Russia said they hadn't because only France had a foreign minister present.

When they did get down to the question at hand, Russia demanded that all three colonies be placed under International trusteeship. The Western powers said no, then got together on a proposal to put Somaliland under Italian trusteeship. Russia blocked that.

In Washington, the State Department announced the United States is backing a British proposal to turn over Cirenaica, one of Libya's three provinces, to Britain, under U. N. trusteeship, until independence can be achieved.

The Russian proposal for International Trusteeship for the three colonies constituted an abrupt shift. Earlier, the Soviet Union had come out for putting them under Italian trusteeship. Vishinsky shifted course in the middle of an argument Tuesday.

Until the question is decided, the colonies will remain under British and French administration.

Harold B. Rye Ex-Warden Dies Aged 74

Outstanding Leader In Municipal Affairs; Ex-Monaghan Reeve

Lewes Harold Brooke Rye, retired boat builder and a former Warden of Peterborough county, representing North Monaghan township, died this emorning at his home on River Road, Otonabee, after a long illness. He was 74.

"He was the best versed man in municipal affairs in this county," Reeve Melville H. Johnson of North Monaghan said today in a summarizing tribute to the ability of Mr. Rye as a public trustee of the interest of his township and county ratepayers. In his many associations within the city and county he became widely known, and for years was one of the outstanding citizens of the urban and rural sections of Peterborough.

H. B. Rye, as he was familiarly known, personified the growth of suburban Monaghan, all that area that has been recenly annexed by the city. Some thirty years ago Peterborough began slowly to overflow into the adjoining parts of the township, particularly south of Lansdowne St. and east of the river as far as the neighborhood of May's School and Erskine Ave., and, on the west side. through Byersville and beyond High St., south of the Peterborough-Port Hope Highway.

The suburban residents, growing in numbers, began to identify themselves as a definite community, most of its people working in the city but with their homes in the township.

The township council had been of rural complexion and membership for more than a cenury. At one time its meetings were held in the old town hall, a building east of Scott's Corners, and a community centre. But, as the suburban section expanded, its people became a compact group in the township demanding local improvements such as sidewalks, better roads, street lighting and finally water service and sewers. They found an energetic leader in H. B. Rye, and the municipal cleavage finally developed into the elections of 1917 when Mr. Rye as reeve and Joseph H. Bell as deputy-reeve defeated the late John McIntosh and William Robson. Mr. Rye was previously a councillor in 1915-16.

Rivalry Lasted 15 Years

The Rye-McIntosh rivalry continued for fifteen years or more through that equivocal period when suburban Monaghan was both urban aid rural. The older residents will remember the strenuous elections against the suburbanites, with slowly increasing dominance in the city's fringe.

H. B Rye was thorough-going in all his affairs, and that facet of his character was shown in the study he made of the Ontario Municipal Act, the law book of councillors, and the sanctions of their policies and performances. While others might take it for

Search Covers 22,000 Miles

WINNIPEG, Sept. 15 (CP) — One of Western Canada's most extensive aerial searches is in full swing today, with 28 aircraft pursuing an ever-widening course through Northern Manitoba's chill September skies in search of a missing United States navy plane.

When darkness halted the search on Tuesday night, 48 hours after the alarm had been sounded, RCAF officials estimated search planes had covered approximately 22,000 miles over the Lake-studded, heavily-treed northern Manitoba hinterland.

RCAF officials said 200 persons now are taking an active part in the search, with approximately 100 others being involved indirectly.

The two naval officers aboard the missing plane arrived at Churchill late last week aboard the Canadian destroyers Naida and Nootka, whose arrival at the northern port made history.

4,500 Strikers Rush Offices, 95 Police Hurt

PARIS, Sept. 15 (AP) — A strike crowd of 4,500 rushed the National Aviation offices in central Paris today and injured 95 policemen in rioting.

An estimated 2,500 of the crowd were workers of the Nationalized Aviation industry, denouncing recent layoffs of workers from the government payroll. Another 2,000 strikers from the nationalized Renault Auto plant joined them.

They threw paving stones and bars of iron grillwork at the police, who fought back with night sticks and fists. About 2,000 Paris police and two squads of mobile guards fought off the strikers on the Boulevard Hausmann. The riot flared for two hours, subsided and then was renewed.

Members of the Communist-led Confederation Generale Du Travail at the same time organized a demonstration at Bullancourt to demand a minimum monthly wage of 13,500 francs (40).

Protest Layoff

Employees of the aviation plant struck this morning, protesting the recent layoff of workers from the government payrolls. The French aviation industry is nationalized.

Some 31,000 workers of the Renault Motor plant also voted to go out this afternoon.

Strikers tore up the iron grillwork around trunks of trees lining the sidewalks, broke the bars up and used the pieces as missiles to hurl at police. The strikers littered the street with paving stones and pieces of iron.

About 30 strikers were severely injured. Some 15 police were taken to hospital, police reported.

Prime Minister King Sails For Europe

NEW YORK, Sept. 15—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King sailed early today aboard the liner Queen Mary on his way to head the Canadian delegation to the General Assembly of the United Nations which opens in Paris Sept. 21.

The Canadian leader boarded the liner Tuesday night and retired early. He said he had had a busy day and declined to be interviewed. The Queen Mary sailed with the morning tide.

Also aboard was Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, commander of the 2nd Canadian Corps during the war. He is returning to his post as senior army instructor at the Imperial Defence College, a post he fills while on loan to the British army.

May Suddenly Cut Power Cities Not Saving Enough

TORONTO, Sept. 15 — (CP). — Chairman Robert H. Saunders of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, said today the commission may be faced during the day with "the possibility of introducing more stringent restrictions and asking municipalities to suddenly reduce loads."

Despite yesterday's "ideal" weather conditions, the commission had to reduce consumption by 2,700,000 kilowatt hours, affecting nearly a dozen southern Ontario industries.

Mr. Saunders said Hydro engineers are trying to determine the reason for the sharp increase in power demand Tuesday despite bright weather. He said it may have been due to "an exceptionally heavy ironing load" and asked housewives to refrain from ironing on Tuesdays.

Not Fooling

"This is really a very serious situation," he said. "We are not minimizing it and we want the people to know the facts. We must have all-out voluntary saving, or we will be compelled to take very drastic steps in cutting power."

Preliminary reports indicated power-saving restrictions which went into force at midnight last night had been well observed.

"But, unfortunately, the restrictions are not enough to give us the required saving."

Mr. Saunders did a little checking for himself on the commission's power restriction program.

Driving along Toronto's St. Clair Avenue and Yonge Street Tuesday night he took a list of the names of stores "which are obviously breaking the restrictive regulations." Mr. Saunders said there would be a warning sent to the stores today, "but next time we'll simply have to prosecute."

Grand Jury Frees Police Constable

TORONTO, Sept. 15 (CP)—A Grand Jury Tuesday freed Toronto police constable Floyd Neuen, who was charged with manslaughter in the fatal shooting of Charles McMahon. McMahon died nine days after he was wounded in a police chase.

The Grand Jury found there was not sufficient evidence to place Constable Neuen on trial, and returned a verdict of no bill.

McMahon, who had a police record, knocked Neuen down and was chased through a hotel and into a lane after he had been caught attempting to break into a parked automobile.

Hay Fever Starts Five-Acre Blaze

OSHAWA, Sept. 15 (CP)—Mrs. A. W. Kaytor's hay fever started a fire Tuesday at nearby Harmony which burned more than five acres of bushland.

Mrs. Kaytor's asked her husband to burn the ragweed in the back of their lot to remove the cause of her affliction. The fire got out of control and ran across several fields before the Oshawa fire department and a volunteer bucket brigade got it out.

Russ Troops Provoked Riot Britain Answers Attack

BERLIN, Sept. 15—(AP)—Britain charged today Russian troops provoked German anti-Communists into the rioting last Thursday which resulted in street fighting at the Brandenburg Gate.

The statement by an official British military government spokesman rejected an accusation by the Russian Commandant, Maj.-Gen. Alexander Kotikov, that inactivity of British military police encouraged "Fascist provocateurs" to attack Russian soldiers and the Soviet war memorial.

(A British spokesman said the only shots fired near the Soviet war memorial, which is in the British sector of Berlin, were by Soviet soldiers "who became apprehensive of the somewhat unfriendly attitude of the crowd," Reuters reported.

("Gen. Kotikov complains of the 'inactivity of the British military police' when he should be supremely grateful to them for protecting his troops and preventing their firing on the crowd.")

Britain told Kotikov he had his facts wrong and is guilty of a "piece of calculated self-inflation."

"Dishonor Monument"

Kotikov's letter, directed to the British commandant, Maj.-Gen. E. O. Herbert, charged that "criminal elements dishonored the monument in honor of Soviet soldiers who died in the struggles for Berlin."

"This took place after an anti-Democratic demonstration which you permitted, in the presence of units of British military police and German police of the British sector of Berlin," the letter declared.

Stalin Policy Against West To Be Halted

Indian Invasion Called Act Of Aggression Completely Unjustified

LONDON, Sept. 15 — (CP). — Foreign Secretary Bevin said today in the Commons that Britain and the Commonwealth are prepared to use the "maximum of our resources to stamp out the Communist policy of stirring up civil war as now exemplified in Malaya."

He said the Communist aim is to "try to drive every western association out of that territory in trade and everything else."

"Speaking for Britain and the Commonwealth we are now seized with the effects of this policy and wherever it rears its ugly head we shall do our best to stamp it out, using the maximum of our resources to do it," he added during the throne speech debate.

Earlier, Anthony Eden, deputy Conservative leader, accused India of an act of aggression in her invasion of Hyderabad.

He said it was "beyond dispute" that the Dominion of India by the invasion committed a "flagrant and inexcusable breach of their own agreement with Hyderabad."

"Whatever the rights or wrongs may have been in the earlier stages of this dispute . . . it does seem impossible for us to come to any other conclusion than that the invasion of Hyderabad by the armies and air forces of the Dominion of India is in fact an act of aggression."

No Justification

Neither the British government nor the government of India could possibly accept that there can be any justification in the circumstances for a resort of force.

"Unless this deplorable situation can be brought to an end it may well lead, I fear, to a renewal of that communal strife which shocked the world a little over a year ago.

"I have no doubt that we should do everything in our power to invoke the assistance of the United Nations. This was precisely what Mr. Churchill (opposition leaders Winston Churchill) asked for six weeks ago."

"If U.N. acts quickly and acts with authority it will not only do a considerable service to its own reputation but will perhaps save

40 U.S. Citizens Killed In Wreck

SEOUL, Sept. 15 —(AP)—The United States army reported today 40 Americans were killed and nearly 60 injured in a train wreck 75 miles south of this Korean city Monday night. The wreck occurred when a passenger train plowed into the rear of another train about 15 miles north of Taejon.

NANKING, Sept. 15 —(AP)—A Communist railroad mine Tuesday night blew up a Pukow-bound train 90 miles northwest of Nanking, killing at least 100 persons.

Railroad officials said the mine was planted near Penpu and that the locomotive and the first car of the train were destroyed completely.

Campbellford Boy Struck By Truck

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 15 — (Special) — Five-year-old Kenneth Flint, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Flint, Greer St., Campbellford, is in Belleville General Hospital today following an accident Tuesday afternoon when his tricycle ran under the rear of a truck. Although there had been fear of serious internal injuries, the boy's condition has been reported as "good" and it is expected he will be discharged today.

Driver of the truck was Samuel MacDonald, Campbellford. The accident happened at the bottom of a hill. The boy has been coasting down the hill on the tricycle and was struck by the truck as it was making a right-hand turn. Taken to Dr. R. S. Jolliffe, he was sent to Belleville for further treatment.

Big Increase Predicted In '48 Wheat

50,000 Bus. Over 1947 Harvest; Other Crops Excellent

OTTAWA, Sept. 15 — (CP). — A 1948 wheat crop of 391,000,000 bushels — more than 50,000,000 bushels over the harvest of 1947—has been forecast by the Bureau of Statistics.

The forecast was made Tuesday in the Bureau's second estimate of Canada's field crops. The first estimate, made August 17, placed the wheat crop at 372,000,000 bushels, and the Bureau attributed the larger prospects to exceptionally good maturing and harvest weather during August.

The wheat estimate includes 362,661,000 bushels of spring wheat, produced mainly on the three Prairie Provinces, and 28,331,000 bushels of winter wheat, which comes mostly from Ontario.

The enhanced crop prospects, which mean more money in the pockets of Canadian farmers, included estimates that the oats crop would total 361,728,000 bushels compared with 282,714,000 last year, barley 157,123,000 bushels against 141,451,000, rye 26,608,000 against 13,217,000, and flaxseed 17,748,000 against 12,240,800.

Rye Crop

The estimated rye crop included 20,651,000 bushels of fall rye and 5,957,000 from spring production.

Production of the five leading grains on the Prairies follows, with 1947 totals in brackets:

Three provinces—Wheat 358,000,000 (319,000,000); oats, 225,000,000 (194,000,000); barley 144,000,000 (131,000,000); rye 23,600,000 (11,630,000); flaxseed 17,000,000 (11,550,000).

Wheat 16.2 (11.4); oats 32.3 (25.2); barley 24.2 (18.9); rye 12.7 (11.4); dry peas 19.9 (14.0); dry beans 18.7 (15.0); soy beans 21.0 (18.2); buckwheat 23.1 (17.9); mixed grains 40.6 (30.4); flaxseed 9.2 (7.8); shelled corn 61.0 (37.9).

NED VITARELLI, prominent city athlete, won the championship of the Kawartha Golf and Country Club this year. He defeated Fraser Dunfield, a former champion, in a close match.

Ned Vitarelli Wins Title At Kawartha

Ned Vitarelli finished one up on Fraser Dunfield to win the 1948 championship of the Kawartha Golf and Country Club. Steadily improving his golf the last three years, Vitarelli—hockey and lacrosse star—devoted all his spare time to golf this year and succeeded in capturing the club crown. He played a consistently good game in the 36-hole titular match as Dunfield crowded him all the way in keen competition.

Fraser was two up on the first 18, and both had fours on the 36th, which gave Ned the edge one up. The latter came just eight inches from a hole-in-one on the ninth in the afternoon round, sinking it in two. The pair had a fair gallery in the morning and a good-sized crowd around them as they fought it out in the afternoon. Lex Robson, club pro, refereed the match. Dunfield has been in the finals four of the last six years and several times was club champion.

Youth Collapses During Murder Trial

PORT ARTHUR, Sept. 15 — (CP). — John Germaine, 20, of Fort William Tuesday collapsed on the witness stand during his assize court trial for the murder of his wife, Elsie, 21, when his mother was taken from the courtroom moaning and sobbing.

Mrs. Germaine later became hysterical in the courtroom corridor, screaming "my baby, my baby, I want to see my Johnny." She was taken to a nearby hospital.

A doctor attended Germaine after court had been adjourned by Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier. Germaine later returned to the courtroom but did not undergo further cross examination by the Crown.

The case is expected to go to the jury this afternoon.

Earlier, Germaine said his bride of a year struck her head during a scuffle which started when he awakened her to "kiss and make up."

No Other Memory

That is all he remembers of the fatal accident in their three-room apartment in neighboring Fort William early last July 20, he told an Ontario Supreme Court jury.

He and his wife had quarrelled the previous night. When he awakened her about 6 a.m. to "kiss and make up," he said, she jumped upright in the bed.

"I tried to grab her by the leg and pull her toward me and at the same time she fell and struck her head on the radiator."

Mrs. Germaine was dead when found by police. The body was covered to the chin with a bedspread. There were bruises about the head and throat. An autopsy disclosed she had been throttled.

Obituaries

GEORGE HALSTEAD

ROSENEATH, Sept. 15—(ENS). —Albert Halstead has received a message that a brother, George, died in Calgary hospital on September 8, after a lingering illness.

Mr. Halstead was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hargreaves Halstead, and was born in Haldimand township. He was about 66 years old, and went to Western Canada about 36 years ago. For some years he was a guide at Lake Louise. In later years he lived with a sister, Miss Ann Halstead, in Calgary. He is survived by three brothers: Albert of Roseneath, David of Alberta and Harry of Saskatchewan, and three sisters: Mrs. Thomas Davey of Hanna, Alberta, Mrs. Blanche Simmons of Chicago and Miss Ann Halstead of Calgary.

EDWARD W. SANDERSON

Edward Wellington Sanderson, 83, of 129 Rubidge St., died today following a lingering illness. He was born in Burleigh township near Apsley and during his earlier life was considered the most able woodsman in the north part of the county. His parents, the late Edward and Mary Sanderson, predeceased him and also his wife, the former Ellen McCauley.

He leaves one daughter, Mrs. R. W. Hill (Florence) and two sons, Rowland and Arnold, all of Peterborough. He came to live in Peterborough 39 years ago and until 1936 was employed by the De Laval Company as millwright. He was a member of All Saints' Anglican church and a charter member of LOL 1175, Peterborough.

Funeral service will be held at the Nisbett Funeral Home on Friday at 2.30 p.m. The Rev. W. E. Kibblewhite will officiate and burial will be at Lakefield Cemetery.

CLUCKING TRUCKING SERVICE

A truck from Bancroft—well, Maple Leaf, Ontario, which is next door — was taking on a load at the Beaver Lumber yard Tuesday afternoon. The lumber had to be piled carefully because the truck already had a crate of hens. David Grant, from Scotland, working in the office paid no attention to the loading operation until he heard a special kind of clucking coming from the back of the truck, the kind of noise a hen makes when it wants to crow. 'Scottie' knew that sound. He leaped from his stool, went to the back of the truck, put his hand through the bars of the hen-crate, gave a protesting hen a clout on the beak, and found not one but two strictly fresh eggs. The truck's driver who really had squatter's rights to the nuggets good-naturedly surrendered all claims —finder's keepers. 'Scottie's delight dropped ten degrees a few minutes later, for as the truck began to move off down George St. he heard another hen clucking. 'Scottie' is no sprinter.

granted that their municipal solicitors would guide them through the legalities of administration, H B. Rye digested the Act and equipped himself with its information and directives. And, so armed, he was a keen and capable critic at municipal nominations, and also defender of the courses of the councils of which he was reeve. If some people formed the opinion that Mr. Rye delighted in controversy, they missed his motives. He believed that public bodies should hew to the line not only in proper and economical use of taxpayers' money but also in adhering to municipal law. And he could quote chapter and verse when need be.

Those Rye-McIntosh elections in North Monaghan through the 1920's comprised an interesting chapter in the township's memories. Nearly every horse and cutter and car was mustered into the service of drawing voters. John McIntosh was doughty campaigner, and more than held his own in those battles at the polls, and finally was elected Warden of the county in 1933 for the second time. He was followed by Hy Wood as reeve in 1934 and 1935, and then by James Milby, signifying that the suburban community was in complete control of the township. Subsequent elections modified that feeling and ultimately Reevé M. H. Johnston won the confidence of both sections.

Mr. Rye was reeve and member of the county council in 1917, 1922, 1923 and one to 1926, when the late R. T. Lillico was elected head of the council. Rye returned in 1928 and 1929. Mr. McIntosh won the sharp campaign for 1930 and retained the reeveship until his retirement at the end of his second term as Warden.

Mr. Rye was born in New Zealand, son of Lewes Rye and his wife, Salina Brooke. He had lived in Peterborough 58 years. He was an expert boatbuilder, and conducted for many years the workshop and boat livery at the foot of Lock St. He invented a paddle-turning machine, produced thousands of them. It was destroyed in the fire that swept through the shop in 1942. He was long active in the Peterborough Conservative Association, and retained his several major interests through the years of his later retirement across the river to the Otonabee shore, here he enjoyed the pleasant home opposite the scene of his working years.

Mr. Rye leaves his wife, the former Aileen H. Robinson, three sons, Edmund H. B., Walter and Hubert Rye of Peterborough, and his sister, Mrs. J. E. Cornwall of Victoria, B.C. He was a member of All Saints Church. The funeral will be Friday at 2 p.m. from his late home to Little Lake Cemetery. The service will be conducted by Rev. W. H. Kibblewhite, assisted by Rev. E. C. Moore.

300 Workers Strike At Electric Company

TORONTO, Sept. 15 —(CP)— Some 300 employees of the Dominion Electric Protection Company went on strike shortly after midnight in four Canadian cities to enforce demands for a 15-cent hourly wage increase and a 40-hour week.

Members of the United Electrical Workers of America (CIO), they stopped work at Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton and London where the company provides burglar and fire alarm services to banks, jewelry stores, warehouses and other places of business. Six union men employed by the company at Ottawa have deferred strike action for a day.

Want Immediate Action

"I sincereily hope," he added, 'the Security Council will take immediate action to stop the aggression and thereby avoid the communal blood bath which is sure to follow in its wake."

Indian troops marching into Hyderabad in the southwest Tuesday captured Rajasur, 85 miles from Hyerabad city, about half way on the invasion route To the east, other Indian forces took Suriapet, 78 miles on the other side of the capital.

Hyderabad radio, heard in Karachi, said an Indian bomber flew over Hyderabad ctiy Tuesday but dropped no bombs.

An informed government source in New Delhi said the troops moving in from Scholapur, in the southwest, are expected to make Bidar their next objective. Bidar, about 75 miles north and west of Hyderabad, is reported to be the most powerful stronghold of the Razakars, a private Moslem volunteer army. Indian planes have bombed the town and its airfields

This informant said it was wrong to use such terms as "war, invasion or enemy operation" in referring to the actions in Hyderabad. What is going on, he said, is "mere police action on a wide scale."

Stop-Go Lights Approved For West End

Stop-and-go lights at the corner of Charlotte St. and Monaghan Road were recommended to the council in a motion by Ald. Raine and Ald. Waddell at a finance committee meeting Monday night.

Ald. Grant Miller said he had observed the traffic coming in Charlotte St. for half an hour Sunday night, and was alarmed by the general speed of cars at what had become a main intersection.

"Four of every five cars appeared to be doing 45 of 50 miles an hour," Ald. Miller told the committee, "and I think it is high time we did something for safety at that corner."

The committee was immediately receptive to the proposal. Ald. Miller suggested at least a "flasher" light, and discussion switched to part time point control by city police. Finally, it was decided to go the whole way of installing the stop-and-go lights.

"I don't know how some drivers ever got licenses," said Mayor Ovens. "You'd think some of the cars had jet propulsion."

Ald. Anglesey told the committee that the Junior Chamber of Commerce was making a general survey of traffic. His assignment Monday was at rush hour at Charlotte St. and Monaghan Rd. "and there was so much traffic and it was moving so fast that you couldn't count it all."

Fines Ineffective

"Fines don't appear to have much effect," Mayor Ovens remarked. "One day recently there were fifteen drivers fined, but it goes on just the same. I'm convinced that some people do not know that at stop streets the man on your right has the right of way. That is what it comes to at those streets. When a car is stopped by those signs, the fundamental rule should take effect, but I don't think a lot of people really know that rule."

Concern of the committee extended to Charlotte and Reid streets, Hunter and Aylmer streets and several other spots.

"And there are no stop signs at the Stewart St. intersections from Charlotte St. south to Townsend St., said Ald. Dodds. "Stewart St. has become a speedway."

"May be we ought to ask the legal committee to go into this whole matter once more," Mayor Ovens suggested.

Ald. Hugh Waddell said the diversion of heavy traffic by way of Lansdowne St. had not reached the volume expected.

"I understand that Department of Highway authorities are afraid of the two railways that cross that cut-off" he said. "There are no warning lights at the CNR."

It was decided to ask the Department to send one of its engineers back to Peterborough for consideration of the traffic on that secondary entrance to the city.

Signal lights have been placed at the CPR and there is a flasher at Park and Lansdowne Streets.

"The problem on Lansdowne St. is at the top of the hill where it joins No. 28 highway," Mayor Ovens explained. "Truck drivers have objected that when they reach the top of the west hill, they are slow in getting started again and cannot see traffic from the west coming over the highway hill just west of the junction of the two roads. That is definitely a traffic hazard to those trucks, and the only way it can be eliminated is by reducing the grade at that point on No. 28."

CLEANING FLUID BURNS

Firemen rushed to Shockey's Cleaners and Dyers shortly before 2 p.m. on Tuesday when a fire was reported in the laneway back of the store on Simcoe St. A black cloud of smoke was sighted by firemen as they rounded the corner of Aylmer and Simcoe Sts. and they thought they were in for a tough battle. The fire was believed caused by a lighted cigarette butt igniting some of the highly inflammable fluid contained in the sludge from the cleaning tanks. Garbagemen had just finished emptying the sludge buckets but some was spilled on the ground and this became ignited in some way. It was a case of much smoke and little fire. No damage resulted.

a vast area of the world's surface from untold suffering and human misery," Eden said.

The security council is due to take up the Hyderabad situation tomorrow in Paris.

A three-phase armament program was dropped before a shocked House of Commons Tuesday by Herbert Morrison, Deputy Prime Minister.

Morrison set forth his plan shortly after the opening of the 10-day special session, ostensibly called to pass a parliamentary bill curbing the power of the House of Lords and thus clear the way for nationalization of the iron and steel industry.

The world situation "gives cause for anxiety," Morrison said in his surprise statement. To meet it, Britain will slow down demobilization of its veteran troops, speed up recruiting of the armed forces, and accelerate improvement of air defence, armor and infantry weapons.

Production of jet fighter planes will be nearly doubled. An Air Ministry spokesman said Britain will send jets as fast as possible to all overseas stations and also to the other four members of the western European pact—France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Sentenced To Guelph

Orman Johnson, 48, of 122 Park St. found guilty of a charge of gross indecency involving an 18-year-old youth in city court today before Magistrate W. R. Philp. Accused was represented by W. J. A. Fair.

Johnson was sentenced to one year definite and four months indefinite at Guelph Reformatory.

WINDOWS ABLAZE

At ten o'clock, Tuesday night seven store windows on George street between Hunter and Simcoe were ablaze with lights, as the owners either ignored or forgot the dim-out orders. Police at that time had not been given any instructions on enforcing the hydro regulation calling for a reduction in the amount of electricity being used. The order was effective at midnight Monday night.

Beanery Gang Leader, 2 Pals Sent To Jail

TORONTO, Sept. 15 — (CP). — William Porter, 19, acknowledged leader of Toronto's ill-famed Beanery Gang, Tuesday was sentenced to one year when he appeared in suburban Islington Magistrate's Court.

Porter earlier had pleaded guilty to taking an automobile without the owner's consent and had been convicted on a charge of receiving stolen goods.

Sentenced with him to six months definite and six months interminate on the same charge were two other youths who, police said, were also members of the notorious gang of teen-aged hoodlums. They were Kenneth Ivey, 19, and Ronald Russell, 18. Their girl friends, dressed in black, witnessed the trial.

The trio was picked up in a stolen car on Aug. 27, and in their possession were a wallet, cigaret lighter and fountain pen which had been stolen. The car was taken from Islington.

As sentence was passed, Porter's mother exchanged glances with a white-haired clergyman who was sitting in the court room, but neither made any attempt to speak on his behalf.

Industrials Continue In Strong Tone

TORONTO, Sept. 15—(CP). — Industrials continued Tuesday's stronger tone, advancing on scattered fractional gains on the Stock Exchange here today. Base metals were also firmer, while golds and western oils held steady as trading slowed down.

Papers led the advance in industrials as losses ranged up to more than a point. Steel of Canada paced a stronger steels group, advancing 1½.

Senior golds advanced narrowly while trading was very quiet in the weaker juniors. Lamaque rose 23 cents and Kerr Addison and Dome firmed. Malartic, Macassa, Kirkland Lake, East Malartic and Cochenour dipped 1 to 5 cents in the second list.

Base metals moved ahead at a slower pace than Tuesday but continued to show a majority of good gains. Consolidated Smelters was ⅝ better and Falconbridge advanced 15 cents. International Nickel, Pend Oreille, Sherritt and East Sullivan also strengthened.

Home Oil rose 25 cents in a lethargic western oils list. Anglo-Canadian, Calgary and Edmonton, Roxana and Pacific Petroleum weakened.

Walk Out On Meeting

GENEVA, Sept. 15 (Reuters)— British, French and Belgian delegates Tuesday walked out of the United Nations special 16-member committee on non-self-governing territories as a protest against a speech by the Russian delegate. They returned after the Russian had ended his speech. R. Garreau of France was the first to leave the meeting after A. G. Gulagenkov made a personal attack an him.

Minister Takes Rap At United Nations Action Want Prayers, But Not Willing To Pray

TORONTO, Sept. 15. — The United Nations got a slap across the wrist yesterday from Rev. J. B. Paulin of Rosedale Presbyterian Church, after Atrhur H. Maybee, director of the United Nations Association had asked the Toronto Presbytery to make some reference to the United Nations on October 24, the day before the United Nations Day.

"Wait a minute," said Dr. Paulin "This may be a good idea, but why is it people only come to us when they are in trouble?"

He noted that "apparently the United Nations Assembly doesn't recognize God," and that prayers had never been held at any of the sessions, He feit this would be a good time for the church to 'get its own back" and make the United Nations recognize God.

No action was taken, but Mr. Maybee's suggestion went into the minutes.

Amazed At Food Supp...

COBOURG, Sept. 15 (ENS). — Northumberland County was visited recently by Eric Mortensen, who represents Denmark on the United Nations food organizations. He is living at present in Washington and in his visit to Northumberland County he was keenly interested in food supplies, particularly in regard to those things which could be readily shipped overseas. He spent part of a day with Ralph Banbury, Northumberland County agricultural representative and visited the co-operative cold storage plant where some 12 carloads of eggs are now being graded for shipment overseas.

He watched with interest the girls candling the eggs and commented that in a land of plenty such as Canada, it was hard to realize the feeling he had in seeing large quantities of good food being prepared for hungry people. To much of Europe, an egg is valued by a child in the same class as an ice-cream cone or a chocolate bar is by a Canadian child, Mr. Mortensen said.

Mr. Banbury said that his visitor speaks English fluently, and is an authority on Danish agriculture. They visited Harry Siretti's apple orchards where apple production and marketing were discussed.

Alfred Braithwaite Dies At Roseneath

ROSENEATH, Sept. 15—(ENS)—Death came suddenly to Alfred Braithwaite, Roseneath, on Sunday, Sept. 12, at the family residence(due to heart trouble.

Mr. Braithwaite was 72 years old, a son of the late Joseph Braithwaite and his wife, Mary Millar, and was born and lived all his life on the farm where he died. He was well and widely known, a prominent farmer and highly esteemed citizen, a member of Roseneath United Church and a former member of the board of stewards. He was a member of St. John's Lodge AF & AM, Cobourg, No. 17, and a member of the board of directors of Roseneath Agricultural Society. He was also a former members of Alnwick township council.

Mr. Braithwaite is survived by his wife, the former Alberta George, one son Albert at home, and one daughter, Mrs. Clark (Mary), Roseneath.

Among the many flowers that banked the casket, were floral tributes from Mr. Braithwaite's Masonic brethren; Roseneath Agricultural Society; United Church WA and Roseneath Women's Institute.

The service was conducted by Rev. R. C. White of Roseneath United Church. He stressed the sincerity and other christian characteristics of Mr. Braithwaite.

Following the burial service conducted by Mr. White, Mr. Braithwaite was accorded full Masonic rites by his Masonic brethren, conducted by Wor. Master Keith Caldwell and Chaplain G. Gummow.—

Brethren from Hastings lodge attended the service. Burial was made in Centenary Cemetery.

The pall bearers were James L. Timlin, Charles Sandercock, Albert Halstead, Norman Sherwin, Flex McMillan of Roseneath and Gordon Parker of Norwood.

The flower bearers were nephews of the family, Edgar Braithwaite, Earl Braithwaite, Arthur Braithwaite, Earl George, Verne George, Donald Sherwin, Elmer Sherwin, Neil George, Cloyse Varcoe, John Gordon and Hilton Jewell.

Business in Britain Good Top Prices Paid For Goods

By HON. W. RUPERT DAVIES

SEPT. 15—I find business in Britain very good. There is, so I am told, some slackening off in the buying of certain lines. But on the other hand, the government has taken a lot of goods off "points" and housewives are replenishing such things as towels, dusters, tea cloths, etc. Then, too, there is freer buying of furniture. Except for used furniture, however, the furniture stores are still full of what is called "utility furniture." There is apparently no scarcity of money for luxury goods among the wealthier classes, despite the recent capital levy. I dropped in to see an old friend of mine the other day, who is in the antique business in quite a big way. He handles only the choicest things, and nothing later than the Four Georges and William IV. Victorian furniture does not interest him. He was telling me the other day that he had had a very good week. That morning he had sold to one gentleman from Devonshire, a Queen Anne wing chair for £235 and a Georgian secretaire and bookcase for £550. Another man the day before had bought a mahogany, Georgian breakfront bookcase for £625, and an inlaid table, quite small, for £300. If one wants genuine antiques in Britain one still has to pay a very high price. My friend told me that two weeks ago he went to a sale. There was a set of very fine Chippendale chairs which he wanted. It was a set of six diners. He went as high as £225 per chair, but he was outbid by a lady who wanted them for her own home. £1,350 for six chairs! I expect they dined off pheasant and hothouse grapes.

Big business seems to be very prosperous judging from the financial pages of the daily papers. Saturday's Manchester Guardian, the leading paper of the north under the heading of "Company Affairs", listed the following dividends just paid by a number of companies: Whitworth and Mitchell, manufacturers of cotton and rayon fabrics, held down their dividend at the government's request to 12½ per cent; Charles Roberts and Co., maintained their dividend at 30 per cent; the Harry Green Co., 30 per cent; the Second Alliance Trust Co., 24 per cent; United Indigo, 12½ per cent; Joseph Hoyle and Son, 17½ per cent; British Oil Shipping, 20 per cent; Thos. C. Wild and Sons, 20 per cent. People who have their money invested in British Industries are apparently doing all right. According to the financial pages the stocks of most of these companies are very widely held, in one company 12,000 shareholders had less than 1,000 pounds each.

British Detectives Thorough

I was interested in the startling Blackburn murder case a week ago, for one reason. Recently, an American magazine published an article belittling Scotland Yard, the famous home of Britain's national detective service. The article claimed that Scotland Yard was slow and all their big cases that had been solved, had been due to luck and pressure from outside. In the Blackburn murder case, a little child of three had been stolen about 1 a.m. from her hospital bed where she was sleeping. There were five other children in the room. All the detectives had to go by were a set of finger-prints on a bottle in the hospital room, and two marks of sock feet. But they got their man. They fingerprinted every male resident of Blackburn, 42,000 of them. British detectives may be slow, but they are thorough.

There is talk of an increase in the petrol ration. It is now limited to 90 miles per month. Visitors, however, are treated generously. If a visitor brings his own car, he gets petrol for 1,000 miles the first month, and 300 each the second and third. In addition he is given petrol from the port of landing to the farthest place he will visit while over. Even the 90 miles per month has brought many more cars on to the roads. They can now be on the roads legitimately. Whether they get all their petrol legitimately is another matter.

Socialist Chances Good

There are always two topics of conversation, wherever two or three are gathered together: Food rationing, and the chances of getting the Socialist government out at the next election. In the large cities I have discovered that the food ration is difficult. In the smaller it is nearly always augmented from somewhere or other. Then, too, I have discovered that parcels arrive continually from the United States, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa as well as from Denmark. —ordered abroad. Meat, cheese, butter and shortening are the greatest problems. But everyone seems to agree that rationing is the fairest way. If the food were not rationed the rich would live well and the poor would starve. As to the Socialist chances in the next election I still think they are good, but not as good as they were a year ago. There is far more criticism of the government heard from "the man in the street". A recent canvass of the electorate, which I was shown the other day, shows:

	1945 Election	May 1946	Nov 1947	Today
Conservatives	39	39	44	48
Labor	49	45	40	40
Liberal	9	13	11	9
Other	3	3	5	3

But anything can happen in the next two years. The Conservatives and Liberals are working very hard, organizing, but Labor still starts off with the huge Trade Union vote.

Housing Project To Be Discussed

LINDSAY, Sept. 15. —Further detaails of a new housing project for Lindsay were brought by Ald. Burrows before a special council meeting.

He said that a number of people had been in touch with him concerning this new project which was placed before the previous meeting by Reeve McFadden and he said that everyone wanted to know more details of the scheme.

The Reeve said the scheme is sponsored by Central Housing and Mortgage Corporation. As far as he knew, he said, the town approves of the site and a contractor submits a price on the houses. People are then given the option of buying them with as low as $700 deposit on a $7,000 house.

Central Housing and Mortgage take over a mortgage of 80 per cent and 50 per cent of the remainder is taken over by the Provincial government at rates of percent respectively.
interest of 4½ per cent. and 3½

Ald. Burrows saaid that would mean monthly payments of around $35 without taxes. He continued that he would like to see the project brought into being in Lindsay, for he said that with the new Visking plant coming in, there would be a greater demand for houses.

If the houses are built and no one wishes to buy them the Central House and Mortgage Co. take them over at a lower figure but at a figure which will cover the builder's outlay.

It was agreed by council that the Central Housing and Mortgage representative should come to Lindsay to discuss the matter.

$9,000 New Fire Gear Purchased By Lindsay

LINDSAY, Sept. 15.—Lindsay is to have new fire fighting equipment, including a new truck at the total cost of $9,189.50. This was decided at a special meeting of Council.

The equipment besides having an aerial ladder, has a 440-gallon tank with a pressure motor and spare aluminum ladders and hoses. This pressure motor cost $1,000 extra, but as it eventually would be needed it was included.

The new equipment will arrive in Lindsay in about four months. The present truck can be sold, as will the old ladder truck.

Ottawa Man Killed Near Bowmanville

BOWMANVILLE, Sept. 15 — (Special)—Alvin B. Cowan, 55, of 124 Glen Ave., Ottawa, was killed about 9 p.m. Tuesday three miles east of Bowmanville on No. 2 Highway.

The man had been driving a motor-bicycle along the highway and was in collision with a truck driven by Howard Peskey, 102 Dawes Rd., Toronto. He died almost immediately.

Provincial Constable R. Kowal of Bowmanville investigated.

After 21 Years Service To Lindsay Police Chief Will Not Receive Pension

LINDSAY, Sept. 15 — Police Chief Lawler is not to get a pension, although his resignation was accepted by council at a special meeting Monday night. It was decided that he should get three months leave from the end of September will full salary and the next three months one half salary.

Chairman of Police Garbig said that there should be some form of allowance made for the Chief after having given the town 21 years of service. He suggested a $1,000 pension per year.

Reeve McFadden had copies of pensions that had been paid to Kingston officers before him and he said that he thought the chief should get around $450 per year. Chairman Garbig said that at the very least the Chief should get in the region of $850.

He continued, "You must remember the chief has been here for 21 years. It is unfortunate that we have not a pension plan here and it would be a good idea to get one."

Deputy-Reeve Nesbitt pointed out that the chief started here at the age of 35 and had been here for the 21 years.

For that service he said, "The chief ought to get in neighborhood of $1,000. Peterborough has no pension plan, but their chief, when he retired got $1,200."

Ald. Speers said that the chief of Peterborough police, when he retired received half his salary for three years and then he was through, and continued to say. "If we start giving pensions we are getting ourselves into something. I can think of two right now that will be coming into the running for a pension within the next year or so, if the chief is paid one."

Mr. Garbig said that he thought the least the council could do was give the chief an allowance or six months leave on pay in lieu of the allowance.

Ald. Burrows said, "I have spent a hot day at home receiving 14 phone calls, three personal calls and two street contacts who are all after me, as their representative, to say "no" to the matter of a pension for the chief. The chief is only 57 now and could last another 20 years, which at a $1,000 per year would saddle the town with a lot of money." He went on to say that one lady had suggested a vote.

A motion was placed before the council by Reeve McFadden that the chief be given three months full pay and three months half pay following the 30th of September.

An amended motion was placed by Ald. Garbig that the chief should receive six months full pay.

A vote was taken which showed six for the motion and two for the amendment.

The present police sergeant, R. F. Hargrave is to take over the position of acting Chief of Police until the end of the year.

BORDERLINE ANEMIA*
can put ugly, tired lines on your face!

So many young girls watch the fresh color and beauty fade from their faces—wonder why tired, unflattering lines appear. They should know that such effects can come from a blood condition. If you have them, you may have a Borderline Anemia, a mild anemia due to a nutritional deficiency of iron. Your red blood cells may be shrunken and faded—too weak to transmit full energy to your body. Many people—women, men and children—go dragging through life with this tiring Borderline Anemia.

How Ironized Yeast Tablets Build Up Your Blood and Vigor

So, if your healthy good looks and "pep" are waning—and this common blood condition's to blame, take Ironized Yeast Tablets. They are formulated to help build up faded red blood cells to healthy color and size. Of course, continuing tiredness and pallor may be due to other conditions—so consult your doctor regularly. But in a Borderline Anemia, take Ironized Yeast Tablets to help build up your blood. Take them to start your energy shifting back into "high"—to help restore your color. Take them so you can enjoy life again!

What Makes Peterborough Grow?

The other side of the question: "What makes Peterborough grow?" is "What makes Peterborough stand still?" That is a more obvious question, for the city has had a phenomenally slow growth and for long periods has drearily stood still, for instance from 1875 to 1882 (7,000 population); from 1893 to 1901 (11,000); from 1919 to 1933 (22,000). However, since the city is now growing we shall deal with the brighter question —what makes the city grow?

• • •

The prime reason why any city grows is that it offers opportunity for steady employment. That comes chiefly from an influx of manufacturing capital. The first period of our growth as an incorporated town was from 1868 to 1875, when the population grew from 4,620 to 7,055. That was the period of a thriving lumber industry. The second period of growth was from 1902 to 1913 when the population rose from 11,067 to 20,150. That was the period of new industries. The third period of growth has been from 1941 to the present. The population has increased from 25,703 to 34,424 (latest estimate). In that period there has been full employment and industrial expansion.

• • •

Other elements enter into the growth of cities, but many of them have not been at work in Peterborough. Natural increase (the number of births over deaths) has been lower than for most Ontario cities. Influx from town to city has not been as great as in other cities, one reason being that Peterborough has a relatively low rural population which has not increased by much more than 1,000 since 1914. Has prosperity in Canada brought us more people? Some, but not as many as to other places. Times were prosperous in 1914-20, yet our population increased by only 1,000. Times were good between 1925 and 29, yet the population increase was only 1,000. Did the wars increase our population? No. Between 1914 and 1918 there was an increase of only 300. Between 1939 and 1944 our population increased by 4,000, but in the next year alone the increase was over 4,000. Do post-war years bring a population boom? Not necessarily. There was none in 1918-20. There has been one between 1945 and 47. Why now and not then? More opportunities for employment in factories have existed since 1944 than did after 1918.

• • •

Another element is immigration, though the report of the City Planning Consultant does not list immigration an important factor. The reasons are good. It is a fact that from the late nineteenth century up to 1945 Peterborough received astonishingly few immigrants when other cities were expanded by them. Nevertheless, there is a remarkable relation between the boom times of immigration to Canada and the boom periods of Peterborough's growth. Peterborough took leaps forward when the immigration figures jumped. That is not the same thing as saying that our population increased because immigration increased. It does show that we may expect Peterborough to grow, for this reason or that, when immigration to Canada is high. Immigration is now increasing.

There has been one notable exception to this rule. In the period around 1882-1883 there was a sudden and large increase in the number of immigrants to Canada. There was no corresponding increase in Peterborough's population. The reason was that the city then offered no employment opportunities and there was no influx of manufacturing capital. Instead, the lumbering business was collapsing and no new enterprises had located here.

• • •

There is this statement in the City Planning Consultant's preliminary report: "Overseas immigration does not promise to be a major feature in Peterborough population studies unless the character of the city is changed by a large influx of capital". The lesson for the City Council, for all of us is this: If Peterborough is to benefit largely from the new immigrant movement there must be a large influx of capital. By "capital" is chiefly meant more and new factories.

Candidates For P.C. Leadership: J. G. Diefenbaker, K.C.

Short biographical sketches of candidates for leadership of the Liberal Party appeared in these columns prior to the Liberal Convention held in Ottawa; we propose to run a similar series dealing with men mentioned as possible successors to Mr. John Bracken, who has resigned as leader of the Progressive Conservative Party. The new leader will be chosen at a national convention to be held in Ottawa at the end of this month. As in the earlier series, the possible candidates will be taken in alphabetical order, and the first name on the list is that of John George Diefenbaker, M.A., LL.B., K.C.

Mr. Diefenbaker was born in Grey County, Ontario, the son of Canadian parents; moving to the West, he graduated from the University of Saskatchewan. He served overseas in the First Great War, and was a lieutenant in the Canadian Expeditionary Force when invalided home. A lawyer by profession, he became actively interested in politics and contested ridings in the Federal general elections of 1925 and 1926, being defeated on both occasions. He was elected leader of the Saskatchewan Conservative Party in 1937, and held that post until 1940, when he was elected to the House of Commons as member for Lake Centre, Saskatchewan. He was re-elected by the same constituency in the general elections of 1945.

Regarded as one of the ablest parliamentarians within the ranks of the Progressive Conservative Party, Mr. Diefenbaker consistently has been one of the most effective critics on the Opposition side of the House. He is a fluent and forceful speaker, a debater who can "think on his feet" and whose remarkable memory often disconcerts his opponents. In recent months he has become noted for his advocacy of a Canadian Bill of Rights, and his pleas for this addition to the Constitution have been well-reasoned and clearly presented. Mr. Diefenbaker is married; he is a member of the Baptist Church, and is prominent in Saskatchewan fraternal circles. He is a brilliant lawyer, with a reputation extending far beyond the borders of his adopted province.

Mr. Diefenbaker is not officially a candidate for the leadership of his party; at the time of writing, none of those mentioned as leading candidates has publicly announced that he will seek the honour. It is generally conceded, however, that Mr. Diefenbaker's recent public appearances in many communities throughout the Dominion indicate he will be an active candidate, and he will be strongly supported by Western delegates. There is also a campaign under way in Ontario to enlist support for his candidacy, and its sponsors claim progress has been made in lining up votes for the member from Lake Centre.

Better Be Happy Than Wise

One of the most interesting statements that we have read in a long time is that made by Mr. Robert Saunders, chairman of the Ontario Hydro Commission; we quote from the Toronto Globe and Mail:

> All the people of Ontario should be happy about the present electric power shortage, Mr. Saunders said, because it is "eloquent indication of industrial prosperity".

When we read this an old Scotch proverb popped into our head: "It is better to be happy than wise".

But, alas, many Ontario people are wise to Hydro, and they are not happy about the power shortage. The retail merchants who cannot light their display windows after dark are not happy; municipalities which cannot light their streets adequately are not happy; people who count on electricity for part of their heating are not happy; these people instead, are wise.

They wish that Hydro were not so happy now about its power shortage, and they wish that Hydro had been wiser in the past. For the present industrial expansion of Ontario was no sudden surprise. It was foreseen, and it was prepared for by every necessary agency except Hydro.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The last name in the Oklahoma City directory is Zzyzz. Pronounced "Psst!"

The tin can was invented by a Frenchman in 1809. Wheels were not put on it until about 100 years later.

We hear of an article in the Montreal Congress Bulletin which begins "Canada, which is referred to as the Lithuania of America...." This is fascinating, and we should like to know who refers to Canada in this odd way.

CANADIAN CAUSERIE

Pioneer And Brave New World

By GEOFFREY VIVIEN

OUT on the fringes of civilisation the pioneer is still writing his name into our map and immortality. He stands as a kind of human common-denominator between the two main groups that make up Canada, the English and the French; a towering figure nobly bestriding the gulf that sometimes seems to yawn so widely between the two. He has caught the imagination of two of our greatest writers—one English, the other French—who have left curiously similar accounts of the pioneering spirit. Here is one — from Frederick Philip Grove's great novel of the prairie country, "The Settlers of the Marsh":

> A new dream arose: a longing to leave and to go to the very margin of civilisation, there to clear a new place; and when it was cleared and people began to settle about it, to move on once more again to the very edge of pioneerdom, and to start it all anew... Thus his enormous strength would have a meaning.

THE other passage comes from the classic of French Canadian habitant life, Louise Hemon's "Maria Chapdelaine":

> Faire de la terre! To break new ground! That was his passion...the passion of a man who was made for clearing rather than for cultivation. Five times already since his youth he had taken a lot, built a house, a stable and a barn, cut out of the heart of the forest a fine property; and five times he had sold this property to go away and start again further towards the north, discouraged suddenly, losing all interest and all enthusiasm once the rough work was completed, and as soon as the neighbours arrived and the district began to be populous and to open up.

THE pioneer strain, running in the veins of English, French, Scotch, Swedish, Russian and other emigrants has been a tremendous element of strength in our national life, and will continue to be so. But what happens when the last frontier is reached, when it is no longer possible to escape from those tiresomely following neighbours? One cannot see the Brave New World of a planned economy making a very strong appeal to these indomitable and lonely souls—though Socialism has its pioneers too. Fortunately, the time for Canada with her vast Northland is still far away. But America has already to face the problem, and one wonders whether the result may not soon be a reversal of that malignant southward drift which has bled Canada of so much good manhood. Shall we not soon see a northward drift, and get back something of what we have lost? Something better, perhaps, since for much of the southward drift the dollar was the spur, whereas this new movement will have the call of adventure behind it—certainly a more excellent motive force.

BUT eventually the time must come, since we live today in a geographically finite world. What do we do then I'm afraid one thing that we must contemplate is the dethroning of this ideal that we have admired so much—the splendid pioneer—and the diversion of our hero-worshipping powers to the creation of a new romantic figure—the Conserver. It won't be easy because there's something essentially uninspiring about the man who merely regulates—even though it is something so important as the world's resources. It will be especially difficult on this side of the Atlantic where the tradition of sweeping forward wastefully, destructively, freely, creatively is so strong. Who can suppress a thrill of pleasure and admiration at the account of how John Galt, soon after founding the community of Guelph, gave a practical demonstration to some visitors who arrived in hopes of seeing how a town was made, getting his woodmen to open one of the projected streets; whereupon in seventy minutes they cleared an avenue of large trees "greater than the avenue of Kensington Gardens". And who does not understand what he means when he confesses that "he did indulge himself in the rapidity of creation."

NO, it is not going to be easy to turn our backs on men of that stamp. And perhaps after all it won't be necessary. There's always Mars. The heroes of the Comics have been roaming its forests and jungles for years, and the world on an average seems to catch up on the imaginings of its Jules Vernes and H. G. Wells' in about twenty or twenty-five years. What wonderful narratives of pioneer exploration and settlement are going to be written then! "On coming to these trees which seemed mostly to be about as wide round as a cyclotron"—I quote from the Journal of my great-grandson, Trygve Winston Vivien,—"I got my electronists to operate their supersonic buzz-saws, whereupon in seventy seconds they cleared an avenue greater than Mackenzie King Boulevard in the New Ottawa...." No, the pioneer spirit can never altogether perish!

Dr. Malan's Offer

Dire forebodings over the future of the British Commonwealth and Empire seldom turn out to be well based. A case in point is the offer made from Capetown by the Nationalist Prime Minister of South Africa, of substantial help for the British in the airlift to blockaded Berlin. Die-hards must be rubbing their eyes. Here is a man reputed to be a bitter antagonist of all things British volunteering his help.

The fact is, of course, that the Commonwealth and Empire is a sound and old-established going concern. It is the greatest example of international co-operation the world has ever seen. Its members differ in many respects and on many points. Its languages, its traditions, its cultures all lead to diversity. But, underlying these differences, is a mutual understanding of common problems that can best be faced by common action. This over-rides all else, and Dr. Malan's action now is simply one more proof that the policies laid down years ago by General Botha and General Smuts best serve the interests of the South African peoples.

WANTED, A BETTER BROOM

Poetry And Pickles

(By K. M. H. IN THE WINNIPEG FREE PRESS)

IT is a curious thing how seldom vegetables get into poetry and yet what can have more right to metric numbers than a field of corn drooping with gold tassels? True, Ruth, as Keats watched her in a strange land, fixed this vegetable with asighing immortality... alien corn.

We are not so surprised about vegetable marrows and squashes for if ever objects personified smugness they are these two. Still at that they are not so aloof from considerations of humanity as is a field of lilies. Yet it is not among the marrows but among the lilies that the lover suggests his fair one is feeding. The marrows would be a better bet.

And who cares through what wild centuries roves back the potato, and at that this tuber has done a lot for the human race. Not that the potato has been respectable so long. You'd never think so to see it heaped up in pits, or garned into bags, that once it was not admitted into homes.

> "Said Plato to Aristotle,
> Let us broach another bottle.
> Said Aristotle to Plato,
> Let us have another potato."

Of course it is still true that when a potato strays it does so with authority. Poteen we think is the name.

And tomatoes too. Way back when, they had little or no better reputation than potatoes. Their family relations, that night shade family, leave something to be desired, but it was more than that. No gentleman, and certainly no lady, would think of raising a glass of this juice to their lips. The lips that touched tomatoes would never touch theirs—well hardly ever.

Cucumbers have faired better. When Isaiah was simply sunk in gloom over the goings on of his countrymen he made mention of a lodge in a garden of cucumbers, an idea which a later poet took up. And remember Gulliver's acquaintance who had been "eight years upon a project for extracting sunbeams out of cucumbers which were to be put in phials hermetically sealed and let out to warm the air in raw inclement summers." So Swift had his spoof at the scientific research. But if he revisits the glimpses of the moon he will have ceased to be surprised at what now comes from what next.

Now in September what care the vegetables along the Red River and out through the country side what care they that so seldom have they been praised in song. They are a song themselves, yellow, and green, and red, and brown, opulent, succulent, crowning the month of maturity. And that tang in the air, with its suggestion of cinnamon, and tumeric and ginger. If not poetry, then pickles. And both heighten the awareness of life, poetry and pickles. Let flowers and moonlight have their place between covers. The vegetables have theirs in rows of jars on a shelf.

Britain May Show The Way

In the United Kingdom the Labour government is experimenting with ideas that are designed to avoid the weaknesses of both capitalistic and communistic systems as they exist today. It is nationalizing public utilities without creating a police state or resorting to terrorism. So far it appears to be avoiding the chief faults of existing capitalistic and communistic regimes. Its policies are not having a fair trial because Britain is suffering from a severe case of economic exhaustion. But the world may learn many valuable lessons from the course being taken by the Attlee government.—Toronto Star.

Admission Of Refugees

Canadians from sea to sea will find cause for very real satisfaction in the announcement from Ottawa that "the first 29 of some 100 Baltic refugees who crossed the Atlantic in small boats this summer to escape from their Soviet-dominated homelands will be formally admitted to Canada." A similar group was admitted last year after the United States had refused them permission to enter. A Canadian official said soon after the arrival of the Astrid (with the 29 now admitted) that the refugees "will not be made to suffer." That is as the people of Canada would have it.—Halifax Herald.

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Thus saith the Lord, Learn not the way of the heathen, and be not dismayed at the signs of heaven; for the heathen are dismayed at them. For the customs of the people are vain ....Forasmuch as there is none like unto thee, O Lord; thou art great, and thy name is great in might.

Who would not fear thee, O King of nations? for to thee doth it appertain: forasmuch as among all the wise men of the nations, and in all their ikngdoms, there is none like unto thee. But they are altogether brutish and foolish: the stock is a doctrine of vanities....

Thus shall ye say unto them, The gods that have not made the heavens and the earth, even they shall perish from the earth, and from under these heavens.... Every man is brutish in his knowledge: every founder is confounded by the graven image: for his molten image is falsehood, and there is no breath of errors. (Jer. 10: 2, 3, 6-8, 11, 14, 15.)

Beware lest any man spoil you through philosophy and vain deceit, after the tradition of men, after the rudiments of the world, and not after Christ. (Col. 2: 8.)

Letter To The Editor

NOT HOODLUMS

Sir: I would appreciate space in your press to enlighten the people of Peterborough on the facts about statements made last week to yours and other papers by a Mr. Lionel Edmunds.

Mr. Edmunds gave statements to the newspapers saying that some 600 employees were in a brawl and fist fight for more than an hour last Thursday night at a Union Meeting and that the trouble was started by supporters of the UE-CIO.

Every employee of our plant, the Outboard Marine knows that Mr. Edmunds was not telling the public the truth and we are anxious to have the other people of the city also know what is true.

I am an employee of the Outboard Marine Company. I attended the meeting called by the Independent Union last Thursday night which was called to take a vote on a wage offer. I was present when the meeting started and was one of the last few to leave the hall when the caretaker locked it for the night. I nor no other employee saw a fight because there was no fight at the meeting. The meeting was not broken up by any roughness or rowdyism. The meeting was called off by officials of the Independent Union because of some irregularity in the marking of ballots.

We want the people of Peterborough to know we are ordinary respectable citizens and not hoodlums like Mr. Edmunds tried to have you believe. The matter of choosing a Union whether it be the UE or any other Union is a matter of the employees of our plant to decide upon. It is my opinion that if Mr. Edmunds or any other worker has honest views and opinions they should be expressed, but at no time should he resort to slander and vilification of his fellow workmates as he did in his statements last week.

London Growing Too Big Now Underground Can't Cope With It

By JAMES McCOOK.

LONDON, Sept. 15 — (CP). — "London's too big," groan her travelweary citizens, and London transport engineers—who are to blame—must agree.

Without these engineers London could never have become the home of 9,700,000 people, 2,500,000 of whom have to be carried between home and work in morning and evening hours.

Now everything is short. Underground extensions come, but London's population grows and grows.

"In rush hoursm it is not uncommon for us to carry 400 to 500 standing passengers in a single train," said Lord Latham, chairman of the London transport executive.

In a year the underground carries more than 500,000,000 passengers, and bulges at the seams doing it.

Needs Everything

The underground, mainstay of a system linked up with buses and trams, needs more men, more rails, more cars, more motors. But it can't get them, although it now is part of the nationalized railway system under supervision of the national government.

Latham, hopefully, invites Londoners not to travel in rush hours and thus ease the congestion. He would like to clear from the packed trains the 60,000 shoppers, visitors, sightseers, and others who travel during the evening rush hour. He would like factories and unions to agree to stagger the work hours.

"We think that even to-day Londoners as a whole do not recognize how acute and unprecedented are the difficulties under which the transport system of our great city is working," he said.

Done Their Best

Only the citizens can help now, for the engineers have done their best. The underground is fast—trains accelerate to 40 miles an hour in 52 seconds; traffic is concentrated — 207 trains pass through Charing Cross Station in an hour; elevators carry people to the surface at the rate of 50 persons each at 180 ft. a minute; loudspeakers direct uncertain passengers to their trains; rails half-mile long have been installed to cut down sound and speed traffic; signalling devices permit fast operation even for surface trains in dense fog.

Within supply limitations ,the engineers have tried to show Londoners what they could enjoy if there were room for all to sit on underground trains. The latest "luxury" car has handsome compartments, decorated with ripple-finished plastic panels in a blue-and-orange color scheme. Seats have recessed arm rests and pull-out ashtrays, all lighted with tubular lamps and ventilated with roof fans. Draughts are eliminated and doors are opened by pushing buttons.

Store Officials Want To See Shirts Reduced

OTTAWA, Sept. 15 — (CP). — A department store executive told the Price Commission Tuesday his firm "would like very much" to see men's shirt prices come down. But he gave no indication when this would take place.

H. G. Colebrook of Toronto, a director and general merchandise manager of the Robert Simpson Co. Limited, was confronted with an assertion by Prof. C. A. Curtis, Commission chairman, that the public feels retail distribution costs are "unduly" high in our system" in relation to the costs that precede them.

Mr. Colebrook said Simpson's had netted 2.4 per cent profit on $2,348,000 in total shirt sales over an eight-year-period. He argued that that "doesn't suggest we are keeping up prices" and asserted that the firm wished "very much" to see them come down.

'Serving' Customers

Prof. Curtis was speaking about Simpson's statistics which showed the shirt the store retails for $3.95 cost it $2.57. Mr. Colebrook said he considered a 33 to 35 per cent profit on the basis of the sale price "fair and reasonable." In one instance, from 1945 through 1947, the Toronto store alone subsidized shirts made from specially-imported American cloth to the extent of $100,000 in its "anxiety" to serve its customers.

J. V. R. Porteous of Montreal, president of the wholesale firm of Greenshields - Hodgson - Racine Ltd., said his firm couldn't get half the shirts it could market but he hoped the day of competition was nearing again.

W. G. Imrie, proprietor of the Toronto gentlemen's furnishings store of Imrie Brothers, said the largest demand for shirts was in the $3.95 to $5.50 class but shirts costing more than $6 still sold swiftly. He could get shirts in quantity but not in variety.

Taxi Driver Strike In Toronto Halted

TORONTO, Sept. 15 (CP)—A strike of taxi drivers employed by the Deer Park Livery was ended Tuesday through the intervention of Judge Samuel Factor, presently sitting as chairman of a conciliation board in a dispute over wages and other issues between the A.F.L. Taxi Drivers Union and the Association of Toronto Taxi Cab Operators.

The men quit work Tuesday to protest dismissal of two employees. A. F. McArthur, A.F.L. international representative, said Judge Factor prevailed on them to return to work on assurance the company would submit the matter to conciliation.

Butter Supply Drops

OTTAWA, Sept. 15 (CP) — Another drop in stocks of creamery butter held in Canadian cities was reported Tuesday. Again pointing up Canada's dwindling butter supplies, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said stocks in nine cities at Sept. 10 totalled 32,750,000 pounds against 47,208,000 at the nearest corresponding date last year.

Western Fair Hits New High

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 15 (CP) —After breaking another attendance record on Tuesday when 44,782 people visited the grounds the Western Fair may hit an all-time, one-day total today, which is agriculture day."

Tuesday's total was nearly 30,000 more than on the same day in 1939 and established a new transportation day record.

The figure is 5,739 better than the best day of the 1939 fair.

Junior farmers and junior institute judging competitions and demonstrations featured the fair Tuesday in the boys sections two Elgin county contestants Donald Smal land Donald Jenkins, nosed out two Middlesex rivals Tom Hughes and J. D. McLean, for top honors in livestock judging.

In the girls section in the exhibits, the Dutton group from Elgin took first prize and the Thorndale (Middlesex) group second. Middlesex county's Parkhill group, on the other hand, was first in the team demonstrations, the Central Elgin group was second.

Agricultural leaders from many parts of the province will hear Dr. G. I. Christie address the daily directors' luncheon. Former president of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, he now is with the Ontario Research Foundation.

Better late than never, so let us now extend the belated columnistic mitt to Ned Vitarelli on winning the Kawartha Golf Club championship for this year. Fraser Dunfield, another classy young veteran of the links—and former champion—gave Ned a battle all the way but the winner finished the 36 holes one up. With Lex Robson the referee, and a goodly gallery about. Ned quit lacrosse last year but still plays hockey for Legionnaires and coached 'em last winter to their OHA senior "B" group title. And he has been concentrating on golf the past several seasons—this year clicking. Nice going, Ned.

Bill Gunn, treasurer of the Industrial Softball League, advises that there'll be a men's benefit softball exhibition in the East City Bowl tomorrow night. Between B-A and the intermediate "AA" all-stars of the Industrial Loop. Proceeds for three injured players of the latter league. One of them is still in hospital. Injuries usually run into a lot of money and these circuits can't afford to carry insurance on a large number of players, so something should be done to help ease the financial burden on these boys. A good game is promised and 'tis hoped a large crowd will attend.

School Soccer Setup

The School Soccer League schedules are published tonight, and they commence this week. Play every Wednesday and Thursday afternoons on various fields about the city. This year the seniors have seven entries while the north section juniors and the south section juniors each have seven, also. A total of 21 teams which should assure the city plenty of future adult soccer material.. Or football, if you wish. The senior loop runs till early in November while the juniors wind up their schedules around the middle of October. The teachers do a good job with the public school boys in this sport.

Ab Frick, prominent local athlete some years ago—and a resident of St. Catharines for some time—has a son (can't recall his name) going on the three-week tour of Western Canada with the junior all-star lacrossers. Played for the junior Athletics of St. Kitts and must be a smart young lacrosser. He would be a fine athlete if he inherits any of his father's ability. Red Creighton was down to the peninsula city last week-end—mayhap scouting some lacrosse material—and Ab told him that his boy had made the team. We don't know where they raised enough do-re-mi to send the squad across the country as train fares alone to the coast were figured at $135 a boy which, with meals and hotels, would run the cost to about $225 a player. A hefty hunk.

Some Gridiron Rules

A new grid rule this year says: "No player of the attacking side who is within one yard of the line of scrimmage shall be moving toward the opponents' goal at the instant the ball is put into play." Lateral movement is permitted. Penalty is loss of one down; if on the third down loss of 10 yards with the down and sticks remaining as before. A change in the forward pass rule makes an eligible passer of any of the attacking side who is behind the line of scrimmage when the pass is thrown. Players now report to the time-keeper only upon entering the game for the first time. Several other new ones in effect, too, with the general idea of speeding up play.

Walt Murphy sends word on the minor OLA setup concerning local lacrosse teams. Our juves open here Saturday aft at three against Orillia, return being there next Wednesday, third if necessary on Sept. 25. Local midgets have a home-and-home series with Brooklin, being there Saturday afternoon and back here next Tuesday night. And the bantams have a two-game go with Brooklin, playing there at two p.m. Saturday and here at 7.30 p.m. next Tuesday. Each team supplies one referee, the visiting official to be the senior. No word yet on the peewee playdowns. Peterborough is entered in four sections of the OLA playdown picture.

Cough Up Or Else!

Out of the OBA meeting last eve, Jack Turner tells us that Toronto Staffords were given till four p.m. today to cough up the $100 owing to the Petes or drop out of the senior ball race. If they do pay this money—owed on the final game of their OBA series last fall—then Staffords and the Petes open their best-of-five OBA senior "A" semi-finals at three in Riverside this Saturday. Further arrangements to be made following that game. And the OBA upheld the peewee Trojans' protest, ordering a replay here of their game with New Toronto, probably this Saturday sometime. Our East City bantams and midget Aces are slated to play in Toronto on Saturday.

KAWARTHA GOLF CLUB

By JERRY SEABROOK

Looks like we have a new club champion this year. Yes, Ned Vitarelli emerged victorious from his final round, a 36 hole match with Fraser Dunfield. The two 18 hole rounds Sunday were very closely contested and drew a considerable gallery of spectators. Fraser was 3 holes up at the end of the first 9 holes and was 2 holes up at the end of the 18th. Ned, however, gained the advantage in the first half of the second 18-hole round and was 2 holes up at the end of the first 9. Coming off the 16th green the match was even. The remaining two holes were won by Ned, and with them, the club championship. Congratulations are extended to Ned Vitarelli for attaining such an honor.

Just a few odds and ends on the closing day activities come Sept. 25. In the afternoon a nine hole medal play round will be held for three handicap divisions. A chipping and putting competition, also a driving competition will be held in the afternoon. In the evening a dinner and dance has been arranged for your enjoyment. Tariff for the day will be 50c for golf and $1.00 for the dinner dance.

Don't forget that all the club competitions are to be finished this coming week-end, for sure.

Sain Pitches Boston Braves To 10-3 Win Over Chi Cubs

By RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

It looks as if the Braves are in.

With a five-game lead and only 16 games left to play, the Braves appear unstoppable in the National League today. At the moment it seems that only a major nosedive would deprive the Braves of their first pennant since the "miracle team" of 1914.

As for hitting a serious slump, Manager Billy Southworth isn't worried. He has the best remedy possible in his double "S" stoppers—Johnny Sain and Warren Spahn.

The Braves have won eight of their last nine starts and Sain and Spahn have won five of these games.

Sain became the first pitcher in the loop to win 20 games when he pitched the Braves to a 10-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs Tuesday.

The triumph enabled the Braves to pull five games ahead of the runner-up Pittsburgh Pirates who suffered a severe jolt by dropping a doubleheader to the third-place Brooklyn Dodgers 8-5 and 7-3.

Sain, who now has won at least 20 games for the third consecutive season, coasted home, thanks to an eight-run second-inning rally against Hank Borowy and Ralph Hamner.

Blast 27 Hits

The Dodgers blasted 27 hits in sinking the Pirates at Ebbets Field. Marv Rackley with six blows and Pee Wee Reese and Jackie Robinson with five apiece paced the Dodger bombardment.

The St. Louis Cardinals, behind the three-hit pitching of Harry (the Cat) Brecheen, blanked the Phillies, 8-0 in a night game at Philadelphia. The triumph enabled the Cards to break their fourth-place tie with the idle New York Giants.

The Boston Red Sox retained their two-game lead over the New York Yankees in the American League's pennant chase. The Sox downed the White Sox, 4-1, in a night game at Chicago while the Yanks brushed off the third-place Cleveland Indians, 6-5.

Connie Mack's fourth-place fourth-place Philadelphia Athletics drubbed the Browns, 12-2, in a night game at St. Louis. Eddie Joost banged out five hits and Ferris Fain knocked in four runs to spearhead the A's 19-hit attack. Lefty Lou Brissie scattered nine hits in coasting to his 14th triumph.

The Detroit Tigers took a doubleheader from the hapless Washington Senators, 2-1 in 11 innings, and 12-1. Paul Campbell's bases loaded single enabled Hal Newhouser to pick up his 17th victory in the first game. Virgil Trucks yielded three hits in posting his 13th success in the finale.

Rookies In West Said Promising

SASKATOON, Sept. 14.—(CP).—Coach Tommy Ivan of Detroit Red Wings feels that several western youngsters will make things really hot in their bid for places on the National Hockey League club when the squad leaves here to complete final training at home.

Half the club is training here and the other half at Sault Ste. Maries, Mich.

Ivan is particularly high on his young goalie from Winnipeg, Terry Sawchuk, who last year played for Omaha Knights oft the United States League.

"In all my hockey I have never seen a young goalie handle himself as well as this Sawchuk," said the Wings' coach. "Why that Terry is terrific and while we tentatively have him booked for our farm club at Indianapolis, the way he's going here in Saskatoon would lead me to believe he's ready for the N.H.L. right now."

As far as defence positions go, Ivan thought that Lee Fogolin, the youngster who made a hit in playoffs with the Wings last spring after being moved up from Indianapolis, is coming along so well he'll make all the veterans take notice.

Montreal Edges Rochester Red Wings 4-3

By The Associated Press

The pennant-winning Montreal Royals and the runner-up Newark Bears are off to flying starts in their bid to win the International League's Shaughnessy playoffs.

Both the Royals and Bears scored impressive triumphs Tuesday night as the semi-final round of the ball loop's playoffs got under way.

The Royals, behind the brilliant two-hit pitching of Don Newcombe, edged the fourth-place Rochester Red Wings 4-3 before a crowd of 18,862. The Bears thumped the third-place Syracuse Chiefs 12-5. With only 3,194 fans in attendance.

Newcombe, winner of 17 games during the season, including a no-hit triumph, blanked the Wings on one safety going into the top of the ninth when he suddenly lost control. The big negro right-hander walked two batters and hit another to load the sacks with two out. Glen Nelson promptly unloaded the bases with a triple. Newcombe then fanned Chuck Diering on three pitches to end the game.

Newark's vaunted home-run power spelled doom for the Chiefs. The Bears clouted four homers with Ken Silvestri leading the way with two. Lou Novikoff and Hank Workman scored the others.

The second games of both series, which are best-of-seven affairs, are scheduled for tonight.

Louis To Decide Retirement In Six Months

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15 — (AP)—Joe Louis intends to take the full six months to decide whether he'll retire as heavyweight boxing champion of the world.

The Brown Bomber, who previously said that his June 25 fight against Jersey Joe Walcott was his last, told delegates to the National Boxing Association dinner Tuesday night:

"I have six months from the date of my last fight to make known my plans of retirement and until that time I should be known as the heavyweight champion of the world."

He then turned to Abe Greene, president of the NBA and said:

"Mr. Green, at the end of six months you'll have my answer on whether I'll retire or fight again on your desk."

To a reporter's query as to whether he would fight again, Joe replied:

"I don't know, maybe yes, maybe no."

Lose Complacency

The fight game benefited greatly from its recent dark days of legal and physical tragedy, Abe J. Greene said.

Greene, who in seven years made the NBA a strongly-recognized voice, feels the series of incidents that cast a pall over the American boxing world "jarred commissions from their complacency."

He said recent ring deaths and district attorneys' investigations into alleged financial "deals" woke up sluggish commissions, stimulated to humaneness shiftless and unthinking managers, and instituted a better tone of vigilance on a world-wide scale.

Americans Use More Oleo Than Butter

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15—(AP).—Americans are using more oleomargarine and less butter, the Department of Agriculture said Tuesday.

The average American used 11 pounds of butter last year as compared with 16 in 1941. But he used five pounds of oleomargarine as compared with three in 1941.

The trend is the same this year, the agriculture experts said.

About 53 per cent of the fats in oleomargarine in 1947 was cottonseed oil, 36 per cent soybean oil and two per cent animal fat, the government reported.

SEE THE CHANGE IN YOUR TEETH AS PEPSODENT TOOTH POWDER GIVES YOU DENTAL WHITENESS

IT'S TRUE! PEPSODENT TOOTH POWDER GIVES YOU THE DENTAL CLEANLINESS THAT MEANS DENTAL WHITENESS

After a dentist cleans your teeth it's amazing how white they are! That's real dental whiteness! and he relies on powder. For unless dull, dingy film is removed, it hardens — darkens—turns into harmful, ugly tartar. But Pepsodent Tooth Powder is especially made with Irium to remove that trouble-causing film gently but thoroughly—right in your own home! Change today to Pepsodent Tooth Powder and give your teeth dental whiteness!

The difference is IRIUM—and PEPSODENT IS THE ONLY TOOTH POWDER THAT CONTAINS IRIUM

Entry Held Up But Dowling Wasn't Barred

TORONTO, Sept. 15.—(CP).—A Toronto paper Tuesday quoted H. R. Landon, Acting Commissioner, United States Immigration Department, Washington, as saying Fred Dowling, Canadian director of the United Packinnghouse Workers (CIO), was not excluded from the United States, but that "his entry was held up for a short time to give our officers a chance to investigate him."

It was learned here Monday that Mr. Dowling had applied for permission to visit union headquarters in Chicago and that he was not allowed to proceed.

Mr. Landon said in a telephone interview that Dowling and seven members of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (CIO) who were refused entry at Chicago Saturday will have an opportunity "to present any evidence they may have to prove they are not associated with Communism" if they appear at the Toronto office of the Immigration Department tomorrow.

Demand Entry

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15. — (AP).—The International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (CIO) in convention here Tuesday announced it has sent a letter to President Truman demanding the United States Immigration Department allow entry of its international delegates.

"The entire delegation from the largest local union in the entire International, located at Sudbury, Ont., has been denied entrance to the United States for the purpose of attending our convention," the letter said.

"Other delegates, including women of our auxiliary, have been turned back at the border.

"In so doing, our Department of Immigration has acted as the object and shameless agent of anti-union employers. Had these same Canadian citizens desired to enter the United States to visit friends, for a pleasure trip or any other purpose, no objection would have been made."

Bags 23 Votes

FORT WORTH, Tex., Sept. 15 (AP)—President Truman bagged Texas' 23 electoral votes Tuesday night in a roaring Democratic state convention which climaxed a struggle of states righters to capture the big vote prize.

JACQUES DUCLOS, president of the Communist group of the French national assembly, smiles like the proverbial cat that swallowed the mouse after leaving Elysee palace in Paris. The Communists contributed largely to the recent overthrow of the three-day-old Schuman government when they were joined by the Rightists in refusing to give Schuman a vote of confidence because of his anti-strike policy.

Call Out Police To Halt Oil Plant Trouble

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15. — (AP).—Police were ordered out in force this morning as striking CIO oil workers massed to prevent more AFL unionists from going to work at the big Standard Oil refinery at nearby Richmond, scene of a bloody fight Tuesday.

An estimated 2,000 strikers, many of them wearing the white caps of longshoremen, brawled with police for an hour Tuesday in the bitterest clash of the 11-day strike against six major oil companies. The police fired tear gas; the strikers hurled stones.

The 250 or so AFL workers who entered the plant remained overnight rather than buck the picket lines again today. Already inside were an estimated 700 non-strikers who have slept and eaten there since the strike started.

Nine persons, including policemen and bystanders, were injured badly enough to require hospital treatment.

An oil industry spokesman, Reese Taylor, charged in a statement that CIO longshoremen "played a leading role" in Tuesday's riot. He declared that longshoremen leader Harry Bridges is seeking control of the oil workers in an attempt to 'widen his control over strategic west-coast industries."

Union lined up against union over whether the AFL oil workers should cross CIO picket lines. The AFL truck drivers' local issued a statement saying "no good union man will go through a picket line when the union involved is fighting for wages, hours and working conditions."

St. Laurent Begins Signing Documents

OTTAWA, Sept. 15—(CP). — Louis Stephen St. Laurent—who's done it before — Tuesday began signing documents as "Acting Prime Minister."

With Prime Minister Mackenzie King on his way to Paris, Mr. St. Laurent moved from his office in the centre block to take possession of Mr. King's more spacious quarters in the east block of Parliament Hill.

To all intents and purposes it was Mr. St. Laurent's first day as Government leader.

"But the transition will be gradual," a member of his staff said. "Remember that Mr. King is not retired yet and will not retire until a few days after he returns in November."

Two Lines, One Fish

TORONTO, Sept. 15.—(CP).—Two million barrels of cement are going into Hydro-Electric Power Commission dams in Ontario and until these are completed will be scarce and expensive, Sam McCord, head of a Toronto building supply firm said Tuesday. "I cannot believe there is any black market existing along the Niagara frontier," Mr. McCord said. He was commenting on a charge by Councillor Charles E. Pullen of Fort Erie, Ont., that a black market existed along the Niagara river.

Rebuke Minister

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 15 (AP) —A public rebuke was read by the Los Angeles Presbytery Tuesday to Rev. Stewart P. MacLennan, retired pastor of the Hollywood First Presbyterian church and formerly of Sydney, N.S., who married millionaire Bob Topping and movie actress Lana Turner April 26. The Presbytery's rebuke was read with 300 churchmen present in the Highland Park Presbyterian church. At its conclusion, Dr. MacLennan said: "I accept the rebuke in all humility. As a Presbyterian minister I am subject to my brethren."

Charge Treaty Violation

WASHINGTON, Sept 15 (AP)— The United States has accused Romania of violating its peace treaty with the Allies. It said this former enemy state is discriminating against United States interests in Romania in favor of Russian interests. The United States State Department made public Tuesday the text of a note sent to the Bucharest government on Sept. 7.

Wayne Plans To Transfer Acting Talents

By JACK QUIGG.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 15 (AP). —With his Republic films all on the indefinite list, John Wayne plans to transfer his talents. The rugged actor says he will sign for the lead in "She Wore a Yellow Ribbon" and go to work "as soon as I can grow a moustache."

John Agar and Ben Johnson are already cast in the outdoor story to be filmed in Monument Valley, Utah. Wayne will be working for his old friend, Director John Ford.

Wayne was set for several films at Republic, including his pet project "Alamo." But since the studio's recent production cut he is not sure when they will be made.

Stage Better

The stage is a far better medium than the screen for presenting Shakespeare, says Sir Ralph Richardson. The value of movies, says the noted Shakespearean actor, is in bringing the classics to people who otherwise would never see them. "One can never be the worse for any association with a noble mind," quoth he.

Danny Kaye will fly to London, stay a day, then fly back. Occasion for the hurried journey is the King and Queen's command performance. Determined not to miss it, the comic will take time off from his "Happy Times" duties.

Keeping House Plants Healthy

By DEAN HALLIDAY

How often should a house plant be watered? This perennial question cannot be given a definite answer because too many factors are involved.

For example, the amount of water required by plants indoors, especially during the winter months, is influenced largely by the humidity and heat of the house. Air evaporation will take more than the plants, and growing plants, like ferns or begonias, will take more than semi-dormant ones, like geraniums, crassulas or cacti.

All plants use more water when in the sun, in a dry atmosphere, under high temperatures, or in a draft of circulating air, than they will under less extreme conditions of these kinds. Likewise plants in glazed pots need less water than those in porous clay pots which themselves evaporate much moisture.

However, there is a way to tell when plants need water. Pick up the pot and rap it with the knuckles; if the sound is dull, the plant has sufficient water, but if the pot rings, the plant is dry.

In addition to correct watering of house plants, perfect drainage for them is also essential. Always be sure the drainage hole in the pot is open and working. Never let plants stand more than an hour or so in a water-filled saucer.

A simple method of assuring good drainage is to stand flower pots in bowls or saucers filled with pebbles, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

Frequent spraying of the foliage protects plants from the harmful effects of overly dry air and also keeps them clean. If dust collects on the leaves it closes the pores and prevents the plant from breathing properly.

Plants with large leaves, such as rubber plants and palms, should be wiped off with a sponge and clear water, as illustrated.

Mike Pearson Heeds Warning From King

OTTAWA, Sept. 15 — (CP). — Newly-appointed External Affairs Minister L. B. (Mike) Pearson will heed the warning of Prime Minister Mackenzie King and "look after things in Algoma East."

Progressive Conservatives already have indicated they will oppose Mr. Pearson. It may become a three-way fight with the possibility that the CCF also nominate a candidate.

Thomas Farquhar, 73-year-old Liberal who held the seat for 13 years, has been appointed to the Senate.

Former Editor Dies

OTTAWA, Sept. 15 (CP) — Thomas Quayle, 81, of Ottawa, former civil servant and newspaper man, died at his home here Tuesday. He started with the Ottawa Free Press and later became city editor of the Ottawa Citizen. He also served as editor of the Calgary Albertan and the Lethbridge Herald. He was private secretary to several cabinet ministers and then joined the civil service.

RAYMOND GRIFFIN, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Griffin, Hamilton, was credited with saving his mother's life when he dragged her from flames which destroyed their home. Mrs. Griffin had collapsed and later recalled her son pulling her from the fire. (CP PHOTO)

Durham Resolution On Oleo Filed

BRANTFORD, Sept. 15—(CP). —Brant County Council, meeting for the first time since June, has placed on file a resolution from the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham which strongly objected to any importation, manufacture or sale of oleomargarine in Ontario.

A motion to file the communication was made by Leslie F. Osborne, reeve of South Dumfries, and seconded by Garnet Brown, reeve of Onondago.

Mr. Osborne described the whole business of oleomargarine as "a regular political football."

He thought it was a matter for the Dominion Government to deal with. "I don't think we want to be involved in political arguments," he said.

May Seize Factories

SHANGHAI, Sept. 15 (AP) — The son of President Chiang Kai-Shek Tuesday threatened to seize Shanghai factories if they try to shut down because of the government's freeze of prices. Maj.-Gen Chiang Ching-Kuo's economic control office asserted "unscrupulous factory owners" say they will suspend production rather than try to operate under the new, stiff economic decrees.

CANADIAN NATIONAL INSTITUTE FOR BLIND in an effort to give blind people across Canada a place where they may live, have been building homes in various Canadian centres. Most recent of these buildings is Linwell Hall at St. Catharines, shown here, which was formally opened Tuesday. Built to serve the blind people of three Ontario counties in the St. Catharines area, the structure is modern in every respect. To protect the residents from injury, the building contains all rounded corners, no exposed radiators and the clock faces are open and raised. It will house 30 residents.

United Church Marks Anniversary

NORTH SMITH Sept. 15 (ENS)—Wesley United Church, North Smith with perfect weather conditions adding greatly to the festive spirit marked its 77th anniversary on Sunday. The front of the church was banked with gay autumn flowers and potted plants. Capacity congregations were present, and many former members from adjacent places deepened the significance of the day. At 11 a. m., Mr. Kenneth Stewart conducted the service, Rev. D. P. Morris of Bridgenorth preached the sermon and Selwyn choir under the direction of Mrs. Garnet Northey provided two anthems. At 7.30 p.m. Mr. Stewart delivered the sermon and Wesley choir with Miss Mary Nicholls, organist, sang appropiate anthems.

RCAF Received Baptism Of Fire Eight Years Ago

Church parades are to be held by the RCAF across Canada on Battle of Britain Sunday, which falls this year on Sept. 19, it was announced today by Air Force Headquarters, Ottawa. Special church services will be held, and a march past will take place at all larger units. Taking part in the ceremonies, with officers and men of the Regular Air Force, will be members of the Auxiliary Squadrons and the Royal Canadian Air Cadets.

The occasion marks the 8th anniversary of the culmination of the Battle of Britain, when the Luftwaffe suffered major defeat in its attempt to open the way for Hitler's planned invasion of Britain. From the second week in July, 1940, until the end of October of the same year, the German air force turned its might against the United Kingdom, first seeking to overwhelm Britain's fighter defences by heavy attacks on airfields, aircraft factories, harbours, shipping, and radio location factories. Turning on London, the Luftwaffe continued to send over swarms of bombers and fighters, and when forced to abandon bombers for mass daylight attack attempted to wear down our fighter defences by sweeps of fighters and fighter bombers. Crippling losses forced Hitler to ease his daylight aerial offensive, and although night attacks continued, the Battle of Britain was won and the immediate threat of invasion eased. September 15 is generally taken as the end of the critical period in the Battle of Britain, for enemy losses in their attacks on London rose to a peak on that day, forcing a change in tactics by the Germans. Battle of Britain Sunday is marked as the first Sunday falling after that date, if Sept. 15 itself is not a Sunday.

The Battle of Britain has special significance for the RCAF, for it was its baptism of fire. In August, 1940, a squadron of the RCAF for the first time flew into action against an enemy, won its first victories—and suffered its first casualties. Forty-seven Canadian officers and men—three of them with the RCAF and the others serving with the RAF—gave their lives in the Battle of Britain.

Marmora Woman Gets 21-Lb. Fish

MARMORA, Sept. 15 (ENS)—To few women anglers of this district belongs the honor of having captured a muskie weighing over 20 pounds. Over the week-end, after a 15-minute batle with one, Mrs. Howard Neal, aided by her husband, landed one weighing 21 pounds. It measured 42 inches in length. Mrs. Neal has only taken to fishing these past two summers. Last year she thought herself fortunate to get just over the limit. She got this year's prize at 7:30 p.m. on Sunday on Crowe River south of No. 7. Highway, using herring, and two hours later said she still felt the shock, although the fish did not put up the usual stiff fight. "The credit goes to her," said her enthusiastic husband.

PERPETUAL FLAME

The candles burned at funeral services are descendants of the earthen lamps found in the Christian catacombs at Syracuse. These lamps were kept constantly burning. As symbols of immortality, they were designed to ward off evil from deceased persons. The Syracuse lamps, in their turn, were born of an ancient world-wide tradition that maintained perpetual fires in veneration of the warmth and light of the hearth-fire, the sun and the moon.

Rink Manager Temporarily NamedForArena

To draw up a hockey schedule allocating each team a fair amount of ice time, a rink manager and a board of directors were appointed at a meeting of the Civic Arena committee on Tuesday night. It was the first meeting of the re-organized committee which has now started on the final drive of its campaaign to give Peterborough a rink.

It was felt that this was necessary to ensure that each of the many teams should receive its share of time on the ice surface for practising and playing scheduled games. Dick Ouimet was elected arena manager and H. Dodds, P. Killingbeck, Stan McBride and John Black directors.

When the new arena is completed and the city appoints its own governing body to handle affairs this pro-tem body will dissolve.

The week of October 18 will be known as Civic Arena Week. During the week it is hoped to reach every Peterborough family in a three-night door-to-door canvass. Present plans call for hiring a band, parades and other crowd-pulling stunts to make local people civic arena conscious.

Three new members were added to the committee on Tuesday night—John Black, Geddes Harper and Bud LaBranche Mr. Black will take over as finance chairman. Additional members are expected at the next meeting on Tuesday.

To date the committee has raised about $14,000.

Present at the meeting were Dick Ouimet, H. Winslow, H. Dodds, A. Cameron, Bud LaBranche, J. Black, A. Weir, P. Killingbeck, P. Harrison and Stan McBride.

Kingston Wants City Manager

Kingston is thinking of appointing a city manager. Brantford is proposing a board of control. Peterborough has casually considered both. They indicate a common municipal problem among the cities of Ontario that are moving upward in population from 30,000 with inadequate agency of administration.

The Brantford proposal recommends in resolution form that the Ontario Municipal Act be amended to permit cities of 30,000 and over to elect boards of control in the same manner and with the same legislative powers as now permitted to cities of more than 50,000.

Expect 60 Delegates Friday At Humane Soc. Convention

For the first time in 12 years Peterborough will be host to delegates attending the annual convention of the affiliated societies of the Ontario SPCA. Between 40 and 50 delegates from all over Ontario are expected to attend to discuss subjects of interest and elect a new executive. It will be held at the Empress Hotel September 17-18.

Guest speaker at the Friday-night banquet will be Robert F. Sellar, Albany, NY, president of the American Humane Association. He has been a leading figure in the humane cause in the United States for many years. Offices held include president of the Animal Rescue League of Boston; general manager of the Erie County SPCA, Buffalo, NY; executive secretary of the Humane Societ yof Missouri, St. Louis.

Mr Sellar also developed an island near Cape Cod suitable for summer conferences held by persons interested in animal and child protection, and he is editor and publisher of Our Fourfooted Friends, official publication of the Animal Rescue League.

Most of the visiting delegates will be accommodated at the convention hotel but a few will be privately billeted. It is hoped to have the convention over early on Saturday afternoon so that the visitors will have some time for entertainment in the Peterborough region. A tour of the city has been arranged which will finish up at the liftlock.

Provincial Inspector Morris of Hamilton will make his first report to the annual convention. He is said to have done much good work in the humane field since taking office, particularly in checking riding schools.

Each society will read its own report on the year's activities, and the award committee will report on all medals presented during that period—including three to Peterborough.

During general business the local society is expected to lead with a resolution that a bonus be given to horse owners who display winning animals at fairs and exhibitions without docking or setting of their tails. Mrs. A. W. Young, chairman of the publicity committee, Peterborough branch, said that the co-operation of other branches would be sought on this matter.

On Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Mark Burnham, Otonabee, will be hostess to delegates at a tea party given at her home.

Omemee Woman Ill With Polio

Mrs. Nelson Davis, RR 1, Omemee, mother of two young daughters, is reported seriously ill with polio in Riverdale Isolation Hospital, Toronto. It is the second case reported in the Omemee district.

Mrs. Davis said she was not feeling well on Wednesday and the following day she got a feeling of "helplessness." She went to Dr. G. N. Earle, Omemee, who suspected polio and made arrangements for her to enter Riverdale Hospital on Friday.

On Tuesday when she took a turn for the worse her husband was sent for. They have been married about five years and have two daughters—Margaret 4, and Shirley 3.

Dr. Earle said that there was one other case of polio in the district. An unidentified young man living outside the village was stricken previously, but he is now "progressing."

School Children Being Taken To Flower Show

As part of their educational program, children of city Public and Separate Schools from Grade 6 upward, are taken to view and study the fine floral and craft exhibit which is open to the public today for the first time. It will remain for an evening showing tonight, all day Thursday and Thursday evening, at the market hall.

The large hall is filled with produce tables laden with one of the finest collection of flowers, leaves, sewing, cooking, art and craft work that has ever been seen locally. The movement is sponsored by the Peterborough Horticultural Society in an endeavor to interest school children in growing and making things and from the results of this year's efforts, they have come a long way since their flower show last year at this time.

Medals and trophies will be presented at the last prize-giving night of the Senior Peterborough Horticultural later in the fall at the time when owners of prize city lawns and gardens will receive their awards. Mrs. Gordon Fraser, president, will be present at the junior show and officials hope that the public will make an effort to see what city children have accomplished.

CAR STOLEN

Retired Federal Architect In City Friday To Discuss City Hall Sites With Council

Mr. R. Winter of Hamilton, recently retired as architect with the Federal Department of Public Works, will meet here Friday some of the members of the city council to discuss hall sites.

It may be that some planning of the building will also be discussed at this meeting. Mr. Winter has been in and out of Peterborough quite a number of times, and is regarded somewhat as at least a distant relation.

There is no question about the council's leaning toward the Murray-George streets block, but when three or four million dollars of expenditure rise up before the treasury as a probability of the next three or four years, the members have to think twice about location costs.

The council has declared itself in favor of the block opposite Confedration Square. It is the Faludi recommendation, but members have been asking themselves in the spirit of responsibility to the taxpayers: should we spend $250,000 or more in buying these properties at Murray and Water streets, or should we content ourselves with part of the block we own at Simcoe-Water. It is not yet clear that Mr. Winter would have anything to say about the facor of costs, but he does know Peterborough locations. He was here on occasions when the customs-postal property on Charlotte St. was being considered.

Fare To Toronto Not Paid Borrowed $19

The mysterious "Mr. White" is at it again.

For the second time this month, a smooth-talking, disappearing man has cheated a district taxi-driver out of a long fare. This time, he got $19 of the cabbie's own money, just to add insult to injury.

The victim Tuesday was Stewart Grant, Peterborough taxi-driver. About 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, he picked up the fare at a city hotel. The man, according to his story, was a representative of a typewriter company. He had just sold five machines to the Civic Hospital here and would be going to Toronto to arrange for them. The driver and passenger agreed on a flat $25 feet to drive the man to Christie St. Hospital in Toronto.

Before leaving Peterborough, the man had himself driven around to the Civic Hospital, where he stayed for a few minutes, presumably talking over the business deal there.

(John Hornal, superintendent of Civic, told The Examiner today that he had no dealings with any typewriter man by that name Tuesday, and that there were decidedly no orders for five machines for the hospital being considered. The local office of the company named by "Mr. White" also advised that no one of that name works for them and that they know of nobody by that name in the company).

This fictitious duty over, "Mr. White" settled back and enjoyed his comfortable ride to Toronto. Arriving at Christie St. Hospital, he went in and came out shortly in about 10 minutes.

He told Grant that he had just completed "a deal" for a radio, for which he needed $19 cash — which he didn't have with him at the time. So the obliging driver loaned him the money.

"Mr. White" went back into the hospital.

He hasn't been found since.

A report from Cobourg recently told of a similar trick played on an Orillia taxi-driver, who apparently drove the same man from Orillia to Cobourg, then fell for the "borrowing" story, which is apparently delivered with surprising sincerity.

He was described as about 55 years old, six feet tall, 190 pounds, wearing a dark suit, a neat dresser, and—this might be a hint—with "a drinker's nose."

Knights Templar Meet In Toronto

The 65th annual session of Sovereign Great Priory Knights Templar was held in Toronto this week commencing on Sunday evening with a church parade to the Metropolitan United church. More than 500 members of the order paraded and in a capacity filled church heard Rev. Dr. Harold Young, a former minister of George Street United church, preach. Following return to the hotel the Grand Master's reception was held.

At the business sessions 24 Knights from Halifax to Victoria registered and reports indicated a large increase in the membership of the order during the past year. On Monday night the grand master's dinner was held and was followed by a dance.

At the election of officers Fred G. Mann of Moore Preceptory, Peterborough, was re-elected to the Grand Council and Dr. W. Montgomery of Toronto, was elected Grand Prior of Toronto district.

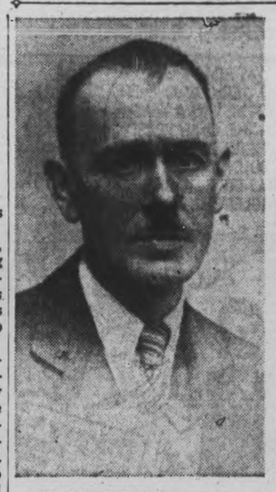
Car Rolls Over Is Total Wreck

One car was a "total wreck" as a result of a collision at Rubidge and Wolfe Sts. about 8 o'clock this morning. That car was driven by Elwood Grahame, 439 Edison Ave. In collision with the car of Bruce Taylor, of 564 Charlotte St., the Graham car skidded sideways about 50 feet, made a complete turn in the centre of the road and rolled over on its side.

There was little damage to the Taylor car.

Richard Grahame, father of the driver, received treatment for slight knee injuries.

PC V. J. O'Donoghue investigated.



RE-ELECTED a member of Grand Council of Sovereign Great Priory of Canada Knights Templar meeting this week in Toronto was Fred G. Mann (above) registrar of Moore Preceptory, Peterborough.

37 Children Killed or Hurt In City This Year Mayor Makes Radio Appeal

Mayor Ovens appealed for good manners—more care and courtesy—by motorists in his radio talk to the community Tuesday evening. His Worship quoted police department records in his statement that so far this year 37 children have been killed or injured in Peterborough as compared with 20 last year.

"I was so disturbed about the comments that were passed last night at the meeting of the finance committee of the council relative to driving and safety precautions on our city streets that I decided this was more important to discuss with you than any other subject."

"I wonder how many of you are aware that there were 2,239 children under the age of 15 years injured or killed in Ontario last year."

Mayor Ovens said the council could ask the police commission to assign more policemen for directing of traffic, instal more stop signs and stop caution lights, but essentially the most effective curb on accidents would be an increase in the feeling of consideration of others and care in driving.

The details of the local accidents, including fatalities of children, were quoted by Mayor Ovens in CHEX talk from the summary of Police Constable John Morrow. For 1948 they have been as follows:

Chilren Blamed

Eight children injured by running across streets in front of oncoming traffic. (That accepted phrasing puts all the responsibility on the children. It mentions nothing about drivers).

Fourteen children were injured in collisions of automobiles and bicycles. (Manifestly that signifies cars ran into bicycles.)

Six children were injured by running into the roadway from behind parked automobiles. (Every parked car should be looked upon as a possible danger to children).

One child was injured by stepping through a hole in a sidewalk grill. Two ran into the side of moving cars. One child was injured while playing with a wagon on the road, and another was injured while playing in a driveway.

Two children were injured after getting out of cars and running around behind them into the path of oncoming traffic. One was injured riding from a terraced lawn in a wagon out in front of a car. One child drowned

Such was the outline of casualties to Peterborough children since Jan. 1 this year, almost every one of them happening on the street which is assumed safe. In many parts of the city it is the only place children have to resort to if they move from in front of their homes.

Mayor Ovens said Peterborough drivers were not calloused, but many of them did not think sufficiently of the rights and the safety of others.

60 DP's Start Night Classes; Study English

More than sixty displaced persons, male and female, will commence their night study classes tonight at PVCS, many of them for the second term. A few days ago they received a letter of notification in their parent language from the Board of Education, Toronto, advising them when and where to gather. A separate letter was sent by the Board to their employers and the Peterborough National Employment Service office also sent letters so that there would be no misunderstanding; it also gave the pupils a personal approach. After all, Peterborough officials have handled their problems since their arrival in their apointed district and know each immigrant personally.

Women DP's who came to the city last winter have been taking language lessons at the YWCA and if they were married, their husbands joined them. This group are now at the learning stage where they are able to join last season's class groups. Subjects taken are basic English and Canadian civics and the Service reports that the scheme has shown amazing results after one year of operation.

BOOK PAUL WHITEMAN

Peterborough Kinsmen have booked Paul Whiteman for Oct. 29. This is not a dance engagement, but a musical review. "It will be the same concert Whiteman is giving in Toronto on the 30th." Harley Weir said today. "He is going on to Detroit from Toronto, making only two appearances in Ontario."

Rule Player Ineligible Game To Be Replayed

NAPANEE, Sept. 15 — Saturday's OBA junior B playoff game between Whitby and Gananoque, won, 3-2, by Whitby, has been thrown out following a complaint that third baseman McGregor of Whitby was ineligible. The loss would have eliminated Gananoque from the playoffs.

No arrangements for a replay have yet been made.

U.S. Air Force Licks Problem Of Arctic Work

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15. — (AP).—The United States bomber force has licked the problem of operating in the stormy but strategic Arctic, its chief disclosed today.

Gen. George C. Kenney, Canadian-born boss of the strategic air command, said crews have learned how to fly B29s "with high efficiency" in the bitter cold up near the top of the world

"Last winter we took all the mystery out of flying B-29's in the Arctic," he said in an interview.

"The main thing we need for Arctic operations," Kenney said, 'is just about twice as many people, because a man's efficiency there is just about half of normal."

Failure of equipment in the Arctic training, however, was pared down until it was no greater than it was for bombers operating over the deserts of the south-western United States.

Change Engines

To demonstrate that it could be done, maintenance men changed engines on B-29's out of doors with the temperature 40 degrees below zero.

Kenney has no comment on the status of the Polar bastion's other air defence — fighter protection, warning networks, anti-aircraft and garrisons—except to say that "the situation has improved slightly."

The United States air force, however, had disclosed that operation of jet fighters in the far north is getting close attention. A squadron of F-80 fighters went to Alaska last December for six months of training and test flights.

Here And There In Sports . . .

Nine clubs will enter the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series this season, and five in the senior race. This was made known Tuesday at Toronto by OHA officials who said Toronto Young Rangers are expected to drop from the Junior series and Hamilton Pats and Brantford have withdrawn from the Senior.

The nine Junior clubs are: Toronto Marlboros, Toronto St. Michael's College, Barrie, Stratford, Oshawa, Galt, St. Catharines, Windsor and Guelph. Senior clubs are Toronto Marlboros, Hamilton Tigers, Owen Sound, Kitchener and Stratford.

Burly Bob Sandberg of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers holds the lead in the individual scoring race with eight games completed in the Western Inter-Provincial Football Union.

Canadian Press statistics released Tuesday at Winnipeg, gave Sandberg, imported backfield player from Minnesota, a total of 18 points on three touchdowns and three singles. Ken Charlton of Saskatchewan Roughriders has 17 points for second place.

Charlton has scored two touchdowns and seven singles. Calgary Stampeders' plunging backfielder, Paul Rowe, is third with 15 points from three touchdowns.

General Manager Frank Selke of Montreal Canadiens announced Tuesday at Montreal that defenceman Roger Leger has signed his contract for the 1948-49 season. Leger, a bruising rearguard who tips the scales at 220 pounds, will be starting his third season with the team.

The Ontario Minor Hockey Association announced Tuesday at Toronto that the executive has endorsed a recommendation for a series of meetings for referees. The aims are to improve standards of refereeing, to attain uniform interpretation of rules and to encourage retired players to become referees. The meetings are to be held in Strathroy, St. Thomas, Mitchell, Brantford, St. Catharines, Kitchener, Bolton, Midland, Oshawa and Trenton.

Ora G. Herbert is no "homer" but he saved the greatest race of his brief lifetime for the track on which he was born when he set a new record for three-year-old futurity pace in winning the event at London, Ont., Tuesday. Never pressed too much in any of his three winning heats, the brilliant colt stepped off the mile in 2.06 1-5 as he captured the final whirl.

New Threat To Title

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 15. —(AP).—A new foreign threat appeared on scene today as play in the men's singles division of the United States national tennis championships moved into the quarter-final round wtih some of the erstwhile aspirants to the vacant title languishing on the sidelines. The new invader from overseas is Eric Sturgess, South African champion, making his first appearance in the U.S. championships. Sturgess Tuesday knocked out second-seeded Billy Talbert of New York in such a manner as to convince the spectators he might go all the way.

OUT TO WIN THE CANADIAN OPEN SPORTING RIFLE TITLE in 1949 is Mrs. Roselle Coe, Edmonton, Alberta, mother. She's the third woman in Canada to score a perfect 6,000 out of 6,000 to win the Dominion Marksmen's Expert Shield.

Don't Want Ban To Hit Playoffs

TORONTO, Sept. 15.—(CP).—R. H. Saunders, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, today expressed the hope that some relief could be granted to baseball and softball teams who fear playoffs may be disrupted by restrictions on use of electricity. The restrictions, which became effective Tuesday, limit lighting for night games.

"We were hopeful that the restrictions would not have been necessary until Oct. 1 and by that time the games would be over," said Mr. Saunders.

The Commission made known allotment of kilowatt hours daily for a number of larger centres in the province: Brantford 90,000; Chatham 18,000; Galt 135,000; Hamilton 2,400,000; Kitchener 414,500; London 635,000; Merritton 139,000; Niagara Falls 152,000; St. Catharines 391,000; St. Thomas 129,000; Sarnia 190,000; Stratford 104,000; Toronto 5,250,000; Welland 139,000; Windsor 690,000; Belleville 113,000; Kingston 255,000; Oshawa 229,000; Ottawa 430,00; Peterborough 260,000.

Figures on previous allotments were not available.

Indian Hurler Seriously Ill

CLEVELAND, Sept. 15.—(AP). —Don Black, the Cleveland Indians' hurler who suffered a hemorrhage near the brain, Monday continued in critical condition today with physicians giving him an even chonce to live.

"For the time being there's nothing we can do," Dr. Edward Castle, team physician, said. "It's up to Don himself. If he can fight it off, we can later do something. In the meantime, we just have to sweat it out with him."

The 30-year-old player became unconscious Monday shortly after he twisted his neck in batting against the St. Louis Browns.

Physicians said he had suffered a sub-arachnoid hemorrhage when an unnatural growth broke open as he swung at the ball.

PERSONAL FINANCE COMPANY OF CANADA OPENS PETERBOROUGH BRANCH

DALTON R. THOMSON
Manager

Mr. Dalton R. Thomson was born in Arden, Ontario. He attended local schools, graduating from Plevna High School in 1940. He enlisted in the R.C.A.F., serving until his honorable discharge in 1946. He was appointed Assistant Manager of the Company's Kingston Branch in December, 1946. He comes to his new position as Branch Manager with a sincere desire to be of helpful service to all who need loans or financing. He will make his home in Peterborough.

We are pleased to announce the opening for business of the Peterborough Branch office of the Personal Finance Company of Canada. It gives us additional pleasure to announce the appointment of Mr. Dalton R. Thomson as manager.

The Personal Finance Company of Canada has been in business in Canada since 1933. We are grateful to the thousands of satisfied clients since that date who have made possible our steady growth which has resulted in the opening of this Peterborough Branch. We are happy to have the opportunity of serving our neighbors in Peterborough and vicinity with the kind of Personal Loan service that may best be helpful to them.

We welcome applications for loans from any employed person, married or single, or from any one with an income sufficient to permit repayment of a loan. Loans are made in amounts from $50 to $1,500 or more. Repayments are scheduled on a monthly basis to fit the individual's income in reasonable amounts so that they are easy to handle. Loans are made on the following plans to suit individual needs. The various loan plans offered are:

1. Loans to salaried people on signature only.
2. Loans to husband and wife only.
3. Loans with auto as security.
4. Loans with furniture as security.
5. Business fixtures and equipment loans
6. Farm stock and equipment loans.
7. Financing of autos and other articles with smaller down payments.

Most people will qualify under one of the above plans. It is never necessary to have bankable security to borrow at Personal Finance, and co-signers are seldom required to obtain a loan. Applications are handled in strict confidence and with all possible speed. Making loans and financing purchases is our full-time business and we endeavour to favourably approve every application received by us.

We suggest that if bills are bothering you, or needed medical or dental work should be done, or if a loan could be used to advantage right now, that you place your application today in person, by phone, or by mail, and give us an opportunity to serve you. We want to be helpful, and we will listen with respect and attention to your request.

New Book Gives Commonwealth Glimpse Of Plans

By JAMES McCOOK

LONDON, Sept. 15 (CP) — A glimpse of the possible commonwealth of the future, a union of independent states girdling the earth and including countries not at present counted as British, is given in a new book by Francis Williams, intimate of Prime Minister Attlee and other labor government leaders.

Williams recently resigned as director of public relations for he prime minister. Previously he headed the press and censorship division in the information ministry during the war and was editor of the pro-labor Daily Herald.

In his book, "The Triple Challenge," Williams devotes a section to commonwealth relations and his interpretation of labor's viewpoint may be a guide to the government's attitude at the Commonwealth Prime Ministers' meeting here Oct. 11.

Williams says the outward form of the Commonwealth may change considerably.

The Commonwealth may become "specifically, as it is already in fact, an association of independent and equal nations without even a difference in nomenclature to suggest a subordinate status for any of its members."

Citizenship Moves

"Establishment of Commonwealth citizenships—not, be it noted, British of British Commonwealth citizenships—is one step in that direction. That is its real significance."

The new Commonwealth, including the Asiatic Dominions, will provide in time a model for Britain's future relationship with territories of the colonial empire, Williams writes.

"What is here envisaged is the birth, through the economic and political developments which are now being pressed forward with all practical speed, of a series of independent nations that will in due course take their place as members of a Commonwealth which will thus become a union of independent states girdling the earth and which, it may well be, others outside the present British Commonwealth and Empire may wish to join because of political and economic advantages to be derived from such an association."

Williams writes that the 1946 meetings of the Commonwealth Prime Ministers in London showed that they came to similar conclusions on every question of major international importance although they differed on details.

Pastor Charges Offices Wasting Church's Money

OTTAWA, Sept. 15 — (CP). — Rev. T. W. Bird, United Church minister at Richmond, Ont., attacked Tuesday those "men in swivel chairs in Toronto and those Presbytery meetings where no one dares criticize the spending of church money."

Mr. Bird spoke at the meeting in Ottawa of the Presbytery of the United Church of Canada.

"Our pension fund is facing a crisis bigger than ever," said Mr. Bird. "We are told that annuitants may not expect any increase. The cost of living is going up and the anuitants are not receiving one cent of bonus.

"We're wasting hundreds of thousands of dollars on men in swivel chairs and on things we could do ourselves. Our Toronto office should be pulled down to a mere skeleton and the saving given to the annuitants."

The minister added: "We are spending $300,000 on palatial building in Toronto and on a large staff. We could cut that staff in half and the onus would be on us to keep up the church. These Presbytery meetings are just shadows. No one dares criticize the church's expenditures."

Reject Charges

Toronto officials of the United Church strongly rebutted Rev. T. W. Bird's charge that no one dare criticize the spending of church money.

Rev. Stanley H. Greenslade, chairman, Toronto West Presbytery, said "The whole thing (Mr. Bird's charges) doesn't ring true."

"That's pretty strong stuff," said Mr. Greenslade when the Richmond, Ont., minister's charges were read to him. "Is it worthy of any attention?"

"I have been chairman of both the East and West Presbyteries in Toronto, and never in my experience in the ministry have I seen any curb being placed on free speech on any matter—money or otherwise.

"I don't understand this fellow at all," continued Mr. Greenslade. "My own opinions are at direct variance with his. It has been suggested in various church bodies throughout the country that possibly annuitants should receive more money. I think in this regard that when the Pensions Fund gets into a position where an idea of that kind can safely be considered, it will do so. It was only two or three years ago that the Pensions Fund was pulled from a bad hole.

"I have no idea what Mr. Bird means by palatial buildings. All United Church offices are housed in the Wesley Building at Queen and John Sts. I am certain that the staff could not be cut in half and still operate efficiently."

YOU WOMEN WHO SUFFER HOT FLASHES then FEEL CHILLY-

Here's Good News!

Are you between the ages of 38 and 52 and going through that trying functional 'middle-age' period peculiar to women? Does this make you suffer from hot flashes, feel clammy, so nervous, irritable, weak? Then DO try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms! It's famous for this!

Many wise 'middle-age' women take Pinkham's Compound regularly to help build up resistance against this distress.

It helps nature (you know what we mean!). This great medicine also has what Doctors call a stomachic tonic effect.

Of Interest to Women

After Girl's Money Gives No Chance for Happiness

DEAR MISS DIX: I am crowding 30 and he is nearing 50. He has had numerous love affairs. Has been married and divorced and has had a common law wife.

Dorothy Dix

He had been going with a widow and supposedly was engaged to her, but the affair terminated suddenly and he immediately started to rush me. He talks disparagingly of her and says that all she wanted was his pay check. I happen to know that she doesn't need his money, is attractive and of good character, and I am wondering if she didn't drop him.

He is very much interested in my financial affairs and asks if I would continue to work if we got married, and I find he has made inquiries as to my parents' financial status. I am very anxious to marry, as I have a horror of being an old maid. What do you think of my chances of happiness with such a man?

MARTHA

ANSWER: Absolutely zero. I don't think you have a chance in the world of being happy with a man who seems to have neither morals nor principles nor any good qualities that would recommend him as a husband.

If you marry this man, he will expect you to keep on with your job and support him, and he will have no hestitation in taking your pay envelope from you and spending on himself the money you have earned. And he will nag your parents about money and humiliate you in every possible way.

Asking For Trouble

Why, since you are an intelligent woman, and at your age should know something of the world and how cruel husbands can be to their wives, do you even consider for a single minute the idea of marrying him and getting yourself into such a mess?

As for your dread of being an old maid, that has long since ceased to be a term of reproach, or any indication that a woman lacked in feminine allure. Many of the most prominent and honored women in the world have never married, not because they didn't have plenty of chances to marry, but because they were more interested in their careers than they were in any man. Believe me, it is a million times better to be an unhappy wife.

DEAR MISS DIX: When I was 11 years old my parents were killed in an accident and since then I have done most of the work for my two older sisters. Now I am 16, and a boy I love very much has asked me to marry him, but my sisters say I am too young to marry and I believe them. But they also say that if I marry they are going to live with us.

I feel that I cannot stand being the servant of two lazy girls any longer. What can I do? If I don't marry, I must go on in this awful situation of slaving for my sisters. If I do, they will still be on my hands. But I will have the comfort and companionship of a husband.

LOUISE

ANSWER: No, you won't have the comfort and companionship of a husband, for your two sisters will make trouble for you with him. They will try to boss him as they have bossed you, and he will resent it and your home will be a place of conflict, instead of peace.

But why do you submit to such tyranny? Why don't you just put on your hat and walk out on your sisters? They are just as able to make a living as you are, and you are simply silly and lacking in courage to let them enslave you. Don't be a Cinderella to your wicked sisters.

Home and School Association News

QUEEN ALEXANDRA SCHOOL

To honor the graduating class of Queen Alexandra School a large crowd gathered Monday evening for the first fall meeting of the Home and School Association. Mr. J. E. R. Munro presented diplomas and commented on the fine spirit and attitude of the group. Valedictorians were Faye Schwartz and David Bacon. Marion Crawford who stood second received a money prize of $5 from the Association. Mr. Leo Copp, master of the Normal School, as guest speaker directed his remarks to the class members.

The graduates are: David Bacon, Joyce Beals, Gwenyth Blackwell, Barbara Broadhurst, Walter Connor, Marion Crawford, Lillie Dack, Lauada Geeza, Reginald Gould, Arthur Harrison, Lois Harrison, Margaret Ingram, James Johnson, Barbara Kitchen, Dorothy Macklin, Jack Monks, James Morgan, Mary McBride, James Peltz, Robert Rogers, James Rutledge, Raymond Seabrook, Faye Schwartz, Wm. Snowden, Wm. Stewart, Marie Thompson, Wm. Watson, Wilma Wright, Ruth Walker and Violet Walker.

Mrs. Charlton McBride, past president, was in the chair, and Mr. Schwartz was chairman. Community singing was led by Messrs. Quirt McKinney and Jack Telford. Musical selections on the piano by former graduate George Ingham were much enjoyed. New members of the staff, Mr. Jack Telford and Mr. Gorman were introduced to the parents.

At the close Mr. Art Bacon moved a vote of thanks to the artists, speaker and chairman, and Mrs. Jack Hayward and her social committee served refreshments.

KING EDWARD SCHOOL

Mrs. L. Gibson, president, welcomed members and new teachers to the first regular meeting of King Edward Home and School Association Monday evening. Reports were read by all officers and conveners. Mrs. O. Laderach spoke on publications, outlining the duties.

Plans were made for a rummage sale to be held Thursday, September 23. Also for a tea and bazaar in December. As the graduating class numbers 85 they will be given diplomas at the October meeting to be held in Wesley Hall, St. James United Church.

A sing song was led by Mrs. Vert Reynolds, program convener, with Mrs. E. Ritchie accompanying pianist. Small Joanne Whitton entertained cleverly with ballet dancing, and her brothers, Bobbie and Billie Whitton played two piano duets.

Mrs. H. Cooke moved a vote of thanks, after which Mrs. A. Sanders and her committee served lunch.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, September 16

It is probable that at the height of a critical situation, when failure and lack of progress seem to put the highest hopes and wishes in a dangerous and static impasse, a sudden turn in the wheel of fortune may surprisingly accelerate the activities, engineer new channels for advancement and joyously boast cherished objectives into unlooked-for levels of attainment. A newer slant, a fresh routine, skilful and ingenious tactics in breaking up congested spots, could bring spectacular gains, in resources and plans.

For The Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are enjoined not be discouraged at the preliminary status of bold and expansive objectives, in which professional, financial, domestic and romantic issues seem to waver in the balance. It is foreseen that a particularly brilliant idea, one of ingenuity, audacity and skill, may cause a sudden about-face in which the denouement may be spectacular as well as holding dramatic reactions on personal, social and romantic affiliations. Such ingenuity could have radical or revolutionary force for reversing the fortunes and enhancing prestige and popularity.

A child born on this day is splendidly equipped with originality, exceptional skills and new techniques, to promote its personal and professional efforts dynamically.

Donna White Weds Ernest J. Lee To Live In Toronto

St. George's Anglican Church was decorated with white and pink baby 'mums on Saturday afternoon for the wedding uniting Donna Gwendolyn White and Ernest Joseph Lee at which the Rev. E. C. Moore officiated. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. White, and the groom a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lee, all of Peterborough.

Wedding music was by Miss Mildred McIntyre who played "Ave Marie" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father the bride was wearing an original style gown of white moire taffeta with yoke of fine Swiss net, and a tiara of seed pearls from which embroidered veiling fell to her shoulders. She carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Bridal attendants were Mrs. E. R. Norrad as matron-of-honor, and Mrs. F. G. Mortimer as bridesmaid, both being sisters of the bride, also Miss Mary Knox, bridesmaid. Their frocks of moire taffeta were in mauve, pink and turquoise styled with fitted bodices, off-shoulder neckline and full flared skirts. Their mittens and halo hats were of matching material and they carried nosegays of 'mums and carnations.

Mr. Allen Lee was groomsman for his brother and ushers were Morris Richardson and Fred G. Mortimer.

At the reception afterward at the bride's home her mother received wearing a navy and white corded silk dress, navy hat with feather trim and a corsage of red carnations. The groom's sister, who also received was attired in black with checked trim, black accessories and a corsage of 'mums.

When leaving later for Haliburton where Mr. and Mrs. Lee will spend a honeymoon, the bride was wearing a suit of baby blue and white check and navy accessories, with a corsage of carnations. They will live in Toronto.

War Of Nerves In C. America

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 15 (AP) —A war of nerves is under way in Central America, northbound travellers arriving here said today.

Key figures in the Central American unrest are Gen. Anastasio Somoza, "strong man" of Nicaragua; Jose Figueres, head of the military-civilian Junta governing Costa Rica; Juan Jose Arevalo, left-wing president of Guatemala; Tiburico Carias, who expects to step out of office as president of the Dominican Republic; and Arnulfvo Arias Madrid, defeated president of Panama, now in exile in Mexico.

Qualified observers believe the war of nerves may develop into a shooting war, but none will hazard a guess where it might start. Tension is strongest between Nicaragua and Costa Rica.

It is doubtful that either Somoza or Figueres want a shooting war, but Somoza is under pressure from Costa Ricans exiled in Nicaragua. Among the exiles is Teodoro Picado Michalski, deposed president of Costa Rica.

The exiles in Costa Rica have a strong dislike for Somoza, whom they describe as a "dictator."

Seven Pay Fines

Robert McMaster, 474 Wolsley St. was fined $50 and $2.50 costs when he pleaded guilty today before Magistrate W. R. Philp, to a charge of keeping a common gaming house. Fined $30 and $2.50 costs each for being found in were: Arthur Bennett, 793 George St.; James Keiley, 106 Murray St.; Edward Alberico, 776 Bethune; Martin McNee, 240 Simcoe St.; William Dawson, 585 Harvey St. and Michael Sheehy, 751 George St. An eighth man, Neil Harrington, 411 Downie St., also charged as a found-in, was adjourned for one week.

FULL OF CLOSE PLAYS

AT ONE extreme we find the "pianola" type of hand, in which the play is a good deal like pumping on a pedal while the results follow automatically as if from a record. At the other end is the deal filled with a series of close questions. At one stage after another the declarer is confronted with the alternative of putting up his highest card of the suit led or sticking in some lower card in the hope that it will either win or else force out a much higher card from the defenders. Those deals are usually the most interesting to play, or to kibitz.

	♠Q 8 7 ♥10 9 4 ♦9 8 4 ♣A K 9 3
♠A J 2 ♥A 6 5 ♦10 7 6 2 ♣Q J 4	N W E S	♠5 4 ♥J 7 3 ♦K J 5 3 ♣10 8 6 2
	♠K 10 9 6 3 ♥K Q 8 2 ♦A Q ♣7 5

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	2♣	Pass
2♥	Pass	2♠	Pass
3♠	Pass	4♠

Upon winning the diamond 2 lead to the K with a A, South embarked on a whole series of problems of which direction to lead various suits, then which card to put on from the opposite hand. The deal was in a tournament, so every trick might prove vital.

To the second trick she led the spade 3 and, after West played the 2, put in the Q. Next the heart 10 was led and, when East played low, used the Q, which West allowed to win. The club 5 to the A enabled her next to put forth the spade 7, the 10 losing to the J and the A being used by West to clear the dummy of trumps.

The club Q return was won by the K and the heart 9 led. When East again played low to force a guess, she guessed right by playing the 3 and West had to use the A to win. That was really the play that decided the hand. If she had put her heart K on the trick and the A had killed it, the J would have been established in East's hand for the trick that would have set the contract.

Having lost only two tricks in spades and one in hearts, she made her game. More than that, she struck another lick for the doctrine that women can play just as well as men. She was Mrs. Desmond Wray of Lynchburg, Va.

What safety element does a No Trump contract possess on this deal, as against a suit slam?

6—In Memoriams

BROWN—In loving memory of Mrs. Emma Jane Brown, who passed September 15, 1948.
Deep in our heart lies a picture,
Of a loved one laid to rest.
In memory's frame we shall keep it,
Because she was one of the best.
—Ever remembered by Florence and Lynn.

McGILL—In loving memory of a dear mother, who passed away September 15, 1942.
A wonderful mother, woman and aid:
One who as better God never made,
A wonderful worker, loyal and true,
One in a million, that mother, was you.
Just in your judgment, always right,
Honest and liberal, ever upright,
Loved by your friends and all you knew;
A wonderful mother, that mother was you.
—Ever remembered by daughter, Olive.

McGILL—In memory of a loving wife and mother, who passed away September 15, 1942.
Remembrance is a golden chain
Death tries to break, but all in vain,
To have, to love and then to part
Is the greatest sorrow of one heart.
The years may wipe out many things,
But this they wipe out never,
The memory of those happy days,
When we were all together.
—Sadly missed by husband, Herman McGill and family.

STABLER—In loving memory of our dear son, Carl Roy Stabler, who passed away 3 years ago, September 16, 1945, also dear son, Clarence John Stabler, who passed away 12 years ago, March 4, 1936.
Deep in our hearts you are fondly remembered,
Sweet, happy memories cling to your names,
Fond hearts that loved you in life most sincerely,
Always will love you in death just the same.
—Ever remembered by mother father, sisters and brothers.

Hospital Costs Go Up $86,000

BRANTFORD, Sept. 15 (CP)—The full meaning of a high cost-of-living, as seen in a public institution, became apparent in a financial report presented to the board of governors of the Brantford General Hospital Tuesday.

Wages paid to members of the hospital staff in the first eight months of this year totalled approximately $60,000 more than in the same period last year.

Cost of drugs up to the end of August was roughly $7,000 more this year than in 1947.

Coal costs rose by about $3,000.

Grocery bills, a headache to every housewife, set the hospital back by the end of August by approximately $16,000 more than in the first eight months of 1947.

Bicycle Riders Hit Hard By Fines

Only one liquor case and a number of separate charges concerning bicycles were in the 25 minor matters put through court today.

Douglas Drinkwalter, Cobourg, was fined $10 and $2.50 costs for obtaining liquor while being under 21 years of age.

George Chapman, RR 1, Bethany, was fined $10 and $2.50 costs for driving with inadequate brakes.

Harold Medland of Claraday, The Quaker Oats Co. of Ottawa and A. Moldaver, 433 Gordon Ave. were each fined $3 and $2.50 costs for driving through a stop street.

For driving through a red light, A. Dunn of 281 Prince St. was fined $4 and $2.50 costs.

Driving bicycles without licences cost $1 fines and $1 costs each to: Jack Crough, 233 Perry St.; Reta Gerard, 280 Prince St.; Harold Wildman, 824 Lansdowne St.;

Treasurer Arrested For Taking $4,300

TORONTO, Sept. 15 — (CP) — Douglas Moffatt, 19-year-old treasurer of the Imperial theatre here, has been arrested in Montreal and charged with the week-end robbery of $4,300 from the theatre safe, Toronto police said today.

Police say $3,000 was seized from Moffatt when he was arrested. The stolen money had been prepared for bank deposit.

'Power' Policemen

TORONTO, Sept. 15 — (CP). — Mayor H. E. MacCallum said Tuesday large Toronto industries are appointing special "policemen" to see that hydro restrictions are observed. The mayor said plants have found they can save as much as 15 per cent of its electric power costs — enough to pay the salary of a "policeman."

Extra Cheques For Rail Men

MONTREAL, Sept. 15—(CP)—Back-pay cheques worth about $176 each before income tax and pension deductions will go out to more than 150,000 Canadian railroad workers within the next fortnight, it was learned here today.

The cheques will be made out on basis of the 17-cents-an-hour wage increase for workers dating back to March 1. The increase was granted July 14 in settlement of the union-management dispute which threatened to tie up Canada's rail-transport.

The first Canadian National Railways cheques are due to be mailed Thursday. Canadian Pacific Railway cheques will be mailed Sept. 28.

Places Blame On Management

KIRKLAND LAKE, Sept. 15—(CP)— Oliver Breton, local 240 organizer for the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (C.I.O.) today blamed management for the restrictions placed on some Canadian trade uuion members entering the United States.

He said in an interview that "The U. S. action was taken at the request of the operators who sought to destroy and sabotage Canadian Trade Unions."

He said also that "some people within the labor movement are helping to bring this about."

Immigration officials at Chicago last Saturday turned back seven members of the U.M.M.S.W. on their way to a union convention in San Francisco.

Berlin Denounces Stiff Sentences On Five Youths

BERLIN, Sept. 15 — (AP) — Anti-Communist Berliners today denounced 25-year sentences imposed by a Soviet military court on five youths who took part in last Thursday's rioting against Russian troops and German police.

The hard labor sentences touched off a torrent of bitter press comment which worsened relations between anti-Communists and Communists in this divided, blockaded city.

The youths were sentenced at a secret trial. The official Russian announcement said they were convicted of attacks upon German police and Russian soldiers, violation of law and order and tearing down the Soviet flag from the Brandenburg Gate. They were participants in an anti-Communist mass meeting which became embroiled with Russian police and Soviet-backed German police.

Their sentences were the highest which could be imposed, since the Soviet courts last year abolished the death penalty.

The western press raised a chorus of complaint against the severity of the sentences. It charged the Russians refused to permit the defendants a German defence lawyer, rejected appeals by the city government to send an observer to the trial and refused to let in the press.

Rescue 39 Crew Members Off British Freighter, Fate Of Six More Unknown

Ship Caught In Path Of Atlantic Hurricane Now Completely Abandoned; Was En Route From London To New York

NEW YORK, Sept. 16—(AP).—Thirty-nine crew members of the abandoned British freighter Leicester have been rescued in the hurricane-whipped North Atlantic, her owners said today, but the fate of six others is unknown. Earlier, coast guard headquarters here said 38 men had been rescued from the freighter by an American ship, Cecil N. Bean, and an Argentine ship in mountainous seas. The New York agent for the Leicester had said she carried a crew of 42.

The Bean reported that 18 crew members were rescued by the Argentine steamer Tropero. The remainder of the Leicester's crew was reported lost.

The Leicester, a 7,266-ton, New York-bound freighter, was caught in the path of the northward sweeping mid-Atlantic hurriance. She has now been completely abandoned, the Bean message said.

The Leicester was en route from London to New York, the Coast Guard said. The Federal Steam Navigation, Ltd., of London is listed as the owner.

The rescue scene, about 400 miles southwest of Cape Race, Newfoundland, was reported "probably pretty close to the centre" of the mid-Atlantic hurricane path, the weather bureau in Washington said Wednesday.

Meanwhile, the Coast Guard received unconfirmed word that the Portuguese fishing schooner Gaspar still was afloat about 300 miles off Newfoundland instead of presumably sunk as first reported. Word was received from the Spanish trawler Tifton the Gaspar was in no urgent need of assistance.

Report Plane Heard Sunday Press Search

THE PAS, Man., Sept. 16 (CP) —Aircraft searching for a United States navy plane missing since Sunday in the wilds of northern Manitoba are checking three reports today:

1. That T. Godbout of Wabowden, Man., heard an aircraft about 2 p.m. Sunday near Setting Lake.

2. That a plane was seen about four miles north of here the same day.

3. That a plane was sighted Sunday in the region of Ilford, 300 miles northeast of here.

It is believed, however, that the aircraft reported seen in the Ilford region was equipped with pontoons. The missing plane was wheel-equipped.

Searching planes took of at 9 a.m. EDT today. Group Capt. Z. L. Leigh of Vancouver, director of operations, said the missing plane's pilot was Chief Petty Officer Jack M. Kastner, U.S. Navy.

Indians, trappers and fishermen have been asked to watch the shores of the lakes which stud the country.

When the missing plane left Churchill for the past Sunday morning, five persons were aboard.

Today, with the possible maximum of 28 reached in the number of planes scouring northern Manitoba's grim, tree and lake-infested terrain, the moccasin trail was recruited.

Water Heaters Cut 3 Days Week

TORONTO, Sept. 16 (CP)—The Ontario Hydro Commission likely will order all flat-rate water heaters in Southern Ontario cut off from noon until midnight for about three days a week, Robert H. Saunders commission chairman, said today. The order is expected to come at the end of the week.

Word of this possible move to conserve electrical energy comes a few hours after Mr. Saunders said that restrictions already in force are proving inadequate to meet the shortage.

Following his announcement, Mr. Saunders left for Ottawa to discuss a "new development" in connection with the electrical shortage.

Deluge Damages Nfld. Capital

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Sept. 16 — (CP).—A hurricane-bred deluge struck this capital Wednesday, causing one death and heavy damage throughout the city and surrounding Avalon Peninsula.

Three-year-old Morhine Winsor died when her home was crushed in a landslide caused by the torrential rain. Her mother and several other children were saved from the ruins without injury.

Earlier reports had given the name of the family as Sharpe, but these were corrected as conditions returned to normal today.

The railway line through Waterford Valley was buried under debris from the landslide on suburban Southside Hill and other train and bus services were dislocated by the floods.

The lower storeys of several houses on Southside Hill were submerged. Water rushing over the city's inclines brought tons of rocks and mud onto the streets at the lower levels.

Reds In Canada Trying To Get DP's Under Wing

OTTAWA, Sept. 16 — (CP) — Communists in Canada are still trying to persuade Displaced Persons arriving in the Dominion to join Communist organizations or Communist - dominated unions, but their efforts are not meeting with much success, a labor department official said today.

The official said he was not aware of any increase in this type of activity, which was not illegal. Canadians still enjoyed the right of free speech and the handing out of literature was not against the law.

The fact that the Communists knew the arrival time of special trains carrying the immigrants did not mean that there was a leak of information somewhere. Railway officials knew and gave out on request the arrival time of such trains. Newspaper reports usually indicated the number of immigrants arriving and their places of origin.

The official said that Displaced Persons going into the mining and lumbering industries are probably bothered by the Communists more than immigrants going into other types of work. He said this was because many of the members of mining and lumbering industries were Communists.

"I believe 99.99 per cent of the new arrivals are resisting the efforts of Communists," he said. "I believe they resent these approaches being made to them."

He said one indication of this was the recent gang fight in a North Bay lumbering camp where Displaced Persons fought it out with Canadians who were trying to put pressure on them.

India Appoints Adminstrators In Hyderabad

NEW DELHI, Sept. 16—(AP)—India prepared today to take over the government of Hyderabad as soon as Indian troops, already deep in the princely state, win control.

At the same time, a military communique said spearheads of Indian forces pushing toward the Hyderabad capital from east and west now are only 125 miles apart.

In the west, an Indian column reached Zahirabad, 63 miles from Hyderabad city and 20 miles south of a Razakar (Moslem volunteer army) stronghold at Bidar.

Another column rolled past Suriapet, to a point about 60 miles from Hyderabad and its military suburb of Secunderabad.

The appointment of D. S. Bakhle, home secretary of the Bombay provincial government, and D. R. Pradham, secretary of the Bombay Health and Land Department, as Hyderabad's civil administrators, was announced by V. P. Menon, secretary of the Indian states ministry.

They will work with Lt.-Gen. Maharaja Shri Rajendrasinhji, commander-in-chief in the south. Menon said A. V. Patro of Madras had been appointed director of Hyderabad's police and civil administrators had been named for each district of Hyderabad, to be installed as rapidly as the regions come under Indian Army control.

Interim Appointments

He emphasized the appointments all were of an interim nature, to continue only until the people of Hyderabad decide for themselves what kind of government they want, as well as their future relationship to the Hindu Dominion of India. Most of Hyderabad's population are Hindus, but the Moslem ruler, the Nizam, has refused to accede to India.

The Indian headquarters spokesman said Hyderabad resistance in the west remains stiff. Informants in Madras who speculated Wednesday that the capital might be reached by today or tomorrow revised their opinions today. They said they thought all the advancing columns would synchronize their movements to ring Secunderabad and Hyderabad City before moving in on them. They declined even to hint how long they thought that would take.

Rev. M. Cooke Davies Appointed Speaker

TORONTO, Sept. 16 — (CP).—Rev. M. Cooke Davies, 51, of Windsor, was named new Speaker of the Ontario Legislature today at a regular Cabinet meeting. Premier Drew announced that his name would go before the next session with a motion for his appointment to the post.

Mr. Davies, member for Windsor-Walkerville, will be the third Speaker in the Legislature since Progressive Conservative Party came to power. W. J. Stewart, former member for Tor. Parkdale, was chosen Speaker in February, 1944, and was succeeded by Mr. Hepburn.

"Wing Cmdr. Davies has made a splendid contribution to the debates in the Legislature, has been a most conscientious member, and has won the respect of the members of all parties," said Mr. Drew in the announcement of the appointment.

No One Held Responsible For Drowning

Girl's Family Certain Supernatural Force Impelled Her To Move

By JOHN LEBLANC

PALMER RAPIDS, Ont., Sept. 16 (CP)—Story of religious emotion stirring a girl to wade blindly to her drowning was on the records of a Coroner's Inquest today.

A jury summoned by the Ontario Attorney-General's Department heard Wednesday that Violet Gogolin, 18-year-old daughter of a prosperous farmer, was driven by "the holy spirit" to walk into the Madawaska river Aug. 22 after a seven-hour "Praise the Lord" meeting in her riverside home.

Sitting in the tumbledown meeting hall of this village 100 miles west of Ottawa, the panel of farmers and lumbermen listened as Violet's father, sister and other relatives, all clutching well-thumbed Bibles, told of events in their isolated home deep in the timber country.

Finally, they decided simply that the girl died by drowning with no one held responsible.

For the girl's family—four of whom testified — there was no doubt in their evidence that a supernatural force had impelled her to go into the water.

Hold Service

Their story was that the family, led by 55-year-old Henry Gogolin, the girl's father, had been holding a family service of worship—consisting mostly of "Praising the Lord"—from 9 p.m. of the previous night until 4 a.m. of the morning Violet died.

At about 4 o'clock, they related, Violet "received a blessing." This consisted of a "born-again experience," which is as far as the explanation went.

After the blessing, Violet and her 23-year-old sister Viola—who had received a "blessing" the previous night—left the house, not knowing where they were going and steered only by the "spirit."

Viola, a composed figure in an old-fashioned cotton dress reaching to her cotton-hosed ankles, told the story.

"I was led to go on — I didn't know where," she said. She held her Bible to her body with both hands.

Both were "Praising the Lord" as they walked along in the dark, eventually coming to the river.

Will Prosecute Company Owner

TORONTO, Sept. 16.—(CP).—Employees of the Benedict Proctor Company at Trenton, near Belleville, have moved to prosecute the company's owner, H. J. Craddock, on a charge of violating Ontario labor regulations. A hearing on an application by the AFL Jewelry Workers' Union for leave to prosecute has been fixed by the Ontario Labor Relations Board for Sept. 29.

Mr. Craddock recently announced he would close his silver-platng plant on the grounds he was operating at a loss because of high cost. The employees took a five-per-cent wage cut and went back to work for one month—it ends Sept. 24—and said they would strike unless they received an increase by that time.

Expect Rhodesia To Be Eighth Dominion

Want To Delay Request For Status Until 2 Sections Incorporated

By JAMES McCOOK

LONDON, Sept. 16.—(CP).—Southern Rhodesia's election results are interpreted by London sources to mean the commonwealth eventually will have an eighth dominion with a population of nearly 5,000,000 citizens instead of one with 2,000,000.

The United Party of Prime Minister Sir Godfrey was returned to power in Wednesday's voting with an enlarged majority. This is taken here to mean endorsation of his policy of postponing an outright demand for dominion status until he has reached some arrangement to incorporate Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland Protectorate in the shceme.

Want Immediate Approach

Sir Godfrey's chief opponents, the Liberal party, who suffered a heavy loss in the voting, wanted an immediate approach to the United Kingdom to have status granted to Southern Rhodesia alone.

Southern Rhodesia now has the unique status of a "self-governing colony" and deals with the British government through the commonwealth relations office instead of the colonial office. She has full control over her own affairs with the exception of legislation affecting natives, which has to receive the endorsation of the United Kingdom.

If the Liberals had their way, Southern Rhodesia would demand—and probably receive—the status of an eighth dominion and develop her own policies for her total of nearly 2,000,000 people, including 100,000 whites, without interference.

To Discuss Hyderabad War

PARIS, Sept. 16—(AP).—The United Nations Security Council voted 8 to 0 today to look into the war situation in Hyderabad. China, Russia and the Soviet Ukraine abstained in the vote placing the Indian invasion of the princely state on the agenda. A Chinese motion to defer action on the agenda until Monday was defeated by 10 abstentions against China's single affirmative vote.

Dr. Jose Arce of Argentina offered the motion which placed the Hyderabad war formally before the council.

Hyderabad is seeking a cease-fire order, withdrawal of Indian troops and mediation by the UN.

Sir A. Ramaswami Mudaliar, representing India, told reporters his country contends "this is strictly a domestic affair" and is outside the province of the Council because Hyderabad is not a sovereign state.

Bustling Preparations

The Council is meeting in the great hall of the Palais de Chaillot on Place du Tracadero, where the UN General Assembly will convene Tuesday for two or three months to ponder the world's great problems.

Preparations for the Assembly meeting already were apparent as the 11-member Council responded to the summons for the meeting on Hyderabad.

The Assembly already has an agenda listing 60-odd items, including the disposition of the pre-war Italian colonies — Eritrea, Libya and Somaliland. The Big-Four Powers failed to agree on their future.

One other new problem, which may or may not be officially acknowledged by the Assembly, is posed by Garry Davis, 26, wartime United States aviator. He claims to be the first world citizen and demands recognition as such.

Butter Shortage Averted Will Import 9 Million lbs. Seeking Third Contract

OTTAWA, Sept. 16—(CP). — Canada's fears of a butter shortage were stilled today but there was the strong possibility dealers may press the Government for removal of price ceilings. Trade Minister Howe said in an interview Wednesday night the Government has completed negotiations with Denmark and New Zealand for the importation of some 9,000,000 pounds of butter.

The Government also was negotiating with a third country, Mr. Howe said, to meet the threat of a winter butter shortage of between 15,000,000 and 20,000,000 pounds.

Agreements so far completed call for supplies from New Zealand of 1,000 long tons and supplies from Denmark of 3,000 long tons. The amount of money Canada will spend under these agreements was not disclosed.

Acclaiming the government move, the National Dairy Council which represents some 500 to 600 dairy dealers in Canada, said it had strongly recommended immediate action in a brief presented to the cabinet last August.

Fine Approach

The council's president, J. H. Duplan, said in a statement the Canadian government was to be congratulated on its realistic approach to the acute butter problem.

He hoped the imports will be sufficient to meet the needs of Canadian consumers but urged the butter industry now be permitted to adjust its operations in orderly marketing and to prevent recurring shortages in future years.

Mr. Howe's move to meet the butter shortage does not affect the oleomargarine issue. The 62-year-old Canadian ban on the importation, production and sale of the butter substitute comes up for a legality test before the Supreme Court of Canada next month.

4 U.S. Men Recalled At Bucharest Demand

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16. — (AP).—The United States State Department disclosed today that four members of the United States legation staff in Bucharest have been recalled on the demand of the Romanian government.

Romania had accused the four of taking photographs in a forbidden zone.

The United States rejected the accusation and declared that the Romanian government's complaints "do not conform to the facts."

150 Germans Stone Police In Russ Zone

BERLIN, Sept. 16 (AP)—Some 150 German youths stoned three policemen in the Russian sector of Berdin today, the Soviet-controlled press reported.

This was the third stoning of eastern-sector police in recent weeks. The first two drew gunfire from the police and resulted in the death of one Berliner and the wounding of more than 20 others.

The Communist police report said the three policemen were returning home from duty when a swarm of youngsters near a "black market centre" set upon them and showered them with rocks from nearby rubble heaps.

The report said the youths were "incited by older people," one of whom was said to be drunk. He was arrested along with 15 boys. The boys were released after several hours, the account said.

A former Berlin official, meanwhile, was reported facing a secret Russian court today, as the east-west war on nerves continued.

Wednesday night, American authorities said the official—Dr. Curt Mueckenberger former manager of the Berlin central coal organization—was to face trial in a secret Soviet court session.

Mueckenberger was arrested by the Russians a month ago after they removed him from office for an "unco - operative attitude." Nothing since has been heard from him.

American officials said it was not clear what charges the Russians might bring against Mueckenberger. They said it appeared the only charge against him was his refusal to obey an order which Soviet authorities had no right to give.

Cripps Will Arrive In Canada Sunday

OTTAWA, Sept. 1.—(CP).—Sir Stafford Cripps, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, will arrive in Canada by air next Sunday to open talks on Anglo-Canadian financial and economic relations, it was announced Wednesday.

His party will include Sir John Woods, permanent secretary of the British Board of Trade, Sir Henry Wilson-Smith, second secretary of the treasury, and other treasury officials.

British officials here said it was expected Sir Stafford would spend most of next week in Ottawa holding discussions with Canadian government officials. From here, he will go to Washington for the annual meetings of the International Monetary Fund and the International Bank of Reconstruction and Development.

Thousands Of Japs Flee Flood Waters

TOKYO, Sept. 16 (AP)—Thousands of Japanese fled from their homes in the Tone river valley north of here Wednesday night as flood waters from torrential rains and a typhoon bore down on the metropolitan Tokyo area.

The United States army reported almost all of the residents of Ota, Ojima, Koizumi and Kumagaya evacuated their homes as the river rose 14 feet. The river was still within its banks but was rising rapidly.

The centre of the typhoon is expected to pass 35 miles east of Tokyo. Winds of at least 60 miles an hour are expected.

Workman Trapped Under 20 Ft. Of Earth 2nd Man Pulled From Well, Arm Broken

TORONTO, Sept. 16.—(CP). Charles Montieth, aged about 40, was found dead today beneath 20 feet of earth at the bottom of a 44-foot well at Highland Creek, 11 miles east of here.

A fellow workman, Alex Little, 38, of nearby West Hall, was rescued from the 20-foot level. He suffered a broken arm.

The men had just finished digging the well and a truck, carrying the pump pipe, was backed up to the well's edge. The trapped man descended to the bottom of the well and Little took up a position half way down. A third man stood at the mouth of the well to direct the pipe. The weight of the truck caused the edge of the well to cave in, burying the man at the bottom of the well and trapping Little between the pipe and the wall. Little was removed within a few minutes.

Plan To Haul Raw Ore To Lakefield

Ont. Gov't Report Lists Two Fissionable Metals

OTTAWA, Sept. 17— Uranium at Wilberforce is no longer a rumor, but a very real fact according to a report issued today by the Ontario Dept. of Mines, and entitled "The Haliburton Report." The 20-page printed report was prepared by E. S. Wolfe, professor of mining at Toronto University, and Nelson Hogg, Ontario Government geologist. Both men spent several weeks on the properties near the village of Wilberforce during June and July of this year.

At Ottawa H. G. Pitt, resident engineer at Leadura Mines said "at the outset we'll truck the ores from open quarry mining to Lakefield for concentrating until we have our own mill in production." Mr. Pitt added he would be employing a staff of 200 and carrying a payroll of $150,000 by spring.

This report confirming the presence of uranium and thorium shatters two-year wall of official silence around an extended strike of radio-active minerals in the Wilberforce area of Haliburton county, just 66 miles north of Peterborough.

Commercial exploitation of this new Eastern Ontario mining area, the report said would depend on the milling of concentrate carrying at least 10 per cent uranium.

"As the radioactivity of these deposits appears to be due largely to uraninite, production of such a concentrate appears feasible," the Mines Department announced in an analysis of their detailed geeological report.

"Radioactive minerals are widespread in the area," reported the Government experts, "and there is every reason to expect further discoveries will be made."

Car Overturns Woman Killed

COLBORNE, Sept. 1.—(CP).—Mrs. Doris Safe of Belleville, was killed and two other women seriously injured Wednesday night when the automobile in which they were riding careened off No. 2 highway east of here and overturned several times.

The three women, who were sisters, were rushed to hospital in Belleville. The condition of Mrs. Rita Marcus of Belleville and Mrs. Rose Berman of Kingston, is not serious.

The car rolled over several times, breaking off two telephone poles, before it came to a stop and ourst into flames. Police said the top of the car was crushed almost to the seats.

France's 5-Day Government Tottering Under Strikes

While Premier Henri Queuille's cabinet wrestled with financial measures, a wave of strikes many of them Communist-led, spread through the country. On the Right, followers of Gen. Charles De Gaulle pushed a campaign for national elections.

The cabinet faced one test on its request for a law limiting the right of police to strike. Debate may start tonight in the Assembly.

It faced a second threat on the premier's financial program, which includes opposition to general wage increases and the imposition of 50,000,000,000 francs (about $160,000,000) more in taxes. The last two previous governments fell on similar financial programs.

The strike movement hit hard at the aviation, automobile and steel industries.

About 49,000 mines and other employees staged a 24-hour strike at the Pas de Calais area and Lorraine coal pits, Wednesday.

Some 9,000 workers of the nationalized aviation industry still were out on strike, although about 7,000 had returned to work.

20 Per Cent Return

At the Renault automobile plant, about 20 per cent of the 35,000 workers who went on strike Wednesday returned to their jobs. The Communist-led Confederation Generale Du Travail sponsored a strike meeting there today, but opposing groups took over and the meeting broke up.

The state-owned airline was tied up, involving 4,000 ground crew and other traffic personnel at Paris's two main airports, Le Bourget and Orly. Air France planes were not taking off.

Many of the strikes were Communist-led and held the threat of further clashes with police. However, discontent among non-Communist labor leaders, under terrific pressure from the Reds to join the walkout, was growing.

Dairymen Ask Butter, Milk Prices Boosted

TORONTO, Sept. 16— Further increases in butter, milk and cheese prices are necessary if the country is to avoid a butter shortage this winter, the Dairy Farmers of Canada decided at a meeting here.

It was recommended that returns be upped 10 per cent on butterfat, bringing price boosts of one cent per quart for milk, eight cents a pound for butter and four cents a pound for cheese. An application will be made to the prices board and, if approved, the increases will go into effect within a couple of months.

Four dairy organizations which make up the dairy farmers group, agreed on the resolution which was passed at the session. They are the Ontario Whole Milk Producers' League, Ontario Cheese Producers' Association, Ontario Concentrated Milk Producers' Association and the Ontario Cream Producers' Association.

"If production is to be sunfficient to supply consumers of milk and milk products there must be an increase in returns to the farmer of 10 per cent a pound on butterfat," the resolution said. "We deplore, along with consumers, the continued spiralling prices and regret with them that due to increased costs and to get sufficient production . . . there must be a general increase in the dairy industry."

Can't Operate

R. W. Morrison, secretary of the cream producers' group, said farmers would go out of business if there were no increases in prices for milk and milk products. He based his views on the fact that cattle were being exprted regularly and feed prices were mounting. He noted, too, that the real estate value of farms had not increased.

"As the situation now stands," said V. S. Milburn, secretary of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, "farmers cannot afford to produce butter. The price of labor and machinery is constantly increasing; there was a nine per cent increase in farm equipment within the last few weeks, and consequently the decreasing volume of butter being produced is only normal."

He agreed with Mr. Morrison that the only thing that would give production a needed shot in the arm was a general increase in prices for butter and other milk products.

No Oleo Comment

The dairy organization decided not to discuss oleomargarine and other butter substitutes until a ruling has been handed down by the Supreme Court, although member groups have in the past said they would condone oleo in return for concessions to the dairy industry. Only factor that might change their views on price increases would be government subsidies, and "we haven't heard any official opinion on that."

There is a feeling in the dairy industry that reports of a coming butter shortage has caused hoarding, thus making the situation appear worse than it astually is, C. E. Lackner, director of dairying for Ontario, said in his summary of creamery reports for August.

He felt that reports of a shortage had caused "a considerable amount of hoarding by consumers," and added that production in Ontario during August was well above last year. September production will likely be down because of the lack of moisture.

Crown Has Completed Case Against Sirkoski

WHITBY, Sept. 61.— (CP). — The Crown Wednesday completed its case in the trials of Jack Sirkoski of Hamilton, charged with robbery and violence in a bank deposit snatch at Oshawa last Aug. 16. Two Crown witnesses identified Sirkoski as on of two men who snatched a satchel containing $12,110 in cash and cheques from a brewery warehouse accountant as he was about to enter an Oshawa bank.

Former Welland Policeman Is Sentenced For Robbery

WELLAND, Sept. 16—(CP).—Four Fort Erie men were sentenced Wednesday to penitentiary and a former Welland policeman was sent to reformatory following convictions by Supreme Court juries on charges of robbery with violence.

Vernon Huggins, 26, and Robert Fischer, 25, each got four years in the Penitentiary, and Donald Fournia, 21, and George Reenbold, 28, three years in Penitentiary. They were convicted of beating up Henry Wong, elderly proprietor of the Tic Toc Cafe, Fort Erie, April 29, and robbing him of $85 in cash, $300 in Canadian bonds and Chinese bonds.

When sentence was passed, Fischer's mother, Mrs. John Fischer, Fort Erie, cried and collapsed. She was led from the courtroom by Fischer's young wife.

Mr. Justice A. M. LeBel described the prisoners' crime as "deliberately planned" and "cowardly." He said he believed all were equally guilty."

Joseph Anger, Crowland, former Welland policeman, got 15 months' determinate and 12 months' indeterminate in Reformatory. He was convicted of robbery with violence of $400 from Gordon Nelson at nearby Ridgeway August 2.

"Your training on the Welland police force should have helped you withstand the temptation put before you by the stupid, foolish behavior of Nelson who was letting everyone know he had $400," said Mr. Justice LeBel. "Even so, that and the fact you were intoxicated was no excuse for what you did. I don't believe your crime was planned as was that of the men I just sentenced, and I think if you get over your fear of work, you'll go straight."

Prices Remain Steady As Trading Lags

TORONTO, Sept. 16 (CP) — Prices were steady as trading lagged on the stock exchange here today. Selected industrials showed a slightly stronger tone. Golds and base metals edged upwards while the few Western oils trading held their own.

Industrials mixed gains and losses in narrow fractional range. Canadian Vickers preferred highlighted a strong steels list with a gain of 2 points for a new high at 170.

Foods also firmed in the groupings while utilities were easier and papers quiet.

Lake Shore and McIntyre strengthened fractionally in senior golds while Bralorne eased 20 cents and La Luz five cents. Juniors showed mixed gains and losses.

Waite Amulet rose 10 cents at $8.90 in a firmer base metals list and Pend Oreille, Eureka and Osisko strengthened. Falconbridge, Normetal, East Sullivan and Quebec Labrador weakened.

At the water, Violet said, "Faith is the victory."

"Then," Viola recounted, "Violet walked into the water until it pretty well covered her head."

No Struggle

There was no outcry, no struggle. Violet could not swim. She just disappeared in about six feet of water.

There was a boat nearby, and the sister said she "made a step to go into it to reach for her."

"Violet," she told the jury, "was led by the Holy Spirit."

The father, a successful farmer with a big holding and modern farm equipment, agreed with his surviving daughter.

His round face showing no emotion, he said, "I believe the Holy Spirit led her there."

After Violet had waded to her death, her sister took a boat and crossed the slow-moving river to the side opposite from her home. This, she said, had been at the instance of "the Spirit."

When she got home an hour later, she told her folks the sister had "gone down in the water."

Prosaically, the elder Gogolin related that after the discovery "I went back and took the cattle home and done up some chores."

A large mass of cool air covers all of eastern Canada. Variable cloudiness is prevalent in western Ontario while skies are mostly clear in the east. Very warm air which sent temperatures above the 100-mark in the midwestern United States Wednesday is slowly edging towards Ontario where it is expected to cover the southwestern part of the province Friday. Other than for slowly rising temperatures little change is expected in the northern and eastern regions.

Forecasts:

Eastern Lake Ontario, Haliburton, eastern Kirkland Lake and eastern James Bay regions — Clear today. Variable cloudiness Friday. A little warmer Friday. Light winds.

Summary for Friday: Variable cloudiness.

GRASS FIRE

A grass fire in the King George School grounds started to spread at 1.30 this afternoon and the fire department was called to put it under control.

Beef Prices Still Near Top

Beef prices may show fluctuations up and down but you cannot fool the Peterborough housewife, they are still far too high for her purse. Now and then retailers show a bargain special price that is a reduction on some cuts of anywhere from six to nine cents, for a day or so only.

The situation started about three weeks ago when Canada lifted the beef embargo. Anticipation of a strong selling market shot all grades to new highs and Red Brand grade is still at the peak. Blue brands have been reduced some as well as the standby commercial grade. Commercial and blue brand steaks have always been the same price, according to one retailer.

The housewife cannot see any great reduction in meat prices at all even though they can buy a few cents cheaper at some stores over a week-end and find the price jumped again at the beginning of the week.

Plan To Handle

While the report noted prospecting by Geiger Counter still was "in its infancy," it had appeared "a concentrate containing 10 percent, uranium-oxide should be obtainable" from the Wilberforce ores.

The Atomic Energy Control Board is buying 10 percent uranium oxide concentrate at a guaranteed minimum $2.75 per pound.

On release of the Government's report Pitt, a Winchester-born mining and lumbering operator who has secured control of some 20,000 acres of the Wilberforce area, was enthusiastically planning immediate production.

In Ottawa to interview officials of the Mines and Resources Department and the Atomic Energy Control Board, Mr. Pitt who has spent two years and more than $350,000 in initial development of the area, said he would be hiring his labor at Pembroke, Eganville, Barry's Bay, Calabogie and adjacent centres, and planned a $500,000 investment in the mill.

The Ontario Government report bluntly stated some of the veins were devoid of uraninite, but in others "the Geiger Counter indicates radioactivity almost continuously."

Some of this radioactivity is due to thorium as well as radium, and while Canada has no means currently of using thorium, the United States Atomic Engery Commission is seeking it.

In a report prepared some years ago by Dr. Hugh S. Spence, the Wilberforce ore was found "easily concentrated with the concentrates of good grade".

Mr. Pitt, overjoyed with receipt of the Government report which came out over the signature of the Mines Department, said it had been prepared on an examination made of the field some two months ago before bulldozers had stripped much of the overburden from the radioactive rocks.

"An independent assay, made by Dr. H. Bolton, in the Toronto Testing Laboratory, showed a recovery of 40 pounds of uranium oxide to the ore ton", he said.

"There were samples which went as high as 400 pounds of uranium and thorium oxide to the ton."

Dr. Harold Way, geologist from Niagara Falls, N.Y., had made more than 20,000 Geiger Counter readings over a radioactive structure 2,100 feet long and seven feet wide.

"The Ontario Department's report today confirms our faith and all we had hoped for in this Wilberforce field", said Mr. Pitt. "On the basis of it we are justified to go ahead with what will be an important new mining operation in Eastern Ontario."

15 Men Enlist In HAA Regiment

Peterborough's own Reserve Force unit, the 50th Heavy AA Regiment RCA, will parade tonight to continue with their strong recruiting drive which has already netted them 15 new men, and to put the finishing touches to their plans for the week-long demonstrations by the unit for Army Week, which starts Monday.

Six more recruits presented themselves for documentation at the regimental training parade on Tuesday night and this flow of recruits is expected to continue tonight. Medical officials of the unit are working at top speed to take care of this influx of new blood. Last season the recruit total stood at an even hundred for the year.

Plans for Army Week include the opening of the ceremonies by His Worship Mayor W. G. Ovens, addresses by outstanding citizens an a large part of the program will be broadcast over CHEX. The men of the regiment will present a demonstration of actual training, and tonight's training will continue towards that end.

In addition to many reserve force recruits, regimental and A & T. staffs have been answering many queries in connection with enlistment in the Active Force.

Reserve Judgment In Appeal Case

Judgment was reserved Wednesday in an appeal case at Osgoode Hall from a judgement by Judge McGibbon of Peterborough County Court dismissing an action against Vincent M. Eastwood and Margaret M. Eastwood by the plaintiff, Alexander L. Elliott. The action was for damages for trespass on lands in Cavendish Twp., for declaration defining certain boundary lines in that township, for an order amending plan of the section and for an injunction. W. S. Montgomery, KC, and A. A. Macdonald, KC, represented the appellent and T. J. Carley, KC, acted for the respondents.

FROST AT BIRDSALL

Everett Birdsall reported the first frost of fall this morning at his farm on Rice Lake.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

WHO LOST THIS WATCH?

G. A Gillespie has a woman's watch that was found at the Peterborough Exhibition. He also has a string of keys and a separate key that were turned in to the secretary's office.

KIWANIS DELEGATES

Kiwanians and their wives, for a total of 27 people will attend the annual Ontario-Quebec-Maritime convention in Montreal. The affair starts Sunday next and runs for three days. Official delegates from the Peterborough club are E. G. Pridham, Vince McCabe and Jack Allan.

THE TOURIST TOUCH

There is a huge boulder in front of Buckhorn Lodge in the village of the same name, and many stories have been told about this rock. American tourists have been noticed wiggling into a gap in the rock, and then they hunch over in such a way that a picture taken of them shows the rock on their backs. Hundreds of such pictures have been taken during the past summer.

BUILDING NEW DAM

A group of construction men and laborers employed by the Dept. of Transport, Trent Canal branch are busy building a new side dam between Lovesick lake and Deer Bay. Fishermen report there have been as many as 15 working on the project for the past two months and the work is expected to be completed before winter sets in.

PLAN SECOND MEETING

Allan Brown, 154 Benson Ave., reports that a second meeting of the Kashabog (Kosh) Conservation Club will be held at his home Friday evening at 8 o'clock. Officers were elected at the first meeting and the property owners on the lake are determined that some action be taken this fall on the construction of a dam to maintain the water in the lake at a fixed level.

Judge Fines Company For Labor Act Breach

KITCHENER, Sept. 11 (CP) — Magistrate H. R. Polson Friday set an Ontario lower court precedent when he fined the Canada Cabinets and Furniture, Ltd., $3,120, for a breach of the Labor Relations Act.

The Company was convicted of ignoring Labor Minister Daley's order to reinstate eight employees who testified they were dismissed for "alleged union activities." He also ordered the firm to pay the men wages lost since their dismissal in March.

"...I have nothing to guide me," said Magistrate Polson. "This is the first time such a case has been heard before an Ontario court."

E. B. Joliffe, Ontario CCF leader, was counsel for the International Woodworkers Union of America (CIO-CCL), complainant in the case.

Conciliation Efforts Fail To End Strike

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 16— (CP). — Conciliation efforts by Louis Fine, chief conciliation officer of the Ontario Department of Labor, have failed to end the two-months-old strike of some 2,650 workers at the McKinnon Industries plant here.

It was reported that the strikers have rejected an offer of a 12-cent wage increase. They went on strike to enforce demands for a 26-cent increase.

Scavenger Hunt Features Library Party

Thirty-five children attended the closing party held at Jackson Park on Wednesday afternoon of the Vacation Reading Club at the Boys' and Girl' Department of the Public Library. A highly popular scavenger hunt, won by Mel Barnes, was followed by an equally popular picnic supper.

W. L. Graff, chief librarian, presented prizes to the outstanding readers in each of the three divisions: junior, intermediate and senior. Leone Smedmor headed all groups, having read 76 books between June 26 and September 11. Bill Doherty was second with 67 books. In the senior division Mel and Lee Barnes tied for first place and Marie McFarlane and Beverley Thompson for second place; after a draw, prizes went to Mel Barnes and Marie McFarlane. Diplomas were awarded to a dozen boys and girls who had read 20 or more books during the holiday period.

Marie McFarlane proposed a very charming vote of thanks to Miss Lilian M. Wesley, of the Boys' and Girls' Department, who had arranged the picnic party.

Prize winners were:

Junior division, grades 2-4, Caroline McKee and Jane Coleman; intermediate, grades 4-6, Leone Smedmor and Jane Coleman; senior, grades 7 and 8, Mel Barnes and Marie McFarlane.

Diplomas were also awarded to Lee Barnes, Beverley Johnston, Mary Hucks, Nancy Hansen, Frances Cooper and Bob Howden.

Vets Can Wear Dinner Jackets And Medals

OTTAWA, Sept. 16.—The Department of the Secretary of State announces that an intimation has been received from Buckingham Palace that the King has approved, as a temporary measure, on all occasions when orders, decorations and medals are worn with evening dress, of miniatures being worn with dinner jackets by those who cannot find it possible to wear full evening dress. This will be of interest to many ex-service men who have not found it possible yet to purchase full evening dress.

Three Residents Turn Shotguns On Starlings

COBOURG, Sept. 16. —(ENS): —Three Chapel St. residents turned their shotguns on the swarms of starlings perching in trees on that street last night, but it was not an organized shoot. Too many children were running loose, so police called a halt. The council has given its blessing to an organized shoot by the Fish and Game Club but nothing has been done about it yet. It is felt that the only way to check the starling nuisance is to station shooters at regular intervals and blast away while the birds are circling to choose their trees for the night. This would entail several nights' successive shooting and much ammunition. So far the council has not offered to provide the shells.

Regret Affront To Ethiopian

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP) —The American Association for the Advancement of Science on Wednesday night expressed "profound regret" to the Minister of Ethiopia for a "serious affront" it said the minister suffered at Constitution Hall Monday night. The association, which opened its centennial meetingin the hall that night, said it had been reported to them that the Ethiopion Minister, Ras Imru, had been asked by an usher—at the instruction of an unnamed lady—to leave his box and "take a seat elsewhere in the hall."

An association statement said that after the incident the minister "left the hall."

Constitution Hall is owned by the Daughters of the American Revolution which has figured in controversies in the past because of its refusal to rent the hall for concerts by negro artists. However, there was no indication in the scientists' statement that the DAR was involved in the latest incident.

The association said the "incident" had been reported to it by a representative of the Yugoslav Embassy who had been sitting in a box next to that occupied by the Ethiopian minister during the meeting.

Dismiss Little Appeal At Osgoode Hall

An appeal against the judgment of Mr. Justice Wells in the case of Ida M. Little versus the City of Peterborough was dismissed with costs at Osgoode Hall this week. The appeal was brought by Russell E. Little, administrator of the plainttiff's estate. The action had been brought against the city following an accident in January 1947 in which Ida Little had slipped on a George St. sidewalk, receiving injuries. Mr. Justice Wells heard and dismissed the case in February of this year.

A. A. Macdonald, KC, acted for the appellent and W. F. Huycke, KC, represnted the city.

Honesty Pays

AUCKLAND, NZ, Sept. 16 (CP).—New proof that honesty in advertising pays has been given in Auckland.

Desperately seeking a home a young ex-serviceman advertised the plight of his family in harrowing terms. With New Zealand's housing shortage as acute as ever his appeals produced absolutely no effect. Defiantly he changed his tune and announced in the local papers:

"Housing or flat, furnished, required by family of three; parents untidy, unreliable; child unmanageable."

It worked. He was promptly offered a commodious house at a low rental.

THE HOUSE UNAMERICAN Activities Committee at Washington, D.C., named Arthur Adams, above, of New York, as the "key figure" in its investigation of Communist spying on America's atomic secrets. The House group revealed that it received testimony about Adams during the series of closed meetings on the atomic espionage case.

World Outlook, Subject At Roseneath United Church

ROSENEATH, Sept. 16—(ENS) —"World Outlook" was the subject of an address by Rev. P. Lambert, minister on the Seymour charge. At the open thankoffering service of Roseneath United Church W.M.S. held Tuesday afternoon in the United Church, Roseneath, Mr. Larbert paid tribute to the W.M.S. for the sacrificial giving of its members, recalled Jesus' last charge to his disciples, stressed the fact that all people are God's people whether they be in slums or in high places. He spoke of those who would conquer the world for themselves, naming past and present dictators.

In conclusion Mr. Lambert stressed that the Christian church if it succeeds in bringing the world to Christ must have more full time service from its members, more consecration, and a full heritage of Christian faith.

Mr. Lambert was introduced by Rev. R. C. White. Mrs. R. C. White, W.M.S. president, presided. Guest societies present were: Baltimore W.M.S.; Hastings W.M.S.; Fenella W.M.S., Centenary W.A., St. James' Anglican Church W.A. and Roseneath United Church W.A.

Seated on the platform with Mrs. White representing these societies respectively were Mrs. F. Cochrane, Mrs. Metcalfe, Mrs. N. C. Leach, Mrs. D. Timlin, Mrs. R. B. Nichol and Mrs. B. Thackeray. There were also Mrs. J. N. Lovelace, past president of Roseneath W.M.S., Mrs. D. Brisbin, first vice president of the local W.M.S. who thanked the speaker and all contributing to the program. Mrs. T. S. Coyle who dedicated the offering and Mrs. E. Waldie who welcomed the guests.

The devotional service was conducted by Baltimore Auxiliary. Among the many beautiful flowers was a purple and white cross placed there in memory of the late Mrs. I. C. Montgomery, a Fenella W.M.S. member who died the Saturday previous and of Alfred Braithwaite who died on Sunday and whose wife and daughter were United Church W. A. members.

The thankoffering reaching about $44 was gathered by Mrs. J. A. Nichol and Mrs. Andrew Brown. Program numbers were contributed by visiting societies as follows: a duet "The Lord's My Shepherd", sang unaccompanied by Rev. and Mrs. P. Lambert; piano solos, played by Mrs. Burton Roberts, Fenella, Linda Arthur, Centenary and Lois Ball, Roseneath; Mrs. Isaac Skuce, Roseneath sang a solo and Mrs. Fleming, Hastings gave a reading. Impromptu speeches were made by Mrs. Cochrane, Mrs. Metcalfe, Mrs. Lovelace, Mrs. Earl Braithwaite, Mrs. Thackeray, Mrs. Timlin and Mrs. Leach.

Following the service supper was served in the town hall. Committees in charge of refreshments and preparing the tables were: Mrs. Andrew Brown, Mrs. J. A. Nichol, Mrs. F. Derry, Mrs. E. Waldie and Mrs. W. Smith, for refreshments, and Mrs. R. Crego, Mrs. G. Mouncey, Mrs. D. Coyle, Mrs. A. J. Campbell and Mrs. Fred Lewis.

Convict Reformation Stressed In Course

OTTAWA, Sept. 16.—(CP). — Reformation of convicts was stressed Wednesday by Maj.-Gen. R. B. Gibson, commissioner of penitentiaries, at the opening of the third of a series of training courses for officers of Canada's penal institutions.

Addressing 25 officers from the seven federal penitentiaries in Canada, Gen. Gibson noted that 95 per cent. of the men who enter those institutions eventually will be released and said their reformation was an important public service.

"If, during their period of imprisonment, we can encourage a changed pattern of behayiour, if we can assist them in acquiring skills, knowledge and habits that will enable them to make their way in society without reverting to crime, we shall be making a very tangible contribution to the public good.

Attending the course, which includes instruction in psychology, psychiatry, sociology and penology, are officers from the penitentiaries at Dorchester, N.B., St. Vincent De Paul, Que., Kingston, Collin's May, Ont., Stony Mountain, Man., Prince Albert, Sask., and New Westminster, B.C.

Rundown Man Surprised With Syntona Results

"Didn't Realize Any Medicine Could Help Me So Much." He Says. Relieved Stomach Disorders, Headaches and Dizzy Spells. "Feel Fine Now."

"I never realized any medicine could help a person so much in a short time," said Mr. James Brittenfield, 152 Stapleton Avenue, Hamilton, Ontario, in a recent interview.

"For almost two years I felt rundown and was subject to stomach upsets, headaches and dizzy spells. I had to be very careful of what I ate, or I would suffer from indigestion, sour acid risings and a gassy, full heavy feeling in my stomach. My nerves were easily upset and I couldn't seem to get my proper sleep at night, so I would tire easily and generally had no great amount of energy.

"Having seen Syntona advertised for some time, I finally decided to try some and I am surprised the difference this medicine has made in only a very short while. I haven't had any trouble with headaches or dizziness since I've been taking this medicine; my stomach is settled and I can now eat just about anything I like with no distress afterwards. Also, my nerves are calmed down, so I am getting more sound, restful sleep at night and I have more strength and energy.

MR. BRITTENFIELD

If you suffer as Mr. Brittenfield did, why not give Syntona a chance to help you as it has so many other local men and women? It is made from herbs and roots that act on the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels. Acts promptly, effectively; contains no harmful drugs.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store.—Advt.

Servants And Guardians

In a speech which he made recently at the C.N.E. the president of the Canadian National Railway, Mr. R. C. Vaughan, described this country's railways as "the servants and guardians of the nation"; he continued, "They must be maintained as such". What did Mr. Vaughan mean? We think that he meant this: in spite of the advances which have been made in motor transport and in flying, long hauls of freight in Canada must be done by rail, and in time of war rail service is of the utmost importance to our national safety; because of the great importance of the railways to Canada, we must be generous in our treatment of the railways. This seems plain enough, but at present large groups of people in Canada refuse to treat the railways with generosity, and are making a great deal of fuss about a recent increase in the freight rates.

* * *

Any increase in freight rates is annoying, but if the railways are to survive this increase and probably others must be made. Consider the facts: the increase granted to the railways here was 21 per cent., though so many exceptions were made to the new rate that the actual increase amounts only to 13½ per cent. over all. Since 1941 the railways in the U.S.A. have been permitted to make increases of 45 per cent., and experience has shown that railways cannot be operated more cheaply in Canada than in the U.S.A.

* * *

Consider these facts: the recent freight rate increase, over a year, is estimated to provide the Canadian railways with $70,000,000; but there have been wage increases within the same period which cost the railways $81,000,000; in addition to this the costs of materials used in all kinds of railway work have increased by $36,000,000. In short, the seventy millions provided by the freight rate increase are swallowed up in the hundred and twenty millions of increased costs. Obviously Canadian railway charges are not high enough to keep the systems running without heavy loss.

* * *

What is the answer? Either railway charges must go up sharply, or the Canadian people must subsidize the railways. The only alternative is to let the railways go on, losing money and giving poorer service, until they go out of business. Canada cannot afford to let that happen. In peace and war the railways are our lifeline. They are, as Mr. Vaughan says, our servants and guardians, and by one means or another we must keep them in existence and—the international situation being what it is—we must improve them.

Money To Go Up In Hydro Steam?

The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario has got itself into hot water with the people of the province because of the power shortage. Beset on all sides by well-deserved criticism, the Commission seems now to be attempting to patch up matters. It was reported last Monday that a plan to build a steam generating plant at either Toronto or Hamilton is being studied. The plant would be similar to the one at Windsor. It would be used for 'stand-by' purposes, to supplement power output.

We can well understand why the Commission would like to have such a supplementary source of power this year and next year. It would ease the power situation until the new Ottawa power developments are in operation. Criticism in the Toronto and Niagara areas might subside. But to build such a steam generating plant seems to us base and costly folly. The Commission would be reinforcing failure. It would be attempting to make a bad situation better by extraordinarily costly means, when there should be in a couple of years no necessity for a plant like that. The Windsor plant is being built at a cost of 21 million dollars. We do not criticize that project unfavourably. It forms part of the great Hydro development plan. A new steam plant at Toronto is not part of the plan. It would be a shocking and costly attempt to blackmail the 25-cycle area people into silence. People in this and other 60-cycle areas would not benefit one whit from a multi-million dollar steam generating plant set up at Toronto or Hamilton, but they would share the cost.

Let us hear no more about this new steam plant. Even if the Commission and the Ontario Government are rolling in money and can afford to throw 21 million dollars into a steam generating plant which may be completely unnecessary in a few years, let the Commission and the Government remember that it is our money they are using. Let the Commission and Ontario Government parboil in their own steam. It may teach them a lesson, as it is teaching us about the danger of trusting too much in the capacity of the Commission and the Government to take long-range views.

Are Beautiful Men Necessarily Dumb?

The Ottawa Journal takes exception to a male beauty contest which has been held in Montreal, in which awards were given for the best legs, the best back, the best abdomen, and the best body considered as a whole. Here, in part, is what it says:

A healthy well-formed body, developed by exercise and sports, is an asset of the greatest value in all walks of life. Well-formed limbs and torso, however, could be put to much better use than for display like animals at a fat stock show. It was Euripides, if we remember rightly, who said that of all the pests which plagued Greece in his day, athletes were the worst. The remark would apply with equal force today to the beautiful young men in the Montreal body contests. The man who enters such a competition is surely writing himself down as empty in the head.

We do not hold such an extreme opinion. We rather like the idea of male beauty contests. They might improve the appearance of Canadian males generally, and we are unquestionably a frowsy-looking lot of mammals now. We have never understood why men with sunken chests, prolapsed paunches, knock-knees and desk-worker's hump should feel free to criticise the appearance of their female contemporaries, who usually work very hard to present the best appearance possible. The average young man, as compared with the average girl, is unkempt, uninteresting and seedy in his appearance. And yet many artists insist that, as a piece of design, the male body far surpasses that of the female.

The popular belief that handsome men are stupid is supported by men who are both unsightly and stupid. We think that it is high time that men improved in their grooming, physical development and personal pride. If beauty contests will do it, let us have beauty contests for men by all means. A look at any good illustrated history book will quickly dispell the idea that notable men are ugly, poorly-developed physical specimens.

French Communists Are Nationalists

The French Communists are in a peculiar position at present; they are still adherents of the Cominform and they still give lip service to the Moscow party line, but they are the only Communist group in Europe to come out strongly in favour of the Marshall Plan. In their recent manifesto these significant words appear: "No Frenchman would refuse the aid of the United States and countries which were our allies in the war, but all Frenchmen worthy of the name believe this aid should be given with respect for national sovereignty, her security, and her sacred right to reparations". What, we wonder, does Moscow make of that?

It is true, of course, that Russian Communism is intensely national in character, but outside Russia the old Marxist belief that the workers of the world are brothers without respect to national allegiances is zealously propagated. Russia cannot be happy about such talk of national sovereignty on the part of French Communists, and endorsation of the Marshall Plan by a Communist group cannot be acceptable to Russia.

The strongly national character of French Communism, which we have commented upon already in these columns appears to be increasing. Last year the French Communists called a national strike, and the majority of French workers ignored it, because they felt that such a strike was against the best interest of their country. Since then the dispute between Tito and the Cominform has given a new slant to Communism outside Russia, and more than one European Communist group has found a new source of strength in nationalism. The French comrades, it appears, are Frenchmen first, and Communists second, which is a reversal of what Russia wants

England's Literary Giants

By MACDONALD HASTINGS
In "London Calling"

I REMEMBER reading an article in an American magazine which stated that Britain has no great literary figures left; that our only contemporary claimant to posterity is the patriarchal figure of Bernard Shaw.

If that were true, it would be nothing to be ashamed of; at the astonishing age of ninety-two, Shaw is still the most formidable literary giant on earth. His mind, so far as I can judge, is as lively and sparkling as ever it was. And Heaven help anybody who assumed that Shaw had lost touch with the modern scene.

Only the other day, I had a notion that I would like to get Mr. Shaw to do an article on music for a magazine which I edit. And I have learned that, if you want an article from Shaw, it is always worth while asking him to do it, because, every now and again, you catch him in the right mood, and he accepts the commission. On this occasion, he refused. But how he refused was characteristic.

HE sent me a postcard, which he had typed himself. I always know when Mr. Shaw types his own letters because, like most journalists, he types atrociously. The postcard was in these terms: 'I cannot afford to earn £100 this year'—that was the price I had offered him for the article—'as it will cost me £147 when the so-called Capital Levy' (really an extra surtax) 'is collected. Anyhow, I am too old for the job. Thanks for the offer. G.B.S.'

When Shaw says he is too old for the job, he does not mean it. I had an article from him only a month or so ago which was as brilliant as ever. But, when Shaw, at the age of ninety-two, talks about money, he is as serious as a boy of twenty-one with a lifetime in front of him.

One of the most amusing exchanges I have had with Shaw was when, having persuaded him to write an article, he asked what we were going to do about foreign rights. Finally, he said, 'Well, the idea for the article was yours; so let us agree to split the foreign rights fifty-fifty.' And so it was.

To Shaw, who must surely be one of the wealthiest authors in the world, it could not have mattered less. But, such is his zest for living that, even now, there is nothing he enjoys more than showing an editor that there are not any flies on Shaw.

BUT to say that Shaw is the only great literary figure left in Britain is, of course, untrue. By comparison with the group of literary giants who bestrode the English scene at the beginning of the century—men like Kipling, Hardy, Wells, Arnold Bennett, Chesterton, Robert Bridges, Max Beerbolm, and a dozen others—by comparison with that flowering of English genius, we have very little to show the world today.

OF the others whom I would put in the same top-grouping in their different lines with Ernest Hemingway and Sinclair Lewis, we have got Graham Greene, Sir Osbert Sitwell, Rebecca West, C. S. Forester, and, among the poets, Dylan Thomas, Edith Sitwell, John Masefield, Walter de la Mare—and, of course, we still have Hilaire Belloc.

It has always puzzled me that we have never honoured the tremendous figure of Hilaire Belloc in his old age as we have honoured Shaw. If you asked the average book-reader in Britain what had happed to Belloc, in nine cases out of ten he would say, 'I thought Belloc was dead.' I can tell you that Belloc is very far from dead. I went down to his home the other week; and it was an exciting experience.

With Shaw, Belloc is the last of the great men of that golden age of literature that I was speaking about just now. Do you remember Belloc? I am sure you will remember some of his lines. These, for instance:

'From quiet homes and first beginning,
Out to the undiscovered ends,
There's nothing worth the wear of winning,
But laughter and the love of friends.'

Belloc's prose is as noble as his poetry. If by any chance you have not read Belloc you could not have a richer treat awaiting you.

But Belloc has his place in the story of our times not only for his writings, but for his Johnsonian personality. He is one of the last of the great conversationalists, and the last figure, I think, to preside over a circle of his literary disciples.

THOSE were the days when the great bulk of G. K. Chesterton—and G. K. Chesterton's rumbling laugh—was still one of the sights and sounds of London. Belloc, with Maurice Baring, was Chesterton's great friend. And the three of them made a literary coterie such as London has not known since Doctor Johnson and his friends gathered in Fleet Street.

Belloc was always the centre of enthusiastic controversy and argument. With Chesterton, he plunged eagerly into history, politics, religion, and, yes, the defence of wine. One great row with Belloc immortalised in verse was when an Oxford don attacked G. K. Chesterton for something or another. The attack is long-since forgotten. But every English school-boy remembers the hate-verse which Belloc wrote in retort:

'Remote and ineffectual Don,
That dared attack my Chesterton.'

It all seems such a long time ago. Hilaire Belloc is already a legend; so much a legend, that most people over here think of him now drinking with the other immortals in the celestial Mermaid Tavern. And yet I visited him quite recently.

HE is an old man of seventy-eight now, with a great white beard like Shaw, and with the forgetful gentleness of old age. The deep, rushing waters of his mind have stilled into a reflective pool.

Unlike Bernard Shaw, Hilaire Belloc has lost interest in this worried modern world. He is one of the few people living today who is unmoved by thoughts of the atom bomb. Belloc is serenely happy in the memories of his own eventful past.

He lives in the old, fourteenth-century house, deep in the heart of the Sussex countryside, which he bought for his American wife and family nearly fifty years ago. Round him are the visible signs of his great loves—the Roman Catholic Church, and France.

Over the mantelpiece is a crucifix, and the pictures of his family. By his side, is a statue of Napoleon, and the model of a gun which commemorates the days when he was a French artillery-man. He sits there by the fire, with a fat cat curled up on his knees, reading eagerly from the great dusty library of books which line his study walls. He reads nothing new, he told me. His favourite author is Swift, whom he believes was one of the greatest writers of all time.

His favourite vice is eating chocolate creams and sucking bull's-eyes. His pleasures are the visits of his friends, and, among them, coming and going quite unnoticed in the sleepy Sussex countryside, are some of the greatest men alive today. Belloc is looked after by his daughter, who told me of the thrill she had, only last year, of visiting Nappa, California, where her mother was born.

And the great man himself, who has refused every honour which has been offered him, is passing the sunset of his life with all the lasting honours that a man can care for. He knows that his own wishful epigram, written long ago, has come true for him:

'When I am dead, I hope it may be said:
His sins were scarlet but his books were read.'

Letters To The Editor

SIX QUESTIONS FOR THE BOARD OF HEALTH

Sir: I am writing in reference to the reported action (Examiner September 14) of our Board of Health granting Dr. Harold H. Worton of the Peterborough Health Department eight months leave of absence with salary—to attend the University of Toronto.

As a Taxpayer, I should like to hear answers given to the following questions:

1. If this man is not now sufficiently qualified to be employed in his present position—are we employing an incompetent person—if so, why?

2. On completion of the course, what guarantee have we that this man will continue in the job for which he is being paid his salary—and for how long?

3. What will the extra cost to us as tax payers be?

4. Are we not, as a city, establishing a precedent which may be difficult to overcome in later years?

5. If the city are granting scholarships of this calibre, should it not have been open to competition?

6. How do our Board of Health justify this expenditure in their budget—with our taxes already too high?

I also understand that when this action was being discussed by our Board of Health, Dr. Worton was present at the meeting at all times. Is this good business? In my opinion this would tend to curtail frank and open discussion before a vote was taken.

Thanking you for your kindness in publishing this letter, I am,

Yours very truly,
R. J. ALLEN.

EXTRAORDINAY BEHAVIOUR OF BOARD OF HEALTH

Sir: I could hardly believe my eyes when I saw in Tuesday's Examiner a report of the meeting of the Peterborough Board of Health, and the information that the board had decided to allow Dr. Worton leave of absence for eight months to attend University of Toronto, and had also decided to continue to engage temporary assistance to do the work Dr. Worton had been doing.

Now, I have nothing against Dr. Worton, I feel he is a very fine gentleman, doing a good job in the Board of Health, and deserves every encouragement, but I also feel there are limits to the duty of an employer towards an employee, and I feel that leave of absence with pay for eight months—two-thirds of a year—exceeds this duty.

Would I be in order at this point, if I were to ask the members of the Board of Health, if in their private capacity they ever even gave eight weeks' leave of absence with pay to an employee? If they have not, and I am very much afraid they have not, then as a taxpayer, paying more taxes to the city of Peterborough, than all the Board of Health combined, I would like to know what authority they have to be so generous with the taxpayers' money, as to give leave of absence for two-thirds of a year with pay?

Surely it is not because it is the taxpayers' money,—and not their own. Surely there some sense of common justice in the minds of the members of the Board of Health. Surely they consider, if only in some small degree the capacity of the taxpayer to pay.

Here in Peterborough our assessment is the highest per house in history; our mill rate is also at a record peak, and the only economical contribution the Board of Health can make at the critical period is to give leave of absence with pay for two-thirds of a year to a member of its staff. It makes a person feel like saying "Oh, what's the use?" when we see public moneys being squandered in this manner. What incentive is there to own property in this city when those men in authority, to whom the taxpayer has a right to look for assistance and consideration, so callously and wantonly disregard the claims of the common man?

I know this letter will receive no reply, 'Twas ever thus. The Board of Health—like some other boards—sits like Jove upon Olympus, and disdains to reply to letters of this type—or even any letters of any type. They are above the law, above criticism, and, unfortunately for many of us taxpayers, above even the faintest resemblance of common justice to the taxpayer.

Yours truly,
W. TINKER.

A Bible Message

Jesus went unto the mount of Olives. And early in the morning he came again into the temple, and all the people came unto him; and he sat down, and taught them....

Then spake Jesus again unto them saying, I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life. The Pharisees therefore said unto him, Thou bearest record of thyself; thy record is not true.

Jesus answered and said unto them, Though I bear record of myself, yet my record is true: for I know whence I came, and whither I go; but ye cannot tell whence I come, and whither I go. Ye judge after the flesh; I judge no man. And yet if I judge, my judgment is true: for I am not alone, but I and the Father that sent me....

Then said they unto him, Where is thy Father? Jesus answered, Ye neither know me, nor my Father: if ye had known me, ye should have known my Father also....And he said unto them, Ye are from beneath; I am from above: ye are of this world; I am not of this world....

I have many things to say and to judge of you: but he that sent me is true; and I speak to the world those things which I have heard of him. (John 8: 1, 2, 12-16, 19, 23, 26.)

Bible Society Branch Meets

HAVELOCK, Sept. 16.—(ENS).—Rev. H. Egerton Young, district secretary of the Upper Canada Bible Society, paid his annual visit to the Havelock-Belmont branch Monday evening. The meeting was in the Pentecostal Tabernacle, with the Rev. W. F. Rourke, pastor, presiding. Other clergymen present were Rev. R. D. Duncanson of Knox Presbyterian Church, Rev. L. A. Rickard of St. John's Anglican Church and the Rev. F. R. Vanderburg of Havelock United Church.

The meeting was opened with prayer by Mr. Duncanson, the scripture lesson being read by Mr. Vanderburg, and Mr. Rickard pronounced the dedication of the offering. Mr. Rourke introduced Mr. Young.

He outlined the work of the society in Europe, and said that the call from every country was for more Bibles. He showed a moving picture on India.

Mrs. F. Bennett asked to be relieved of the office of secretary, H. W. Roche will continue in the office and treasurer and W. M. Platt as president. The latter will also assume the office of secretary. The cards have been distributed and the canvass has begun throughout the village, with each denomination making a canvass among its own congregation, with the Belmont Women's Institute taking care of the township.

Discovers Home Skin Remedy

This clean stainless antiseptic known all over Canada as Moone's Emerald Oil, is such a fine healing agent that Eczema, Barber's Itch, Salt Rheum, Itching Toes and Feet, and other inflammatory skin eruptions are often relieved in a few days.

Moone's Emerald Oil is pleasant to use and it is so antiseptic and penetrating that many old stubborn cases of long standing have yielded to its influence.

Moone's Emerald Oil is sold by McDermid & Jury and at any Tamblyn Drug Store and druggists everywhere to help rid you of stubborn pimples and unsightly skin troubles — satisfaction or money back.

Doctors Refuse To Co-operate In Aussie Plan

By LESLIE BRODIE
Canadian Press Correspondent

SYDNEY, Australia, Sept. 16.—(CP).—Doctors throughout Australia continue to ignore the Federal Government's legislation providing for free medicine for all patients.

The Department of Health has revealed that there are fewer than 30 doctors writing prescriptions for medicine provided free by the Government.

When the scheme began to operate on June 1, this year, the British Medical Association ruled that doctors should not co-operate with the Government unless they were given the unqualified right to prescribe what they thought best for their patients, and were given the right to use their own prescription forms.

A deadlock was reached when the Government refused the BMA request.

After a number of conferences with the health minister, Senator McKenna, the BMA refused to consider the matter workable unless the Government alters its attitude.

The BMA demands that the Government extend the formulary set out by the health minister to include all medicines and remove the more offensive penalties against the doctors who do not comply with the Government regulations, and eliminate the necessity of filling in the official prescription forms.

Object to Formulary

Main objections are to the formulary. The Government claims that it meets practically all prescribing needs, but the doctors claim that if the Government is sincere in its attitude there is no reason why there should be a limited formulary covering the drugs they use.

The doctors insist that they should be free from the indirect influence of cost consideration when they make out a prescription. They object to filling in the official form in triplicate on the ground that they are busy men and the forms take up too much time.

Earlier, this year, it was reporte dfrom Auckland that cost of prescriptions written under the New Zealand free-medicine scheme since it was introduced in 1943 has almost doubled.

The New Zealand Government has ordered an inquiry into reported from Auckland that cost visiting of doctors. Prescriptions issued under the scheme have been increasing at the rate of over 500,000 a year.

J. A. Jenkins, president of the New Zealand branch of the BMA, discussing free medicine at a BMA conference, declared that medical men are forced by circumstances to be a party to what they know to be "humbug," and are being changed from scientists to form signers.

Stern Divorce View

MONTREAL, Sept. 16 — (CP). — The recent Lambeth conference in England took a stern view of divorce, Rt. Rev. John Sixon, Bishop of Montreal, Wednesday told members of the Alumni Association of the Montreal Diocesan Theological College at the 60th annual meeting. The bishop said that a resolution recommended that the local pastor should decide whether a divorce would be for the good of both man and wife. Bishop Dixon explained that the general synod of Canada must uphold the resolution before it becomes effective in Canada.

Observers Feel United Ireland Is On The Way

By RICHARD TOMPKINS

LONDON, Sept. 16.—(AP). — Political fiddlers in Eire are tuned up for a reunion jig with the northern branch of the Irish family. But Ulster officials are playing hard-to-get.

The idea of a United Ireland is perennial, but the prospects for anti-partitionists are brighter now than at any time since the Emerald Isle was sliced in two a generation ago.

No one in authority is ready to call the day of reunion. In fact, no one on the "pro" side will make a good, solid statement. And the denials—thick and fast—from Ulstermen, particularly in Belfast, are growing faster than the shamrocks.

To many observers it is a case of too many denials—"the lady doth protest too much."

Premier John A. Costello of Eire is the political strategist who may be conning his way to an agreement that always eluded his predecessor, Eamon De Valera, though the latter has been stumping for reunion even beyond the seas ever since he was succeeded by Costello.

The astute Costello has just signed a trade contract with Britain. And Britain is sending one cabinet minister after another to Ireland for a "holiday."

Prime Minister Attlee and his chief economic adviser, Sir Stafford Cripps, both went across the Irish Sea in August. Lesser officials have been visiting Ireland all year.

Many British Visitors

"There are so many British ministers over here, there is bound to be a wedding," they say in Dublin.

Whitehall spokesmen for the ministers merely laugh off the suggestion that talks looking to reunion are scheduled. They answer such questions with the comment that "Ireland is a good holiday resort, and reminders that August is a vacation month.

Yet Eire newspapers print headlines of "U-Day." There are rumors of meetings near the border and reports that British officials are expected to discuss reunion at their conferences with Prime Minister Sir Basil Brooke of Northern Ireland.

Whatever negotiations have gone on, or are scheduled, are in the category of "off-the-record" discussions.

Costello told the Dail July 23 that prospects were "brightening" for the union of Southern (Eire) and Northern (Ulster) Ireland into a single state.

The six counties of Northern Ireland were separated from the Irish Free State, now Eire, by the government of Ireland Act passed at Westminster in 1920. Two separate parliaments were set up.

Eire's new constitution approved by the Dail June 14, 1937, dropped the name Irish Free State, and restored the name Eire, which is Gallic for Ireland. This constitution applies to the whole of Ireland, but, pending reunion, it stipulates that its laws apply only to Eire.

Saves 3 Passengers

FORT WILLIAM, Sept. 16 — (CP). — Taxi-driver Frank Hill, 21, was credited with saving three passengers from drowning when his cab plunged through a guard-rail and into 20 feet of water in Reflection Lake Sept. 12. Wednesday, he was fined $15 and costs for reckless driving in connection with the accident.

Cricket Club Celebrates Winning Title

By C. H. IRESON

Last night local cricketers celebrated their win in the county championship by holding a dinner and social evening at the Empress Hotel. It was a big success in every way with President Gordon Monkman in the chair. Those present included Secretary A. H. Radford, Captain F. Drew, W. Rashleigh, F. M. DelaFosse, F. C. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. S. Jennings, H. Pyle, B. Roberts, J. McKissack, W. Wright, F. Booth, R. Rollwagen, I. Morrison, C. H. Ireson, W. Dyer, D. Dyer, F. Honour, J. Wild, N. Wild and R. Harvey.

After dinner President Monkman congratulated the team on winning the R. C. Matthews trophy which stood on the table before him. Short of matches and players at the beginning of the season the advent of new players solved the latter question. All showed excellent team spirit and the will to win and they were rewarded by the trophy.

He gave the averages of the leading batsmen and bowlers as follows:

Batting—F. Booth, 175 runs, average 29.91; W. Wright, 213 runs, average 21.3; H. Pyle, 104 runs, average 20.80.

Bowling—H. Pyle, 29 wickets, average 5.31; F. Dyer, 38 wickets, average 7.89; F. Booth, 11 wickets average 8.63, W. Wright 15 wickets, average 12.95.

In conclusion he thanked Secretary Radford for excellent work done under difficult conditions and thanked the press for the publicity given to the game. W. Rashleigh of the Grove School spoke of the close association with the club for many years and his wish to help the club in every way.

S. Jennings proposed a vote of thanks to President Gordon Monkman for his excellent work for the club and presented him with two framed photographs of incidents in the match against Carleton County at Ottawa. This was seconded by W. Wright.

Community singing followed with H. Pyle at the piano and of various interesting incidents happening to players during their playing career were recalled.

Then the president showed a film of moving pictures taken on the visit to Ottawa. Everybody had a good time and showed a feeling of confidence in the future of the game here and mutual good fellowship.

From Toronto Maple Leafs, Stanley Cup champs, comes the 1948-49 Press and Radio Information Book. Compiled by their publicity department, under Ed Fitkin, it is a hefty and valuable collection of facts concerning the hockey Leafs and the Gardens. Oodles of info on officials, players, games, arena, etc. For instance we learn that the arena capacity for NHL games, including standees, is 14,550, though they once jammed in 16,318 prior to the new capacity allowed. Rink is 200 feet by 85 with plexiglass at the ends, the club has two sets of uniforms, they stop at certain set hotels in each town, and so forth. Ed has turned in a good job.

Orillia and the Petes resume their OLA senior "B" semi-final playoffs at nine tomorrow night in Miller Bowl. Each club has taken one game in this best-of-five series and tonight's tussle is a highly important one. A local loss would be really serious as Orillia are tough on their own floor. So the Petes will have to keep hustling every minute from now on. Oshawa, too, is having trouble with Huntsville in their series. Likely a big crowd on deck here tomorrow and it should be a swell, rugged scrap. On Saturday aft at three in the Bowl, Orillia and the Peterborough juveniles open their three-game OLA playdown series, but Brooklin has defaulted to our midgets and bantams.

Panthers Shaping Up

Coach Gord Young is drilling his grid Panthers nightly at the Oval. Club couldn't get an exhibition for this week-end but will be opening its ORFU schedule on Sept. 25. A heavy line, particularly toward the centre, has been working out, including: Pup Curtin, Gord Beatty, Dick Cuimet, Don McGillis, Bill Davidson, Johnny Conlin and others. And some smashing backfielders, as well as some lighter speedsters, like: Al Plunkett, Tom Smith, Bill Trimm, Jim Conlin, Spike Matthews, Jerry Creighton, Russ Scriver, Gord Middleton, Rip VanAllen, Fred Garvey and Ron Hodson. These are just some of the huskies trying for spots.

Secretary Bert Bailey of the men's City Softball League sends word of an executive meeting next Monday night at 7.30 in the YMCA. Prime purpose is to vote on the most valuable player of the year for the Peller Trophy. Each member of the executive and the official scorer have a vote, and the cup—if engraved in time—will be presented the winner at the league's annual banquet in a month or so. Players of each team voted on their most valuable player and the four names were then sent along to the loop secretary for a final decision. Ray Garvey was the winner last year.

Ottawa Plays Locos

Ole Olsen announces the opening of the OBA senior "B" series betwixt Ottawa Strathconas, who put out Cornwall, and Kingston Locos — who lost out to the Petes in COBL finals. First game tomorrow in Kingston and second one likely in Hull next Sunday. Incidentally, an item says six ball games were played in Ontario last Sunday, at Windsor, Kingston, Sudbury, Timmins, North Bay and Owen Sound. Clubs can't charge straight admission at the gate on Sundays but get around that in other ways, like with season tickets or selling programs at half a slug or some such. Locos will be minus the services of Mulholland and Ferguson after tomorrow, the former going out with Galt's hockey Rockets and the latter with Guelph juniors or Hershey.

* * * * * *

OBA word comes through that Toronto Mayfairs will play the Petes at three Saturday aft in Riverside, first of the best-of-five senior "A" semi-finals. Mayfairs were runners-up to Staffords this year and get this chance because Staffords failed to pay the Petes $100 they owed from last year's playoffs—so Staffords are out. They will probably be suspended by the Ontario body. They owed the money last autumn as expenses promised the Petes for a trip to Toronto and never paid it — ignoring an OBA order the other day to kick in by last evening or else. So, it'll be Mayfairs and the Petes for sure, and if the Petes can hurdle this obstacle they'll be into provincial finals again. It ought to pack 'em in. Toronto peewees are to play our Trojans here that day, too, while our bantams and midgets go to Toronto on Saturday.

DuVals Edge Ashby's

In Toronto last evening, DuVals edged out a 1-0 verdict in nine innings over the local Ashby's in a thrilling PWSU junior playoff. A two-of-three series, with the teams back here at the Bowl this Saturday afternoon, third game if necessary being there in the evening. A real pitching duel last gloaming with Doris McFadden throwing three-hit ball, fanning eight and walking none. Toronto twirler gave up four hits and two walks but struck out 15. Fine fielding seen, too, but one Ashby overthrow figured in the lone run of the game. You can't make them much closer than that, eh? Their return go rates a big gallery. Lock Co. plays Lindsay at seven p.m. tomorrow over there.

Close Contests A Feature Of School Play

The local public school soccer teams started their annual fall schedule on Wednesday afternoon with three senior games.

Prince of Wales took the lead over their rivals, King Edward, with a 2-1 count. Within 10 seconds Buott went right through the whole team to draw the custodian out of goal to score. Towards the interval, Evans on an individual effort made it 2-0. Erratic shooting continued on each side with Murduff reducing the count on a combination play.

King Edward—G. Stewart, goal; C. Chalmers and F. Milligan full backs; R. Crowe, R. Killingbeck and H. Mullen, half backs; G. Frizzell, D. Hunt, M. Buchan, W. Murduff and D. Whatley, forwards.

Prince of Wales — A. Smith, goal; R. Faiers and Q. Avery, full backs; J. Holbrook, J. Smith and H. Bowes, half backs; J. Armstrong, J. Evans, A. Buott, R. Deck and B. Downer, forwards. Subs—L. Mongraw, K. Lowell, B. Green.

Referee—Mr. Weir.

First In Senior

Confederation in their first year in senior sport defeated Queen Alexandra 2-0 at Nicholls Oval. They were attired in new equipment. Queen Alex reverted to defensive tactics to hold the fast moving southenders. Daniels opened the scoring in the first half. Danstan made it 2-0 in the second period.

Queen Alexandra—R. McIlwain, goal; J. Harrison and C. James, full backs; N. Nicholls, Ted Reed and R. Nicholls, half backs; C. Carter, D. Wood, W. Oliver, D. Bell and S. Gordon, forwards. Subs—R. Kingston, F. Griffin.

Confederation — R. Tyndal, goal; E. Henderson and J. Post, full backs; M. Bryan, J. Kentwater and G. Simmons, half backs; G. Crouter, J. Daniels, R. Holland, C. Simmons and R. Miller, forwards. Subs—J. Dunstan.

Referee—Mr. Ab Hill.

King George Wins

King George won two valuable points at Queen Mary's expense on the East City grounds on Wednesday afternoon, with a 1-0 count. Bob Simpson getting the only counter.

Queen Mary—J. Drury, goal; F. Hillier and B. Watson, full backs; D. Sisson, G. Patterson and K. Woodgate, half backs; D. Nisbett, J. Stewart, R. Dunn, P. Nisbett and B. Burgess forwards. Subs—C. Stave, P. Deck, J. Eastwood.

King George—R. Withers, goal; L. McKenzie and B. Harvey, full backs; H. Pollard, G. Barker and P. Rose, half backs; F. Ash, R. Simpson, D. Dubay, P. Harding and D. Crouter, forwards. Subs—O. Thompson, F. Johnson.

Referee—K. McKee.

DuVals Edge Out Ashby's In 1-0 Opening PWSU Game

Toronto DuVals nosed out a 1-0 decision over Peterborough Ashby's last night in Toronto to open their two-of-three PWSU junior playdowns. The return game will be in the local Bowl on Saturday afternoon with a third game, if necessary, on the same diamond in the evening. The exact times of these tilts here on Saturday have not been announced yet.

This 1-0 playoff was a thriller all the way, with a single, an overthrow at second and an out scoring the lone run of the fixture for DuVals in the fifth inning. Doris McFadden hurled three-hit ball over the whole route, striking out eight in a grand showing and walking none, and her support was fine but for the only costly miscue. N. Fowler on the Toronto slab was in top form, too, to allow but four hits and two walks as she whiffed 15, getting almost perfect backing.

Ashby's threatened in several innings, getting the odd runner to second or third but couldn't squeeze one across the plate. J. Dunk got two of their four hits, with J. Reynolds and M. Freeman getting one each. L. Haponek, O. Kirk and J. Glunzhad one bingle apiece for the winners. The latter and L. Haponek went good in the field for DuVals while D. McFadden and D. Callan stood out for the visitors. The teams:

Ashby's: E. McFadden, 2b; J. Reynolds, c; E. Simmonds, 3b; M. Freeman, cf; D. Manley, ss; G. Dracup, lf; D. Callan, rf; J. Dunk, 1b; D. McFadden, p.

DuVals: B. Eisner, rf; B. Clark, 3b; J. Glunz, ss; D. Kitchen, 1b; N. Fowler, p; J. Lalonde, 2b; O. Kirk, cf; L. Haponek, lf; J. O'Sullivan, c.

Robot Transmitter Aids Radio 'Hams'

LONDON, Sept. 16.—(CP).—In the heart of London a short-wave radio station goes on the air every hour, broadcasts for exactly 12 minutes, then shuts down — all without the touch of a human hand.

The robot station, GBBRS, has been set up by the Radio Society of Great Britain. In Morse at a 12-word-a-minute rate it broadcasts its call letters and frequency (3500.25 kilocycles) through a timing mechanism which turns it on, then shuts it off.

Its purpose is to furnish Britain's radio amateurs—about 6,000 of them—with a "marker" signal to indicate a save accurate wavelength to which their own transmitters may be set.

The wave-length of this master station represents the frequency boundary line outside of which amateur transmitters in Britain may not operate.

Should a fault occur, the station is equipped with a special control unit which automatically takes over and closes the station down, lighting a warning lamp indicating it needs human attention to its robot brain.

At a later date it is planned to use the station for general communication with world - wide radio amateurs.

California Players Battling For Title

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 16.—(AP).— It's California against the world today as half a dozen players battle for semi-final berths in the men's singles division of the United States national tennis championship.

The last of the seeded easterners — Davis Cup star Gardnar Mulloy of Miami, Fla., and Vic Seixas of Philadelphia — were ushered to the sidelines Wednesday in a continuing procession of upsets.

Top-seeded Frankie Los Angeles and Richard (Pancho) Gonzales, 20-year old Los Angeles youngster, reached the quarter-finals against each other but will not play until tomorrow.

Red Sox Get Worst Beating As Pale Hose Pounce 17-10

By RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Boston Red Sox's inability to beat the White Sox consistently at Chicago's Comiskey Park this year could cost the Red Sox the American League pennant.

Boston murdered Chicago in its own Fenway Park this season, taking 10 out of 11 games but the White Sox gained sweet revenge once they got the Red Sox in Chicago.

Ted Lyons' tail-end White Sox handed the league-leading Red Sox their worst beating of the season Wednesday, 17-10, in winning their seventh game in 11 starts against Boston at Comiskey Park.

The trouncing reduced Boston's margin over the runner-up New York Yankees to a game and a half. The Yanks, and the third-place Cleveland Indians who trail the Red Sox by three games, were idle.

A 10-run seventh-inning uprising by the White Sox turned what was a ball game into a rout.

While the White Sox upset the Red Sox, Chicago's other last place entry in the majors, the Cubs, continued to act as "cousins" for National League's pennant-bound Boston Braves.

Clip Cubs

The Braves, aided by four errors, clipped the Cubs, 5-2, in their final meeting of the season with Charley Grimm's crew. The triumph was the Braves' 16th over the Cubs in 22 outings this season.

Lefty Warren Spahn scattered nine Chicago hits in winning his 14th game of the year. The triumph enabled the Braves to stay five games ahead of the runner-up Pittsburgh Pirates. The Pirates whipped the Giants, 8-3 in New York.

Ernie Bonham checked the Giants on seven hits, two of them homers by Whitey Lockman and Johnny Mize.

The St. Louis Cardinals moved into a tie with the Brooklyn Dodgers for third place, a half game behind Pittsburgh, by defeating Philadelphia 2-0 while the Dodgers split a twin bill with Cincinnati Reds.

After the Reds edged the Dodgers, 3-2 in the opener behind the six hit pitching of Howie Fox, the Dodgers grabbed the nightcap, 2-1 as lefty Preacher Roe spun a seven-hitter for his 10th win.

Stopped Phils

Big George Munger stopped the Phils under the lights at Philadelphia on three hits as the Cards blanked the Phils for the second straight night.

In the other American League games, the Detroit Tigers beat the Washington Senators, 4-2 and the Philadelphia Athletics nipped the Browns, 8-7 in 12 innings in a night game at St. Louis.

Rookie Lou Kretlow scattered nine Washington hits in his first major league start of the season. The loss extended Washington's losing streak to 15 games, their longest since the 1903 team lost 13 straight.

Ferris Fain doubled home Eddie Joost with the payoff run in Philadelphia's victory. Dick Fowler of Toronto went the distance for the A's to rack up his 15th triumph.

Boxing Group Announces Title Ratings

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 16. — (AP).—The National Boxing Associtaion said today there is no "logical contender" for Joe Louis' heavyweight title.

At least one logical contender was listed in every weight division except the heavyweights by the N.B.A. in its rating of fighters.

Two Montreal boxers, Jean Richard and Fernando Gagnon, were the only Canadians listed in the ratings. Richard got honorable mention in the featherweight division, while Gagnon was listed among outstanding boxers in the bantamweight class.

Although Louis has until Dec. 25 to notify officially the N.B.A. whether he'll retire, Abe J. Greene, who Wednesday was named to the newly-created position of commissioner of boxing, said the Association shortly will announce plans to provide either a new champion or a logical contender for the Brown Bomber.

The ratings:

Heavyweight

Champion—Joe Louis, Michigan.

Outstanding Boxers—Joe Walcott, New Jersey; Ezzard Charles, Ohio; Joe Baksi, Pennsylvania; Lee Savold, New Jersey.

Light Heavyweight

Champion—Freddie Mills, England.

Logical Contender—Gus Lesnevich, New Jersey.

Outstanding Boxer—Bob Foxworth, Illinois.

Middleweight

Champion—Tony Zela, Indiana.

Logical Contenders — Marcel Cerdan, France; Bert Lytell, California.

Outstanding Boxers — Rocky Graziano, New York; Jake Lamotta, New York; Dave Sands, Australia.

Welterweight

Logical Contender —None available.

Outstanding boxers — Bernard Docuson, Louisiana; Doug Ratford, New York; Kid Gavilan, Cuba; Frankie Fernandes, Hawaii; Gene Burton, New York; Robert Villemain, France.

Lightweight

Champion—Ike Williams, New Jersey.

Logical contender — Enrique Belanos, California.

Outstanding boxers—Max Docuson, Louisiana; Jess Flores, California; Johnny Williams, New York; Freddie Dawson, Illinois.

Featherweight

Champion — Willie Pep, Connecticut.

Logical contenders—Chco Rosa, Hawaii; Joe Sandy Saddler, New York; Carlos Chavoz, California.

BOOST FOR BRAVES - By Alan Maver

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

Coach Dick Irvin sent his Montreal Canadiens through a light skating drill Wednesday as the National Hockey League Club started its pre-season training grind at St. Hyacinteh, Que.

All of last year's regulars were in action with the exception of defenceman Doug Harvey, only player not yet signed, and veteran Hector (Toe) Blake, now coach of the American League Buffalo Bisons.

Three promising recruits from last season's Allan Cup winning Edmonton Flyers, Bing Merluk, Doug McPherson and Scotty McPherson, arrived too late to work out with the others, but went through a practice whirl on their own.

In all, 23 players took the ice for the opening workout.

Officials of the Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League Wednesday announced the signing of defenceman Jack Dyte, 30, of New Liskeard.

Gus Lesnevich boxed four rounds Wednesday in his final workout at his training camp near South Fallsburg, N.Y. He will finish conditioning near his Cliffside, N.J., home for his Sept. 21 fight with Jersey Joe Walcott. Middleweight champion Tony Zale will go to Jersey City Thursday for a preliminary physical examination for his title scrap with Marcel Cerdan, Sept. 21.

Coaltown won the 79th running of the Jerome Handicap Wednesday after his stablemate, the three-year-old champion, Citation, was scratched earlier in the day at New York. Coaltown broke slowly, picked up speed and shot into the lead at the three-quarter pole and won by five lengths over Mount Marcy. Coaltown's stablemate, Free America, was third. Purse was $21,450 and winning time was 1.36.

Brooklyn Dodgers today announced the recall of 12 minor league baseball players who had been optioned to Brooklyn farm teams. All 12 are involved in playoffs and are unlikely to report before next spring. The list includes Dion Whitman, John Van Cuyk and Jack Banta from Montreal.

Improvement was marked Wednesday in Don Black's fight for recovery from a brain haemorrhage, but a physician said the stricken Cleveland Indians pitcher still is not out of danger.

Black issued his own communique from Cleveland hospital when he declared: "I'm feeling pretty good."

Dr. Spencer Braden, brain specialist called in when Black twisted his neck and was forced to retire from a game with the St. Louis Browns Monday, said he was "rather heartened by Don's condition.'

Detroit Red Wings finished strongly in the third period at Saskatoon Wednesday night' to defeat their farm hands from Indianapolis and Omaha 5-3 in the first of a four-game exhibition hockey series.

Eddie Mac J., one of the most consistent colts ever developed in Ontario, completed his sweep of Ontario's two-year-old trotting stakes Wednesday when he convincingly captured the two-year-old futurity trot, featured event at the Western Fair in London, Ont. The speedy Mitchell colt, owned by Ed Fawn and driven by his son Gordon, won going away in each of his two tests. He had previously captured the matron stake and the Supertest stake and has not lost a heat this year.

Selkirk Trophy Is Taken By Geo. Soulby

The last minute "pick-up" rink by Geo. Soulby came through to win all three games and also the six-end play-off game to win first place and the Selkirk trophy.

At the end of three nights' play, 54 ends of bowling, G. Soulby and W. Jeffries were tied with 63 points each. The committee ordered a six-end game play-off to decide the winner and Soulby's rink came through without any trouble.

F. Dearborn finished third and R. Knox fourth, with M. Fletcher coming in for high single. Many of the games were close and well played. C. Mowry and B. Jeffries handled the tournament in fine style.

The thanks of the club is extended to V. Selkirk for his generous gift of the trophy and prizes.

Neat Tourney

It was a good tournament and thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Tonight the Examiner novice semi-finals and finals, and also the last schedule game for Groups No. 1 and No. 2.

Winners

First—Selkirk trophy and each a Biltmore hat, donated by V. Selkirk—W. Turner, V. Hill, G. Soulby, skip.

Second—D. Anderson, F. Reed, H. R. Martin, W. Jeffries, skip.

Third—H. Frise, W. Noftall, G. Spence, F. Dearborn, skip.

Fourth—C. Holmes, S. Curry, W. Ashby, R. Knox, skip.

Fifth—R. Payne, G. Hewitt, E. Mesley, M. Fletcher, skip.

Montreal Edges Red Wings

By The Associated Press

The pennant-winning Montreal Royals Wednesday night took a commanding lead over the plucky Rochester Red Wings in the semi-final round of the International League's Shaughnessy playoffs series.

Manager Clay Hooper's crew defeated the Red Wings 8-6 for their second straight victory in the best-of-seven series. In the other semi-final series, Syracuse Chiefs downed Newark Bears 4-2 to square their set at a game apiece.

The Wings, as in the first game, battled the Royals right down to the wire. With two out in the ninth, Vern Benson and Glen Nelson singled for Rochester to put the tying runs on base. But Frank Laga, third Montreal pitcher, got chuck Diering to bounce into a force out to end the game.

The Royals nicked starter George Copeland for two runs in the first inning and drove him to cover during a four run rally in the third. Montreal clipped knuckle ball artist Al Papai for two runs in the fifth.

Banta Gets Credit

Jack Banta, Montreal's 19-game winner, started and received credit for the victory.

When he ran into trouble in the sixth, Johnny Van Cuyk took over.

Some fine relief pitching by Johnny Hetki helped the Chiefs in downing the Bears. Hetki relieved starter and winner Lefty Frank Fanovich in the eighth after the Bears loaded the bases. He walked pinch hitter Jack Wallaesa to force in a run but got Jerry Coleman to fly out to end the inning and then set the Bears down in order in the ninth.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

"Sunny Jim" Bottomley, St. Louis Cardinals first baseman, batted in 12 runs in one game to set a major league baseball record. Playing against the Brooklyn Dodgers 24 years ago today, Bottomley had a perfect six-for-six at bat. The Cards won 17-3.

Expect 27 Men Graduate From Hockey School

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 16.—(CP). — When the 16 regular members of the Toronto Maple Leafs' 1947-48 world championship team report for training here Sunday, they'll be greeted by about 12 graduates of Coach Hap Day's hockey school.

Managing director Conn Smythe of the National Hockey League Leafs said Wednesday he expected to have about 27 players graduate, but wasn't ready to release their names. About a dozen will stay here and practise with the Leafs' regular squad. Some will go to the Welland training camp of Pittsburgh Hornets and the rest will return to amateur teams.

Forty-eight young hockey stars from all over Canada attended the school since it opened early this week.

Regulars due to report Sunday are: Defencemen Bill Barilko, Garth Boesch and Jimmy Thompson; forwards Captain Ted Kennedy, Max Bentley, Les Costello, Bill Ezinicki, Joe Klukay, Vic Lynn, Fleming MacKell, Howie Meeker and Harry Watson.

Now at School

Regulars now attending the school are netminder Turk Broda, defencemen Gus Mortson and forward Sid Smith. They'll be joined by the former New York Rangers trio, Cal Gardner, Rene Trudel and Bill Juzda. Gardner and Trudel, delayed on their way from the West by an automobile accident, are expected Friday. Juzda is to report Sunday.

School officials today welcomed a gang of hockey scouts from all parts of the Dominion. Here for a week are: J. M. H. McLeod and Clark Simpson of Edmonton; Bob Wilson of North Bay; J. J. Grabowski, Quebec, and Leo Schmalz of Kitchener.

BEGIN OCT. 6

The 1948 World Series will begin Oct. 6 this year in the National League city winning the championship. The second game will be played in the National League city, with the next three games in the city where the winner of the American League has its home. The next two games, if needed to determine the champion, will be played in the National League city.

PERSONAL FINANCE COMPANY OF CANADA OPENS PETERBOROUGH BRANCH

DALTON R. THOMSON
Manager

Mr. Dalton R. Thomson was born in Arden, Ontario. He attended local schools, graduating from Plevna High School in 1940. He enlisted in the R.C.A.F., serving until his honorable discharge in 1946. He was appointed Assistant Manager of the Company's Kingston Branch in December, 1946. He comes to his new position as Branch Manager with a sincere desire to be of helpful service to all who need loans or financing. He will make his home in Peterborough.

We are pleased to announce the opening for business of the Peterborough Branch office of the Personal Finance Company of Canada. It gives us additional pleasure to announce the appointment of Mr. Dalton R. Thomson as manager.

The Personal Finance Company of Canada has been in business in Canada since 1933. We are grateful to the thousands of satisfied clients since that date who have made possible our steady growth which has resulted in the opening of this Peterborough Branch. We are happy to have the opportunity of serving our neighbors in Peterborough and vicinity with the kind of Personal Loan service that may best be helpful to them.

We welcome applications for loans from any employed person, married or single, or from any one with an income sufficient to permit repayment of a loan. Loans are made in amounts from $50 to $1,500 or more. Repayments are scheduled on a monthly basis to fit the individual's income in reasonable amounts so that they are easy to handle. Loans are made on the following plans to suit individual needs. The various loan plans offered are:

1. Loans to salaried people on signature only.
2. Loans to husband and wife only.
3. Loans with auto as security.
4. Loans with furniture as security.
5. Business fixtures and equipment loans.
6. Farm stock and equipment loans.
7. Financing of autos and other articles with smaller down payments.

Most people will qualify under one of the above plans. It is never necessary to have bankable security to borrow at Personal Finance, and co-signers are seldom required to obtain a loan. Applications are handled in strict confidence and with all possible speed. Making loans and financing purchases is our full-time business and we endeavour to favourably approve every application received by us.

We suggest that if bills are bothering you, or needed medical or dental work should be done, or if a loan could be used to advantage right now, that you place your application today in person, by phone, or by mail, and give us an opportunity to serve you. We want to be helpful, and we will listen with respect and attention to your request.

Edmonton Grins At Outmoded Laws On Books

EDMONTON, Sept. 16.—(CP).—Edmonton clergymen wanting a ferry ride across the [illegible]th Saskatchewan River on their way to or from church can still get it free—if they can find a ferry.

The statute granting them free passage is just one of a number of hoary regulations still on the city's books. They have their choice of four bridges to get them across today, with a fifth about to be built, but the bylaw once saved them quite a bit of loose change.

Someone peeked at a yellowed copy of the Consolidated Bylaws of the city of Edmonton, 1917, still in use by police court officials, and came across quite a few regulations that Edmontonians haven't thought of in years.

One of them explains why ferrymen no longer ply the river. The law would force them to charge only five cents a trip for a horse and rider, five cents a head for mules or oxen and 10 cents for a team of horses, wagon and driver. A return trip for the whole shebang carries a 15-cent top.

But horsemen haven't everything their own way in town. If a cowboy happens to wander in off the prairie, they'll slap a fine on him for hitching his cayuse to a lamp-post. The police still take a dim view of anyone attempting to break or train a horse in a street or public place.

Keep Off the Grass

A farmer is legally entitled to drive his cattle, sheep or other animals through the streets, but he'd be well advised to choose his route with care. The cops will pounce on him if he drives them "through or upon any street within the city, the sides of which are planted with grass or trees."

Apparently there's nothing to stop him from tying up traffic at the city's main intersection of Jasper Avenue and 101st Street though. There isn't a tree or blade of grass within blocks.

Livestock owners within the city limits (if any) are still bound by a 1917 ordinance decreeing that one cow in a family is an asset to any family, but two are a menace to public health.

And housing-short Edmontonians will smile sadly at this one:

"No person shall keep any horse, cow, calf, pig, fowl, ducks, geese, turkeys or other poultry within any place used for a dwelling house."

Woman Swallows 24 Headache Tablets

THOROLD, Sept. 16.—(CP).—Mrs. Ella Groat of Boundary Lane was lodged in Welland County jail Tuesday following an unsuccessful attempt Monday night to commit suicide by swallowing two dozen headache tablets.

Police said today that they were home of Mrs. J. Soper, where Mrs. Groat resides, at 11.30 Monday on a charge of attempted suidiscovered in her room in a stupor with an empty tablet bottle beside her. She was revived with a hypodermic injection.

The woman was arrested Tuesday night when Mrs. Groat was cide.

Police were summoned to the holding a suicide note, alleged to have been written by Mrs. Groat saying that she was tired of living and "this is the best way out." She will appear in Thorold police court Friday afternoon.

Havelock News

Miss Marjorie Patterson returned Tuesday from a vacation of five months with relatives in England.

Miss Mabel Roseborough of Peterborough was a recent guest of her cousin, Mrs. Charles Harnden, and Mr. Harnden.

Misses Marion Slinn and Verena Dewar of Toronto spent a week with Mrs. M. Seeney of Rush Point.

Given To Nation

BRENTFORD, England — (CP). — Chiswick House, built in the 18th century by the third Earl Burlington to house his art collection, has been given to the nation by Middlesex County council and Brentford and Chiswick council.

Most Drunken Continent

TORONTO, Sept. 16 — (CP). — Mrs. John Wickson, president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, told the 33rd annual meeting Wednesday that North America is the world's most prosperous — and most drunken — continent. "Liquor spending in the United States has reached a total of $9,600,000," she said. "Canada's drink bill is close to half a billion dollars."

Islanders Gloomy Can't See Royalty

AUCKLAND, N.Z., Sept. 16. — (CP).—Thousands of British subjects in the South Pacific are keenly disappointed that there is no possibility of the King and Queen and Princess Margaret visiting them on their tour of Australia and New Zealand next year. A move is afoot to send representatives to New Zealand to meet the Royal Family and return to describe the event in their home villages.

The King has more than 200,000 native subjects in Fiji, the Cook Group, the Tokelaus, Western Samoa and Niue Island. Most of them became British at their own request, not by conquest or annexation, and they look on the King as their father.

A proposal has been made by the island people that a ship should be chartered especially to take representatives from each island to New Zealand for the Royal tour.

Buried By Woodpile

TEESWATER — (CP). — Mrs. Harry Culliton of Teeswater rescued her three-year-old son Johnny unhurt after a pile of wood toppled on him, almost burying him.

65th Birthday Marked By Family Gathering

HASTINGS, Sept. 16 (ENS)—The families of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Brinklow gathered to honor him with a surprise party to celebrate his 65th birthday, recently.

His granddaughter, Darle, presented him with a purse of money on behalf of the family while his daughter Velma gave bouquet of flowers.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sutherland (Alma) and daughters Joan and Arline of Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Brinklow, Jean and Loraine of Potash Lake; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brinklow of Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. Everet Brinklow of Bancroft; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Brinklow, Pauline and Marie of Hastings; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hewie and Darle of Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brinklow and Robert of Peterborough.

Now Popular Delicacy

SYDNEY, Australia — (CP). — Australia's despised and tough-shelled macadamia nut has become an expensive delicacy in North America, and a great dollar-earner for Hawaii, it was announced recently. Experts describe them as the "finest table nuts ever produced."

From Meat Ax To Pen

LADYSMITH, South Africa — (CP). — Ladysmith has lost its woman butcher — probably the only one in the Union. The young woman went back to her office job after being a butcher since the beginning of the war to release a man for active service.

PAMELA LAMPHERE, 22-months-old baby born with an inverted bladder outside her body, entered hospital in Chicago, Ill., for an operation the success of which will give her a new lease of life. Her case attracted national attention several weeks ago when her parents, separated by a fierce dispute over an operation to prolong the baby's life, brought the matter to court. The baby's mother was finally persuaded that surgery is the only hope to prolong the baby's life, and reconciliation of the parents followed. In picture, the little girl is shown as Dr. John Vandenberg prepares to make a preliminary examination.

Wildcats Whip Alouettes As U.S. Imports Miss Boat

HAMILTON, Sept. 16 (CP) — Almost any day now you can look for a campaign to give Canadian football back to Canadians.

The cornerstone of the drive was laid here Wednesday night by a member of the losing team as Hamilton Wildcats scored their first win in four starts in the Interprovincial Football Union. They survived a desperate last quarter offensive to down Montreal Alouettes 13-12.

The Alouettes—who like the Wildcats have won only one game in four—weren't even a threat until Toronto-born Bruce Coulter took over the quarterbacking and forward-passing duties in the last quarter after an inept display by two United States imports.

The Toronto lad, who played last year yith Balmy Beach in the Ontario Rugby Football Union, sparked the Montreal team to two touchdowns good for 11 points in a sparkling 15-minute offensive which fell short of tying the score only because big Ches McCance missed the bars in two attempts to convert one touchdown. He got two chances because the Wildcats were offside on the first play.

Does All Right

However, a case can be made out for the imports on the Alouettes play. Hard-hitting Virgil Wagner, in his third season in Canadian football, scored both Montreal touchdowns, his third and fourth of the season. Negro lineman, Herb Trawick, also a third-year import, got credit for a single point. The other Montreal point went to Canadian Glenn Douglas.

A big second quarter—it produced 12 points — started the Wildcats off to their win.

Gordon Miller, a 25-year-old half-back from nearby Dunnville, started things with a single on a kick to the deadline. Big Bill Bass, another Montreal import, fumbled to pave the way for a touchdown. His misplay gave the Wildcats the ball 15 yards out. Benny Dyack smashed for 10 and Miller went the last five for the unconverted touchdown.

Mel Lawson, a Hamilton boy, threw a 40-yard pass to Ralph Larue from Toronto to set up Hamilton's second scoring play. Dyack got the touchdown and Bill Murmylyk converted. Import Ralph Paar tallied Hamilton's other point on a kick to the deadline in the third quarter. It was the only point scored for Hamilton by an American.

Steve Nemeth Montreal quarterback from Notre Dame, tried 12 passes when he was in the game and failed to complete any. Import Norm Cox missed his three tries. But when Coulter came in he virtually passed the Wildcats dizzy.

Police Practice Staging Bank Holdups

VANCOUVER, Sept. 16 (CP)—The entire police force here today is bank-bandit conscious. Will it be another raid by the notorious "maroon car" holdup artists or will it be Chief Constable Walter Mulligan in a surprise "cops-and-robbers" stunt?

The maroon car specialists — who don't "play" at being bandits—are blamed for a half-dozen bank robberies here in the last nine months, escaping with upwards of $20,000.

Tuesday Police Chief Mulligan and two top aides staged two bank holdups in widely separated parts of the city and eluded the entire force for nearly an hour before being "captured."

The mock raids on the banks, scenes of two recent holdups and one attempted robbery, were made to test the skill of police officers in tracking down real desperadoes.

The first raid by Chief Mulligan on Tuesday was on the Bank of Commerce branch where Manager Sidney Petrie was shot to death by a lone gunman a year ago and where a $10,000 holdup took place last month. Forty-eight minutes later after the fleeing "bandit car" had eluded the cordon of police cars the second raid was pulled off.

The Chief is still enthusiastic about his plan, but admits "there are little bugs to be ironed out."

LAST TRIP of Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King. These three pictures were taken as he prepared to leave for England and France to attend the General Assembly of the United Nations and the conference of commonwealth prime ministers. They show Mr. King in three poses, Left, as he arrived at a press conference; Centre, as he was asked a question which he considered startling; Right, as he waved goodbye. This is Prime Minister King's last trip outside Canada as Prime Minister.

Senator Fallis Says Women Get Recognition

Senator Iva Campbell Fallis, the only woman appointed by a Conservative government to the Senate of Canada, is confident that women will play a greater part in the forthcoming convention of the Progressive Conservative Party of Canada in Ottawa than in any previous convention of the Party.

Senator Fallis, who is slated to address the Women's Committee meeting being held during the convention, and expects to take an active part on the floor of the convention itself, said today: "The Conservative Party has always recognized the fact that women should play their part in the activities of the Party. More recently the Progressive Conservative Party has stated there should be equality of opportunity and treatment as between men and women.

"We therefore naturally expect 'a greater place in the sun' at this convention than we have had in the past. If any assurance of that is needed, we have received it in very definite statements made by Mr. R. A. Bell, the national director of our Party and organizer of the convention."

Senator Fallis who has said again and again that the women in the Senate (the Hon. Cairine Wilson and herself) get equal recognition with the men whether in debate or committee work, took her first step to the Red Chamber, it is generally conceded, when the late Viscount Bennett was chosen leader of the Party at the Winnipeg convention in 1927. Both she and Madame Fremont of Quebec had a prominent place on the agenda and received an enthusiastic reception from the assembled delegates. Again in 1938 when the late Dr. Robert Manion was chosen leader, Senator Fallis was given prominence as a speaker.

"In so far as I am personally concerned, and I think the same applies to the majority of the women in our Party, we are not looking for special favors or privileges for our sex but we simply ask that we shall not be discriminated against because we are women," Senator Fallis says. "All attending the convention—men, women and young people—should be treated alike as Canadian citizens interested in good government for our country and the future well-being of the Progressive Conservative Party. The women, on their part, should prove themselves worthy of equal recognition by giving the time and energy necessary to become well-informed on matters of public interest and by sharing in the work of building up the Party through active riding organizations."

Tass Quotes Red Dean On Broadcast Ban

MOSCOW, Sept. 16 — (Reuters).—Tass News Agency today quoted Very Rev. Hewlett Johnson, Dean of Canterbury, as saying in Bucharest he would not be allowed to broadcast, on his return to Britain, impressions on his stay to Romania.

The broadcast would not be allowed "under the ridiculous excuse that my voice is not suitable for radio broadcasts," the agency quoted him.

The Tass dispattch further quoted him:

"Hitherto I have not succeeded in having my articles published in any British paper except the (London) Daily Worker. On my return to Britain, however, I shall try to use mass meetings to tell the British people the truth about what is going on behind the so-called iron curtain."

Swim Classes Awards Given

MILLBROOK, Sept. 16 (ENS) Local young people who successfully passed Red Cross tests in swimming at Wallace Point Saturday, and the previous week, included:

In the Junior class Lena Marie Lowery, Raymond Lowery, Robert McPherson, Tom Bredin and Beverley Patton.

A number of others are ready for their tests, but were not able to attend on Saturday. A. R. Payne, local Red Cross president, may take a group this week-end if enough are ready.

Herbert Cardwell, officially appointed examining officer, will be on hand.

Mrs. Pansy Forbes, of Peterborough, and others have been assisting with the instruction of the young people in the "swim for safety" classes. Lessons in the proper handling of a canoe have also been given.

Awards presented by the Wallace Point Canoe Club were as follows: Francis Dawson won two silver cups for making the most points in the girls' competition, one to be kept, and the other to be returned at the years' end for annual competition.

She also won the Forbes Cup for making the most progress during the season; and a handsome china ornament in the girls' general swimming contest.

Peter Crowley won the cup for the most points in the boys' junior competition.

Leslie Baker was awarded a glamor pin, and also won an automatic pencil for taking second place in the junior girls' swimming competition.

Boy, Girl Sentenced

BRANTFORD, Sept. 16 — (CP). — An 11-year-old girl and her 10-year-old brother faced 13 charges in juvenile court Wednesday and were committed to Ontario training schools. Another lad, eight, also involved in the same series of break-ins was allowed to go home on probation because of his age.

Big Work Program

TORONTO, Sept. 16 — (CP). — A $30,000,000 work program was passed Wednesday by board of control. Part of it must be approved by ratepayers at the municipal election next Jan. 1. One $10,000,000 project is to widen Yonge street — the city's main thoroughfare — for almost 2½ miles.

A FORMER MINISTER in the government of Czechoslovakia, Hubert Ripka is shown at a press conference in Paris, France, where he revealed formation of an anti-Communist Czech government council to work for the liberation of Czechoslovakia from Communist domination. The council will be equipped to keep in constant touch with anti-Communist movements inside Czechoslovakia.

Voters Have Candidates All Picked Out

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 — (AP).—Party voters in seven states had their candidates all picked out today for political offices ranging from governor and senator down to minor town positions.

These were the major results in Tuesday's primaries across the United States:

Senator Joseph Ball again won Republican nomination in Minnesota, while Mayor Hubert Humphreys of Minneapolis snagged the democratic senatorial nomination.

Another incumbent, Senator Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado, rolled up a heavy victory margin in his State's Democratic primary.

Republican Senators Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts and were unopposed. Saltonstall will get his November opposition from John I. Fitzgerald, while Alfred E. Fortin will square off against Bridges.

Lacked Opposition

Both Michigan senatorial candidates—Republican Senator Homer F. Ferguson and a former Democratic representative, Frank Hook — also lacked opposition within in their own parties.

A number of candidates for governor also were chose in Tuesday's primaries.

Massachusetts Republicans renominated Governor F. Bradford. Democratic candidate Paul A. Dever was unopposed—practically. Although Maurice J. Tobin quit the race to accept appointment as President Truman's secretary of labor, his name was on the ballot. Tobin polled more votes than Bradford's Republican opponent.

Michigan Democrats handed a slim lead to G. Mennen Williams, running with CIO backing, over two opponents—Victor E. Bucknell, supported by the Teamsters' Union (AFL), and industrialist Burnett J. Abbott. Republican Governor Kim Sigler, although unopposed for renomination, garnered a heavy "token" vote.

Indicate Retail Prices Protect Small Outlets

OTTAWA, Sept. 15—(CP)— A Montreal department store official says the reason shirt manufacturers sometimes indicate retail prices is to protect small retailers.

John Senecal, manager of the men's furnishings department of Dupuis Freres, made that assertion before the Prices Commission Wednesday after testifying two of the larger manufacturers put tags on shirts they send his firm.

The commission continues its study of shirt costs today.

Mr. Senecal said firms like Tooke Brothers and John Forsyth Ltd., sometimes put tags on their shirts and his firm usually adheres to their prices. In another case, that of Cluett-Peabodys, there were no tags but the salesmen sometimes suggested what the price should be.

Protect Outlets

The manufacturers sought by these methods to protect their smaller outlets. That was the reason it was possible to get, say, a Tooke shirt all across Canada at the same price.

The Dupuis firm's usual mark-up on cost of a shirt was from 50 to 55 per cent but there were cases when it went well below this for quick turnover. That was the case with a shirt sold recently for $2.98 at a markup of 27 per cent compared to 26.5 per cent overhead costs.

Another witness, H. A. Henderson, manager of T. Eaton Co. Ltd., shirt factory, said its production was going up again after a considerable drop. Production this year already was almost equal to the 1947 total.

BURST BLOOD VESSEL

Enrico Caruso, the famous Italian tenor, ruptured a blood vessel in his throat while singing in 1920, and died from ensuing complications at Naples the next year.

IT WASN'T A CYCLONE, just a runaway transport, that caused above damage to Henry Martin's home in Caughnawaga recently as it tore through the porch and wound up on its side. The twice-parted telephone pole was also a victim.

Unemployment Insurance Act Amended

OTTAWA, Sept. 16 — (CP) — Amendments to the Unemployment Insurance Act passed at the last session of parliament will be brought into force Oct. 4.

In making the announcement, the Unemployment Insurance Commission outlined the main changes and explained how they will affect employers and workers.

An important change concerns rates of contribution. The Act provides that employers and employees in insurable classes both contribute according to a stipulated schedule. The Dominion government add one-fifth of their combined contribution.

Under the original act, employers paid a larger contribution than employees in the higher wage groups contributed more than employers. In the aggregate contributions were about equal.

However, the steady advance in wages had had the effect of moving more and more employees into the higher wage groups, with the result that aggregate employee contributions exceed those of employers. Amendments were made to readjust the contributions.

At present employers' contributions range from 18 to 27 cents a week, depending on the employee's salary. Under the new schedule, the employers' contributions will range from nine to 42 cents a week. Employees now pay from nine to 36 cents a week and under the new rate will pay from nine to 42 cents.

Anyone earning more than $3,120 is not asked to contribute and is not insured.

The highest weekly benefit payable to an unemployed person under the original act was $14.40. The amendments increase thisto $15.60.

Obituary

MRS. J. J. NICOLL

NORWOOD, Sept. 16.—(ENS). —The death of Mrs. J. J. Nicoll, of Kelfield, Sask., occurred on Sept. 8 at Guelph, after a long illness. Daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Calder she was the former Margaret Calder, a resident of Norwood until her marriage in 1914, when she went to Saskatchewan, where her husband was engaged in farming. She took an active interest in church and social work.

The funeral, attended by many relatives and former friends, was held from the home of her sister, Miss Jane Calder, on Friday, and burial took place in Norwood cemetery. The service was conducted by the Rev. R. D. Duncanson, pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church. Mrs. Nicol is survived by her husband and one sister.

A1064 And Wife Leave For North

RATHWELL, Man., Sept. 16—(CP)A distinguished visitor from southern Manitoba has paid a visit to the capital of the province —and as can be ascertained he was not impressed.

He wore a brown coat, a tired expression, and took a jaundiced view of Winnipeg. He was "A1064", one of the largest beaver ever caught in southern Manitoba.

The beaver is about five feet ong, weighs 78 pounds and is as powerful as a man. "A1064" is about 10 years old, a respectable age in any beaver colony.

He was caught south of here on the Boyne River by Douglas Ferris, a game guardian. Beaver are becoming a nuisance in the south of the province. The game and fisheries branch is caging them and shipping them north, where they will increase the stock for trappers and act as fire prevention officers by building dams.

Largest Beaver

"He is the largest beaver I ever caught or saw," said 22-year-old Douglas Ferris—who has caught hundreds of beaver since he was nine years old.

Ferris had a hard time carrying "A1064" (the serial number given the beaver) half a mile through the bush to his truck. An adult beaver weighs 40 pounds on the average—and A1064 took a dim view of the nocturnal bush ride. He flung his weight around in the wire cage and caught his captor off his feet a couple of times.

But the big beaver was shipped to The Pas. Ferris made another trip to the Rathwell area to pick up A1064's wife.

Beaver are monogamists. They rapidly become despondent when separated from their spouses "A1064" has no worries on this score. His wife was sent north to join him in freedom on some lake.

Vitamin C Lacking In Most Winter Food

TORONTO, Sept. 16.—)CP). — A survey made by dietary experts of the Toronto General Hospital and the Hospital for Sick Children has revealed a great percentage of Canadian adults and children get too little vitamin C during winter months.

A study of Toronto families showed only five per cent. of the children and 33 per cent. of the adults surveyed were getting the minimum daily requirements of the vitamin.

Previous surveys in five Canadian cities showed the vitamin shortage was most common in families with low incomes. They showed that 70 per cent. of the families with diets short of vitamine C had incomes fo between $1,500 and $2,500 a year.

Only four reasonably priced Canadian foods contain even moderate amounts of vitamin C: cabbage, turnips, tomatoes and potatoes that haven't been stored too long.

The survey, reported in the current issue of the Canadian Medical Association Journal, was made by Dr. Elizabeth Robertson and Margaret E. Galloway.

The Vatican City State was named Feb. 11, 1929.

New Labor Group

TORONTO, Sept. 16 — (CP). — Ernest Smith of Toronto announced Wednesday night the formation of a new Canadian Labor Organization—the Dominion Labor Unions — following an afternoon meeting at Hamilton. Mr. Smith said that after the preliminary meeting the organization has some 4,500 members, drawn from half a dozen unions which left the Canadian Federation of Labor to join the new organization. Mr. Smith was formerly connected with the C.F.L.

CRAWFORD'S GROVE

A Pair Of New York Irishmen 'Casing' French Palace At UN

By CHARLES A. GRUMICH.

PARIS, Sept. 16 — (AP). — A pair of New York Irishmen are carefully "casing" a French palace high above the Seine. It is all for security reasons.

Their job is to provide the screen of security around the delegations to the United Nations Assembly opening September 21 in the Palais de Chaillot, which looks out on the Place du Trocadero. They are John J. Cosgrove, acting chief of the UN Security Force and leader of the International Police Force that went to Palestine to patrol the truce, and Denis Casey, his sergeant of the guard.

Cosgrove, who has been called the world's No. 1 cop, packs the authority. Casey is the linguist on the two-man team which will direct the French uniformed force assigned to keep the internal security.

None of the rest of Cosgrove's UN Headquarters Force will be here for the Paris Assembly. Most of the 66 will be catching up on vacations that were disrupted when 4 of them went to Palestine. Six of them are still somewhere in the Holy Land, where one of the 49 was killed on the first overseas police mission under taken by the UN.

Physical Protection

Both Cosgrove and his assistant are war veterans of the ready-and-able type. Their problem physically is to protect the delegates from 58 countries against harm in the maze of corridors that is the Chaillot Palace.

The palace itself is a bisected curving pile of Moorish architecture on brow of Trocadero hill overlooking the Seine. It was built for the 1878 International Exhibition and rebuilt in 1937 for the World's Fair of that year.

The main theatre of the palace, far below the Trocadera level, is the hall for the UN plenary sessions. Though somewhat smaller it is being made into an almost exact duplicate of the Flushing Meadow Assembly Hall in New York.

The Assembly covers about 10 acres and will accommodate around 4,500 people connected with the UN. They will be set apart from the rest of the world with immunity from arrest on the grounds and other privileges. France is spending more than $3,000,000 and is even installing elevators and a unique telephone system.

One tentative seating plan calls for moving the press correspondents from their regular gallery seats into delegation seats and putting the public spectators into the press rows.

REV. ALFRED SIENKIEWICZ of Norwich, Conn., a Catholic priest who has vanished in Poland since he arrived in Europe recently with a Catholic pilgrimage. With definite information at a minimum, U.S. embassy officials declared they will start an intensive search of the entire country and press the hunt to locate the priest, utilizing all diplomatic and police circles.

Miner's Daughter Weds

FOLKSTON, Ga., Sept. 16 — (AP). — Stephany Saja, 23, Pennsylvania coal-miner's daughter, and Francis Hitchcock, 39, wealthy sportsman, were married here Wednesday. Hitchcock yesterday was divorced from his second wife, the former Marie Grammer, at West Palm Beach, Fla.

Water Authority Discussed At Marmora

MARMORA, Sept. 16—(ENS) — The monthly meetings of the Marmora District Chamber of Commerce resumed on Monday evening with a dinner meeting at Marble Point Lodge, Crowe Lake. Alex. Fraser presided, and there was an attendance of 36. A two minutes' silence was observed in memory of two deceased members, Lt.-Col. A. V. Yates and H. A. Burwash. President Fraser mentioned that a new entertainment committee of three would have to be appointed, because of the death of Col. Yates, the removal of Rev. E. M. Cadigan to Ottawa, and the absence on holiday in England of H. J. Neath. He further referred to accomplishments by committees since the last meeting in June. The secretary, R. E. Neal, read correspondence in which was included the national convention of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce which is being held in Vancouver October 26 to 28.

Don Marett gave the report of the advertising and publicity committee. He mentioned the signs at the approaches to the village and the advertising booklet which had been distributed. The report of the tourist development committee was given by C. H. Buskard. The membership of the Chamber was stated to be eighty-four. The report of the agricultural committee was not forthcoming. H. A. McNally reported for the industrial development committee, and mentioned the survey of local resources.

R. E. Bonter, for the season committee, reported relations between the Chamber and municipal authorities as being of the best. The progress of the work on the Arena was sketched by Bernard Hughes. Apart from the plumbing, the building will be complete within two weeks. Mr. Hughes also outlined the proposed program for opening ceremonies to take place within the next month. The report on the Marmora Day was jointly given by Reeve V. M. Lynch and R. E. Neal. Discussion on the water level of local waters and the request for a water authority for the Crowe River watershed was keenly waged. The Chamber is awaiting reply to a letter sent by its secretary to the chief conservation engineer of the Department of Planning and Development before taking further action.

Junior Red Cross Popular In N.S.

HALIFAX, Sept. 16.—(CP). — During the last school year more than 50 per cent. of Nova Scotia's children were enrolled in the Junior Red Cross, provincial director, O. R. Browne, reported here. This year the objective is a 100 per cent. enrolment.

The over-all gain in students taking part in health programs was 2,673.

Of 850,000 school children registered in the Red Cross in Canada last year, 63,264 were in Nova Scotia.

The director said the children took great interest in their work, particularly with regard to the handicapped and crippled children's fund. Even after the school term closed donations still were received.

Go To British Schools

NEW YORK, Sept. 16 — (CP). — Rose and Shane Alexander, children of Canada's Governor-General, Wednesday boarded the liner Mauretania to sail for England where they will attend school. Rose, 15 and Shane, 13 are travelling alone. They are returning to Britain for the first time since they came to Canada with their parents in 1946. They have been attending Ashburn School, Ottawa.

THEY LOOKED RELAXED, perfectly at ease, but these Allied military policemen were right on their toes as they awaited whatever might come out of the big Communist rally staged in Berlin's Lustgarten by way of a reply to the anti-Communist demonstration in the western zone. Trouble was feared, but none materialized. For the big rally was a flop. Instead of the 400,000 people the Russians expected to whoop it up for dear old Joe, about a quarter that number turned out—and many of those were imported from satellites.

With Bank 42 Years H. A. Kerr Retires

MILLBROOK, Sept. 16—(ENS) —After 16 years as manager of the local branch of the Bank of Toronto, H. A. Kerr this week retires from active service in his position, though he and Mrs. Kerr will continue, for a time at least, to reside at Millbrook. Mr. Kerr entred the bank when in his 'teens at Elmvale, his native village, rose gradually to the position of manager, and has been 42 years with the bank.

Usually five years is the term of office in any one place, and the stay at Millbrook has been much the longest in Mr. Kerr's banking career. Their eldest son, William, lost his life in World War II during their residence in Millbrook.

Mr. Kerr's successor is Harry Perkin, formerly of Meaford, who has been here for the past week. He will move his wife and family here as soon as a house can be secured. Mr. Kerr's predecessor was E. G. Britton, later of Port Hope.

During Mr. Kerr's term of service as head of the local branch, the bank has expanded largely its business and staff, the inclusion of a number of high school girls on the latter having been a new feature.

Crowds Welcome Quadruplets Home

WESTERLEIGH, Gloucestershire, England, Sept. 16.—(CP).—Flags were strung across the streets, bands played and visitors came from miles around today to welcome home the 13-weeks-old Good quads — accompanied by their parents and four-year-old sister Susan.

Until today the quads—Bridget, Elizabeth, Frances and Jennifer—have been cared for at the Southmead Hospital in Bristol where they were born. Now they are installed at the Quadrangle, a 12-roomed house set in a garden newly-planted with asters and shrubs. They have their own cream-painted nursery.

The parents, Mr and Mrs. Charles Good, were greeted with cheers and fluttering handkerchiefs. They stood hatless in the brown doorway to their new home to receive presentations and speeches of congratulation.

A surprise for Mrs. Good was the gift of a washing machine.

Sudbury Man Killed In African Crash

SUDBURY, Sept. 16—(CP)—Word was received Tuesday by Mr. and Mrs. Matti Lahti, of Sudbury, of the death of their son, Edward J. Lahti, 37, in an airplane crash in South Africa last Sunday.

Details of the crash are not known, but the former Sudburian was one of four persons killed when their plane crashed about 60 miles from Durban.

The notice was contained in a cablegram sent to Mr. and Mrs. Lahti by a friend of their son in Africa. The cablegram gave no further details of the accident.

Lahti, in company with his brother, Norman, and two other Sudbury youths, left in 1936 to work along the Gold Coast of British West Africa. The other three returned to Sudbury within two years, but Edward remained. Prior to leaving for the African gold fields, Lahti was employed for a number of years at Frood Mine.

Danes Plan Development Raising Status of Greenland

By CHARLES CROOT.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 16 — (Reuters). — Greenland, the world's larges island, and Denmark's Arctic colony, may be given the status of a county with representation in the Danish Parliament.

The government is investigating this possibility as part of a broad plan to develop this relatively - unexplored possession which has so far been a severe economic burden.

Prime Minister Hans Hedtoft has announced that two judges are to inquire into the administration of justice on the island. At present there is neither a penal code nor a prison there.

The Prime Minister said that during a visit to Greenland he will listen to the wishes of the Provincial Council and discuss with Greenlanders the possibility of combining Danish commercial activities with opportunities presented by Greenland.

"It is my task to convince the Greenlanders that Danes desire the good of Greenland," Hedtoft said.

Since the end of the war, Denmark has poured increasing amounts of money into the colony. In 1946-1947, the sum granted for investment in Greenland was $38,000. The figure for 1947-1948 was $1,740,000 and a vote of $2,600,000 has been made for 1948-1949. A meteorological service alone costs about $1,200,000 a year.

The Danish Government is determined to develop to the full all possibilities in the island. So far, development has been hampered by consideration of expenses involved in combatting the intense cold and generally adverse weather conditions.

Huge Ice Shield

Six-sevenths of Greenland's 840,000 square miles is covered with ice—a shield which is up to 7,000 feet thick. The ice-free coastal strip reaches its maximum width at Scoresby South, on the east coast, where it is 190 miles wide. On the west coast the greatest width is about 100 miles, at Holsteinsborg. Deep fjords cut into this habitable area.

Main sources of revenue to the Danish government from Greenland are the deposits of cryolite, used in production of aluminum.

Danish plans for development include modernizing the coal mine at Kudtligsat—to be carried out by a Norwegian mining engineer with a Scottish expert as an adviser. The cost is estimated at $64,000 and the mine's capacity is expected to be increased by 13,000 to 20,000 tons a year.

Four new electricity works are to be constructed, better harbors built, and more roads laid down.

Hospitals are to be constructed near Angmagsalik and Upernavik and others will be extended. Three modern schools will be erected at Julianehaab, Godthaab and Edgesminde. Two schools for housewives are also planned. The present number of Danish teachers in Greenland — now about 20 — is to be increased. It has been decided to use Danish as the language of instruction.

Building to be carried out includes: Seven more meteorological stations in addition to the 104 existing stations; a combined slaughterhouse and shrimp-canning factory near Narssak; boat-building slip for the repair of local craft near Egedesminde; and oil tanks capable of taking 10,000 tons direct from tankers.

Giberson's Gold Still Sought In Two Countries

WOODSTOCK, N.B., Sept. 16—(CP).—Searching for gold is a favorite sport of some people in Carleton and Victoria counties, although government geologists say there is little chance of this area containing important deposits.

Popular belief otherwise, however, goes back to a lumberjack named Giberson, who turned up at Hartland more than 50 years ago with a chunk of quartz bearing large pieces of gold. He refused to answer questions about his find until he could stake and register a claim, but he became a victim of typhoid fever and died ithout disclosing the secret.

John E. Stewart, a railroader, had the quartz assayed. It proved remarkably high-grade ore. Then Stewart, bitten by the gold bug, spent years of vain hunting for the source of Giberson's quartz. He imported experienced prospectors from Ontario who also searched fruitlessly.

After Stewart's death there was a flurry of excitement. A guide and two United States anglers who had been camping on the Tobique river, arrived at Hartland and announced they had stumbled on Giberson's gold. They took the first train to Fredericton to file claims. That was the last seen of them in Hartland. A rumor came back that their ore had turned out to be iron pyrites, or "fool's gold."

Amateur Prospector

Giberson, however, was not the only one to find the real stuff. Dr. C. A. Kirkpatrick, Grand Falls dentist and one of the many amateur prospectors, blew up an outcropping of quartz and took some rich samples to Toronto.

A mining man told him he was lucky if he had much of the same ore. Dr. Kirkpatrick returned with enthusiasm, but further work showed the "mine" was only a small pocket. Another Hartland resident also discovered real gold but the ore was too low grade to be commercially worth while.

Then there's the story of the ducks. A farmer's wife from a community near Hartland brought two small nuggets to a jewelry store for examination. They were pure gold. Inquiry revealed they had been in the crop of a duck killed for market.

The people of Carleton and Victoria counties believe that if ducks can find gold nuggets human beings should be able to do as well, no matter what geologists say, so the amateur prospecting is continuing.

Church Loses Plaque, Pulpit

CASTLETON, Caithness, Scotland, Sept. 16.—(CP). — The oak pulpit and war-memorial plaque have disappeared from the Established Church here and parishioners invite assistance in finding them.

The building was requisitioned for the RAF and Polish troops during the war, after the two Church of Scotland congregations had united and were unable to carry out plans to worship alternately in each church. When the church was released by the forces it was found the pulpit and plaque had been removed.

County Councillor William Mackenzie reported:

"All that I have been able to discover is that the pews and, presumably, the pulpit, were taken to a hut for storage. I went there and found the doors of the hut open and only a few fragments of pew left. It would appear that people had been breaking up the pews for firewood, but I have not been able to find anything of the pulpit or plaque.

Trade Charges On Congress Suspension Move

WINNIPEG, Sept. 16—(CP)—Charges and denials concerning Communism within Canada's trade union movement were contained in interviews given here Tuesday by two of the Dominion's top labor leaders.

Frank Hall, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, whose group was suspended Saturday by the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, said the only issue was one of Communism within the trade union movement in the Dominion.

Carl Berg, vice-president of the TLC, said the dispute between the two groups did not concern Communism but was rather a matter of upholding policies laid down at the Congress' last national convention.

The Congress suspended the BRSC on the ground it had set up a dual union by merging the Canadian Lake Seamen's Union, formed in 1946, with the more recently-organized Seafarers International Union, an American Federation of Labor organization.

Too Lenient

In statements leading up to the merger of the two seamen's unions Mr. Hall contended that the TLC was too lenient with Communist tendencies within the labor movement, a trend which he was seeking to combat.

Mr. Berg said in Tuesday's interview the Congress did not have to apologize for its stand on Communism.

"Since its inception it has stood against totalitarianism of any kind and has long been recognized by Canadians as an organization working on the side of democracy. Therefore, to raise the phony issue of Communism is only to justify action inconsistent with the policy of the Congress laid down by its convention."

Mr. Berg said that in making the merger, the BRSC had played into the hands of the steamship owners, the group against which the CSU was "striking."

Mr. Hall denied this.

Grandmother's Day Held By Fairview WA

FAIRVIEW, Sept. 16—(ENS)—Grandmothers Day was held Tuesday afternoon by the WA at the home of Mrs. Fred Brown with 30 ladies present.

Mrs. Albert Bulmer led the worship period, Mrs. Cephas Heard read the scripture lesson and Rev. Morris led in prayer.

Mrs. Elmer Milburn gave a reading on the life of Elizabeth Sanderson, a grandmother who lived to be 100 years old. Mrs. W. D. Wilson gave a paper on grandmothers and all present recalled some incident in the lives of their grandmothers. Mrs. Wesley Bell and Mrs. Harold Lewis sang a duet.

Mrs. Bulmer thanked all who took part in program and also expressed appreciation to those who had donated to the sale of lunches which was held at Mr. E. Lillico's sale when the sum of $32 was raised. The president, Mrs. R. Fowler, was in charge of the business.

The oldest grandmother present was Mrs. Sidney Bennett. Prize for the grandmother with the most grandchildren went to Mrs. E. Bulmer who has 32 grandchildren and two great grandchildren. Youngest grandmother present, Mrs. Robert Fowler, and the grandmother with the youngest grandchild was Mrs. W. A. Rosborough.

Mrs. Brown, assisted by the lunch committee, served a bountiful lunch.

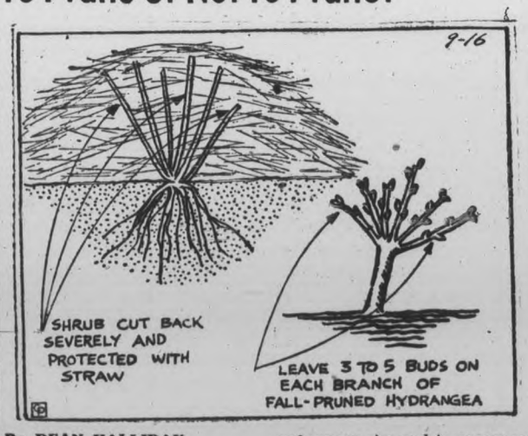
YOUR GARDEN . . .

To Prune Or Not To Prune?



By DEAN HALLIDAY.

Late summer and fall flowering shrubs should be pruned during the winter and early spring months before growth for the new season starts. As much or as little of the growth made this year can be pruned away, but enough "eyes" must be retained to supply plenty of new shoots next year.

An example of what is meant by retaining "eyes" for the new growth is shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. As illustrated, a hydrangea has been cut back almost to the crown. Each branch, however, retains 3 to 5 buds or "eyes."

Some gardeners prefer to prune only moderately in the fall, going over the shrubs again early in spring to remove any branches which may have been injured during the winter.

The pruning of shrubs has two objects—to keep them in shape and proper size and to encourage better blooms. Any dead wood should be removed, cut off close to the ground or back to sound, healthy wood. A Butterfly bush is shown in the Garden-Graph, which has been cut back severely during fall pruning and then covered with straw to protect it during the winter. This type of shrub can be pruned back to within 18 inches of the ground to promote healthy growth and bigger blooms.

In the spring, if the fall pruned bush shows evidence of winter injury, cut it back to the ground. The roots will be alive and the shrub will grow again.

Spring and early summer-flowering shrubs which produce flowers from buds on the growth of the previous year should be pruned immediately after the flowers have matured. This is done to stimulate correct new growth on which may develop flower buds for next year.

Norwood Rd. Subdivision To Get Sewers Council Gives Approval

Ludgate, Simmons, Welsh and Watts Streets comprise an area on the west side of the canal along the old Norwood Road that is becoming a new housing subdivision. It is being built by Montgomery brothers and J. A. Gibbs. They are approaching the stage of construction at which sewer connection is required, and in so far as the council can do anything about it they are going to get this accommodation on time.

That reference at the finance committee meeting this week harks back to the first weeks of last spring. A housing program was in the air. Property owned by Claude H. Rogers and Frank Montgomery and his brother, Don Raddon and Mr. Gibbs appealed to the special housing committee of the council who were forced to the city's perimeter by the occupation of all the city land inside it.

Thirty-four lots were available on that side of Ashburnham. The price was $4.50 a foot, but because the buildings were to be for men who had served in the war City Clerk Outram suggested that as an economy to the eventual tenants and owners the price be clipped to $3.

Mr. Rogers was away at the time. At letter quickly obtained his assent. The other owners were equally willing to reduce their land price.

That preliminary of site was finally arranged by Ald. Gordon Armstrong's committee. Soon afterward, Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation announced suspension of their plans of assisted building of dwellings. They said they could not get contract bids at levels that would permit rent charges within the means of the average working man.

Then, Don Ephgrave and Arnold Steele who had completed Arndon integrated housing project in the south end began enquiring of the council for land they could purchase for the program they had lined up for this year.

In those circumstances the council sold them the property that had been secured for the earlier Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation plans. The advantage which had been given by the owners was passed on to Messrs. Ephgrave and Steele, who were also building primarily for accommodation of ex-service men.

"We had no objections from those owners," said City Clerk Outram in recalling the incident Monday night, "and they were so helpful about it when the housing committee was looking for help that I think we owe them some special consideration now."

The discussion was an unmistakable nod to City Engineer Chalmers.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

INDIAN RELICS

Indian relics, formerly belonging to the Victoria Museum, are to be sent to the Royal Ontario Museum for classification, said W. L. Graff, chief librarian today. The relics are to be used as exhibits in the city schools.

YMCA ACTIVITIES

Club activities are recommencing at the YMCA. This evening, the Triangle Club will be meeting, and a week from today the Y's Men's Club will be holding their first supper meeting of the season.

MUSEUM FITTINGS

Last of the fittings of the Victoria Museum were taken away from the Public Library on Wednesday evening by members of the Optimist Club. In addition, the replica of the Coronation chair was also taken to be used for a boys' parliament at Trafalgar House.

HOUSE IS POPULAR

Modern features of the Huffman home advertised and described in detail in The Examiner this week have caught the pubic fancy. More than 700 visitors inspected the home Wednesday afternoon and evening, and the house is also open this afternoon and tonight. A small admission charge is made and this goes to Kiwanis welfare work. At one time there was a long line-up Wednesday night, and several people had made notes of items listed in The Examiner story which they wanted pointed out and described.

May Cut Lights For Lacrosse And Softball

Peterborough's consumption of electric power is exceeding its allotment, said G. S. Matthews, chairman of the Utilities Commission, amplifying his comment that "we are not doing as well as the Hydro expects."

Wednesday's total of 302,000 kilowatt-hours as against the 260,000 set for Peterborough by the Hydro-Electric Commission.

"I think we shall have to cut out the floodlighting of the lacrosse and baseball grounds after this week," Mr. Matthews said.

If the community as a whole was observing as completely as the downtown merchants, in their store front illumination, the spirit of the provincial regulations, the Utilities Commission would not be worrying about the effects of this week's test when it is reviewed by the Hydro authorities.

Mr. Matthews recommended to housewives the suggestion of the mayor of Toronto that wash day be switched from Monday to Friday and ironing day from Tuesday to Saturday. The power peak recedes toward the end of the week.

Apparently the Utilities Commission finds itself between two fires: the demands of the Hydro on the one hand and public reaction and sentiment on the other. The alternative to Peterborough's continuing use of 302,000 kwh, instead of 260,000, could be a summary cut off by the Hydro until local consumption conforms with that daily allotment.

The importance of the domestic switch to the end of the week is indicated by the fact, Ross Dobbin said, that an electric iron represents one horse power. This week's chillier weather has probably brought electric heaters into use again. They are also substantial attachments in the power total, and should not be used if the 260,000 kwh allotment is to be observed.

The local situation sums up in the remark of Mr. Matthews: "We are not doing so well."

350 From Toronto

Toronto CGE Quarter Century Club are coming to Peterborough Saturday, Sept. 25, to see the Peterborough works. They have expressed for some time a desire to visit the local plant. They will arrive by special train about 3 p.m., and will make the round of the departments. Dinner in the caleteria will be at 6.30, and departure at 9 p.m. About 350 Quarter Century Club members will make the trip. They are not being joined here by the local QC Club.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES BRINKLOW, Hastings, marked two anniversaries this week, the 65th birthday of Mr. Brinklow, and his completion of 45 years' service with the CNR. Mrs. Brinklow has been in poor health for the past few years. Both were honored by neighbors at a surprise party.

45 Years With Railway C. Brinklow Retires at 65

HASTINGS, Sept. 16—(ENS).—After 45 years of service with the CNR, Charles Brinklow retired on Saturday, when he marked his 65th birthday. Born at Hamburg, he moved to Ormsby township while still a boy, starting to work for the Central Ontario Railroad as a section man in March, 1903. In 1916 he was made a section foreman, moving to Hastings in 1928.

His father, who died at Trenton in 1926, was a contractor with the CNR for several years. As a pilot he helped to cut the way for the Irondale, Bancroft and Ottawa railway, which became a part of the CNR in 1910.

Mr. Brinklow says the biggest change is the wages. When he first started working he received 90 cents for a 10-hour day. While he has been at Hastings, he recalls only three accidents on his section. In 1945 an engineer was killed when a train ran over a "D" rail. In 1947 a caboose caught on fire, and the beginning of this month a 10-year-old boy was killed in a collision.

Two cars left stalled at night on the track crossings were smashed by the night freight train in 1931 and another in July, 1948.

Mr. Brinklow, still an active man, enjoying good health, says he would like to stay working with the railway for a few more years. His wife, the former Emily Towes, whom he married in 1905, has been in ill health for the past 15 years, and following a stroke four weeks ago has been confined to her bed.

They have six sons: Arnold, Paudash Lake; Arthur, Kingston; Claude, Campbellville; Everet, Bancroft; Jack, Hastings; Carl, Peterborough, and two daughters, Mrs. Earl Sutherland (Alma) and Mrs. Harry Hewie (Verla), both of Peterborough. They have 29 grandchildren.

His mother died at Trenton in 1945. His brother, Tom, is a sectionman with the CNR at Trenton; another brother is in Quebec, and three sisters are at Hamilton, North Bay and Toronto.

On Saturday evening, the neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Brinklow gathered at their home to honor him on the occasion of his 65th birthday and on his retirement. Mr. Harry Dodd made the presentation of a purse of money on behalf of the neighbors.

BANK CLEARINGS

During the past week ending to-day, $2,287,948 passed through the Peterborough Clearing House.

Attendance at Flower Show Disappoints All Directors

Fred G. Mann was the only visitor at the junior flower show in the market hall at 9.25 p.m. Wednesday.

Wm. C. Wilks, secretary of the Horticultural Society, sponsoring the show, with Clarence Bacon, a director, and Edgar Boland hesitated to estimate up to 100 the number of people who looked in on the school children's work during the evening. The two directors looked almost solitarily alike with long faces of disappointment that this effort to promote worthwhile interests among children of the primary schools of the city did not receive more attention of adults. Probably that was the reason for their unwonted quiet in the midst of flowers and other products.

Evidently Mr. Mann has an abiding concern about young people and their affairs. He has been teaching them music for years, the boys' choir of St. John's and hundreds of others in private tuition. He was examining a notable display of miniature gardens set in large mouth glass jars, thirty of these contrivances compounded of childish imagination and patience.

The horticultural people call these replicas under glass—indoor gardens or terrariums.

Adults could have learned something from the collections of leaves of trees, oaks and maples, elms, catalpa, chestnuts and so on.

A Lesson Learned

There was a little lesson—rather a big lesson—for the children at the display of leaves. For instance, one of the junior contestants had prepared a large cardboard of more than the required six varieties, but first prize went to some youngster who arranged only six, but wrapped them up in cellophane.

The rules called for only six varieties of leaves, and after that it was a competition in presentation. That means selling anything, winning approval. The cellophane touch. Everybody on the make uses it. Pitch men — the curb salesmen of "slum"—call it "fash," an appropriate and colorful word. The earlier it is recognized by young folks probably the better for them.

Apparently children of the city schools were taking turns in going to the show yesterday and today. A senior and numerous group from the Immaculate Conception paraded over from Ashburnham Wednesday afternoon. First thing this morning most of the children from Central School were going down to see the exhibits. They were in charge of teachers. Most of the encouragement to the young gaffers who competed, and also the girls, came from the teachers.

At any rate mighty few adults showed up last night. They did not bring any of the brothers and sisters of the school youngsters to see the paintings, the tomatoes and the salpiglossis and the leave of the honey locust. However, the teachers are manifestly making up for that parental oversight or indifference.

Parents, service clubmen and a lot of other folks talk a lot about juvenile d—— when a case of its attracts attention, but when children are engaged in doing constructive things as they have done in the horticultural show, evidently few are concerned about it and its good effects.

The oneness of Mr. Mann at 9.25 last night seemed peculiarly eloquent of something.

STUART RICHARDSON, public relations manager with the Northern Electric Company, Montreal, will be guest speaker at the first fall meeting of the Sales and Ad club next Tuesday night. It will be a dinner meeting and will be held in the Empress Hotel. Mr. Richardson will take as his topic, "The Pubs of Blighty."

Sales, Ad Club Three Years Old Meets Tuesday

As guest speaker, Stuart Richardson, Montreal public relations manager of the Northern Electric Co., will open the 1948-49 season of the Sales and A Club on Tuesday night wtih a subject that should revive happy memories for many ex-service personnel, "Famous Pubs of Blighty."

Mr. Richardson was born and educated in Britain, spent some years deciding where he wanted to settle, and finally picked Montreal, where he has lived for 20 years. He is no stranger to Peterborough, having spoken previously.

His favorite theme has been "Selling Canada to Canadians," but on this occasion he has chosen a subject in lighter vein.

The Sales and Ad Club will be three years old this fall and now has 175 on the membership roll.

New directors are Bert Austin, Lionel Browne, Percy Dallin, Don Loucks, Herbert Mason, Paige Rowell, Bert Till and Eric Westbye.

Committee members: Ladies' Nite, R. E. Baer, chairman, and Bob Gamble and Bill Jeffries; Finance, Richard Ward, chairman, and Blake Bell; Inter-Club, Ed O'Toole, chairman, Andy Rutter and Douglas Anderson; Ted Weir and Orley Degraw; Education, Nelson Hills, chairman, Bill Nash, John McMillen, Charles Elliott, Len Lawrence and Jack Gamey; Membership, Errol Wilson, chairman and J. Small Fire At Dewart's

A small fire, believed to have been started by belt friction, broke out in the elevator house at the Dewart Milling Co. on Wednesday night. According to Fire Chief George Smith it burned a small hole in the wooden floor and damaged some belting. It was discovered by Walter Page, 408 Dobbin Ave., at about 8.40 when he noticed sparks flying from the motor house which is perched 75 feet high at the top of the grain elevator. He informed P.C. Harold Andrew who phoned the fire department. Company officials said the only damage was to the floor where a hole "six inches square was burned. Damage would only amount to about a dollar."

Now Using Ten Classrooms At Confederation School Attendance Jumps To 399

Several hundred parents attended the formal opening on Wednesday evening of the Confederation School addition. Mrs. F. W. K. Harris, chairman of the Board of Education, presided and welcomed those attending the ceremony. She said that the Board of Education was just as interested as the parents in making children men and women who will be an asset to their community and country.

Alderman Adam Sands, representing Mayor W. G. Ovens, described the school as "a bulwark of education in the south end of the city." K. S. Wightman, superintendent of schools, emphasized the importance of the staff and introduced J. G. Nichols, principal of the school. Mr. Nichols said the staff were "very happy and proud" of the school, and he pointed out the rapid growth with 259 pupils on the last day of June and 399 at the present time.

G. Wilson Craw, chaairman of the accommodation committee, said that it was "indeed a joyous occasion both for the public school ratepayers of this area and the Board of Education. The citizens who pay public school taxes now have a most modern school, and the Board of Education sees its work of the past two years finally brought to a successful conclusion."

He said that two years ago before plans were completed for an extension to Queen Mary school to provide more accommodation for Peterborough school children, it was realized that the problem of lack of accommodation in the south end of the city would have to be faced. Plans were drawn and approval received for the spending of $110,000 on an addition to Con leration school.

Using 10 Rooms

Mr. Craw said the Board of Education has sought to build the most modern two storey addition and at the same time remodel the older building and make all into one complete unit. "We are now using only 10 rooms in the 12-room building, but by next September, and perhaps sooner, all rooms will be in use. We know that in a very short time there will have to be another school built in this section of the city."

R. F. Downey, former inspector of schools, gave a short history of Confederation school, so called because it was ready for opening on Dominion Day, 1927. January, 1928, saw three rooms opened and in 1929 all four rooms. In 1942 a two-room addition was built and 1945 saw the school brought within the city limits.

Mr. Downey said the Board of Education has provided the mechanical side" and the teachers "must lead, guide, direct, inspire," but that to do so they need "the co-operation and unfailing loyalty of all parents."

Arthur Pitchford, chairman of the supervision committee, thanked all who had taken part in the ceremony. He said that the school was the "first concrete answer to the question: what have we gained since joining the city?" He paid tribute to the late chairman of the Board of Education, D. V. Canning.

Prayer of dedication was offered by the Rev. C. E. Moore, and the school choir, directed by Mrs. Helen Kidd, and with Musa Cox at the piano, sang three songs, "The Maple Leaf," "All Through the Night" and "A Frog He Would A-Wooing Go."

Cattle Deaths Cause Still Unknown

LINDSAY, Sept. 16—(Special).—information from Toronto laboratories on the analysis made of the bodies of cattle and a dog mysteriously killed recently near here is expected "very soon." Dr. J. McKinnon, veterinary surgeon of Bobcaygeon, said that the tests are expetced to give a clear picture of what contaminating agent is making the waters of Sturgeon and Pigeon Lakes in the Upper Kawartha region unsafe.

At least 15 cattle have died on farms bordering these two lakes within the past two weeks. A dog which had been near Sturgeon Lake also died from the unknown cause in the water. It has also been reported in Peterborough that a dog which had been with visitors to that area died three days after their return to the city.

The cattle in the Sturgeon Lake region were all from farms on the edge of the lake and within three miles of each other. At least seven other cattle have been stricken but have responded to veterinary treatment and recovered. Two cattle, at Sturgeon Point, were treated by Dr. McKinnon for plant poisoning and are now out of danger.

One of the major suspects of the deaths, the doctor said, was in the various weeds growing along the shores of the lakes. At this time of year, some of the weeds are poisonous to animals and they may have been eaten by some of the cattle. One of the ones noted in Sturgeon Lake, and which may be the killer-weed, is the "water hemlock," a weed which looks something like pansy leaves.

Must Make Workers Afraid To Get Results—Osborne

By JAMES McCOOK.

LONDON, Sept. 16 — (CP). — Cyril Osborne, 50, bald and persistent, occupies a back-bench Conservative seat in the Commons as member for Lincoln, but he is in the front row of public debate on half a dozen issues.

Pondering complaints that Britons are no producing as they should in a time of economic difficulty, Osborne took pen in hand and wrote the Daily Telegraph:

"It is no use (Chancellor) Sir Stafford Cripps talking to the workers about the balance of the overseas payments. It means nothing to them.... The real answer to Sir Stafford's problem is to bring some degree of wholesome fear back into life ...

"The sooner the inefficient boss is allowed to go bankrupt instead of battening — through a trade agreement—on his more progressive competitor, the better for both. The idle worker must be made to fear unemployment instead of reducing the output and standard of life of the willing worker."

Miracle Production

However, much as they dislike Osborne's theory that fear must be the spurn, members of all parties like to speak proudly of the wartime years when Britain achieved a miracle of production while enemy bombers made the night a terror and all along the coast watch was kept for Hitler's armadas.

They say that Churchill's wartime speeches, inspiring and unqualified, fortified the people. But in time of economic trial there is none to fire their imagination or make plain their danger.

Even the government warnings of threatening disaster have lost their effect, Osborne and his friends believe. He said that Herbert Morrison, Government House of Commons Leader, a year ago warned men and women they must either "work or want."

"They have neither worked harder nor wanted, indeed their trade unions have secured for many of them more pay for shorter hours. Since Morrison's warnings have proved groundless, why should they be frightened by the Chancellor?"

Actress Learns To Read Lips For New Role

By HOWARD C. HEWN.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 16 (AP). —A word of warning: Don't talk about Jane Wyman if she is in sight.

She reads lips

This newly-acquired ability is a by-product of "Johnny Belinda," in which she plays a deaf mute. Doesn't utter a single word in the whole picture.

Jane is an honest girl, and she wouldn't for a moment have you believe that she learned lip-reading for the sake of sheer realism in her role. It came about this way:

After several disappointing tests early in the production period, Jane decided she wasn't getting the right facial expressions because she could hear the other actors' lines. So Director Jean Negulesco plugged up her ears.

"A person who hears will betray that fact sooner or later on his face or in his eyes," she asserted. "Of course, anybody can deliberately look blank. But that won't do. Deaf mutes are not expressionless; you can see in their eyes a very special look of wonder, of curiosity. They are striving to understand."

With wax and plastic stopples in herr ears, Jane had to learn lip-reading in order to pick up her cues. She had to know every speech in the script, too.

Toughest Characterization

Belinda was Jane's toughest characterization so far. She got the script a year before production started. She spent six months with technical advisers. She learned, among other things, enough sign language to be convincing. She studied screen tests of girls who actually were deaf mutes.

Unschooled, naive, living in a world of her own, Belinda is a "dummy" to the townsfolk—and a challenge to any actress. Her unquestioning faith and trust in the doctor (Lew Ayres) could easily have been maudlin.

"That kind of dependence in a woman feeds any man's ego," said Jane. "And women, of course, love to sympathize with other women who suffer. I tried to keep these dual appeals in balance."

Delegates Appeal Convention Ban

TORONTO, Sept. 16.—(CP).—Five Sudbury union men who were refused admission to the United States to attend the convention of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (CIO) said Wednesday they will return home today. After being turned back at Chicago they came to Toronto for a review of their case by U.S. immigration officials here but so far there has been no decision.

They issued a statement Wednesday night saying that as all had denied being Communists 'we have no alternative but to conclude that it is only because of our membership in a trade union that we have been prevented from entering the United States."

The five are: Nelson Thibault, president of the Sudbury local of the union, J. L. Charlebois, Arthur Michel, Charles Tonsaker, Michael Swiddle. Two women who were also refused entry—Mrs. Frances Cuddy of Kirkland Lake and Mrs. Elizabeth Gunter of Sudbury—returned home earlier.

Allow 3 In

Two of three delegates to the United Rubber Workers' convention at Omaha, Neb., who were barred at the border, now are free to enter the United States.

The U.S. immigration offfice in Toronto announced this after a review of their cases Wednesday to determine whether the individuals were identified with the Communist party. The U.S. office could not release any of the delegates' names or clarify the reason for refusing papers to the third delegate.

All three union members are from Kitchener.

Can. Council Of Blind Holds Annual Meeting

OTTAWA, Sept. 16.—(CP). — The Canadian Council of the Blind opened its annual meeting here Wednesday with discussion of better federal and provincial legislation fo rthe blind.

Sixteen delegates representing Ontario and Western Canada are attending, and observers from Quebec, Nova Scotia and Newfoundland also are sitting in on the meetings. Membership of the council now numbers 28 clubs, representing 15,000 persons with 10 per cent. or less eyesight and 35,000 considered borderline cases.

Trailer Camp Burns

INGLEWOOD, Calif., Sept. 16 —(AP)—Flames from a burning oil tank farm spread Wednesday to a nearby trailer camp and 10 persons were burned, two of them fatally. Mrs. Lillian Reynolds, 35, and three-year-old Judy Ziegler, residents of the trailer camp, died of their burns.

Inspector Dies

TORONTO, Sept. 16.—(CP). — Charles Albert Lapp, 57, inspector of Public schools in suburban East York for seven years, died suddenly Wednesday of coronary thrombosis. He suffered a seizure while attending a teachers' meeting.

Believe Ship Sinks

NEW YORK, Sept. 16 — (AP). — The Portuguese fishing schooner Gaspar, reported sinking 300 miles off Newfoundland Wednesday, has not been heard from since and presumably has sunk, the coast guard said. The 300-ton ship signalled her plight at noon and rescue vessels were dispatched. The number aboard and other details were not available.

No Epidemics Seen

MONTREAL — (CP). — There is no danger of an epidemic of measles or mumps in Montreal this year, Dr. Adelard Groulx, head of the city's health department, said in a radio address. The last epidemic ended in May, 1948 and the next will not strike before 1950, he said.

Feed Poultry Tablets Fatten Them Quickly

LONDON, Sept. 16.—(CP). — British veterinary surgeons are seeking to increase food production by giving tablets to animals to speed their growth. Preliminary results show that poultry are ready for the table four to six weeks earlier than otherwise. Feedstuffs are also saved.

The tablets are put under the skin of the bird. They affect glands which concentrate food consumption on producing flesh.

Stilboestrol, a chemical of the synthetic hormones group, is contained in the tablets.

REPRESENTATIVE Margaret Chase Smith, 50, victorious in the Maine senatorial election, is the first Republican woman to have been elected to the U.S. Senate.

St. Peter's School Retains Kiwanis Horticulture Cup

Miss Nancy Ball, 85 Gladstone Ave., won two of the trophies at the children's flower, vegetable and crafts show in the market hall. It continues this evening.

She was awarded the junior challenge cup presented by Mrs. S. O. Shields for the girl or boy with the most outstanding exhibit in the show.

She also won the S. T. Harris medal for the junior scoring the largest number of points in the junior section of the senior show combined with the present junior show.

St. Peter's School retained the Kiwanis Club Cup for compiling the most points in the two shows, that meant the junior section of the senior show Aug. 20-22, plus the present junior show.

This junior department and enterprise of the Horticultural Society appeared to justify its existence if it had no other record. Many children took part, and hundreds of others attending learned something of what they, too, can do, if they try.

Latin Labor President Refused Visa To U.S.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 16—(AP)—The United States embassy has refused to issue a visa to the president of the Latin American Federation of Labor. His entry was banned, the embassy said, under state department policy excluding "Communists and other undesirable persons."

(Several Canadian Labor leaders also have been denied entry to the United States in the last few days.)

Formerly the official, Vincente Lombardo Toledano, had a diplomatic passport because he was an officer of the International Labor Office but having lost office in that, he now holds only an ordinary passport.

Fast Steel Production

LONDON — (CP). — A process to make steel in eight minutes that formerly took 15 minutes, increases output by 50 per cent. Developed by scientists here recently, it is said to constitute one of the most significant advances in steel production methods for 100 years.

With The Canadian Legion

By The SECRETARY

By The Secretary

This is the first of a series of articles on interest to the citizens of Peterborough and district regarding the various topics of entertainment, sports, service and welfare work of the returned veteran.

The Canadian Legion was first thought of by Canadians in The First World War. These veterans, after their discharge, started an organization where they could help one another, when in distress, and send a representation to Ottawa on the behalf of their disabled comrades.

The Canadian Legion has grown until it now reaches from coast to coast; in short wherever there is a group of ex-servicemen in hamlet, village, town or city you will find a Legionnaire, ready to help his buddies and still eager to serve his country. The interests of the Canadian Legion are diversified.

A fine example is found in its Service Bureaux which is carried on under the contribution of one dollar per year from each member of the Canadian Legion. Service Bureaux offices and staffs are found all across Canada ready and anxious to serve all ex-servicemen....whether Legionnaires or not....to obtain pensions, rehabilitation and hospitalization, where needed.

By The Secretary

Sunday, according to local custom ban by order of the office of the Attorney-General of Ontario, is generally considered to be a day of rest. But the Sabbath of Sept. 12 did not conform with local custom in this respect for some of the members of the Peterborough Branch of the Canadian Legion.

On the contrary, your correspondent assembled with Comrades Art Wagstaff, Chairman of the Property Committee, Wm. Gracie, Chairman of the Recreation Committee and Comrades Art Pilling, David Metcalfe, A. Dunslow and E. A. Nicholas to move two billiard tables from the bottom of the Hall to the top floor. Our heaviest task came with what is called the slate, of which there are three to a table. However, we succeeded and it now remains for Comrade A. Dunslow, who is in Toronto for a week, to order the necessary material to put them into condition for playing. We will then have a total of three tables on the top floor and Comrade Wm. Gracie is looking forward to a very interesting tournament season.

Recently we visited the site of the annual picnic of the Red Patch Club. For those citizens of Peterborough who do not know, the Red Patch Club's membership is restricted to the men of the First Divisions of the Canadian Army Overseas. This year's picnic was held at the cottage of Fin Meeks, a very suitable location on Pigeon lake, Ennismore. The bus left the Legion Hall at 10.30 a.m. and arrived back at 6.30 p.m. Comrade Eric Hogg captained the Recreation Committee and the main feature was a horseshoe pitching tournament where Comrade Dave White carried off the honors. A hearty vote of thanks was extended to Comrade Meeks for the use of his cottage and grounds and to Comrade Wes. Devall who offered the use of his truck to transport the supplies needed. It has been reliably reported that there was only one thought to mar an otherwise perfect day. This was the absence of the president, Comrade Al Wade, who is still in Malton Convalescent Hospital in Toronto and whose cheerful presence was missed by all.

Identify Charred Body Farmer Being Held

BALCARRES, Sask., Sept. 16—(CP)—The charred body discovered Aug. 17 in the smouldering ruins of a shack in this district 55 miles northeast of Regina, was identified by a coroner's jury as being 20-year-old Florence Brabant.

Frank Catalack, 39, a district farmer, has been charged with murder and arson in the case and his preliminary hearing will be held today.

The jury declared the victim "came to her death by a blow or blows on the head, administered by an unknown persons...some time between Aug. 12 and Aug. 17."

The former Regina waitresses is said to have been living with the farmer prior to her death.

Heat Jammed Frig Door

GUELPH — (CP). — The fierce heat of the summer—and heat wave was blamed for jamming the door to a refrigeration locker in a Guelph butcher shop. Firemen were summoned to force it open.

Flares, Not Bullets Fired Near Ship

TOKYO, Sept. 16 (AP)—Flares dropped over the United States freighter Moses Brown by two unidentified planes resulted Wednesday night in an erroneous report that the Russian-chartered vessel had been fired on.

Capt. Kennth D. Frye, skipper of the 7,176-ton freighter, radioed the ship's operators, the Shepard Lines, that the flares were dropped Saturday night in the Sea of Japan, off Russia's Siberian coast.

In San Francisco, the Shepard Lines west coast manager, F. C. Minnis, said the Moses Brown was in an area where illuminating a ship for purposes of identification happens often.

Record Crowd Present At Western Fair

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 16 (CP)—The largest one-day crowd in Western Fair history, 53,227, filed through the turnstiles at Queen's Park Wednesday on the third day of the 73rd annual exhibition. Previous high was 49,677 paid admissions in 1934.

"Agriculture Day" which attracted farmers from far and wide combined with the business half-holiday to set the new attendance mark. At the 1939 Fair the Wednesday attendance was 39,043.

Today is "manufacturers day," with interest spotlighting on industrial exhibits which crowd several buildings and overflow into open spaces where farm machinery is displayed.

Big DP Group Heading For Venezuela

By MARTIN DIER

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Sept. 16.—(CP). — Thousands of refugees from ravaged Europe are passing through Kindley Field here on their way to start a new life in the New World.

Each hopes that in a new country he can once more become an individual, instead of just a displaced person.

Two airlines carry the immigrants at an average rate of 75 a day to Caracas, Venezuela, from DP camps in the United States zone of Germany.

They stop at Kindley Field for about an hour and rest thankfully. Nearly every woman carries a baby in her arms—a baby that has been a dead weight for most of the 30 hours' travel.

Carefully, they rest their precious bundles on chairs in the lounge of the customs building and try to comfort the small ones, fretting after the long journey.

The men wear strong, heavy shoes and coarse but warm suits; the women have coarse skirts and coats with heavy lisle or rayon stockings.

Forced To Fight, Work

Most of them had searing experiences.

Emil Molnar was a metallurgical engineer in his native Hungary before the war. Then he became a captain in the Hungarian Army and had to fight the Russians. In 1945 when the Russians occupied Hungary he fled to Germany and was in DP camps until he boarded the plane for Venezuela.

Zuane Leonards was a Latvian student in 1943, but when he went to Germany to complete his studies he was forced into a labor battalion. In 1944 he was drafted into the German army. He was captured early the next year and was released soon afterwards. He hopes to be an electrician in Venezuela.

Watching the refugees slowly straggling to the plane in brilliant moonlight, the mothers carrying the babies and the fathers shepherding the older children, this reporter was reminded of all the pictures of Europe's homeless struggling along barren highways.

But this time their destination was the huge silver plane which would carry them to a new life.

THREE YOUTHS who were charged in police court in Toronto with the kidnapping and armed robbery of Dr. David Perlman, Toronto physician, early Tuesday morning are shown here. They are also charged with the armed robbery of a Toronto cabbie earlier this year. LEFT to RIGHT they are: Allen Decker, 19, Ajax; William Glover, 17, Toronto; and Gordon Cameron, 24, Toronto.

Six Is Crowd PC Leadership Records Reveal

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL

OTTAWA, Sept. 16 — (CP) — Should more than six men stand as leadership candidates at the National Progressive Conservative Convention here Sept. 30, Oct. 1-2, a new party record will be established.

At the party's first convention in 1927, six stood as leadership candidates. There were five at the 1938 convention.

In 1927 the nominees were Hon. Robert Rogers, Manitoba; Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Ontario; C. H. Cahan, Quebec; Sir Harry Drayton, Ontario; Hon. R. B. Bennett, Alberta, and Hon. R. J. Manion, Ontaio.

On the first ballot this is how the 1,564 delegates voted: Bennett, 594; Guthrie, 345; Cahan, 310; Manion, 170; Rogers, 114; Drayton, 31.

On a second ballot, Mr. Bennett won an over-all majority. This was the vote: Bennett, 780; Guthrie, 320; Cahan, 266; Manion, 148; Rogers, 37; Drayton, 3.

Mr. Bennett led the party until 1938 and then went to Britain where he was elevated to the peerage. He died June 26, 1947.

The 1938 convention chose Dr. Manion as his successor, but again two ballots were necessary. The candidates were Dr. Manion, M. A. MacPherson, prominent Regina lawyer, Joseph Harris, M.P., Toronto Danforth, Denton Massey, M.P. Toronto Greenwood and J. Earl Lawson of Toronto.

Won On Second Ballot

On the first ballot, the voting was: Manion, 726; MacPherson, 475; Harris, 131; Massey, 128 and Lawson, 105. Dr. Manion won handily on the second ballot.

He led the party until after the 1940 general election when he suffered personal defeat at the polls. Mr. Meighen was chosen by a representative party group to head the party, but he, too, was defeated at the polls.

The 1942 convention was then called and the candidates were Mr. Bracken, Mr. MacPherson, John Diefenbaker, M. P., Lake Centre, Sask., Howard Green, M.P., Vancouver South, and Hon. H. H. Stevens, a cabinet minister in the Conservative government from 1930 to 1935.

On the first ballot, the voting was: Bracken, 420, MacPherson, 222, Diefenbaker, 120, Green, 88, Stevens, 20.

Mr. Stevens and Mr. Green withdrew and on a second ballot, the voting was Bracken, 538, MacPherson, 255, and Diefenbaker, 79.

Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. MacPherson are mentioned among those who may contest the leadership this time. Other possible candidates include Premier Drew of Ontario, Donald Fleming, M. P., Toronto Eglinton, Gordon Graydon, M.P., Peel, Ont., and Dr. Sidney Smith, president of the University of Toronto.

Convict Truck Driver Of Manslaughter

PORT ARTHUR, Sept. 16 (CP) —John Germaine, 20, Wednesday was convicted on a reduced charge of manslaughter in the strangle-slaying of his 21-year-old wife, Elsie, in their home at Fort William last July.

An assize court jury acquitted the express-truck driver on a charge of murder. He will be sentenced on the lesser charge at the end of the fall assizes.

FRENCH FOR VELVET

Velours is the French word for velvet.

Rork Wins Canoe Sailing Race

NORWOOD, Sept. 15 (ENS) — Not every man achieves his boyhood ambition in later years, but Perrin Rork has done so. He succeeded in winning the silver cup for which he competed in canoe sailing a number of years ago.

The cup, a handsome sterling silver trophy donated by John Sexsmith and William Thompson, MPP, as a prize for canoe sailing was won by the late John E. Roxburgh in 1919 for the third consecutive time and became his property.

This summer Mrs. Roxburgh returned the cup engraved to the Upper Stony Lake Regatta Society, for competition in canoe sailing.

It was won in a closely contested race by Perrin Rork, who will hold the cup for a year, when it will be returned to the Society for competition. Mr. Rork will receive an inscribed miniature cup.

Mrs. Roxburgh presented the cup to Mr. Rork at the finish of the race.

TASTE THROUGH LEGS

Some species of insects, including a number of butterflies, have "taste" organs in their legs.

Hurricane Will Miss Maritime Provinces

HALIFAX, Sept. 16—(CP)—A hurricane which has been moving up the Atlantic coast for the last three days was centred 200 miles east of Sable Island today and apparently will miss the Maritime Provinces entirely.

Sable Island is 180 miles due east of Halifax.

The Dominion public weather office here said at 7.30 a.m. EDT that the storm was moving northeastward and no longer is a threat to ships in the area.

It is said that palmistry existed in China 3,000 years before Christ.

Fear 37 Lost At Sea

HALIFAX, Sept. 16 — (CP).—Possibility that the Latvian ship Volo with 37 persons aboard was lost at sea was expressed today by Mariss Vetra of the Halifax Conservatory of Music. The ship, carrying Latvian refugees from Communism, was believed to have sailed from Britain about the last of July and was due here Sept. 1. Mr. Vetra said he had maintained correspondence with the skipper of the Volo. The last letter was received from the captain July 26.

Columbus' Log Called A Fake

GIBSONS LANDING, B. C., Sept. 16.—(CP)—A slim, parchment volume of 22 pages, purporting to be Christopher Columbus's personal log of his voyage of discovery of America in 1492, was branded a fake by Williard E. Ireland, provincial librarian and historian.

The book, entitled "My Secret Log Book," was fished from the sea off the Welsh coast 58 years ago, and now is in possession of Charle P. Smith of Gibsons.

Mr. Smith found it in the library of a brother in Devonshire, England, where it had lain since washing ashore in its lead-lined cask.

Mr. Ireland said the document is a spurious manuscript published in Dusseldorf, Germany, in 1890, and sold for $5 at an auction in 1944.

Mr. Smith maintains the document was in his brother's library "for many years."

The "log" contains a letter purporting to be from Queen Isabella of Spain to Columbus, dated Granada, April 13, 1492.

Language and history experts at the University of British Columbia notified of the "discovery," either labelled it a hoax or cautiously reserved judgment.

"It's a phony, and not a very good one either," said Dr. G. G. Sedgewick of the department of English. To him the language seemed 19th century, rather than medieval.

Although written in English, it was not on this count that the authenticity of the work was questioned. The Encyclopedia testifies that Columbus went to England as a young man, and could have learned the language.

Conservatives Won't Oppose Pearson

LITTLE CURRENT, Ont., Sept. 16—(CP)—The East Algoma Progressive Conservative Association announced Wednesday it will not oppose Lester B. Pearson, minister of external affairs, in a by-election in the constituency Oct. 25.

Mr. Farquhar, who lives on a farm near this Manitoulin Island town, said the Liberals of the constituency welcomed the decision. He said he hoped the CCF and Social Credit parties would take similar action. "We would like to have an acclamation so he will not have to take time from his desk for electioneering."

Wednesday at Sault Ste. Marie, John J. Fitzgerald, Ontario Social Credit leader, said his party would contest the by-election. Mr. Fitzgerald lives in Blind River, largest town in Algoma East. The CCF announced yesterday it planned to enter a candidate.

Millbrook People Attend CNE Luncheon

MILLBROOK, Sept. 16 (ENS)—Attending the invitation luncheon of the Interprovincial and Service Clubs of Ontario at the Canadian National Exhibition on Friday, representing Millbrook, were Reeve H. D. Bigelow and Mrs. Bigelow, the latter vice-grand of the Rebekah Lodge; Mrs. A. R. Payne, Noble Grand of Golden Sheaf Rebekah Lodge, No. 176, and also president of the Women's Association of St. Andrew's United church; Mrs. Gordon Powell, president of the Lady Lions Club, and Mrs. Henry Blakely, president of the Women's Institute. Mrs. Payne had been asked to speak for one minute on some outstanding facts in local history, as had also representatives from North Bay, Stratford, Orangeville, Thorold, and Smiths Falls.

During the luncheon mayors and reeves of various towns were asked to rise. In introducing Mrs. Payne, Mrs. Kate Aitken, who has been a personal visitor to this community, spoke of her as "coming from the village of Millbrook, lovely in its natural attractiveness."

Among points stressed by Mrs. Payne were the historic background and origin of the name, Millbrook; the public buildings and utilities, over 30 artesian wells, the up-to-date stores, and the three fine churches, one of them with a recently-installed chimes and sound system, and all with an efficient ministry, and surpliced choirs.

There were approximately 140 guests at the luncheon, including many outstanding women, heads of various province-wide organizations.

"Gro-Pup is our favorite!"

"It's a pleasure to report on Gro-Pup," writes Mrs. Winifred King, Kingwin Kennels, Regina, Sask. "We've been feeding Gro-Pup for the last six years. Its well-balanced diet has resulted in strong, vigorous dogs at all ages. Gro-Pup is our favorite for beautiful coats, too!"

WHY BREEDERS FEED GRO-PUP. Breeders know it is not safe to try to raise dogs on "table scraps." Dogs need a properly balanced diet that gives them everything they must have for strong bones, sound teeth, and a beautiful coat. That's why breeders feed Gro-Pup.

GRO-PUP IS A PROPERLY BALANCED DIET to keep dogs of all ages, sizes and breeds at their natural best. Not only do dogs like it but it contains every vitamin and mineral they are known to need.

—feed your dog as famous kennels do...

GRO-PUP SAVES YOU MONEY. It costs only 5¢ a day to feed a good-sized dog. It is all dry solid food. That is why Gro-Pup is so economical. A 2-lb. package actually contains as much solid food (dry weight) as your dog could get in five 1-lb. cans of ordinary dog food.

Feed your dog as famous kennels do. Buy him Gro-Pup. Your grocer has it in both cubes and meal form—for variety.

GEORGIE MARTIN, 19, of Detroit, Mich., above, forgave her father for trying to find a man who would pay $7,000 for her as a wife. The co-ed first learned of the offer when she came home to find reporters swarming all over and asking explanations for letters seeking a cash-on-the-line husband which her father had written to various newspapers. The girl was forced recently to give up a law school career because of finances. She told newsmen that "dad's been awfully sick lately."

school classes, Girl Guides and factory groups can receive instruction.

"Fun Night" each Tuesday is a new feature this season arranged by the Girls' Work Committee, reported Mrs. H. T. Rehill. The program will be varied with gym, swimming, crafts, movies and social activities. A coffee bar will be open for light refreshments. Friday evening is being reserved for "Community Night" when young people of Peterborough can come to enjoy the Y facilities. A full schedule of club activities has been arranged.

Projects of the Girls' Council outlined by Miss Flora Metcalfe are a leader's course especially planned for officers of clubs and departments, to be held for four evenings and the fall Rally on Tuesday, September 28. Total receipts from Dime cards for the Reconstruction Fund with special donations stand at $604. A number of cards are still out and some clubs have contributions which it is hoped will make up the total allocation of $750.

Profit from the annual Gymnasium Review is $700 as reported by Mrs. Thompson. This advertised the work in health education, basketball, badminton, archery, folk and interpretative dancing as well as the many gym classes, and dancing is also listed on the new schedule ready for distribution.

Excellent condition of the residence since repairs were made during the summer was mentioned, the department remaining filled to capacity with an ever-changing list of residents.

A junior gym rally will be held Saturday morning, September 25, with the annual fall rally on Tuesday evening, September 28.

Local YW Status Revealed At Board Meeting

Marking re-opening of activities at the YWCA, a meeting of the Board of Directors was held this week when program plans for the coming season were outlined. Gymnasium classes, clubs and swimming lessons will start this month with Miss Lenore Edwards as assistant girls' work secretary, and Mrs. Jessie Powell as swimming instructor. The new staff members were introduced by Mrs. J. H. Vernor. Mrs. Annabeth Reidel Wright will be senior girls' work secretary.

The financial report presented by Mrs. T. J. Carley showed a slightly greater deficit than for this period of last year. Comparative statements from each department have been studied and the increased expenditure is largely for maintenance. A bequest from the estate of the late Miss Mary Helena Morrow was acknowledged. Following the opening devotional period, Mrs. Carley referred to the faithful and long service to the Association of the late Mrs. H. Wightman, honorary member of the Board, and to the interest and help given by the late Mrs. Douglas Carlisle, a member of the Camp Committee.

Mrs. H. P. Rowell, president, announced the annual meeting of National Council on October 5, 6, 7 and 8 in Toronto. Mrs. H. T. Rehill and Miss L. Brownscombe will represent the Peterborough Y. Miss Winnifred Wygal of the National Board of USA will come to this city in the new year. She has been engaged by Canadian associations to lead study courses on program and purpose of the YWCA in local branches.

The Camp Committee reported 104 campers and a slight financial balance. A gift of $25 was received from the Junior Welfare League. Appreciation was expressed to the organizations and friends who made it possible for some of the campers to enjoy the holiday. Interest by the Rotary Club who realized the strain of keeping up such a camp under increasing living costs without raising prices to campers, and the receipt of financial help, advice and supervision was gratefully acknowledged.

Mrs. H. C. Sootheran reported a busy summer season in the swimming department under direction of Miss Jean McTavish. New classes opening shortly will provide instruction for all swimmers, and the Minnow Club will start this month. Life Saving Classes are being stressed with group hours arranged so that

Miss M. Smith Honored By Circle

MILLBROOK, Sept. 16—(ENS)—Mrs. B. Ingham had charge of the worship service at the re-opening meeting of the Golden Links Mission Circle, Monday at Miss Jean Burnham's home. Mrs. Gordon Powell read the lesson. Mrs. M. E. Hobbs, president, welcomed those present.

She reminded member of the parcel of picture papers to be sent to China, for use by Miss Jean Stewart in her work at Chung King. A special offering will be taken to meet the postage.

Mrs. E. J. Powell gave the stewardship message, and the treasurer, Mrs. Robert Larmer, reported $38 raised to date. Mrs. Hobbs announced that the new study book will be introduced at the October meeting, at Mrs. Gordon Powell's home, and copies of this, and other books for the current year, will be purchased at the fall rally, Sept. 29, in Peterborough. Arrangements were made for cars to take as many as possible to the rally.

Cards of sympathy will be sent to Mrs. J. L. Stewart, a member whose mother died suddenly on Sunday; and also to a former member, Miss Phyllis Kidd, and her mother, at Peterborough. Another member, Mrs. Walter Challice, will have a card of congratulation on the birth of a son.

Miss Margaret Smith, who was leaving the following day to enter her course of study at the United Church Training School, Toronto, was presented with a life membership certificate. Miss E. L. Hetherington expressed the pleasure of the Circle in having one of its members taking up active service. As guest of honor for the evening, Miss Smith gave an account of her work during the summer, as a counselor at "Wa-Ye-Kwa-Kana" camp in Parry Sound district and at Inglestane, the YWCA Camp at Stony Lake.

A brief report on the leaders' school at the OLC, Whitby, was given by Miss Jean Burnham, the full report to be given by the Presbyterial delegate, Mrs. D. L. Lunn, at the rally in Peterborough.

Mrs. M. Wideman and Miss Marjorie Skitch were supper hostesses.

GROVE SCHOOL

A banquet was given to graduates and the staff of Grove School by the Home and School Association on Wednesday evening in the school. The tables were attractively arranged with centre-pieces of roses and fall flowers. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. L. Bird, Mr. and Mrs. J. Barnard, the Rev. H. G. Douglas, Mrs. G. Dowdall, Miss J. Stewart, Miss B. Rutherford and the following members of the graduating class: James Hargrave, Garvin White, Vernon Orr, Orville Clark, Glenn Hamilton, Douglas Linsey, Robert Davey.

Mrs. W. Sheppard was convener of the supper with Mrs. J. Coit, Mrs. W. Hargrave, Mrs. G. Keene and Mrs. F. Sanders assisting in the kitchen. Mrs. H. Doig convened the table assisted by Mrs. D. Linsey, Mrs. E. Druery, Mrs. E. McKinstry and Mrs. S. Whitfield.

Later the regular meeting was held with Mrs. F. Sanders, president, in the chair. She opened with a welcome to the guests and new staff members and read an article, "Why Home and School Exists." Date of the next executive meeting was announced for September 29 at 2.15 p.m.

Mr. L. Bird, retired principal, introduced the new principal, Mr. J. Barnard who introduced Miss Stewart and Miss Rutherford, new staff teachers. All spoke briefly to the members.

Guest speaker, the Rev. H. G. Douglas, introduced by Mrs. W. Hargrave, directed his remarks to the graduating class stressing the points: 1. Have a goal. 2. Be prepared. 3. Be enthusiastic. 4. Be ready to pay the price, sacrifice. Mr. Bird presented certificates to the graduates and Douglas Linsey, valedictorian, delivered a fine address.

Mr. George Rutherford introduced guest artists, Mr. Jas. Abraham who gave two piano solos and Gordon Tuozelle who sang with accompaniment by Mr. Abraham, and later gave a piano accordion solo.

Mrs. W. Higgins moved a vote of thanks to the speaker and entertainers.

A social time was enjoyed after the close when Mrs. Todd and Mrs. Dummitt from May's Home and School Association were welcomed.

LIEUT.-COL. AGNES NEIL CHAPTER

First fall meeting of the Lieut.-Col. Agnes Neil Chapter, IODE, was held this week with the regent, Miss Mary Curry, in charge. She outlined the program of the semi-annual provincial convention of the IODE being held in the city on Oct. 6 and asked all members to give full support. Those having room available in their homes were asked to report to the secertary, Miss Isabel Shearer.

As a tribute to the sponsor of this chapter, Miss Agnes Neil, and as part of the educational work it has been decided to set aside $200 each year as a bursary fund to be used in putting a deserving girl through as a nurse. The first girl will be entered in the 1949 fall class.

Miss Nancy Collins, social convener, discussed plans for the annual formal dance, "The Stardust Ball" which will be held at Club Aragon on November 3.

In order to raise extra funds it has been decided to hold a rummage sale in October with Mrs. Pat Aiden in charge. A bridge will be held in January at the YWCA.

Each member is asked to make an article for sale at the annual spring tea during the winter months.

Miss Jean Hamley spoke of letters of appreciation being received from recipients of the monthly parcels sent to England.

Refreshments were served at the close by Mrs. Verna Tanney and Misses Margaret Benson and Jean Hamley.

Society Raps Lazy Women Who Shirk Jobs

LONDON, Sept. 16 — (CP) — London has an "Anti-Women Society"—and scores of its members are women.

Fred Worrull, London musician of 35 who founded the Society in 1934, recently opened a Jermyn St. office—and with a woman assistant to answer the telephone and help him in his crusade against its "usurpation" of men's rights by the so-called "weaker sex."

But he is hasty to explain that the Society is not against all women despite its name. It opposes mainly the "bad housewife," the woman who shirks her responsibilities in marriage. The Society, he says, could be more accurately described as "pro-men" than "anti-women."

The Society offers free legal advice to members who feel they have been unfairly treated by their wives. Funds come from members' subscriptions. Worrull sees nothing particularly anomalous in the fact that many of the contributors are women.

Criticize Marriage Laws

Chief aim of the Society is to "correct some of the marriage laws" which Worrull feels discriminate against men.

"For instance, if a wife does not look after her husband's home properly and he leaves her, he must continue supporting her for the rest of his life. He is penalized because she has not carried out her responsibilities."

Then there is the matter of women poaching on men's reserves. Take trousers for example.

"No longer are they called trousers," says Worrull. "They are now called slacks in deference to women."

Worrull is married, has a happy home life and counts his wife "among the good ones."

"She believes a woman should spend sufficient time in the home to make it a real home.

"So many women can't or won't do that today."

DOUBLE-TAKE ON FURS—This handsome mink coat is a natural, in type of skin, in style and glamor, for a beautiful lady. But it packs a secret which most mink models priced into the thousands seldom do; it is the rich sister of an identical twin. In a dramatic showing recently, the coat's designer paraded with it the same model made of muskrat fur, the pelts let-out and sewed precisely as the mink is made, and treated to a mink dye job. There is a difference, of course...shall we say about five thousand dollars, amongst other differences?...but the styling is a perfect match, and we think it's a great thing for the budgeteer with champagne taste to get a break like this.

Experiment in Child Health Makes Baby Boss at Clinic

By FRANK CAREY

ROCHESTER, Minn., Sept. 14 (AP).—The eyes of many scientists are on several hundred youngsters playing in the backyard sandboxes of this Minnesota community.

They include most of the children born in Rochester in 1944 and since. They have been participants since the day of their birth in a child-health project designed to take into account not only the physical health and welfare of the child but also his basic emotional needs.

More than 300 in number, they represent the first large-scale means of testing this question:

Can child-care techniques, synchronized with the baby's own growth and capabilities, produce more-emotionally-stable youngsters than techniques based on arbitrary standards set by adults?

Under present plans, the children will remain under study by doctors through their grade- and high-school years.

ers were instructed not to feed them by the clock—but when they appeared to be hungry. Their parents were encouraged to pick them up and fondle them when they cried unduly — and not let them "cry it out."

They are children whose mothers were told that the rocking chair is not an antique. They are children whose mothers were told to allow them to work out their own toilet and other elementary training habits according to apparent bodily needs and capabilities. And, a majority of them were breast-fed babies to start with.

Uniform Medical Care

This world-famed medical centre in which they live offers an all the children born here are of program—because practically unusual opportunity for this sort under uniform medical supervision. In fact, 95 per cent. of Rochester's babies are born in the same hospital — St. Mary's.

The project — known as the Rochester Child Health Institute —is directed by a small central staff headed by Dr. C. Anderson Aldrich, professor of pediatrics at Mayo Foundation. Its research activities are financed by the Mayo association.

The program has five categories:

1. Pre-natal care — designed to set the proper mental and emotional environment for the unborn baby by giving instructions to the prospective mother and father.

2. Care of the new born. After the birth of the baby, an attempt is made to teach each mother something about the problems she'll meet when she leaves the hospital. Breast feeding is recommended.

3. "Well baby" care. Preventative medical care is provided for at frequent intervals in public and private clinical facilities for babies less than two years of age.

4. Pre-school care. Physical and psychological care is provided at the "well baby" clinics and psychological tests are given at the Institute office for children of pre-school age.

5. School care. This phase — which calls for physical and psychological study throughout grade school and high school — has not yet started, because the children are not old enough.

Pickling in Full Swing Sweet Chili Sauce Popular

By MARY MOORE

There are so many September food-chores that I want to talk about, and so many of same that our readers are asking about, that I am going to compromise today.

Do you remember the old recipe for sweet Chili Sauce that bobs up every year? A reader asks me to print it again,—not so much for its delicious flavour as for the fact that it remains such a good bright red when finished.

Here it is again—but please remember to clip it now and file it where you can find it next year. (If I did not have Pete to do my filing I wouldn't be able to find recipes either.)

Sweet Chili Sauce (bright red)

Prepare 15 medium sized choice ripe tomatoes, 3 large onions, 1½ hot red peppers, 1 pint white vinegar, 3 peaches, 3 pears, 1 tablespoon salt, 1 oz. whole mixed spices, 2 cups brown sugar.

Cut up tomatoes and let stand to drain off excess juice. Chop onions, peaches, pears fairly finely; cut peppers very fine. Mix vinegar salt and sugar and stir into all of the fruits and vegetables except the tomatoes; add the whole spices tied loosely in a bag and leave a long piece of string attached for easy removal. Boil stirring almost constantly, until spiced to taste—about 1 hour. Then add very well-drained tomatoes. (This draining of tomatoes reduces cooking time and keeps colour bright; juice from tomatoes may be used for making soup.) Cook until of desired consistency—this takes about 20 minutes after tomatoes are added—making about 1-3 hours cooking in all. Seal in sterile jars; this makes about 4 pints.

Peach Chutney

(This is a special recipe. You may want to make up a small batch of it, for it is rich and good and delicious with mild meats.)

Four quarts peaches, 5 cups vinegar, ¼ cup chopped onion, ½ cup sugar, ¼ pound raisins, ¼ pound white mustard seed, 2 ounces scraped gingerroot, 1 ounce red peppers, 1 ounce garlic cloves. Peel peaches and remove stones, and to them add 2 cups white vinegar and cook until peaches are soft. Add another cup of vinegar, the chopped or ground onion, sugar, raisins, mustard seeds, gingerroot, red peppers and finely chopped garlic. Mix well and add 2 cups vinegar. Boil about 15 minutes or until thickened to chutney consistency. Pack into sterile jars and seal. If you can buy them ½ pint sealers are best for this.

Cucumber Conserve

(This recipe is new to me—but I made it up because the cucumbers on my own vines were getting ripe and I did not know how to cope with them.)

Peel 2 pounds large cucumbers that are turning yellow. Remove seeds by cutting cucumbers in halves lengthwise, then put the solid part through food chopper. Discard the juice. Add juice of 1 orange and put a peeled orange through food chopper and add. Cook 1 hour or until orange peel is tender. Measure, and add an equal amount of sugar, and one cup raisins. Cook 20 minutes longer, and pour into sterile jars and seal.

Gingered Pears

Pare and cut into quarters and core 4 pounds firm pears, slightly ripened, dropping them as you work into 2 quarts cold water with 2 tablespoons salt in it. When finished peeling, drain pears, rinse, put fruit in kettle, add just enough water to float fruit, and cook until pears are barely tender. Drain, and strain 2 cups of cooking water, discard remainder, and add the 2 cups to the pears with 4 cups sugar. Grate into the kettle the rind of 2 lemons, then cut in halves and add the juice of the two lemons. Cut six tablespoons preserved ginger in very thin slives and add. Heat and stir until sugar is dissolved, and boil gently two or three minutes. Pour into sterile jars and nearly seal, and process in hot water bath 10 minutes. Tighten seal. These may be chilled and not bottled and used as a preserve during the pear season.

MISTY MOISTY DAYS—Two little girls and a neighborhood pet set off on an unpromising day for school, safely protected from a weather man who may weep in inexpensive raincoats of good plastic. Coats are made with attached hoods and capes, for protection of hair and schoolbooks or packages, and colors available are bright. Fasteners are brass and made to open easily without rips and tears resulting; the plastic needs no cleaning beyond a wipe with a damp cloth, and it is not disposed to crack, peel and stick.

Bustle Hat Latest Fashion To Match Victorian Styles

TORONTO, Sept. 14.—(CP).—A new note of lady-like elegance was reflected in fabric and line at Monday's fashion review in Toronto.

All indications point to a romantic Victorian influence stealing the fall clothes spotlight. Fabrics are lavish, skirts are long and colors rich — but styles are wearable and restrained.

Irridescent effects for both evening and daytime wear were achieved with metallic threads delicately blended into brocades as well as tweeds. Heavy lace hemlines or black lace over satin and taffeta were gracious combinations for after-five ensembles. And in case milady has packed away her bustle, she should note that one store showed even a bustle hat—a black lace affair held in front by rhinestone clips and brushed back in soft folds.

Busties were seen in every variation from the dramatic bundle of roses, lace and pleat, to a modgrated drape. Back-fullness was seen in almost every ensemble with the exception of a brick wool falling in gracious folds from front pockets.

The drooping full-backed coats of last season also have been retained into more graceful lines. They're still full and some are longer in the back, but a new touch is the inverted pleat starting just above the waist. They're still full and some are longer in the back, but a new touch is the inverted pleat starting just above the waist. Double or triple cape backs swing around the shoulders in an interesting collar for both fur and fabric coats.

CENTRAL SCHOOL

"Strait is the gate, and narrow is the way that leads unto life, but if we can learn to master ourselves and follow in the steps Christ left us to follow, we can build a wonderful community and peace throughout the world." With these words, Rev. W. E. Kibblewhite of All Saints' Church brought to a close an address to the graduating classes of Central School on Monday evening. Mr. Kibblewhite pointed out the mistaken ideas of education—just rules and regulations, and preparation for earning money. "Real education is acquiring the ability to live with other people and master ourselves to live the best life we can," he said.

The speaker mentioned the old idea of education being the "three R's" Although reading gives 40 per-cent of the knowledge of education it has not brought people any nearer peace or understanding. Writing or communication has brought the whole world together—but not in fellowship or brotherhood. 'Rithmetic, the basis of all science, has brought destruction as well as the saving of lives by miracles of chemistry. To these three then must be added a fourth "R" religion. In this realm people learn to master themselves, and unless we can master our own lives, there is no hope for true fellowship or true peace in this world.

Mr. K. McKee of the teaching staff thanked the speaker.

The program included piano solos by Arlie Brotherstone, Ann Fuller and Joan Naish, and valedictory addresses by Carole McKenzie and Jack Burnley, Graduation diplomas were presented by Col. R. J. Bolton and Mr. K. McKee

Mrs. S Malsch, president, was in the chair for discussion of business, mentioning immunization week, dental health week, and the regional conference to be held during October Mrs. W. G. Gunn, vice president, presented two banners to the school, to encourage attendance at Home and School meetings. They were accepted by the principal, Col. Bolton.

Refreshments were served by the committee under the direction of Mrs. T. Pritchard.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Success in Matrimony Achieved by Adjustment

A starry-eyed young girl, who soon is to be married, told me the other day that she was perfectly sure her marriage would be happy because she and her fiance were made for each other. I have heard that one before. Often. And later on I have listened to the lamentations of these same young women when their husbands failed to fit into the matrimonial picture as smoothly as they expected them to do.

Dorothy Dix

For this dream of a perfect mating that all young couples in love cherish is mere wishful thinking with which they delude themselves. It is an utter impossibility for any two people of different sexes, with a different heredity, with a different unbringing, with different tastes and habits ever to think exactly alike, or have just the same desires. Nor is it desirable that they should be replicas of each other. Certainly nothing would be more boring than to have to spend a lifetime with a person who never had an original idea.

So the lovers who marry on the theory that they were made for each other had as well scrap that fond belief. There is nothing to it but disappointment. If marriages are made in Heaven, the architect who contrives them doesn't make two souls with but a single thought. He gives everybody plenty of thoughts that clash mostly.

Temperaments Fixed

So the secret of how to be happy though married is not to waste your time and energy in trying to find a mate who has been tailored especially to your fancy, or to court sorrow by attempting to make over your husband or wife into a duplicate of yourself. Neither one can be done. Their only result is to precipitate a perpetual domestic brawl and to pave the way to the divorce court.

The thing that marriage calls for more than all the virtues is adjustment. It is for a married couple to study each other's peculiarities and not try to reform them, but to adapt themselves to them. That is the one and only way of eliminating friction in a household, yet it is a true and tried remedy for promoting domestic peace and happiness that the average husband and wife refuse even to test.

It is literally true that no man and woman know what they are getting when they get married. Every husband and wife has peculiarities of temperament, funny little ways, foolish prejudices, different points of view that get on their mates' nerves, and that they never suspect them of possessing until after they were married. When this revelation comes, it marks the crisis in every marriage and determines whether the husband and wife will live together the balance of their lives happily, or scrappily.

For no husband and wife seem able to take even a breath of criticism from each other. Friend Husband cannot say a disparaging word about the wife's cooking without bringing on a tempest of tears, and for a wife to correct her husband's table manners, if any, sends him to the Other Woman for comfort.

But the situation is not as desperate as it sounds, for while it is true that no husbands and wives are made for each other, all husbands and wives can adjust themselves to each other if only they have the wisdom and love to do it. It takes some doing, but it is worth the price.

Which Twin has the Toni?

One Permanent Cost $15... the TONI only $2.50

It's amazing! Yes, and it's true. A Toni Home Permanent is every bit as lovely as an expensive beauty shop wave. The Toni twins show it—and you can prove it today. But before buying the Toni kit you'll want to know—

Will Toni work on my hair?

Yes, Toni waves any kind of hair that will take a permanent, including gray, dyed, bleached or baby-fine hair.

Must I be handy with my hands?

Not at all! If you can roll your hair up on curlers you can give yourself a smooth, professional-looking permanent with Toni. Just by following the easy directions.

How long will it take me?

Waving time is only 2 to 3 hours. And during that time you're free to do as you please.

How long will my Toni wave last?

Your Toni wave is guaranteed to last just as long as a $15 beauty shop permanent—or your money back.

Can I use Toni for my little girl's hair?

Yes—with complete confidence. Toni has been awarded the Parents' Magazine Tested and Commended Seal.

How much will I save with Toni?

The Toni Home Permanent Kit with reusable plastic curlers costs only $2.50, with handy fibre curlers only $1.50. The Toni Refill Kit complete except for curlers is just $1.25.

Which twin has the Toni?

Lucerne and Suzanne McCullough are well-known New York artists. Suzanne, at the right, is the Toni twin, and she says, "My Toni wave was soft and natural-looking the very first day. That's why Lucerne says her next wave will be a Toni, too."

There is NO FINER WAVE AT ANY PRICE!

Toni Kit with plastic curlers— $2.50

Refill Kit without curlers $1.25

By actual survey, 9 out of 10 Canadian women who have home permanents prefer Toni.

Choice of 9 OUT OF 10 CANADIAN WOMEN!

THREE PIECES IN TWEED—Excellent choice for the girl heading back to the campus, or for the bus to a career date each morning, is this suit and greatcoat made from matching tweed of the newer, less hard and heavy wool tweed. Slim skirt is a natural for pullovers; smooth jacket can team with other skirts, with wool frocks, or slacks; the boxy, long topcoat will be the top layer for any costume a girl chooses to wear besides its companion suit.

QUESTION: I am intending to preserve some sweet apples, and would like your help in getting a syrup and also the right amount of cloves for the syrup. Could you print them in the paper within the next week as the apples are ready to preserve now.

ANSER:

Spiced Apples (crab or sweet) ..

Wipe 6 lbs. samll sweet apples or crab apples and steam until a little soft but not tender. Tie in a cheesecloth bag 1 tablespoon whole cloves, 1 tablespoon allspice berries and 1 tablespoon broken ginger root and put in preserving kettle with 4 cups cider vinegar, 4 cups water, 2 cups sugar (a little more for crabs). Bring to boiling point and simmer 10 minutes then add partially cooked apples and simmer gently 20 minutes. Let stand overnight covered. Remove apples to sterilized jars in morning. Reheat syrup to boiling point and reduce by about one-quarter of its volume. Pour over apples in jars to overflowing and seal. (More cloves may be used of you prefer them.)

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: Send me your recipe for Spanish Rice please. I take it it does not contain meat because you mentioned that it was for a meatless meal. We like rice but I have very few recipes that can be used for a first course.

Thanks. Mrs. McGraw.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Spanish Rice may be made without meat.

Spanish Rice

Three-quarters cup raw white rice washed, 1½ cups sliced peeled onions, 3 tablespoons fat, 3½ cups fresh or canned tomatoes, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 diced sweet green pepper, 3 whole cloves, 1 bay leaf, 1 tablespoon sugar. Boil rice in 1 quart water until tender. Drain well. Meanwhile saute onion and pepper in fat until soft. Add remaining ingredients and simmer 15 minutes. Remove bay leaf and cloves, and add hot rice. Turn into buttered large casserole and bake (sprinkled with cheese if desired) at 35 deg. Fahr. until heated through.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: I would be grateful if you would print recipe for cocktail sauce to serve on sea food like lobster or oysters or shrimps—I think it contains tabasco.

Wanda.

ANSWER:

Cocktail Sauce (for seafood)

Two-thirds cups catchup, 1-3 cup chili sauce, 2 tablespoons horseradish, 1 to 3 teaspoon tabasco sauce as preferred, 3 tablespoons lemon juice. Combine and chill.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, September 17

Excellent progress in a creative way, in which new and advanced objectives may be on the way to concrete results, with new plans and policies of a practically constructive goal may be well along a productive scale, when a disagreeable complication, probably of a purely personal nature may upset all prospects, blocking the way and defeating progressive aims. Excesses, indulgences, jealousy, or other impulsive acts, could shatter all hopes.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is, are on the verge of a year in which the final progressive and happy outcome is entirely dependent on good graces, discreet conduct, amiability and consideration for others. Affairs of major consequence may be advanced, practical and creative energy to prod ambitious goals. Enterprise and initiative on new ventures, probably distant connections, seem to be thriving when some error, false move or a state of jealousy, enmity and strife, induced by emotions or hurt feelings, could prove devastating. Personal excesses, indulgence, ill - temper could reek havoc.

A child born on this day, while having excellent talents and initiative for a successful career, yet innate jealousy, enmity, bad temper or want of grace and amiability could prove its undoing.

NATIONAL IMMUNIZATION WEEK

Yes, it's just plain "Horse Sense" to have your child immunized against Diphtheria, Whooping Cough, Smallpox, Scarlet Fever and other deadly diseases. Children from three months of age upward should have this protection.

CONSULT YOUR OWN DOCTOR OR THE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH AT ONCE

Also, it is just plain "Horse Sense" to shop at ELLIOTT'S and McDERMID'S Drug Stores, where you get products of proven dependability at the lowest possible prices, and where your prescriptions are filled exactly as ordered by your physician.

Charge Trucker With Pipe Theft

Judgment was reserved for one week today on a charge of theft of pipe fittings against Chester Windsor, 400 Wellington St. Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, heard evidence today alleging that the accused had stolen the plumbing goods from the yard of the Empress Hotel on June 19, during extensive construction work going on there. Windsor had been employed as a truck driver by a company working on the project.

William Curtis, a plumber on the project, testified that he had driven to the hotel yard that Saturday afternoon to find a truck there on which the pipe items were loaded. The truck was one driven by the accused on the job, he said. Windsor was walking away from the truck when he first saw him, he said.

J. C. N. Currelly, counsel for the defence, argued that the evidence failed to show any completed theft as there had been no "taking and carrying away" in th sense the law uses. He said that no one had seen the accused loading the truck and that the accused at the time had denied putting the items on the truck. There may havet been intent shown, he said, but there was no proof of theft. He also disputed evidence given as to the ownership of the material, whether by the hotel or the contractor.

Gas Dealers Ask For New Legislation

WINDSOR, Sept. 16.—(CP). — Retail gasoline dealers, concluding their eighth annual meeting Wednesday night, resolved to ask the Provincial Government for separate legislation governing the industry.

This would provide for complete service to the motoring public and at the same time make provision for the economic status of the dealer, according to Douglas Fletcher, secretary.

The dealers do not want to operate either under the Industrial Standards Act law or the Factory, Shop and Office Building Act, as they do now. They insist that at least some gasoline dealers should be open at all times, including holidays and week-ends.

All officers were re-elected. The convention chose Toronto for the 1949 convention. Norman Lepan, Windsor, and George Russell, Oshawa, were added to the board of directors.

Socialist Rule At Stake In Swedish Vote

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 16. — (AP).—Sweden's 16 years of Socialist rule are at stake in general elections next Sunday.

Conservatives, Liberals and Agrarians have joined forces to wrest power from the Social Democratic Labor Party which has governed the country since 1932.

Campaigning has been intense, and recent public opinion polls indicate that under the concerted onslaught the Social Democrats may fail to secure a majority in the Lower Chamber of the Swedish Parliament.

Under the leadership of the late premier, Per Albin Hansson, Social Democrats in the last few general elections have polled roughly three times more votes than any other Swedish party.

Today they are fighting under a new leader, 47-year-old Tage Erlander, who took over as premier when Hansson died in 1946.

The 230 seats of the Lower Chamber are divided this way now: Social Democrats 116; Conservatives, 39; the Agrarian Peasants Union, a centre party, 35; the Liberal Peoples Party, another centre group, 26; Communists, 15.

The Conservatives, headed by 59-year-old Fritiof Dommo, the Agrarians led by Axel Pehrsson-Bramstorp, a 65-year-old landowner; and the Liberals, under the leadership of Berttii Ohlin, 51, professor economics, have formed ane leetion bloc. The arrange ment makes it possible for them to pool their votes when any one of their candidates fails to secure a separate majority.

The three parties have submerged their policy differences with the aim of ousting the Social Democrats and forcing formation of a coalition government.

50 Per Cent Increase High School Teachers

TORONTO, Sept. 16 — (CP) — An increase in the number of Ontario high school teachers was seen today by Dr. A. C. Lewis, dean of the Ontario College of Education.

Dr. Lewis said the number of young men and women entering the college this fall is expected to be 50 per cent greater than last year. The college is seeking added accommodation for students in vocational training.

Texan Wins $20,000 Has Eskimos, Penguin

FORT WORTH, Tex., Sept. 16 —(AP). — Oil millionaire L. L. Horne planned to set out to-day with four Eskimo women, a penguin, a polar bear skin, and a parka to collect more than $20,000 in bets. The women — Miss Molly Blatchford, Mrs. Lona B. Welch, Miss Alice Walker, and Mrs. Lorna Gray, chaperone — were flown here from Seattle. Their first reaction to Texas when they landed Wednesday night was not unexpected. "Oh, it's hot down here," said Miss Blatchford and Mrs. Gray. Then they scrambled into a refrigerated van for a trip to their hotel.

For Shorter Locks

LONDON — (CP). — Efforts are being made by leading hairdressers here to persuade women to wear the new short-hair style. One of London's foremost hair stylists, points out that this hair style is far more becoming to the average woman than any coiffure introduced for years.

Fuel Shortage Predicted

HALIFAX — (CP). — Dealers in Halifax warn that even with more Welsh anthracite arriving here, coal supplies will be scanty this winter. Fuel-oil supplies here are not taking any new customers, leaving new owners of oil-burning equipment out of luck.

Frequent Visitor

YARMOUTH, N.S — (CP). — The arrival here this summer of J. D. Small of Dorchester, Mass., marked his 46th visit to this province in as many years. His return home will mark his 93rd crossing of the Bay of Fundy.

TYPICAL OF THE HIGHLY-SKILLED senior engine room personnel in the RCN today are two Ontario men—Chief Engine Room Artificer Fred Holden (RIGHT) of Orillia and Chief Stoker Mechanic Claude Claude of Ottawa (LEFT). Claude is a veteran of 17 years service with the Royal Canadian Navy, having enlisted at HMCS "Stadacona" as a stoker second class in September, 1931. During the 30's he served in Canadian destroyers on both coasts and at the outbreak of the war was a leading stoker. The other Ontarian, Chief ERA Fred Holden did not begin his naval career until 1940 when he joined the RCNVR. A mechanical background helped him win rapid promotion. In four years, which he spent in service in ships and establishments in the Atlantic command, he had won his chief ERA's "buttons" and held this rating when he transferred to the permanent force following the cessation of hostilities.

World News In Brief

Taken from Wires of Canadian Press.

WASHINGTON — The United States bomber force is four times as effective as it was two years ago, twice as effective as last year, the man who runs it said. Gen. George C. Kenney, chief of the Strategic Air Command, based his estimate on planes, efficiency of operation and skilled crews.

LONDON, Eng.—James Millison, 43, who was the first man to fly the Atlantic solo from east to west in 1932, took off from London airport as an assisted-passage emigrant to Canada. His wife, the former Amy Johnson, also a long-distance air pioneer, died ferrying a warplane in 1941.

LONDON, Eng. — Britain, with her eyes in the international situation, is working on new civil defence plans which will be put into operation if the tension does not ease. It is understood that the subject of defence now will rate as supremely important, superseding discussion of constitutional matters, when the Commonwealth Prime Mniisters meet here on Oct. 11.

MONTREAL—Establishment of the McGill Fund for capital contributions to McGill University and plans to raise a minimum of $9,075,000 through intensive activities this fall were announced by Dr. F. Cyril James, principal and vice-chancellor, and the Board of Governors.

MONTREAL—Canadian newsprint shipments in August amounted to 389,148 tons, an increase of 11,207 tons over shipments in August, 1947, the Newsprint Association of Canada reported. Canadian production for the month was 396,049 tons, 7,943 tons higher than a year ago.

IGONISH, N.S.—The Nova Scotia Medical Society adopted a prepaid medical health plan. The program was first approved by a majority of the "rank and file" of the membership—about 400 doctors—and was given final endorsation at the society's annual convention here.

HALIFAX—John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative Member of Parliament for Lake Centre, made a plea Canadians study and live up to the meaning of citizenship.

LONDON, Eng.—Arthur Cuttriss, a chimney sweep from Nottingham, saw the Soviet consul about getting to Moscow to talk with Prime Minister Stalin on ways to relieve world tension. He and an unemployed travelling companion, Lewis Rothwell, spent 45 minutes with the consul, Iuri D. Milovzorov, and got visa application blanks. Cuttriss and Rothwell still have no British passports.

New Test

NEW YORK—A new pregnancy test, said to be the easiest yet and which has been 100-per-cent. correct in its 250 first cases, is described in the September American Journal of Surgery. The test is injection of a female hormone, estrone, three times in five days. The answer comes within 24 hours.

BOSTON.—The Massachusetts Funeral Directors' and Embalmers' Association elected a dead man as secretary-treasurer. Ballots opened at the annual meeting elected Charles L. Reade of Waltham, who died Tuesday. The ballots had been mailed out and marked several days ago.

LOS ANGELES.—Actress Hedy Lamarr got around to obtaining a final divorce decree from her third husband, actor John Loder. Miss Lamarr, 33, obtained an interlocutory decree from Loder, 49, on July 17, 1947. Her lawyer, Ronald S. Button, said there was no particular reason for the two months' delay.

VIENNA. — Communist party officials predicted a Communist-sponsored strike in industries throughout Austria for a 25-per-cent wage increase. Government sources, however, expressed confidence there will be no general strike.

ROME.—Hundreds were homeless in northern Italy following torrential rains. Many bridges were washed out and homes and public buildings heavily damaged in the Piedmont Valley region.

BRUSSELS.—The United States Embassy said two Belgian real-estate firms had apologized for demanding the evacuation of an American war cemetery. The two corporations recently served a legal process requiring that the cemetery in Neuville-en-Condroz be evacuated "within eight days."

ROME. — Benefits from the European recovery program have begun to show in Italy's budget, Giuseppe Pella, Treasury Minister, said. Pella told the Lower Chamber Italy's budget deficit had receded from 721,000,000,000 lire ($1,205,000,000) in 1947 to 374,000,000,000 lire in 1948.

FRANKFURT.—The Frankfurter Neue Presse said Fritz Thyssen, once Germany's richest industrialist, was found guilty of having been a minor Nazi offender. The German denazification court ordered Thyssen, now 74, to surrender 20 per cent. of his property as a penalty.

Recommend Council

EDINBURGH.—J. Murray Watson, president of the Institute of Journalists, said it is "practically certain" a royal commission now investigating British newspapers will recommend "some form of press council representing all sections of the industry."

OTTAWA. — About 35 doctors from all parts of Canada opened the annual meeting of the Medical Council of Canada. Chairman at the closed sessions was Dr. H. K. MacDonald of Halifax.

GLASGOW—Princess Margaret today named and launched the 12,200-ton tanker British Mariner at the Harland and Wolff shipyards here.

Housewives May Have To Change Wash Day To Eke Out Meagre Hydro Power Supplies

TORONTO, Sept. 16 (CP) — Housewives may have to change their laundering habits if Ontario is to weather the current power shortage in safety.

This grim warning came Wednesday night from R. H. Saunders, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, who said Monday's wash may have to be done on Friday and Tuesday's ironing on Saturday if the shortage becomes more serious.

The switch in household arrangements would fit in with industrial use of power which falls off at the end of the week, said Mr. Saunders, discussing the shortage which led the Commission to impose restrictions Tuesday on use of power in the province. He indicates households will be the next to suffer from power which so far have fallen mostly on industrial and commercial users.

Appealing for province-wide co-operation, Mr. Saunders said: "This is really a serious situation. We are not minimizing it and we want the people to know the facts. We must have all-out voluntary saving or we will be compelled to take drastic steps in cutting power."

Year After Battle Of Britain Germany Lost Air Initiative

By RALPH UNDERHILL

LONDON, Sept. 16 — (CP) — By the spring of 1941, less than a year after the Battle of Britain and stunning night bomber assaults on the United Kingdom, initiative in major daylight operations in Western Europe had passed from the German, "who did not subsequently regain it."

How fighter sweeps kept German defences in the west on constant alert and how Britain's defences were built up to deal with German night bomber attacks is described in a dispatch by Air Marshal Sir Sholto Douglas, now Lord Douglas of Dirtleside, who was air officer commanding-in-chief of the RAF fighter command in the crucial period from Nov. 25, 1940 to Dec. 31, 1945.

By the time Sholto took over, "the night offensive had become in many respect a bigger threat to the kingdom than the day offensive, which for the moment, at least, had been successfully beaten off," the report said.

Gradually a force was built up capable of dealing with the night attacks. Anti-aircraft guns, balloons and searchlights all played a part but Lord Douglas credited radar, both on the ground and in two-seater fighters, as responsible for checking the assault.

No Gains

He said the night bomber offensive ended May 11, 1941, after an intensive campaign which failed to achieve any strategic purpose.

"In eight months of intensive night raiding, the German bomber force did not succeed in breaking the spirit of the British people or preventing the expansion of our means of production and supply," he added.

"In the middle of December the German fighter force which had suffered heavy losses since the summer virtually abandoned the offensive for the time being. Clearly the moment had come to put our plans into effect and wrest the initiative from the enemy."

"Intruder sweeps began and continued through 1941. Lord Douglas said they gave the RAF the air intiative in the west and caused the enemy to retain air units in the west which might otherwise have been moved to the Russian front.

Existing fighters had their hands full, apart from forays on the continent. The Germans developed "pirate raids" in which fast bombers swooped in to attack factories. The RAF had to be on the alert to try to nail these hit-and-run experts.

Lord Douglas disclosed that friction existed between the ministry of aircraft production, then headed by Lord Beaverbrook, and the Royal Navy, which was entitled to priority in fighter production.

At first the aircraft production ministry was favored—though here again there was disagreement on the best tactics of defence—but at the end of February, 1942, it was decided to give priority to the defence of shipping in the northwest approaches

Train Ticket Returned Local Man Grateful

Mr. J. McBain, 217 Rubidge St., appreciated the honesty of his fellow men to such an extent that he sent a letter of appreciation to the Examiner news room thanking two people for returning a lost article to him.

He was going to Toronto and lost his rail ticket and apparently was forced to purchase another. A passenger on the train told him that he had seen a lady pick it up at the CPR Depot and turn it in to the ticket clerk. The Railway, with its usual thoroughness in the matters of this sort, advised Mr. McBain that it had been turned in and had him sign their reclamation form for eventual payment.

Motorcycle Daredevil Killed Driving Truck

TORONTO, Sept. 16 (CP) — A 27-year-old motorcycle daredevil who earned his living by flirting with death and defying lions—John J. Petty of Falls River, Mass.—died today at the wheel of a truck carrying his act to its next stand.

Police said the tractor-trailer which Petty was driving at high speed crashed into a tree as it swung around a corner.

The other members of the act which attracted thousands at the Canadian National Exhibition here to watch the daredevils ride in a bowl with roaring lions, were passengers in the truck but were uninjured. They are James Ruffin of Newsport News, Va., and Madison Cook of South Carolina.

Hit Bridge, 8 Killed

BRISBANE, Australia, Sept. 16 (Reuters). — Eight persons were killed to-day when a motor vehicle carrying 30 employees of the Royal Australian Air Force crashed into a bridge, overturned, and fell into the Burdenken River, North Queensland.

4,000 Teachers

HALIFAX — (CP). — There are about 4,000 teachers and 125,000 children in Nova Scotia's schools this year, the provincial education department reported here.

Potato Price Ruling Rapped

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP) —Representative August H. Andersen, Minnesota Republican, said today the United States government is in effect supporting the price of Canadian potatoes.

"This comes," he told a reporter, "while American taxpayers will be forced to pay up to $100,000,000 in 1948 for the tremendous surplus of potatoes grown in this country."

Andersen, chairman of a special food investigating committee, added:

"So far this year about 3,500,000 bushels of Canadian potatoes have been shipped into this country under a reduced duty and an additional 3,500,000 bushels will be brought in during the next 60 days.

"Although President Truman has the authority to stop the import of potatoes from Canada, he has not taken such action.

Unless Mr. Truman takes such action it will mean American taxpayers will be forced to provide more money to buy additional quantities of surplus American potatoes."

Known In 6,000 BC

STOCKHOLM — (CP).—Hunters and fishermen roamed the forests of central Sweden 6,000 years before Christ, Sten Florin, young Swedish scientist said in a paper published here recently. The first traces of peasant culture appeared about 3,000 B.C., he said.

Courtesy of Veterinarian Wins Hearts of Americans

Politicians on both sides of the border make pontifical statements about "the unguarded frontier" between Canada and the United States. But it is not the pronouncements of politicians which make the friendly spirit among the residents north and south of that 49th parallel. It's the little acts of humanity and common decency to each other which shows the understanding, the "sameness" of Canadians and Americans. Sharing a continent, they also share the same beliefs and standards and feelings.

Take the case of "Tommy", a little white-and-black fox terrier belonging to an American couple and a veterinary doctor in the Peterborough district.

Tommy belongs to Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Guy of Washington, Pa. For every summer of his life, he has accompanied them to Bewdley for their annual vacation there.

This summer, one Sunday, he took very sick. So sick that Mr. Guy saw that the dog required veterinary attention. He knew that in the States, few veterinaries would welcome a visit on Sunday and that many would find plenty of excuses why they could not take the vase. But Tommy was in pain and Mr. Guy went out anyway.

He called on Dr. A. M. Johnson, well-known local veterinary. Far from being annoyed at the call, the doctor examined the dog, told the couple that the sickness was serious, that there was little could be done. He gave them something to e[illegible]ain.

About 11 o'clock the same night the pain grew more intense, so much so that its howls were tearing the hearts of the listeners. They went back to Dr. Johnson's and got him out of bed. Further medical treatment was given to ease the pain and the Guys went back to their summer home again.

Three hours later—past two o'clock in the morning—the dog's condition was so bad that the couple, who were very much attached to it, knew that "something" had to be done. Again they aroused the kindly "vet" who told them that there was nothing could be done to correct the dog's condition, which meant certain death.

So, Tommy was humanely put out of his suffering and—the final touch of understanding by Dr. Johnson—he was buried on the doctor's property on Highway 28.

No explanation is necessary to many people to describe the feelings of this American pair towards the Canadian vet who had helped them without grumbling and with sympathy. Anybody who loves a dog will know what it meant.

Dr. Johnson's act of kindness will not likely be forgotten by the Guys. The story of the Sunday and nighttime visits has been told over an American radio station.

As Mr. Guy commented, two countries whose people can meet with such deeds of kindness from the other, have little to fear along the border.

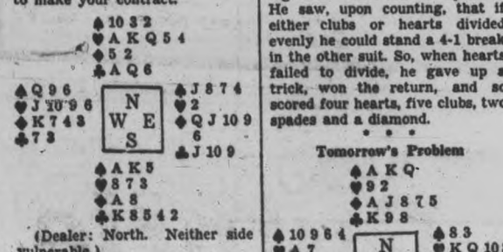
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

TWO STRINGS TO A BOW

IT IS OFTEN wise to have two strings to your bow instead of one, if you can. That is why it is better to play some slam hands in a No Trump contract than in a suit. If your side has two suits that fit together pretty well, and you select one of those suits for the trump, you may be sunk if the opponents' cards in the suit chosen happen to be unevenly divided, whereas if you had picked your other suit, you would have had a favorable split. In a No Trump contract, however, you may not have to guess which suit is better split. Whichever does may furnish you enough tricks to make your contract.



(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♥	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	4 NT	Pass
5 ♥	Pass	6 NT

There was great variety in the bidding of this deal at the several tables of a tournament. Most North-South pairs reached a small slam, some in hearts, some in clubs and some in No Trumps. All of the heart declarers were unfortunate in that East was the leader and of course opened a diamond. That set up an instant trick in the suit, which was cashed as soon as the heart loser was taken.

The club people were luckier because West led anything except a diamond, due to his guarded K. These declarers were able to take out trumps, give up the first or second trick in hearts and then use the remainders of the suit to discard one loser each in diamonds and spades.

The No Trumpers were out of luck in only one instance, where the declarer was North and East led a diamond. But where South was the declarer at No Trumps, he had a very comfortable feeling after West led the spade 5. He saw, upon counting, that if either clubs or hearts divided evenly he could stand a 4-1 break in the other suit. So, when hearts failed to divide, he gave up a trick, won the return, and so scored four hearts, five clubs, two spades and a diamond.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

After South ruffs the third heart in the dummy, how should he plan to encircle the club Q so vital to his club game?

Trio Remanded In Kidnapping

TORONTO, Sept. 16.—(CP). — Charged with kidnapping Dr. David Periman last Monday, Gordon Cameron, 24, Allen Decker, 19, and William Glover, 17, were remanded Wednesday for a week. Bail was set at $10,000 each.

Cameron, apparently spokesman for the trio, told the court they wanted to get it over with.

"Sure, we're guilty," he said. "Lets go on."

Magistrate F. T. Bigelow appointed E. C. Bogart counsel for the youths. He told them the charges "may lead to long penitentiary terms."

The youths, arrested in Windsor, following the escape of Dr. Periman from a tourist cabin where his abductors had bound and gagged him, also are charged with the armed robbery of the physician and the armed robbery of a Toronto taxi driver, Nathan Bornstein, last Sept. 10.

Public School At Havelock Has 179 Pupils

HAVELOCK, Sept. 16 (ENS)—Principal D. Buchanan of the public school, reporting to the Board of Education at its meeting Monday, gave the enrolment for the school at 179.

He said the school garden was in poor condition. He informed the Board that he held a certificate to teach agriculture and was willing to take on the subject if they wished. The clerk was authorized to get information regarding a grant for this department.

A grant of $10 was made for prizes for the public school Field Day. The staff will arrange the method of prize distribution. The date had not been decided upon.

Mr. Buchanan also spoke about pupils being permitted in their class rooms before 9 a.m., when they should be outside playing. He asked the Board's view on the matter of lining up outside the school for opening. The staff were informed that they were at liberty to have pupils march to classes at opening but that the school was to be open from 8.45 a.m. continuously until close of school at 4 p.m.

It was drawn to the board's attention that there was no clock in the public school and the secretary was authorized to have two that were on the premises put in working order.

66 in High School

Principal L. H. Cooke reported an attendance of 66 in the high school, which comprised 34 pupils from the village, 25 from Peterborough county and seven from other counties.

Mr. Cooke reported that the school was in need of a science teacher. He was asked to prepare a time table report, as the present staff have not the time to handle this subject. The secretary was authorized to forward the report to Inspector Lakie and ask his permission to hire a science teacher.

Mr. Cooke reported that he had catalogued the scientific apparatus and books and arranged them in the proper order. He had found quantities of material unlisted and he could find no trace of some that had been previously listed. In the library there are 1,300 books, he said.

On motion by Trustees Haryett and Nobes, Mr. Cooke was commended on the splendid job he had done with the library and scientific equipment during the holiday months.

The high school program of field day sports will be held on Sept. 30 and Oct. 1. The high schol received grants of $25 for the library and $25 for the laboratory.

Caretaker S. Southward brought the matter of repairs to the attention of the Board and requested an increase in salary. On motion of Trustees Mathison and Sayers he was given an increase of $200.

Truant Officer J. Diaper reported for June: school open 20 days; enrolment 166; average attendance 157.93; perfect aggregate 3259; actual aggregate 3138½; percentage 96.92; one transfer, one pupil suspended for 18 days, 2 permits issued in September.

The following accounts were passed: Salaries, teachers, secretary, caretaker, $1,866.50; Hydro Commission, lights, $12.94; E. J. Leeson, treasurer's bond, $8; J. Leask, coal, $786; S. Southward, extra work, $54.

Hyderabad Surrenders To Indians

Report Indian Troops Only Six Miles From Nizam's Capital

NEW DELHI, Sept. 17.—(CP).—The Nizam of Hyderabad ordered a cease-fire order today, little more than four days after Indian troops crossed the borders of his princely state, it was announced:

Indian troops invaded Hyderabad at 4 a.m. Monday with the avowed aim of restoring order. The cease-fire was effective at 7.30 a.m. EDT, the announcement said.

The Nizam, Gen. Sir Mir Osman Ali Khan, is the Moslem leader of the predominantly-Hindu state of 16,000,000, which had refused to accede to Hindu India.

(Informed sources in Karachi, Pakistan, said Indian troops today reached the outskirts of Secunderabad, military cantonment six miles from Hyderabad city, the capital.)

The troops were closing in upon the heart of Hyderabad, which is surrounded by Indian territory, when the report of the end came.

(A dispatch from Madras said the Nizam had surrendered to the Dominion of India).

Dominion troops early today were near Bidar, stronghold of the Razakars, general headquarters announced.

Cabinet Resigns

Laik Ali, Hyderabad premier, announced in a broadcast that the Nizam had accepted the resignation of his cabinet.

Unofficial reports reaching here from Poona, Madras and Nagpur said Indian troops already had marched into Hyderabad city, the capital, and Secunderabad, a military cantonment six miles north of the capital, without opposition. Official confirmation was awaited here at general headquarters.

The Indian commander, Lt.-Gen. Maharajah Shri Rajendrasinhji, three hours before the Hyderabad announcement, had broadcast a demand to the Hyderabad commander to "lay down your arms, since resistance is futile."

The Hyderabad broadcast was in the form of an announcement to the 16,000,000 people of the state, four out of five of them Hindus. India has demanded that the Moslem Nizam turn his state over to the dominion.

India's flash war has been in progress only a little more than four days. Indian troops were clearing down on Bidar, stronghold of the Moslem volunteers, the Razakars, who offered the main resistance to the dominion's drive. Other columns were pressing forward from all directions toward Hyderabad city and nearby Secunderabad.

Call British Cabinet In Sudden Session

LONDON, Sept. 17 (AP)—Britain took steps today to strengthen her home defences in the grave international crisis.

The War Office said it planned to increase from 6,000 to 45,000 the size of the Auxiliary Territorial Service.

Women 18 to 40 will be recruited. The War Office said 25,000 are needed for anti-aircraft duty and 20,000 for general work ranging from cooks to cipher clerks. A call went out for 10,000 men aged 20 to 50 to serve as special constables in London.

The gravity of the international situation in general, and of the German in particular, was reflected in a suddenly summoned meeting of top British cabinet officers and defence chiefs with Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin.

Wage Talks Collapse

CHICAGO, Sept. 17—(AP)—Wage and hour negotiations between the railroads of the United States and 1,000,000 non-operating workers collapsed today. Negotiations with representatives of five operating unions of 300,000 workers are continuing, a carrier spokesman said. The non-operating workers are clerks, telegraphers, yardmen, boilermakers, machinists and others not actually employed in the operation or switching of trains.

800 Japanese Casualties In Bad Flood

TOKYO, Sept. 17 — (AP). — Between 800 and 2,000 Japanese have been killed, injured or are missing in flooded Ichinoseki city 50 miles north of Sendai, Japanese and United States authorities said to-day.

A Kyodo News Agency report from a technician to his prefectural office at Morioka in Iwate Prefecture placed the number of dead at 2,000.

Allied Headquarters, nowever, said reports from army units at Sendai listed 800 dead or missing.

Kyodo said two feet of rain deluged the city in a typhoon on Thursday night. Some 500 homes in Ichinoseki were washed away and 1,600 were flooded, the news agency reported.

The swollen Iwai River burst through its dikes near Ichinoseki and poured through the city of 35,000 population.

Report Some Fires

Reports were that the rain in the Northern Honshu city had stopped but that some fires had broken out later.

News reports added at least eight more dead and 24 missing in the 10 prefectures struck by the moderate typhoon. Tokyo officials said five were dead or missing here and more than 4,000 homes were flooded.

Fears that the ripening rice crop had been hard hit by the storm abated with a report from the agricultural ministry that the crop had not been greatly damaged.

Many Honshu Island rivers were swollen by the deluge. Residents of Toride, 15 miles northwest of Tokyo, were ordered out of their homes tonight as the rampaging Tone river began sweeping through its dikes and into the streets.

Germans Escape Uranium Mine

NUERNBERG, Sept. 17 (AP)—Two Germans who escaped from the Russian Uranium mines in Saxony, looking beaten and worn after only a few months work, said today 20 Germans died there daily.

The two are Willy Schmidt, 38, and Horst Geilert, 22.

They said they were forced into the mines at Aue, in Saxony, where more than 100,000 Germans are employed in what amounts to slave labor.

How they escaped is a secret.

Schmidt and Geilert said they had to work in the mines because they refused to join the Communist party.

They said that each man must dig three cubic metres of ore daily, whether it takes eight hours with the primitive tools or 16. Scientists examine the hard rock for uranium, basic substance in the atomic bomb.

AFTER THE OPENING of the new Canada Bridge in Bruges, Belgium, on Sunday, Maj.-Gen. H. W. Foster of Halifax, who headed the detachment of 18 Canadians present at the ceremonies, lays a wreath at the foot of monument which commemorates the liberation of Bruges by the Canadians in September, 1944. All the Canadian soldiers present had themselves assisted in freeing the famous old town from the Germans.

Band Leads School Pupils To Marmora Fall Fair

Marmora residents unofficially greeted autumn on Thursday when they held their annual Fall Fair sponsored by the Agricultural Society. About 1,250 adults and high school children paid admission, and about 200 schoolchildren were let in without charge. Attendance was said to be the largest since pre-war times.

Led by the Havelock Pipe Band under the direction of Pipe Major Harry Anderson, some 150 of the boys and girls paraded in the afternoon from their school grounds to the fair. Together with their elder brothers and sisters and their parents they made up a large but jovial crowd.

Arena Used

This year the date of the fair was advanced to take advantage of the better weather and thus increase general interest. Marmora's $32,000 arena which is in the last stages of completion was divided into two parts, serving as a cow barn on the one side and a horse barn on the other. Official opening day for the aluminum-sheeted arena is tentatively set for October 15.

There was no horse racing as the track was not in shape and it was felt that there were sufficient attractions to more than make up for its lack.

The afternoon variety show drew a large standing crowd as Bernard Hughes, master of ceremonies, produced a pleasing program. There were vocalists, an impersonator, a magician, a pianist and an acrobatic girl dancer.

Interspersed with the acts of these professional entertainers, there were contests in which the spectators could take part, and these proved particularly popular. Charles Campion, Marmora Township, and J. Whitney, Cordova Mines, were champion old-time fiddlers.

Other winners:

Step-dancing contest—1 Orville McGarvey, 2 J. Whitney, 3 Clifford Briggs.

Oldest lady present — Mrs. S. O'Brien, Marmora, 93.

Oldest man present—John Van Volkenburg, Cordova Mines, 85, and runner-up, Eli Vesterfelt, Marmora, 83.

Log-sawing contest — 1 Irwin McCoy, Marmora Township, and Gordon Scott, Marmora Township; 2 Everett Barrons, Marmora Townhsip, and Jack Edwards, Cordova Mines; 3 Floyd Hannah and Harold Carman, Cordova Mines.

Most recently married couple—Mr. and Mrs. Garrett Vincent, Kingston, married Sept. 17.

Ladies' nail-driving contest — Mrs. D. McQuigge, Marmora Township; 2 Mrs. Everett Vilneff, Marmora Township; 3 Mrs. H. Brady, Marmora Township.

5 Lumberjacks Drown In N.B.

ST. ANDREW'S, N.B., Sept. 17 — (CP). — Investigation began today into the drowning of five lumberjacks Thursday on Gibson's Lake 10 miles southwest of here.

The accident occurred when the boat, in which eight men were rowing across the lake to their lunch, was caught in a sudden gust of wind and capsized.

Dead are:

Harold Murphy, 34, Coutt's Hill, near Welsford, N.B.

Sandy Creelan, Upper Stewiacke, N.S.

Howard Gauvin, Tignish, P.E.I.

Frank Brennan, Prince Edward Island.

James Perry, Prince Edward Island.

Three other men in the ill-fated craft managed to cling to its sides and save themselves. They were Donald Laird, Jerusalem, N.B., Arthur Cameron, Saint John, N.B., and James Pine, also of Saint John.

The men, with the exception of Murphy, were believed to be in their 20s and unmarried.

A sawmill operator, Rufus Morris, said he saw the disaster from one of the twin hills on either side of Gibson's Lake.

Morris ran to the water's edge and pushed off in a small boat and meanwhile other employees of the lumber camp raced for a boat but were unable to reach the scene before five of their friends drowned.

Rescued Sailors Kiss Deck Of Coast Guard Cutter

NEW YORK, Sept. 17—(AP)—Saved from a crippled schooner in the hurricane-swept North Atlantic, Portuguese sailors threw themselves prone and kissed the deck of the famed United States Coast Guard rescue cutter, Bibb.

The Bibb, which accomplished one of two dramatic ship rescues Thursday in which 79 men in all were saved, radioed early today the details of how she picked up 40 men from the Portuguese fishing schooner Gaspar.

About 390 miles away, two merchant ships rescued 39 men from the sinking British freighter Leicester.

Seven men from the two stricken ships were believed lost.

Capt. Donald G. Jacobs, skipper of the Bibb, radioed his rescue log to coast guard area headquarters here today, and ended it this way:

"After the tenseness of the night-long, speed run, the actual rescue of the 40 survivors of the Gaspar seemed almost anticlimatical because of the smoothness of the operation.

"That it was something altogether different in aspect to the survivors, however, was apparent from the actions of several of them who, upon reaching the safety of the Bibb, flung themselves down and fervently kissed the deck."

The Bibb said nearly all those rescued had bruises and minor injuries and all were weary from "25 hours of fighting rising water."

The rescue of the 39 men from the Leicester was made by the American freighter Cecil N. Bean and the Argentine freighter Tropero. Six of the freighter's crew were believed lost.

The Gaspar lost one man overboard before the rescues.

Widespread Arrests In Purge At Prague

PRAGUE, Sept. 17 (Reuters)—Widespread arrests, believed part of a Communist drive against opposition elements, were reported here today from both official and unofficial sources.

Those arrested were charged with anti-State activity and with exciting unrest by criticizing the government for Czechoslovakia's present economic difficulties.

Many were also charged with preparing and distributing anti-State leaflets.

Indication that a sweeping purge of the Sokol organization (National Sports Movement) was nearing completion came from an official statement that authorities were receiving messages from Sokol branches congratulating them on carrying out the purge.

Bernadotte Shot By Men In Uniform

Earlier Attack Made When Car Fired On, But No One Injured

JERUSALEM, Sept. 17 (CP) — Count Folke Bernadotte, United Nations mediator in Palestine, today was shot and killed as he was crossing into a Jewish area here.

Reuters agency said the 53-year-old Swedish Count, a nephew of King Gustav, was reported killed by men wearing military uniforms, but did not specify whether the uniforms were Jewish or Arab.

The Associated Press however quoted a telephone message from Commander Seymour at the American School in Jerusalem as saying the men wore "Jewish army uniforms."

The American Consul at Jerusalem reported Bernadotte was ambushed and shot to death by four men "presumably by Stern gang." The so-called Stern gang is a Jewish Extremist group.

Count Bernadotte visited Damascus, capital of Syria, Thursday.

While in that city he told newspapermen that both Arabs and Jews in Jerusalem were "trigger happy."

Frequent Shooting

He explained that frequent shooting broke out in the city without either side knowing what it was shooting at.

"It's like this," he said. "They shoot into the dark at night. They snipe by daylight. Excuse me, but it is a most idiotic thing."

Bernadotte was appointed United Nations mediator in the Holy Land on May 20.

In Damascus Thursday he said he was going to Jerusalem and Baghdad before returning to Paris next week to report to the United Nations General Assembly.

Two Truces

Count Bernadotte twice succeeded in bringing a truce in the war for Palestine between the Jews and Arabs. The truces have been fitful, punctuated by shelling and fighting.

Both sides appeared to expect the current truce, now two months old, to run out at almost any moment.

Count Bernadotte arrived at Jerusalem at noon today after visiting Ramallah, 10 miles north of Jerusalem, where he conferred for an hour with an Arab Legion commander.

Fired On Car

About two miles north of Jerusalem his car was fired on from the direction of Haddassah hospital on Mount Scopus. The bullets hit the running board, penetrating one side without injuring anybody.

Count Bernadotte went to the Holy City for a last look around before going to Paris for the

Drew Appoints Louis P. Cecile To Cabinet Post

TORONTO, Sept. 17 — (CP)—Premier Drew of Ontario to-day announced the appointment to the Ontario Cabinet of Louis P. Cecile, Hawkesbury lawyer, who represents Prescott constituency in the Ontario Legislature.

Mr. Cecile becomes minister without portfolio and was to be sworn in later in the day at the residence of Lieutenant-Governor Ray Lawson at nearby Oakville.

In a statement the Premier said Mr. Cecile has accepted the responsibility of dealing with readjustment problems of municipalities along the Ottawa, St. Lawrence, and other rivers developing from construction of power projects. This work was not covered by the authority of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario.

Elected in Prescott

Mr. Cecile was elected in Prescott in the June 7 Ontario election, with a margin of 2,193 votes over Simon Bertrand, Liberal.

Premier Drew said Mr. Cecile's immediate duty would be "to conduct an inquiry into the municipal readjustment problems caused by the power developments."

He said that following the inquiry it would be determined whether the duties would be incorporated with those of an existing department.

The Premier mentioned the St. Lawrence River town of Cardinal Ont., as a case in point. "Probably the whole town will have to be moved. This will involve not only a question of compensation but also how to absorb the population into other municipalities."

New 3 Per Cent Power Cut For Southern Ontario Announced By Saunders

Suggest Industry Switch To Night Shift Also Work Saturdays, Sundays; Not Saving Nearly Enough Power So Far

KEMPTVILLE, Sept. 17 — (CP). — Robert H. Saunders, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, told a press conference here today there will be a 3,500,000 kilowatt hour cut in Ontario power consumption spread over next week, increased in the following weeks to 7,000,000 kilowatt hours a week. Mr. Saunders estimated that this would mean a three per cent power cut for southern Ontario.

Here to address the annual meeting of the Eastern Ontario Municipal Electrical Association, he said that the cut would probably start Wednesday of next week and would be in full stride the following week.

Municipalities would be notified by letter today or tomorrow and the commission would suggest to them further voluntary methods for power conservation.

These would include the suggestion that for two days next week, either Wednesday and Thursday or Thursday and Friday, they cut off water heaters from noon until midnight. In the following week, the municipalities could cut off water heaters a certain number of hours every day in the afternoons from Mondays through Fridays.

Only Suggest

Mr. Saunders also said it would be suggested to industry that "the situation would be lightened greatly" if they could shift some of their working hours to from midnight to 7 a.m. and also to Saturdays and Sundays.

He was asked if there would be any compulsion to this. He replied:

"We can't compel. We can only suggest."

He said industry was already co-operating to a large extent and mentioned that in Toronto 150,000 kilowatt hours were already being saved by transfer of work hours to the week-end.

Mr. Saunders hoped that through direct saving or transfers of industrial hours till after midnight that 500,000 kilowatts

2 Workmen Caused Million Dollar Fire

MONTREAL, Sept. 17 (CP)—Two workmen accidentally caused last month's $1,000,000 Canadian National Railways freight shed fire, a fire commissioner's court was told Thursday at the opening inquiry. After the two men—George Jones and Albert Lord — admitted attempting to clear a clogged gasoline line on an express truck with a jet from a gas cylinder, Commissioner St. Germain postponed judgment until Sept. 23.

Health Minister For Nova Scotia Dies Suddenly

INGONISH, N.S., Sept. 17 — (CP)—Dr. Frank R. Davis, 60-year-old Nova Scotia Health Minister, died at this resort town early today three days after he was stricken by a heart attack.

Dr. Davis, who also was Minister of Municipal Affairs and of Public Welfare in the Nova Scotia government, was stricken shortly after he arrived here to attend the annual meeting of the Nova Scotia Medical Society Tuesday.

The big doctor-politician fought a grim struggle for his life in this northern Cape Breton village and commercial oxygen supplied by a construction crew was used in an attempt to save his life.

The oxygen, flown here in a light plane from Sydney, N.S., was administered through a home-made mask.

Dr. Davis, prominent in business and a director of at least two large firms, was first elected to the Nova Scotia legislature in 1933 and at one time served as mayor of the south shore town of bridge water.

Perhaps the most colorful story of the robust doctor is told in connection with the Moose River mine resue in 1936. The health minister, risking his life, squirmed through a narrow hole far underground to bring medical aid to two trapped and half-dead men.

It was largely through his efforts that Dr. D. E. Robertson and Alfred Scadding of Toronto were rescued alive from the crumbling gold mine.

Plan To Relieve Chiang Of Army

NANKING, Sept. 17—(Reuters)—A proposal to relieve President Chiang Kai Shek of personal command over the Chinese forces was made at a secret session of the Legislative Yuan (parliament) today, it was learned here.

Legislators asked that the ministry of national defence assume sole responsibility for military operations and demanded it be held answerable to the executive Yuan (cabinet).

Presidential intervention, they said, would only be required on questions of policy and strategy

Bathing Beauty Contests Vulgar—Berry

Bishop Criticizes Child Psychology Emphasizing Self-Expression

TORONTO, Sept. 17.—Bathing beauty contests and the type of child psychology which over-emphasizes self-expression were two current trends criticized by Most Rev. J. G. Berry, Bishop of Peterborough, addressing yesterday's luncheon meeting of the Roman Catholic Women's League Ontario Provincial Council in the King Edward Hotel.

Canadians have been slow to promote bathing beauty contests, said Bishop Berry. "But even our 'better' newspapers publish the pictures of pretty girls in the contest, and their reason for doing so would seem to be that there is a reader interest in them. Admittedly there is."

Lately, to give these contests some little air of respectability emphasis has been placed on other aspects of the contests besides a pretty face and perfect figure, he said. "But I have little hesitation in saying that if the parade across the platform in skimpy bathing suits were dropped from this exhibitionism the whole contest would shrink to insignificant proportions.

"If there is any way you Roman Catholic women can discover to emphasize for all people that a bathing beauty contest is a vulgarity, then you will be serving public morality indeed," said said Bishop Berry.

Great Confusion

Great confusion has been generated by a new field of child psychology, the speaker reminded. "The kind of quack who denies a soul to the child has been accepted far too widely in and out of the schools, and so the extreme position in self-expression has spawned numbers of children who have been left to develop the ugly, the aggressive, the uninhibited animal side of human nature," he said. "Nowadays our juvenile delinquency is so serious and the obvious need of self-discipline so marked that even the secularists are beginning to act as if there is such a reality as original sin, even when they deny it in theory."

Use of anesthetic in childbirth is "an excellent thing in certain cases," agreed the speaker. "But even now a short time after beginning to use it doctors are commencing to wonder whether they are not harming the human race by using it too liberally," he said.

"Women used to face the ordeal of childbirth with apprehension but with reserves of Christian courage inspired by Christian ideals, he said. "Today, with dangers greatly reduced the widespread ideal seems to be to avoid all pain and limit the family to a most alarming minimum."

Practical work

Warning against subtle influences at work in the community which war against Christian ideals and standards, Bishop Berry said: "We have been spending too much time on the open and confessed atheists and too little on the practical ones in our midst."

These people, described by the nebulous term of "secularists," which he compared to "termites working slowly, quietly from within," would alienate people from God and His law, he said. "They move and have their being outside the influence of religion as much as they can. In fact, they oppose religious views of life much more subtly than the Communists. For instead of the siege gun technique of the militant atheist which hits you in the eye, they use a blander type — total indifference."

Call Royal Commission On Transportation

OTTAWA, Sept. 17 (CP)—The Federal Government is setting up a Royal Commission on "national transportation," but the scope of its inquiry has not yet been made public.

A brief announcement by the government Thursday said a commission with somewhat limited terms of reference would be created, and later information indicated:

1. It would touch to some extent on the freight-rate problem, but would not have power to go into it fully.

2. It would not conflict with a current inquiry by the Board of Transport Commissioners into Canada's basic freight-rate structure.

3. It probably would not deal heavily with highway transport such as bus and truck operation, which are under provincial jurisdiction.

$650,000 Damage In Two Big Industrial Fires, 3 Stratford Firemen Hurt

Stratford Plant And Windsor CPR Shed Swept By Flames; Several Firefighters Overcome By Smoke

By The Canadian Press

Damage was estimated at $650,000 today, with three firemen seriously hurt, in two big industrial fires at Stratford and Windsor. In another fire at Toronto, with comparatively minor damage, a child was saved when his uncle in water-soaked blankets pulled him out of a blazing basement storage room.

At Stratford a two-alarm blaze destroyed the upper floor of the two-storey plant of the Sealed Power Corporation of Canada, Ltd., with loss of $400,000. At Windsor the Canadian Pacific Railway freight shed on the riverfront was destroyed, with loss estimated at $250,000.

The three firemen seriously hurt were in hospital at Stratford. James Gillespie was hurt when part of a wall collapsed at the piston-manufacturing plant. Lloyd Finlay fell off a ladder and Jack Thorn suffered undetermined injuries. Several other firemen were overcome by smoke.

Started At Store

The fire believed to have originated at a stove in the centre of the plant where a woman employee was using an inflamable fluid to take grease off pistons. Despite efforts of other workers with an extinguisher, the flames swept to the roof beams. Company officials said stock valued at $350,000 was virtually a total loss but they expected partial production by the plant's 110 employees could be resumed in a few days.

At Windsor, Fire Chief H. G. Coates said there was no indication of the origin of the blaze which swept through the 175-foot C.P.R. freight shed on the riverfront, a blaze that brought most Windsor equipment in answer to two alarms and was finally quelled with the aid of the Detroit river fire-boat.

The Windsor freight shed loss, estimated at $250,000, included newsprint valued at nearly $30,000 belonging to the Windsor Daily Star and contents of two loaded boxcars.

Havelock Man Heavily Fined

James McGowan, a farmer near Havelock, was fined $200 and $2.50 costs or three months in jail when he pleaded guilty today in court to a charge of illegal possession of liquor.

Provincial Constable Archibald Grayling testified that the accused had been repeatedly warned about liquor offences and that "there were previous indications that the accused was bootlegging there."

Magistrate R. B. Baxter, in handing out the stiff fine, told the accused that "there are enough legitimate liquor outlets now without persons setting up private centres of their own."

Best Pie-Eater

Perhaps the greatest laughter-producing stunt of the afternoon was when 10 schoolboys matched gulping abilities in a blueberry pie-eating contest. Ron Logan, Marmora, devoured his pie in about half the time of his nearest rival and stood patiently watching while the others finished. Not only did he win by a large margin, but he also emerged from the contest without any signs of blueberry pie sticking to his face.

Those who wandered from the variety show still found lots to occupy their attention. Three teams—Bonarlaw, Deloro and Eldorado—were battling it out for the Hon. J. R. Cooke Trophy on the new softball diamond.

In the first game Deloro eliminated Bonarlaw 13-5. And in the deciding game Eldorado drubbed Deloro 15-4. Members of the winning Eldorado team were John Thompson, catcher; Bob Hunter, pitcher; Bill Nickle, 1st base; Fred Stewart, 2nd base; Christie Bailey, 3rd base; Roy Stevenson, short stop; Gerald Thompson, left field; Claud Comerford, centre field, and Art Brownson, right field. They were coached by Fred Stewart and managed by John Thompson. Umpires were George Wiley and Thomas Cousins.

The midway featured a ferris wheel, merry-go-round, swings and other joy rides. Between these and the refreshment booths many a youngster rapidly used up his allowance for the day. Other booths sold candy or ran games of chance.

One of the most interesting exhibits was in the domestic science building. Here children from schools in the Marmora district had entered school projects — samples of penmanship to plastecene models. There were sketches of Canadian historical scenes; woodwork by the boys; knitting and cloth work by the girls.

On Thursday night the fair wound up with a dance in the domestic science building.

Truck Upsets Marmora Woman Killed

MARMORA, Sept. 17.—(ENS).—Mrs. Douglas Stocker of Marmora was instantly killed at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon when the truck in which she was a passenger ran into a bank and overturned in a ditch on the Cordova Road, four miles north of Marmora. She was pinned under the car. Her husband, who was driving, received minor injuries.

The accident happened at Murphy's Corners where there is a sharp incline in the road. It is believed the brakes of the truck failed, sending the vehicle off the road. The couple had been visiting the home of Mrs. Stocker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bailey of Marmora Township. The accident happened only a short distance from that home.

Dr. S. Bailey, coroner, of Madoc, attended. Investigating officers were Provincial Constables J. Hatch and T. Lummiss. An inquest will not be held, it was announced.

Mrs. Stocker was well-known in Marmora, where she had been a member of the staff of the Bell Telephone Company for some time.

Fine weather is reported from all of Ontario. Some cloudiness persists in the northern regions but elsewhere skies are clear. The warm air that caused a minor heat-wave in the midwestern United States reached southwestern Ontario Thursday with a high of 81 reports at Windsor. Thursday night this air swept well into the northwestern part of the province with indications that it will cover all forecast regions by Saturday. Except for this increase in temperature little change in the weather is anticipated.

Forecasts:

Lake Ontario and Haliburton regions — Clear today and Saturday. Warmer Saturday. Light winds.

Summary for Saturday: Clear and warmer.

could be saved daily. He also indicated that further steps might have to be taken.

Need More Power

In Ottawa to discuss the power shortage, Mr. Saunders said restrictions which went into effect Monday were designed to save 1,200,000 kilowatt hours daily. Since then, the Commission had decided an additional 4,200,000 kilowatt hours must be saved daily.

Cutting power to flat rate water heaters will save only 500,000 kilowatt hours, Dr. H. D. Rothwell, administrative assistant for regions of the Ontario Hydro, said in Toronto today. If there were long periods of dull weather 12-hour cut-offs of heater power would be necessary three or four days a week.

The difference between the 500,000 kilowatt hours saved by reducing power to water heaters, and the additional 4,200,000 kilowatt hours which Mr. Saunders says must be saved "must come from voluntary savings on the part of industry and householders," Dr. Rothwell said.

Save 20 Per Cent

Industry which consumed "roughly two-thirds" on Ontario's power, was being asked to save 10 to 20 per cent. The balance of "about 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 kilowatt hours a day must be saved in the home."

Mr. Saunders said today the shortage "hasn't yet reached its peak. It promises to grow progressively worse during the next two or three weeks, which is as far ahead as we can see at the moment. We need weeks of rain."

Toronto weather forecasters said warm ry weather would continue during the week-end. They declined to predict next week's weather, but quoted a forecast, issued by the United States weather bureau at Chicago which predicted an average rain fall of "¼ of an inch or less" for Southern Ontario in the next five days.

Bad Situation

TORONTO, Sept. 17 —(CP)—Forecasts of new, severe power rationing in Ontario were heard today from a Toronto civic hydro commissioner who said the power shortage in Ontario is "much worse" than has so far been made public.

Bert Merson, a member of the local Hydro Commission, told the Toronto District Labor Council (AFL) Thursday night he expected Ontario Hydro Chairman R. S. Saunders Saturday would announce cuts of 20 to 25 per cent in industrial power, calling for a major switch by Ontario industry from daytime to night operation.

Mr. Merson told the Toronto labor body he could not disclose details of the announcement, but he said certain sources of power on which the Ontario commission had been relying were no longer available, and power cuts as high as 20 to 25 per cent of industrial supply will be needed to meet the emergency.

Night Work

A major switch by industry from day to night operations, involving Saturday night and Sunday work, are seen as necessary power-saving measures, Merson added. In such an event industries would be given two mid-week days of idleness.

Following Merson's statement the Toronto Labor Council president, William Jenovese, and Secretary Ford Brand said they saw the possibility of reduction in the take-home pay of industrial workers through power cuts curtailing operations. The Council called on all delegates to urge their union locals to co-operate with industrial management in plans to conserve power.

Study Spy Links

NEW YORK, Sept. 17 — (CP). — The New York Sun said Thursday in a dispatch from Washington that the House of Representatives committee on Un-American activities has for the last three weeks studied evidence relating to links between the Russian spy ring in Canada exposed two years ago and its United States counterpart.

GIVE FINANCIAL REPORT

The Board of Governors of the Civic Hospital were advised Thursday night that the excess of expenditures over revenue to date this year is $10,004.25, of which $1,957.76 is for August. Total expenditures for the month were $34,281.19, with net revenue of $32,323.43. Total expenditures to the end of August are $261,518.30; total net revenue, $251,514.05.

Bernadotte

United Nations General Assembly meeting.

A clandestine radio station reported operating in Jewish-held Haifa issued a fake message that Swedish Gen. Aage Lundstroem, a Bernadotte aide, was murdered in Haifa Thursday and that Bernadotte's plane would be fired on if it landed near Jerusalem.

Bernadotte told reporters he would not be frightened.

Accompanied By Officers

The Count's party was accompanied by high-ranking Arab Legion officers in jeeps. After reaching Jerusalem, the Count alighted to inspect the bullet hole.

He seemed upset and said, "I won't to be shot at either by regulars or irregulars."

An armored car was bringing up the rear of the convoy in which the Count had travelled.

Asked if he had anything to disclose about the object of his latest tour of Arab capitals, Count Bernadotte said he was consulting Arab leaders generally.

The Count later motored to Ardab and Jewish front lines where he was supposed to cross into the Jewish area.

After the Count's arrival in the Arab area two loud explosions shook Jerusalem. The exact location of the explosions was not known but it was learned they were the result of Jewish firing in the Mount Zion sector.

Threat Against Life

PARIS, Sept. 17—(Reuters).—A threat against the life of Count Bernadotte, United Nations mediator killed in Jerusalem today, was made by the Stern gang recently and was reported to United Nations officials here by an American military observer who had just returned from Palestine, it was learned here.

The American consul, John Joseph Macdonald, in Jerusalem, also reported that a Col. Serot, French officer and senior United Nations observer in Jerusalem, was killed at the same time.

ONE MINUTE NEWS ABOUT JOHNS-MANVILLE

Banker Boasts Of Quiet Days

Usually a banker is a pretty conservative man. That's why Johns-Manville was so pleased to get this letter from a bank-vice-president. He writes: "We've had thirty days experience with the Fibretone acoustical ceiling which Johns-Manville installed and can report that it does more to correct our noise problem than you claimed. Our bank is quiet due to Johns-Manville Fibretone — even when it's crowded."

Fibretone, is but one of the many acoustical materials Johns-Manville manufactures to quiet noise in busy offices, factories, stores, restaurants, schools and hospitals.

White Satin Kneeling Cushions Suggested For Weddings

ROSENEATH, Sept. 17—(ENS).—Items of business disposed of or laid over until the October meeting, on the business program at the United church WA meeting on Wednesday afternoon follows: After discussion regarding white satin kneeling cushions for church weddings it was decided on motion that Mrs. J. A. Brown get the material and make them. Owing to the scarcity of flowers it was decided that Mrs. E. Waldie, flower convener, purchase flowers if necessary for the church anniversary services on October 3. Business items laid over until the October meeting regarded a new bedroom suite for the parsonage; discussed rescinding a motion regarding rental of WA dishes, and the purchasing of church calendars.

The treasurer, Mrs. F. Norris, reported expenses for past month $20.90; receipts $37.08 for the same period; the day's receipts $7.45, and a bank balance of $236.12.

The meeting was held in Mrs. Lorne Thackeray's home, the president, Mrs. B. Thackeray presided and Mrs. R. C. White conducted the devotions. The topic was Paul, and the theme, "The Heavenly Vision." Paul's experience on the Damascus road, his conversion, his great works, his suffering, imprisonment and death were developed.

Mrs. Charles Sandercock read the Scripture. Mrs. J. A. Brown had charge of a program as follows: contests by Mrs. F. Derry and Mrs. Ivan Thackeray, readings by Mrs. I. Skuce, Mrs. F. Adams and Mrs. Charles Sandercock.

Three new members were enrolled. A vote of thanks was tendered the hostess who served supper.

Cobourg Lists 3000 Tourists

COBOURG, Sept. 17 — (ENS). — Cobourg Chamber of Commerce tourist office is now back on its fall and winter schedule of hours. During the summer months the office is open from 8.00 a.m. until 8.00 p.m., with the exception of July and August when it remains open until 11.00 p.m. in order to serve the travelling public. With the tourist season over the hours are now from 9.00 a.m. until 5.00 p.m. On Saturday it closes at noon.

Approximately 3,000 tourists were assisted this year in regard to accommodations in hotels, tourist homes and cabins, about the same number as the year before. The office has tourist booklets from all over Canada and it receives a great number of enquiries about where to spend a vacation.

Myth Not Miss Bookseller Learns

COBOURG, Sept. 17 — (ENS). — One school book dealer has this story which helped lighten the strain of looking after the needs of hundreds of school children starting off to school. The dealer was puzzled when a youngster said he had been told to buy a book called "Miss". She racked her brains trying to find out just what the child was after and had him spell it out. It was "M-I-S-S" but the dealer had no such book. Then she spotted a title on the shelf that solved the problem.

"You want "MYTHS" she told the child.

"That's it. I thought the teacher said 'Miss' ", he replied with a grin.

Large Number Jews Said Driven Back

JERUSALEM, Sept. 17—(Reuters).—An Arab spokesman said here today a "large number" of Jews had been repulsed by Arabs in an attack near the Damascus Gate.

The Jews attacked from the Italian hospital but were thrown back after heavy Arab counter fire, he said.

The cries of the Jews as they retreated, he asserted, indicated that their leader had been killed.

Jews Thursday night shelled the old city with 30 flying mines, he added.

MR. AND MRS. SIDNEY HUNTER

Lakefield Couple Marks 58th Wedding Anniversary

LAKEFIELD, Sept. 17—(Special).—Fifty-eight years ago today, Sidney Hunter led Louise Laing to the altar in Smith township, where the wedding ceremony was carried out by the late Rev. W. S. Barker.

Now only two years from their diamond jubilee, the young-in-heart couple are marking that event at their neat white-and-green home in Lakefield. Relatives and friends of the district are helping the well-liked pair to recall that fall day in 1890 with visits and messages of congratulations.

The 86-year-old bride of that day, with a spring in her step and a sparkle in her eyes, it still active in her spotless kitchen, while Mr. Hunter, now 87, busily puts their garden in shape for the winter, after harvesting a good crop of vegetables for the winter.

Both of pioneer stock, the couple were born and have spent their entire lives in the district. He is the son of the late Josiah and Alice Hunter and was born in May, 1861. They have no children, although each came from large families—eight in Mr. Hunter's and 15 in his wife's. Mrs. Hunter is a daughter of the late William and Mary Laing.

After spending his early life on the farm, Mr. Hunter entered the employ of Harry Fitzgerald's hardware store in Lakefield, where he worked for more than 23 years. He has lived in the village for 46 years.

In 69 "Walks"

A staunch member of the Orange and Masonic orders, he joined the LOL at the age of 18. For 69 consecutive years, he took part in the Orange "walk" of the 12th of July. This year he did not feel quite equal to the trip to Cobourg where he had made his first "walk."

The impressive number of "walks" without a miss by Mr. Hunter is believed to be a record.

He explained that, by comparison, his membership in the Masonic order was short. He has belonged to it "only" 45 years.

Mrs. Percy Johnson of Peterborough is the only surviving person who was a guest at the wedding 58 years ago.

Mrs. Hunter's last surviving brother died in Toronto recently at the age of 96. Her mother and father each lived until nearly 90.

Eggs 7 Cents a Dozen

The couple has seen many changes through the year. They recall the days when eggs were seven cents a dozen, cheese a nickel a pound, wheat for 55 cents and oats at 19 cents a bushel. Top wages in those days were 15 cents an hour. To receive 20 cents a dozen for eggs meant riding on the crest of prosperity.

Mechanical inventions have speeded up the tempo of living, they agree, and have brought speeds unthought of in their younger days. However, "the solid values in any society" haven't changed, they continue, and hold that hard work, temperate habits and fair dealings are still the basis of living. To the practise of these principles they attribute their long and happy lives together.

Progressive Ideas

While they will be indulging in the privilege of old age in their reminiscenses of the friends of the old days, both are up-to-the-minute on current affairs and take an active interest in subjects of world politics and village affairs They have seen Lakefield expand from a hamlet to the present thriving community of 1,400.

While they lived to their ripe old ages on well-water, they feel that the increasing size of the population now calls for a more modern system of water distribution and sanitary service.

Visitors to Mr. and Mrs. Hunter find there the spirit of youth combined with the wisdom of age; theirs is the 'good neighbor policy' at its best; a cheerful welcome; an interesting talk; and generous hearts.

Has Right To Keep Repair Garage Sign

TORONTO, Sept. 17.—(CP).—Harry Donald of Whitby, has the right to keep a sign directing motorists to his repair garage, despite objections of Whitby town council. This ruling was made Thursday at Ontario Supreme Court, by Mr. Justice F. H. Barlow.

Notification of appeal was made by W. J. Hare, counsel for Whitby.

A. W. S. Greer, who applied for an order quashing a bylaw on behalf of Donald, said the bylaw was defective because it regulates signs and advertising devices, but there is nothing in it about posting notices."

Lindsay Receives 50,000 Dutch Bulbs

LINDSAY, Sept. 17. — Fifty thousand bulbs of flowers were received from Holland recently by a Lindsay florist firm.

It is the largest shipment ever to have been received in Lindsay from Holland. They are made up of, daffodil, tulip, hyacinth, muscari and crocus bulbs.

Department of Agriculture inspectors have been to the greenhouses to check over the bulbs for disease, which took practically a whole day to carry out.

One proportion of the bulbs will be retained in Lindsay, the remainder of which are going to be shipped to various gardens in other parts of the Dominion.

Rifle Club Plans Winter Program

COBOURG, Sept. 17 — (ENS). — With the nip of fall in the air and summer activities just about laid on the shelf until next year, the boys of the Northumberland Fish and Game Clubs are talking shooting, which takes in hunting, and target practice on the club's indoor range. So large was the attendance at the rifle and revolver shoots last fall and winter, that the new target backstops were pretty well shot to pieces. With good lumber hard to get, the rifle club committee has ordered some bullet traps which a local machine shop will manufacture. The backstop will be repaired in order to catch any stray shots but when the range is re-opened the boys will be firing at the target traps.

Hold Field Day

COBOURG, Sept. 17—(ENS).—Annual field day for the patients and staff of the Ontario hospital was a successful affair. Rex Fleming announced the events and starter was Harold Coates. Field judges were Charles Kennaugh, Harry Gorman and Ralph Lyons. Scorers were Miss Joan Leonard, Miss M. Polson, Miss G. Akers and Miss E. Ralls. Bob Labrash won the ball throwing contest for the male staff. The superintendent. Dr. G. W. Kells, thanked the participants for their interest.

Mark Army Week

COBOURG, Sept 17 — (ENS). — It was announced from the Armouries here yesterday that a week from next Saturday, marking Army Week, a precision drill squad from M.D. No. 3, Kingston, will demonstrate amphibious equipment from 10.30 until 11.30 in the morning. The demonstration will be on Lake Ontario, just off Victoria Park Beach.

PERSONAL FINANCE COMPANY OF CANADA OPENS PETERBOROUGH BRANCH

DALTON R. THOMSON
Manager

Mr. Dalton R. Thomson was born in Arden, Ontario. He attended local schools, graduating from Plevna High School in 1940. He enlisted in the R.C.A.F., serving until his honorable discharge in 1946. He was appointed Assistant Manager of the Company's Kingston Branch in December, 1946. He comes to his new position as Branch Manager with a sincere desire to be of helpful service to all who need loans or financing. He will make his home in Peterborough.

We are pleased to announce the opening for business of the Peterborough Branch office of the Personal Finance Company of Canada. It gives us additional pleasure to announce the appointment of Mr. Dalton R. Thomson as manager.

The Personal Finance Company of Canada has been in business in Canada since 1933. We are grateful to the thousands of satisfied clients since that date who have made possible our steady growth which has resulted in the opening of this Peterborough Branch. We are happy to have the opportunity of serving our neighbors in Peterborough and vicinity with the kind of Personal Loan service that may best be helpful to them.

We welcome applications for loans from any employed person, married or single, or from any one with an income sufficient to permit repayment of a loan. Loans are made in amounts from $50 to $1,500 or more. Repayments are scheduled on a monthly basis to fit the individual's income in reasonable amounts so that they are easy to handle. Loans are made on the following plans to suit individual needs. The various loan plans offered are:

1. Loans to salaried people on signature only.
2. Loans to husband and wife only.
3. Loans with auto as security.
4. Loans with furniture as security.
5. Business fixtures and equipment loans.
6. Farm stock and equipment loans.
7. Financing of autos and other articles with smaller down payments.

Most people will qualify under one of the above plans. It is never necessary to have bankable security to borrow at Personal Finance, and co-signers are seldom required to obtain a loan. Applications are handled in strict confidence and with all possible speed. Making loans and financing purchases is our full-time business and we endeavour to favourably approve every application received by us.

We suggest that if bills are bothering you, or needed medical or dental work should be done or if a loan could be used to advantage right now, that you place your application today in person, by phone, or by mail, and give us an opportunity to serve you. We want to be helpful, and we will listen with respect and attention to your request.

Report On Peterborough's Health

The Annual Report of the Board of Health for 1947 has just reached us, and calls for comment. Some of our readers may think that a 1947 report is old news; we do not agree. Not all news ages at the same rate. A fire which took place on Wednesday is old news, but a city's health is a subject so large in scope and so slow in change that a 1947 report is the latest news on the subject available. The report which we have at hand is good news, considered as a whole. Infant deaths and deaths of mothers in childbirth are reduced once again. Stillbirths were few, and it is suggested in the report that they would have been fewer still if the best use had been made of the medical advice which the city affords. Death from cancer was slightly decreased, also, but the report contains a melancholy rider to the effect that two-thirds of the deaths which were caused by this disease might have been avoided if medical advice had been sought earlier. As always, the report suggests that the education of the public is the first step toward health; the fear of acknowledging a disease or an ailment must be overcome if medical aid is to be given in time. The Board of Health wages a psychological war, as well as a strictly medical one.

* * *

The plan of the Board of Health to take over the health services in the city's schools appears to be at a standstill. We can understand the reluctance of the Board of Education to let this service pass from its control. At present the Board of Education runs its own health service, and it is a good one, with nurses, a physician and a dentist to carry it out. This health service is one of the most longstanding arrangements of its kind in Ontario, and the Board of Education is justly proud of it. The Board of Education spends what it considers necessary on this service, and the City Council has no control over its expenditures. But if the school health plan were to come under the control of the Board of Health it would then be subject to the caprices of aldermen who — without any knowledge of school health arrangements—decided that the estimates of the Board of Health should be cut. It is not unknown for the Council to trim Board of Health estimates sharply; the Board of Education does not want its excellent plan curtailed, nor does it want its nurses included among—and perhaps made indistinguishable from—the nurses in the employ of the Board of Health. In time, no doubt, this difficulty will be overcome, but for the present we think that the Board of Education is wise to be cautious.

Last Link With Gilbert And Sullivan

The death of Rupert D'Oyly Carte at the age of seventy-one breaks the last important link with Gilbert and Sullivan and the great days of the Savoy operas. He was the son of Richard D'Oyly Carte, the impresario who brought the great collaborators together and who kept them together, in spite of many difficulties, during the time when they brought forth their charming creations. A great deal of sentimental nonsense has been written about Gilbert and Sullivan, as though their operettas reflected their characters in entirety; the fact was that both men were of difficult temperament, and if it had not been for D'Oyly Carte they would never have worked together; indeed, so gifted did the business man of the triumvirate become at soothing ruffled feelings that he won the somewhat unjust nickname of "Oily Carte" in Victorian theatrical circles.

Richard D'Oyly Carte was first attracted by the ability which W. S. Gilbert revealed as a librettist, and he asked him to prepare something which could be set by Sullivan, who was already well known as a composer of church music. Gilbert wrote Trial By Jury, and read it to Sullivan in D'Oyly Carte's presence. Sullivan was delighted, although Gilbert was at his most disagreeable, and the new piece appeared as a curtain-raiser before Offenbach's La Perichole on March 25, 1875. The story of the succeeding collaboration is well known, but it was always difficult to keep Gilbert and Sullivan together, for Gilbert had a very bitter tongue, and disliked what he considered Sullivan's effeminate ways, whereas Sullivan thought that he should be composing oratorios and church pieces, instead of wasting time in a theatre with a boor like Gilbert. Between them, taking the blows (and a considerable part of the cash) stood Richard D'Oyly Carte.

His son, Rupert, succeeded his father in 1912 as literal owner of the Gilbert and Sullivan operas, the royalties from which brought him a great sum annually. He was also a principal shareholder in the Savoy Hotel, in the Berkeley hotel, and in Claridge's hotel. Not a note could be sung of the famous operettas without his written permission, and although he was generous in his attitude toward amateur performances he would permit no tinkering with the text or the music. When the copyright of the operettas expired a few years ago a deluge of 'hot' Mikados and 'swung' Pinafores arose in the U.S.A., but the D'Oyly Carte tradition—an extremely sound and tasteful one—is still maintained in the company which bears his name.

Candidates For P.C. Leadership: Hon. George Drew

Second on the alphabetical list of possible candidates for the leadership of the Progressive Conservative Party is the name of the Hon. George Alexander Drew, K.C., LL.D., Premier of Ontario. Premier Drew has not announced that he will be a candidate, but no one doubts that his name will be on the ballot at the Progressive Conservative National Convention to be held in Ottawa at the end of the month. He will be supported by a strong Ontario party group; he will probably receive support from Maritime delegates, and there are rumours of an agreement which will give him the support of the Quebec delegates — rumours which appear to be confirmed by the announcement of Mr. Ivan Sabourin, Quebec P.C. leader, that he favours Mr. Drew's candidacy for the leadership.

Premier Drew was born in Guelph, Ontario, in 1894, and was educated there and in Toronto; he was attending the University of Toronto when the First Great War broke out, and he left to enlist. He was severely wounded in 1916 and invalided home. Four years later he began his political career in a manner familiar in Canadian public life, by being elected alderman in his native city, later becoming mayor. In 1929 he was appointed Ontario Securities Commissioner, holding the post until 1934, when he resigned. He again turned to politics, was defeated by the Hon. Earl Rowe for leadership of the Provincial Conservative Party, and was also defeated as an Independent Conservative in the riding of Wellington South. At the Conservative convention of 1938, Mr. Drew was elected leader; he was elected to the Ontario Legislature in a 1939 by-election at Simcoe East. He was elected member for High Park in the Provincial general election of 1943, when he first led the party to power, and again in 1945, losing his seat there in this year's election.

A successful lawyer, Premier Drew is one of the most fluent and impressive speakers heard in Ontario political life in recent years. He is an able parliamentary leader, whether sitting in Government or Opposition benches, and has proved himself a sound administrator. His record as a political strategist shows a few reverses, but it also reveals a number of impressive victories against formidable opposition. He is a man of commanding presence, and a shrewd and quick-witted debater. Married, and the father of two children, he is a member of the Church of England.

Premier George Drew is the only Progressive Conservative leader of proven ability in Canadian political life today. His personal defeat in this year's Provincial general election does not detract from his outstanding record as political leader and administrator — a record which has made him the pre-convention favourite to succeed John Bracken as national leader of the Progressive Conservative Party.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A writer notes with approval that some European restaurants allow their customers to take a nap after a meal. Our restaurants allow time for that between the taking of the order and the arrival of the soup.

The appearance of Ingrid Bergman in a film about Joan of Arc has started a craze for "Maid of Orleans haircuts, gloves, nightgowns and sweaters", says a movie blurb. Of course Joan was also celebrated for her chastity, common sense and piety, but so far there has been no wild rush to imitate her in these respects.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column, particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

QUESTION: I see Wolseley Street spelt in no less than three ways on local street signs: 'Wolsey', 'Wolsley' and 'Wolseley'. How should the darned thing be spelt?

ANSWER: Not the Cardinal, Wolsey; not Colonel (later Sir and Lord) Garnet Wolseley; but Wolsley, according to the Peterborough Directory. The street is in the north and long-established end of the city, so the name dates from the nineteenth century, I presume. There may have been a local family of that name in whose honour the street was named, but I suspect that it was named after Sir Garnet Wolseley, and that as the years mounted, we showed a typical disregard for history by changing the spelling to 'Wolsley'. Colonel Wolseley was commander of the British-Canadian expedition that went to the Red River in 1870 to quell the Riel Rebellion. He later was in command of the expedition that undertook too late to relieve Gordon at Khartoum. He finally became Commander-in-Chief of the British Army. He died in 1913.

QUESTION: If a mad dog bites a person, will that person go mad?

ANSWER: Hydrophobia or rabies is a disease communicated to man by the saliva of a rabid dog entering a wound or abrasion of the skin. The bite of a mad dog would therefore be dangerous. So would a mad cat's, wolf's, fox's and jackal's, but 90 per cent. of rabies in humans has been contracted from dogs. The incubation period of the disease is from two weeks to many months, long after the wound has healed. As the disease progresses the patient has increasingly severe paroxysms. He has constant difficulty in breathing, accompanied with a peculiar sonorous expiration, which has suggested the notion that the patient barks like a dog. The disease runs its horrible course to death in two or three days. Pasteur discovered a treatment for rabies in 1885. There are now few deaths from the infection. The Governor-General of Canada from 1818-19, the Duke of Richmond, died as a result of a cut on his chin which he allowed his (unsuspectedly) rabid dog to lick. That was in August 1819.

FURTHER REVELATIONS on last week's question: "Did Peterborough have a Negro mayor?"....I am still doubtful about this matter, though old rumours, hearsay and double-edged references in Dr. Poole's 'History of Peterborough' of 1867, in another History of the County published in Toronto in 1884, and in the late F. H. Dobbin's 'Our Old Home Town', incline me to believe that Peterborough did have a negro mayor for a few days in the 1850's. A scandalous affair like this would be hushed up, particularly when it points to either corruption or slothfulness in municipal politics. That may be the reason for my difficulty in tracking-down the evidence.

The story as I have been able to learn it is this. At municipal election time in either 1851, 1852, or 1853, (it was a year not long after the town of Peterborough's incorporation), a small group of rebels against the Stevenson store group decided to teach a lesson to that clique which dominated the town's affairs. With some connivance from the town clerk (who must have had his own grievance), the rebels held an official nomination meeting and put up the name of a negro then living in the community. I have heard his name variously as "Nigger Hotter", "Big Black Sam" and "Southern Sam". He had come up from the United States to escape slavery. Only the rebels were present at this official nomination meeting. No other names were put forward. Therefore the negro became mayor. Within an hour the scandal spread hotter than Nigger Hotter through the community. But it took two days to declare, somehow or other, his election unconstitutional. The negro was never sworn in, and Charles Hudson (1851), or James Hall (1852), or Charles Perry (1853) became mayor.

That is the story as I have been able to piece it together. It is entirely plausible. Run-away slaves were pouring into Canada at the time. Elections were free and easy, or rambunctious and corrupt (see Poole's History, the account of the election of 1841 of Dr. Gilchrist to the Legislative Assembly). There was no secret ballot. Municipal politics, between 1850 and 1860, according to Mr. Dobbin's account, were all discussed and settled in James Stevenson's store by a clique of twenty or thirty....If any of my readers have further details I shall be glad to have them. Another version of the story has come to my ears too late for inclusion this week. I hope to have it sifted out shortly and to present the pure kernels to my readers soon.

WHERE did the St .Lawrence River get its name? Was it called after ancestors of Mr. St. Laurent, the new Liberal leader?

ANSWER: The St. Lawrence (in French, St. Laurent) derives its name from a bay where Cartier found shelter on the tenth of August—the feast day of St. Lawrence. It is quite possible that Mr. St. Laurent's ancestors took their family name from the river.

QUESTIONS: (1) Is Peterborough able to receive F. M. radio broadcasting at present? (2) The other night I heard Jim Hunter say that thieves 'relieved' a bank of so much money. Now what kind of 'relief' is that?

ANSWERS: (1) Yes, daily, if you can tune in to the Provincal Police station on the Chemong Road or to the office of the taxi company which operates "radio" cabs. Both broadcast by Frequency Modulation. If you are an ordinary civilian there is no use in your buying an F.M. receiver for a while yet, since there is no F.M. broadcasting station nearer than Toronto, and that is too far away. (2) 'Relieve' means literally 'to raise again', i.e. to assist (re-levare is the Latin, the same root as 'levis'—light). You can relieve a town that is besieged, relieve a tooth that is aching, relieve a guard on sentry duty, relieve the needy. You can (ha! ha!) relieve a man of his gold watch and chain. So I suppose that thieves can relieve a bank of its money, which may be a funny—ha ha—operation, or a social duty if the bank is burdened down with money and needs relief. It depends on whether your Jim Hunter thinks banks are a joke or a social menace.

THE OLD CAMPAIGNER

Ignorance Of Canada

"ONE of Canada's chief grouses is that many people in Britain and most Americans are entirely ignorant of her geography and way of life," says Mr. Punch's special correspondent in a recent issue of that inimitable publication under the title of "An Innocent in Canada".

The correspondent goes on to say that the Americans, it seems, "have the most fantastic notions about their northern neighbours, visualize them as a gang of semi-civilized nomads, Red Indians and poor whites, scraping for edible mosses in the perpetual snows of the tundra.

"I am told," the correspondent impishly continues, "that Yankee tourists sometimes arrive in Winnipeg for their midsummer holidays lavishly equipped with furs and ski-boots and prepared to exist solely on pemmican and old boot-laces."

While we have plenty of American friends who know better, it is a fact that this great country of ours needs a campaign of enlightenment abroad to tell the world what an up-and-coming place Canada really is.

One real effort in this direction to come to our notice is a fine little publication, called "Canada Today", recently published by the Bank of Montreal. It is a pocket-sized brochure of 10 pages copiously illustrated. It tells, with an amazing number of facts—and not too many figures—the story of Canada, her resources and her people.

Here is an immensely readable story of Canada which shows this country as living on a standard to all intents and purposes the same as that of the United States—as a country which has made major contributions to industrial, scientific and cultural advancement—a country of almost unlimited resources and an industrial output that has trebled in value since 1939.

FOR THE RECORD: There were 6,821 dwellings, 1,479 apartments and 100 houses under construction in Peterborough at the end of 1947. It is of interest that 4,143 of the houses were owned by the occupants. It is also interesting, considering the 1,479 apartments, that there is only one apartment building built as such. That is the Bradburn apartment block on north George Street, which contains nine apartments. The figure of 1,479 apartments does not include the hundreds of two-room makeshifts, attics and the like in which families are condemned to live without benefit of private kitchens, bathrooms and hallways. The Charlbond Apartments on Charlote Street are often thought to be an original apartment block. They are not: they were carved from the old Snowden House hotel.

HER LAST CHANCE

As often happens when a woman is approaching forty, Miss Robinson was "about twenty-eight", and not without hope. Even her favourite fortune-teller couldn't see a suitor in the offing, but was anxious to keep a customer.

"Ha!" she said, her eyes on the crystal. "I see a tall man. He's going to propose to you."

"Dark?" fluttered the excited client.

"Yes," said the fortune-teller. "Dark it will have to be."

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And by the hands of the apostles were many signs and wonders wrought among the people; (and they were all with one accord in Solomon's porch....And believers were the more added to the Lord, multitudes both of men and women.)....

There came also a multitude out of the cities round about Jerusalem, bringing sick folks, and them which were vexed with unclean spirits: and they were healed every one (Acts 5: 12, 14, 16.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Then Philip went down to the city of Samaria, and preached Christ unto them. And the people with one accord gave heed unto those things which Philip spake, hearing and seeing the miracles which he did. For unclean spirits, crying with loud voice, came out of many that were possessed with them: and many taken with palsies, and that were lame, were healed.

And there was great joy in that city. (Acts 8: 5-8.)

Letter To The Editor

REPLIES TO MR. SELF

Sir: I would also appreciate the privilege of space in your press, in order that I may clear up the wrong impressions that some of my fellow workers at Outboard Marine may have, with regard to statements made by myself to the press on Friday, September 10, 1948.

I flatly deny that I made any statement about 600 men being involved in an hour-long fight at our Union Meeting at the Legion Hall in Peterborough on September 9, 1948.

It would be well if Mr. K. Self would give particular attention to the story carried by the Peterborough Examiner, and he would, I am sure, find that this paper maintains that I made no such statement to them, but that the story of my having done so, was from Toronto sources. These sources I charge with having made a mis-statement of facts, in so far as the 600-man fight is concerned.

It has been, and still is, a pleasure and a privilege to represent my fellow workers at Outboard Marine in their Independent Union. I should like to say at this time, that I never have, at any time, resorted to slander or vilification of any one of our members. The statement I made still stands, that the U.E. did, through its members, disorganize our meeting, so that the business of voting could not be carried out in a democratic manner, and this was brought about by hoodlum tactics.

LIONEL EDMONDS,
Chairman of the Negotiating Committee,
Independent Outboard Marine Workers' Union.

Man Convicted Of Robbery With Violence

WHITBY, Sept. 17—(CP)—Jack Siroski of Hamilton, identified by Cecil Bonnetta as the man who struck him and grabbed a bag containing $8,000 in a daring daylight robbery in Oshawa last Aug. 16, was convicted Thursday of robbery with violence.

Two Crown witnesses, including the accountant, Cecil Bonnetta, had named Siroski as the man who grabbed the bag and jumped into a waiting automobile. He will be sentenced tomorrow morning.

Siroski maintained his innocence when asked by Mr. Justice J. L. Wilson to give the court some account of his background and career. His record, read to the court, includes a penitentiary term for breaking, entering and theft, and two jail breaks during the past ten years.

Siroski, who did not testify in his own behalf, claimed that "when I was picked up in Hamilton I hadn't even any clothes. If I'd had this money I'd have had a better defense. I can truthfully state I wasn't in on it."

"You have had a fair trial and the jury has convicted you upon evidence on which I would not have hesitated to find you guilty, had I been trying the case alone," Mr. Justice Wilson told him.

Addressing the judge in low tones, Siroski claimed that his common-law wife at Hamilton was to blame and that "this is her way of trying to get rid of me. The reason I'm here today is because I knew Wasni (Frank Wasni, shot by a Hamilton detective while evading arrest), and I met him through her."

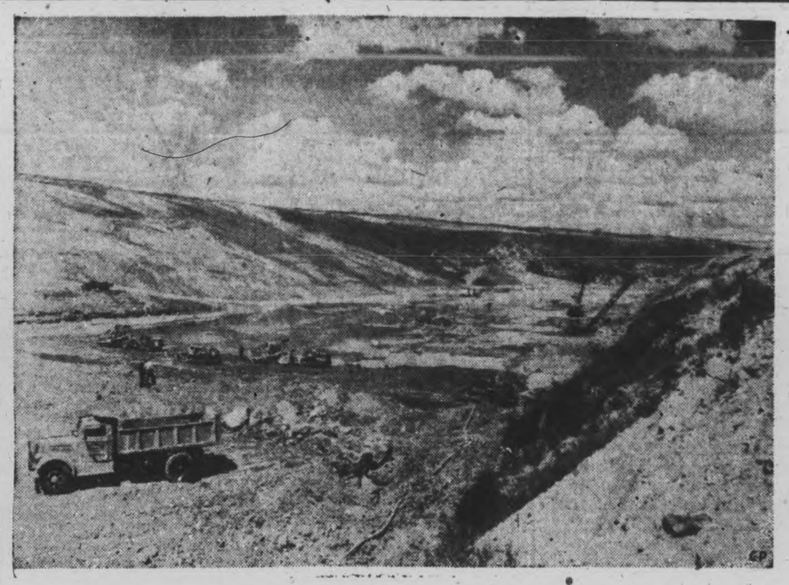
Introduces Plan

As court opened defense counsel W. R. Hobson introduced a plan of the robbery scene prepared by a mechanical draughtsman, which purported to show the distance between the robbery scene and the point from which Mrs. Scott observed the bandits. No other defense evidence was called, and in his address to the jury counsel stressed that the witnesses had not given the court a detailed description of Siroski's features.

Summing up the prosecution, Crown Attorney Alex Hall asked the jurors: "Is it possible that both Mrs. Scott and Bonnetta would identify Siroski in the police lineup if he were not the man they saw?"

"Yes, it is. Bonnetta was shown a picture," Siroski interjected.

In his lengthy statement after the jury returned its verdict, Siroski asserted he had kept out of trouble for the past two years and avoided contact with criminals. He told the judge: "You have been fair with me, Your Honor." Mr. Justice Wilson replied: "I have sympathy for you, but not the mollycoddling type of sympathy."



WORKING VIRTUALLY ROUND-THE-CLOCK, over a hundred men keep a $600,000 battery of monstrous power machinery roaring at the largest earth fill ever attempted in Canada. Located on the St. Mary River, 30 airline miles southwest of Lethbridge, Alta., is the St. Mary dam site, part of a $20,000,000 irrigation scheme being developed to irrigate 513 acres of southern Alberta farmland. It will require 3,500,000 cubic yards of clay, 1,000,000 cubic yards of gravel, 90,000 cubic yards of screened sand and 50,000 cubic yards of rock to build the dam, 186 feet high, and 2,640 feet wide.

Planes Landing in Berlin Every 2 Minutes

FRANKFURT, Sept. 17 — (AP). — The air between west Germany and Berlin is so full of planes these days it takes a feat of aerial juggling to keep them from hitting each other.

There is a plane load of food or fuel landing in the blockaded, divided city every couple of minutes —day and night, rain or shine.

The task of keeping these aircraft safely apart is one that makes the job of a train dispatcher look simple by comparison.

The hazards are obvious. Yet so far, after 81 days of supplying Berlin's western sectors by air, "operation vittles" has cost only one aerial collision and two other fatal accidents.

This record was achieved only by careful planning and close cooperation between the British and American air forces. Together they have worked out a complicated aerial traffic plan by which more than 600 big, heavily-loaded planes are brought safely into two Berlin airports every day.

Since the Russians cut Berlin's land and water supply routes from the west last June, British and American planes have flown in more than 200,000 tons of supplies to Berlin in more than 41,000 flights.

100 in Air At Once

The Americans have 182 planes and the R.A.F. more than 100 planes in the "vittles" operation, and there are often nearly 100 of them in the air simultaneously.

All this traffic moves over the Russian zone along three aerial highways, called corridors. Two of these lanes lead into Berlin. The other takes the empty planes back to western Germany.

This keeps all traffic moving in the same direction in each of the aerial corridors and thus cuts down the danger of collision.

But the solution of this gigantic puzzle is not so simple as that. Each corridor is further divided into several traffic lanes — each lane at a different altitude. In these lanes the traffic is staggered so as to provide the greatest possible distance between all planes. The craft are so spaced that they not only fly at least 15 minutes apart in each altitude level but at least three minutes in front or behind the nearest plane at any level.

This intricate pattern requires perfect co-ordination between several airfields and an almost foolproof system of radio beams to keep planes from straying off their path.

Saves Nephew Trapped By Fire

TORONTO, Sept. 17—(CP).—With a water-soaked blanket over his shoulders Reginald Luckey, 24, Thursday night rescued his six-year-old nephew Carman Sargent from fire in a basement storage room near the child's home on Grange Avenue.

The youngster was playing in the storage room when the fire broke out. A neighbor's boy heard the child screaming and gave the alarm.

Firemen said they believed that children had set fire to a pile of paper while playing with matches.

CCF To Decide Move In Algoma

TORONTO, Sept. 17 — (CP). — C.C.F. and Social Credit Associations in Algoma East Federal constituency will meet this week to discuss whether or not they will oppose Lester B. Pearson, newly-appointed External Affairs Minister, in the Oct. 25 by-election. The Progressive-Conservative party announced Wednesday it would not enter a candidate.

Officials at Ontario C.C.F. headquarters here said the executive of Algoma East C.C.F. Association will meet Sunday to discuss whether the party will enter a candidate.

John J. Fitzgerald, of Blind River, president of the Ontario Social Credit League said recently the Social Credit organization will have a candidate in the field if "a representative group of electors" make it clear at a meeting Friday that they will support the Social Credit program.

C.C.F. headquarters here said Thursday reports that the C.C.F. had decided to enter the election were "unofficial."

J. W. Noseworthy, C.C.F. organizer, said here Thursday night "there is no good reason why we should accede to an acclamation in Algoma East."

Fall Planting Of Deciduous Shrubs

By DEAN HALLIDAY

ALL the woody, deciduous shrubs can be transplanted in the fall, either as their leaves take on color or after they have dropped to the ground.

If the plants are lifted before the leaves have "turned," or dropped, they will lose a greater amount of water from their leaves through transpiration than their exposed roots can compensate for in water intake.

Lilac bushes should always be moved in the fall instead of the spring, since it is one of the earliest shrubs to leaf out.

Privets, honeysuckles, mock-oranges, deutzias, viburnums—and many more—are in the class of deciduous shrubs which can be transplanted within a few weeks. Most of them are vigorously growing shrubs which rarely give difficulty in transplanting.

Care should be taken to keep shrubs from drying out after they have been laid out for planting. Plants received from a nursery should be kept damp and in a cool, sheltered place. When unwrapped and laid out for planting cover the roots with wet burlap to keep them moist, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

When setting shrubs in a foundation planting, do not make the mistake of setting them too close to the house. The projecting eaves tend to keep the soil close to the house dry, thus making it difficult for the plants' roots to grow. Make it a rule to keep roots well away from a foundation wall, as illustrated.

If you are purchasing shrubs for fall planting, select healthy plants rather than merely large ones. Stock which is medium-sized is easier to handle and will out-grow large-sized shrubs within two or three years.

Do not accept shrubs which have poor root system. Instead, insist upon an abundance of fibrous roots. If the roots of some of the shrubs are too long and straggly for convenience in planting they can be pruned back.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Orillia and the Petes tee off at nine tonight in Miller Bowl, third of their best-of-five OLA senior "B" semi-finals. Each has won one to date and tonight's tilt is plenty important. Likely a whopping big crowd if the weather is good. By the way, a district resort owner was saying the other day that he regularly brings in up to a dozen U.S. tourists for these Friday fixtures and the Americans go for the gutted-stick game in a large way. So much so that one of them will be present tonight, having come all the way back up from Pittsburg! Sent word that he might get in a day's fishing but definitely wanted to see the lacrossers go. He certainly is a long-distance fan, eh?

* * * * * *

Yes, we borrow a lot of sports from the States, but the Yankees also borrow a number of Canuck games. They like our hockey, lacrosse and softball, to mention some. Particularly hockey which is rapidly becoming an athletic industry across the line. It is played now from top to bottom and coast to coast, though there are a lot of blank spots in some of the warmer states. This rugged winter sport is stealing the thunder from basketball, but the cage game is plenty popular yet among colleges and high schools. Baseball, of course, remains the big American game most of the year as climatic conditions there are ideal for this outdoor spectacle.

* * * * * *

Mayfairs And Petes

Toronto Mayfairs play the Petes at three tomorrow aft in Riverside Park to open their best-of-five OBA senior "A" semi-finals. Second game details will be arranged after this opener here. Mayfairs, now leading the West Toronto senior championship series, were runners-up to Staffords, but the latter were ousted by the OBA for failure to pay a $100 debt. Bill McBratney is Mayfairs' ace hurler, and Andy Kowalik and Archie Minarsky a couple of the top clouters on the club. Ed Murphy has Whitehill, Edger and Loucks available for mound duty here on the morrow and it should be a fine diamond playoff before a hefty gallery.

* * * * * *

Another contest of interest tomorrow aft is the PWSU junior playoff betwixt Toronto DuVals and Ashby's lasses in the Bowl at 2.30. Third game there, if necessary, in the evening. DuVals edged out a 1-0 verdict to open the two-of-three series in Toronto on Wednesday in a real thriller. Swell pitching and fielding on both sides with the homesters lucky enough to grab the victory. Ashby's will be hustling every minute in this second struggle and stand a good chance of tying it up. Tonight at seven there, Lock Co. and Lindsay tangle.

* * * * * *

Well, Well And Well!

A real king-size upset was registered by Bucko McDonald's battling Huntsville lacrossers when they ousted the strong Oshawa squad three games to one in their OLA senior "B" semi-final series. Took 'em 14-4 in the last game in Huntsville with a fighting display and Goalie Tunney was reported to have "stopped shots with his elbows, knees and eyebrows!" The mighty Motor Citizens, who had their sights set for Peterborough — and really figured they'd take the title this year—were shaken to the core and outfought. Local officials, players and fans were surprised, too, as they thought Oshawa a shoo-in to make the finals. But it'll be Huntsville against the Orillia-Petes' winner now for the championship. If the Hydro-less teams have to do it with lanterns!

* * * * * *

Peterborough Hockey Club holds a meeting at eight p.m. Tuesday in the YMCA, open to officers and players of last year, plus prospective players for the Petes of the 1948-49 season. But not a general open meeting, as this will be held at a later date to elect officers, etc. The Tuesday huddle is just to get a general idea of what the club wants to do this coming puck campaign. No doubt the Petes will return to OHA senior "B" company and should play home games in the new Civic Arena if suitable arrangements can be made. Legionnaires, also slated for senior "B", had one players' meeting recently and soon will be calling a general session.

He Has Some Doubts

Speaking of the proposed grid group of Trenton, Picton, RCAF and Cobourg—with Belleville a possibility—Scribe Carver of Bella Villa wonders aloud where such centres as Trenton, Picton and the RCAF will get enough worthy intermediate players to give Cobourg a game. And adds that there is no possibility of Belleville fielding a good squad. But we understand that Kingston will be entering a club instead of Picton, and it might be that the Fliers could come up with a fair team. Whole setup at the moment appears a bit shaky but may steady away ere autumn sets in.

4-Game Football Card Is Served

B The Canadian Press.

The scattered schedules football has adopted to get its season over before too much snow flies sometimes gets even the players dizzy wondering to talk about the last game or the one coming up.

This week-end is one of the quieter ones from a quantity standpoit, with none of the Big Four's Saturday-Sunday doubleheaders, the Ontario Union's Friday floodlight games or the Western Canada League's Saturday-Monday contests.

But the four games scheduled for Saturday in the three Grey Cup leagues get top billing for quality. In the West, for instance, the last - place Saskatchewan Roughriders will be virtually fighting for a playoff chance when they tackle the second-place Blue Bombers at Winnipeg.

The ORFU's two games should give a lineup on comparative strength of league's four teams. Sarnia Imperials, who lost their first start 8-2 to Toronto Beaches Indians, meet Hamilton Tigers at Hamilton, while the Beaches Indians travel to Windsor to play the Rockets.

In Serious Condition

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17 (AP) —Bill (Chicken) Thompson, 21-year-old Philadelphia heavyweight, was reported in serious condition after being knocked out in a fight with Johnny Haynes of New York. Thompson was rushed to hospital Thursday night when he remained in a dazed condition after his knockout by Haynes, three seconds before the end of their scheduled eight-round bout at Toppi Stadium.

Three Games Start Off Loop

The local public school junior soccer league played three games Thursday afternoon, one in the south and two in the north section.

King Edward juniors failed to get combination working; while S. Pierton, at centre half for Confederation made the openings for Strickland and Rose to register. N. Johnston got the only counter for King Edward making it read 2-1.

Confederation—M. Parr, goal; P. Wright and G. McIntosh, full backs; S. Heard, S. Pierton and P. Chesher, half backs; J. Rose, D. Sloan, B. Bryan, B. Floyd and G. Strickland, forwards; Subs—J. Goldie, H. Hele, T. Manley, R. Jones, D. Mein, G. Lutman and J. MacDonald.

King Edward—V. Smyth, goal; R. Butcher and R. Kesting, full backs; G. Pagett, P. Dugan and J. Smith, half backs; D. Sutherland, J. Sutherland, A. Curtis, A. MacArthur and N. Johnston, forwards; Subs—J. Phillips, G. Hunt, R. Halcrow, A. Phillips, F. Rasar.

Referee—Mr. Cunningham.

Queen Alex Wins

Through lack of experience, Queen Elizabeth had to concede the decision to Queen Alexandra by the score of thrre to nil in an excellent contest.

Queen Elizabeth — J. Elliott, goal; R. Smith and C. McMillan, full backs; C. Medland, W. Whitnell and R. Ward, half backs; H. Smith, R. Bedford, J. Johnston, P. Davis and B. Gallagher, forwards; Sub—A. Medland.

Queen Alexandra—J. Pearson, goal; D. Lang and J. Northey, full backs; D. Cooke, B. McKinney and G. Dack, half backs; T. Lane, B. Witton, M. Weir, R. McFadden and D. Ham, forwards; Subs—S. Kingdon, B. Bruce, B. Cruickshanks.

Referee—Mr. Hill.

Queen Mary Victors

Central had Queen Mary juniors as their guests at Central grounds, and after three minutes of play T. Roberts dribbled his way to goal to register the only goal. Central missed two excellent chances to score from foul kicks in the second half.

Central—D. Dye, goal; G. Butcher and J. Heffernan, full backs; P. Parnell, H. Gibbs and C. Trennan, half backs; R. Gardner, R. Gray, S. Brooks, P. Brown and W. Turner, forwards; Sub—R. Martyn.

Cobourg Wins In Tournament

By HERB MARTIN

With the playing of the open trebles tournament on Thursday morning and afternoon the Peterborough Ladies' Lawn Bowling Club closed their season, that is as far as open tournaments are concerned.

It was an ideal day for bowling, and besides many local rinks, there were rinks from Kingston, Belleville, Cobourg, Port Hope and Oshawa.

The tournament commenced around 10 a.m. One game was played before the lunch hour and two afterward.

There were six sets of prizes awarded, the first and sixth going to the Cobourg ladies — the other four remaining with the local ladies.

Many of the men who saw the games during the day remarked that they thought the bowling, in general, was well above the average.

The tournament was all over around 7.30 o'clock.

Winners

1st—Cobourg: Mrs. J. Stewart, Mrs. E. Hillion, Mrs. J. Harrison (skip).

Red Sox Lead Cut to Game Bow to Browns by 3 to 1

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Those poor little St. Louis Browns who sold their stars to Boston for some $375,000 are biting the hand that fed them.

Thursday night's nibble, a 3-1 Red Sox loss, reduced Boston's American League lead to one game over New York.

A lean, willowy gent by the name of Cliff Fannin did the most damage.

Boston went into the game, knowing that the runner-up New York Yankees had divided an afternoon double-header at Detroit. If they won they would pick up a half game. Instead they were victimized by Fannin's magic and again have that nervous feeling that somebody is shoving from behind.

Fannin shut out the Red Sox until the ninth when he ran into trouble. Then an old Bostonian, Eddie Pellacrini, whom Joe Cronin had "tossed in" when he bought Kramer and Stephens, saved him with a leaping stab of a line drive.

Close Gap

Cleveland took advantage of Boston's loss to close the gap between first and third place to 2½ games. The Tribe handed Washington its 16th straight loss 6-3 on a five-run first inning that included a bases-loaded homer by Larry Doby.

Doby, the Indians' brilliant negro outfielder, came through with his first grand-slam homer after Parnell loaded the bases through wildness. He walked in one run before Doby connected.

The Yankees missed a chance to tie Boston for the lead by losing the first game at Detroit, 2-1. They saved the second, 8-4, overcoming an early Tiger lead.

Freddie Hutchinson outpitched Vic Raschi in the opener with a four-hitter. Yielding only one run —the 300th homer of Joe DiMaggio's major league career. DiMag became the eighth slugger to attain such slugging fame, the others are Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig Jimmy Foxx, Mel Ott, Rogers Hornsby, Hank Greenberg and Chuck Klein.

Help Yanks

Johnny Lindell's two-run pinch double in the seventh and Joe Page's two-run triple to deep centre helped the Yanks come from behind to take the second from Dizzy Trout. Page who replaced starter Allie Reynolds in the fifth, earned his fifth victory.

The league-leading Boston Braves were idle in the National League so the runner-up Pittsburgh Pirates and third-place Brooklyn Dodgers each gained a half-game.

Pittsburgh fanned its hopes by walloping New York, 10-6, but they still trail the Braves by 4½ games with time fast running out.

Brooklyn slugged Cincinnati, 12-6, their 18th win in 22 starts against the Reds. They now trail the Braves by five games.

Hank Sauer hammered a bases-loaded homer in the first, but the Dodgers came back with three runs and continued to bang away all afternoon.

Bears Knock Off Syracuse 3-1

By The Associated Press

Montreal Royals and Newark Bears are in a position today to march into the final round of the International League's Shaughnessy play-offs.

Victories tonight won't put the Royals and Bears into the finals but it will give both of them a commanding lead in their semi-final series.

The Bears, who knocked off Syracuse Chiefs 3-1 Thursday night to take a 2-1 edge in the best-of-seven series, meet the Chiefs again tonight. The Royals, leading Rochester Red Wings 2-0 in their set, clash with the Wings for the first time in Rochester tonight.

By winning, both the Bears and Royals would assume a usually-insurmountable 3-1 lead. On the other hand, victories by either Rochester or Syracuse would shoot them back into contention.

Dick Starr, ace right-hander of the Bears, scattered eight hits in stopping the Chiefs Thursday night. The Bears jumped on Dixie Howell for all their runs in the opening inning.

DiMaggio Gets 300th Homer In Tiger Game

DETROIT, Sept. 17 (AP)—Joe DiMaggio, siege-gun centre fielder of New York Yankees, may not be able to slug the Yanks home in front of the raging Boston Red Sox but the Yankee clipper already has cemented a notable personal achievement for his 1948 efforts.

Joltin' Joe, belting the ball at a long-range clip second only to his banner sophomore season in 1937, tday celebrated his entry into the exclusive "300-homer" club, an elite group of present and former slugging stars who belted 300 home runs in the major leagues.

DiMaggio rifled his 36th homer of the current season Thursday as the Yanks were dividing a twin bill with Detroit Tigers. It was his 300th home run in 10 years with the Yanks.

The blow, off Freddie Hutchinson, didn't prevent the Yankees from losing the opener 2-1, but it propelled Joe into some mighty select company.

Kingpin of them all, of course, was Babe Ruth, who slammed 714 in his 22 years in the big time. Jimmy Foxx rang the bell for 527 homers in 19 seasons, Mel Ott had 511 for 21 years and Lou Gehrig hit 494 in his 17 campaigns.

Completing the list are Hank Greenberg (331), Rogers Hornsby (302) and Church Klein (300) and DiMaggio (300).

Flam Giant-Killer Of Tennis Tournament

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 17 (AP)—Herbie Flam, 19-year-old collegian from Beverly Hills, Calif., has established himself as the giant-killer of the United States National tennis championships.

Ranked no better than 20th, the former junior champion was firmly entrenched in the semi-finals today with only three other Americans still in the running for the men's singles title.

Flam's victims include such campaigners as Harry Likas, intercollegiate champion from San Francisco, and Gardnar Mulloy of Miami, Fla., co-holder of the United States doubles title.

Latest to feel the effects of Flam's steady attack was Likas, who succumbed Thursday in an amazing turnabout after he had beaten Flam in nine of the first 11 games. Flam won 18 of the last 20 games and broke through Likas' service 10 times in a row to triumph, 2-6, 6-4, 6-1, 6-0.

Syl Apps, who retired last spring after captaining Toronto Maple Leaf to two consecutive hockey world championships, will coach the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A Toronto Marlboros this winter.

This was announced Thursday at St. Catharines, by Stafford Smythe, who coached the Leafs-sponsored Marlboros last season.

Smythe—son of Leafs' managing director Conn Smythe — is director of all Maple Leafs' amateur hockey interests. With Apps at the helm, he said plans also to form a Marlboro Junior B team, as well as midget, minor-midget, minor-bantam and peewee teams in the Toronto Hockey League.

Victory Gift, the Cinderella filly of western tracks, and winner of the Canadian Derby and the $8,000 Invitation, arrived in Toronto Thursday.

She will have a chance to prove what many western horsemen believe—that she is the best three-year-old in Canada — when she enters the Maple Leaf and Breeders' Stakes at the Woodbine.

Eddie Dorohy, 19-year-old left winger from Lethbridge, Alta., impressed railbirds Thursday as Montreal Canadiens held their second practice session at St. Hyacinthe, Que. Dorohoy, who hopes to make the big jump from junior ranks to the National Hockey League, slapped home two goals while teaming up with Elmer Lach and Maurice Richard.

A quartet of talented shotmakers—Lloyd Mangrum, Ben Hogan, Jimmy Demaret and Bobby Locke—have taken a $111,168 chunk out of the $291,000 prize swag thus far distributed on the 1948 professional golf circuit. Mangrum was top cash-collector with $32,454 as the play-for-play swingers Thursday began the year's 34th PGA-sanctioned tourney, the Tacoma Open. Hogan got $31,347, Demaret $24,473 and Locke $22,892.

The tournament of champions gathered its four headline fighters at Jersey City .NJ, Thursday night for a mass physical examination and rules discussion. Tony Zale defends his middleweight championship against Marcel Cerdan in Jersey City Tuesday night. Jersey Joe Walcott will meet Gus Lesnevich in a 15-round heavyweight bout on the same card. Dr. Harry F. Cohen found them all "in excellent health."

The Dominion Football Association netted $2,295 from the Dominion soccer cup playoffs, secretary Walter McKellar said Thursday in Toronto. Cup finals were played in Toronto. The 11 games played in the finals made $4,590 after all expenses were paid. The DFA took 50 per cent and split the balance between seven competing teams.

New York Rangers of the National Hockey League will play five pre-season games, Manager Frank Boucher announced Thursday in Lake Placid, NY. The blue shirts, who begin training next Tuesday, will take on New Haven Ramblers, a farm squad, Sept. 28. Later the Rangers will play four Senior Quebec Hockey League teams in Canada before opening their NHL campaign in Montreal Oct. 14.

White Mountain Boy, a roan colt from the E. P. Gray stable of Bellows Falls, Vt., added new laurels to his brilliant record by racing to a straight-heat victory in the two-year-old pacing division of the Reading Fair Futurity at the Grand Circuit meeting at Reading, Pa., Thursday. The double-heat triumph, scored in identical times of 2.07 1-5, a fifth of a second off the track record for the age.

Mimico Mountaineers Thursday defeated Brampton Excelsiors 14-10 at Mimico to win the opening game of their best-of-three Senior Ontario Lacrosse Association semi-final play-offs. Mounties romped into a 5-2 lead in the first period and Brampton never caught up.

British Cotton Prices Hit Canada Hard

OTTAWA, Sept. 17 — (CP). — Canadian shirt manufacturers are put in "a very precarious position" because British cotton textile prices are rising while American prices have been falling, the Prices Commission was told Thursday.

The statement came from Norman S. McGregor of Hamilton, general manager of the McGregor Shirt Co. Ltd., as the Commission concluded its study of shirt costs and headed into a vacation from its investigation duties until Sept. 28.

The Commission was also warned "all shirt prices are going to be advanced before the end of the year." The man who said so, H. H. Warren of Montreal, secretary-treasurer of the Warrendale Shirt Co. Ltd., traced the causes to increased labor and other costs.

U.S. Supplies Slashed

Mr. McGregor's statement was backgrounded by the fact that Britain exported 8,000,000 to 10,000,000 yards of cotton textiles to Canada in the first six months of 1948 as compared with a year's target of 80,000,000; that U.S. supplies have been slashed to less than one-third by government decree; and that, as he testified, British prices "out of all rhyme and reason" prevent him from buying more goods in that market.

He said 80 per cent of his pre-war supplies came from Britain, compared to 25 per cent today. The lowest-priced shirt he was able to make of British cloth now retailed for $6, but he had recently obtained some English potters print that would retail from $4.25 to $4.50. The lowest quality shirt he made of U.S. cloth retailed for $3.95.

If Canadian manufacturers bought in the British market "we are in a dangerous position." A U.S. cotton collapse could be followed by an even greater U.K. collapse and it could leave the Canadians "holding a great big bag."

42 Estonians Stay In Canada

OTTAWA, Sept. 17 — (CP). — Forty-two Estonians, who crossed the Atlantic in a tiny two-masted vessel to escape "Russian agents," will be allowed to remain in Canada, a government spokesman said Thursday night.

The official said a special order-in-council has been passed Thursday for the group which crammed aboard a 60-ton sailing vessel and made the hazardous 30-day ocean voyage, docking at Saint John, N.B., Aug. 19, almost penniless.

This was the second of a group of about 100 Baltic refugees who crossed the Atlantic in small boats this summer to escape from Soviet-dominated homelands. The first group of 20 docked at Quebec City and received formal admittance to Canada Aug. 31.

Still to be considered, said the government spokesman, are two boatloads of Baltic refugees now being questioned in Halifax.

Actors As Mannequins

LONDON — (CP). — A novel method of displaying men's clothes will be used this month at an exhibition to celebrate the diamond jubilee of Britain's National Federation of Merchant Tailors. Twelve male actors dressed by Britain's leading tailors will act a specially written play.

France May Help Boost Canada's Immigration

OTTAWA, Sept. 17.—(CP). — France, latest of nations to gain Canadian immigration concessions, may help the Dominion in its drive for an expected total of 110,000 immigrants this year.

A government authority, however, today said he was skeptical France would contribute more than 600 or 700 in 1948—the approximate number of French citizens that have made Canada their home in each of the last three years.

This, despite the new ruling announced Thursday which placed citizens of France on the same footing as those of the United States and favored countries of the Empire.

But the Government nevertheless hopes this year to outstrip last year's total of some 67,000 immigrants by more than 40 per cent, the official said.

So far, more than 80,000 immigrants have entered this country up to the end of August, the spokesman said. This was about 43 per cent more than the 45,000 total for the same period a year ago.

Seek Bright Future

Most of these are Britons and other Europeans leaving countries devastated by war and seeking a brighter future in Canada.

Others, like the four groups of Baltic refugees reaching Canadian shores in small boats, are fleeing countries dominated by the Soviet.

Through order-in-council machinery, the government Thursday granted 42 of these—Estonians—sanctuary in Canada. Another 29 were formally admitted Aug. 31. Still other groups are being granted temporary refuge in Halifax, pending a thorough investigation of their status.

Until Thursday's government action, immigration from France was kept in a narrow range. The admissible classes were confined largely to farmers and farm workers, lumbermen, loggers and miners and persons with close relatives in the Dominion.

Attack 25 Cities

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17 — (AP). — Fifty United States Air Force superfortresses will take off tomorrow afternoon and night from airfields in two hemispheres to make synchronized "attacks" on 25 United States cities Saturday. The planes, flying in pairs from points as distant as Japan and Germany, will fly distances ranging from 3,800 to more than 5,600 miles. With only three exceptions they are scheduled to land at their "targets" at noon local time, on "air force day."

Gets Lighter Sentence

FRANKFURT, Germany, Sept. 17 — (AP). — The life sentence of Ilse Koch, widow of the former commandant of Buchenwald Concentration Camp, has been commuted to four years, the United States Army newspaper Stars and Stripes said tonight. The 42-year-old woman was accused of having made lampshades from the tattooed skin of camp inmates.

A MOTORCYCLE DAREDEVIL DRIVER, John Petty, 27 (INSET), of Fall River, Mass., who stunted at the CNE, was fatally injured in the wreckage of this truck he was driving when it crashed into a tree on Gladstone Ave., near Peel St., Toronto, Thursday.

Mother Snatches Child From Fire

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 17 (CP). Mrs. John Mickle snatched her two-year-old daughter Joanne from death late Wednesday as the flames from an exploded oil stove raced through a frame cottage on east side Emerson Avenue.

The mother dashed through a curtain of flames to the little girl and suffered painful but not serious burns to the hands. The child was uninjured.

Mrs. Mickle said she was outside the building at the time of the explosion. Her baby was asleep in a crib and close to the stove. She rushed inside and grabbed the child as the flames mounted in the small room.

The fire burst through the walls and roof before it was controlled by city firemen.

Mrs. Mickle said clothing and household furnishings were almost a total loss. Rescued by the neighbors was a single article of the little girl's clothing—a snow suit.

Joanne is the only child of Mr. and Mrs. John Mickle. The family moved to Emerson Avenue last April and was gradually completing the building. Mr. Mickle is employed by the Public Utilities Commission. He was not at home at the time.

Hunger Worse Than War

MONTREAL, Sept. 17 — (CP). — More people will die of starvation this winter throughout the world than were killed in the six years of the Second World War, John A. Marsh, general manager and secretary of the Canadian Exporters' Association, Thursday told a luncheon meeting of the Association. This was the first time in history that there had been a general world famine, he said.

Nash Wants Frank Sinatra As Tinker In Irish Film

By JACK QUIGG

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 17 (AP). —To make movies easier to photograph and to save the expense of location trips, studios are building ingenious sets in their own back yards.

In the San Fernando Valley, just outside Hollywood, a piece of Canada is being transplanted. The "Canadian Pacific" company left its Alberta location site recently with two railroad sequences still to be filmed. In California, tracks were laid and a studio locomotive converted to CPR specifications. A flowing stream, trees, and buildings were reproduced exactly.

On the screen, producers aver, you will swear it is Canada.

Another piece of improvisation concerns a tunnel.

John Garfield, as a revolutionist burrowing to set a bomb, will spend three weeks digging clay from a fake tunnel on the "rough sketch" set. The "tunnel" is an 80-foot papier mache tube filled with earth and set on a sound-stage floor. The device permits cameras to record his labors from top, side, ahead and astern.

Sinatra As Tinker

A tinker, as J. Carrol Naish explains it, was a wandering handy man who circulated news and gossip as he patched the pots of village housewives. Such a tinker—played, he hopes, by Frank Sinatra—will be the central figure in a unique film Naish plans to make in his native Ireland.

Though he has generally played Latins on the screen, the 48-year-oldNaish says his family has lived in Ballycullen, County Limerick, for 700 years. It is there that he wants to film his story, "The Tinker of Ballycullen."

"It will show the charm and the atmosphere of Ireland as it was 70 years ago," Naish said. "Frank Sinatra, singing the songs of that period, would be ideal as the the tinker."

Pensions Bill Soars

HULL, Que Sept 17 — (AP). — Canada's war pensions bill will soar beyond $100,000,000 a year for the first time in 1949, Brig J. L. Melville, chairman of the pensions commission, said Thursday.

Feet sore and painful?

GET THIS FAST, LASTING RELIEF!

Foot specialists examining thousands of patients have found that many common foot ailments are due to ONE cause — Tinea Pedis, a virulent infection called "Athlete's Foot". If you have peeling, soggy skin and painful cracks between toes; if you are plagued by persistent itching and excessive, malodorous perspiration, start using AERO-PED Powder at once. It contains P.M.N. (phenylmercuric nitrate), a powerful fungicide which kills germs and fungi that cause "Athlete's Foot". First dust feet thoroughly, then apply inside footwear. Notice how quickly pain and irritation are relieved, cracks between toes begin to heal, perspiration is checked. Get AERO-PED P.M.N. Powder today. Price 89c at all leading drug stores, or direct post-free from E. R. BELYEA AND COMPANY LIMITED, Dept. 116, 2374 Bloor West, Toronto.

Ask your druggist about AERO-PED Ointment, the original P.M.N. emulsion for mycotic skin infections. Price 89c.

10th ANNIVERSARY SALE OF TREES AND SHRUBS

TO FRIENDS, CUSTOMERS AND ALL GARDEN LOVERS:

It is with pleasure that I place these 10th anniversary offerings before you and take this opportunity of thanking you for the patronage given in the past and also for your loyal support.

During the past 10 years I have experienced much satisfaction in meeting many hundreds of customers and they keep coming every season because they know they get a "square deal." I always have endeavoured since starting business to give everyone the best stock possible for the prices asked.

The growing of good nursery stock requires a great deal of thought and study and a tremendous amount of work. When you consider the propagating, planting, transplanting, pruning and growing to saleable size of these varieties mentioned, you will understand something of the work necessary

However, with the co-operation of good customers business has gone ahead and my nursery has grown from a few dozen plants of 10 years ago to over 65,000 plants at my last inventory. This stock includes the most popular varieties that are hardy and suitable for our climate. Every plant listed in this "ad" is strong, sturdy field-grown stock and ready to "take hold" quickly in your grounds. It will be all freshly dug and no set backs from drying out.

In the hope of meeting new customers and friends I have reduced prices considerably on almost all varieties—anywhere from 25% to 50%. These prices will hold only throughout the fall season from now until the freeze up. They will return back to their regular level for Spring season.

Fall is considered by all recognized authorities as the best time to plant most things. There are many reasons for this. Proof of this may be seen in two of our recent local projects, namely "The Quaker Oats Company's" Park planted by us late fall of 1946, and the Canadian Nashua Paper Company's grounds planted by us late fall, 1947. In both of these large plantings the losses were negligible. A sample of the quality of stock that we grow may be seen at either of the above grounds as well as Canada Packers' border on west side of George Street, planted by us in Spring, 1947.

All sizes and grades mentioned here are those established by the Canadian Association of Nurserymen, of which I am a member. We guarantee all stock to be in good condition when leaving nursery and it has been inspected by Federal Government inspectors.

Wishing you success and the best of luck with your garden ventures this coming season,
I am sincerely yours,
WILLIAM M. GERMAN.

LISTEN TO YOUR WOMEN'S EDITOR KATE AITKEN, EVERY MONDAY, WEDNESDAY, FRIDAY, AT 10.30 A.M. E.S.T. STATION CHEX

WHEN THE ANCIENT CRIBBING around the top of this 45-foot well gave way Thursday morning, Charles Montieth, 47, of West Hill, Toronto, was carried to the bottom and buried under 20 feet of sand. His body was recovered five hours later. Aleck Little, 38, of West Hill, was jammed into the neck of the well by a half-ton sewer pipe. Don Lomas of West Hill was carried into the mouth of the well, but managed to scramble out. Little was rescued two hours later by Scarboro firemen.

After Little was rescued, a 30-foot iron pipe about four feet wide, was rammed into the hole, and two local well-diggers, Harold Hodgson and Bill Taylor, dug for the body of Montieth in turn, while helpers worked on windlass to take sand from the pipe. Hodgson (THIRD from LEFT) helped haul earth up while his partner worked in well.

United Party Returned

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia, Sept. 17—(Reuters)—The United party, which has controlled the Southern Rhodesian government since 1934, was returned by a majority of 18 seats in the legislative assembly.

The final state of parties in yesterday's general election was: United Party 24; Liberals 5; Labor 1.

It was thought here that large-scale immigration to Southern Rhodesia from Britain was probably a deciding factor in the result of the election. During the month before the registration lists were closed more than 7,000 new voters registered.

The Liberal party stood for unfettered free enterprise; the United Party for free enterprise where possible but state control where private enterprise failed to serve the general welfare.

Prime Minister Sir Godfrey Huggins gained his own constituency from a Liberal by a majority of 687. J. H. Smit, Liberal party leader, lost his seat.

The party advocates local African development under European leadership. It believes there should be only one parliament with the African representation through Europenas.

Scare For Fishermen

FOLKESTONE, England — (CP). — A naval mine disposal squad made harmless a 500-pound British sea mine caught in the nets of a Folkestone fishing boat in the English Channel.

THE 8th ANNIVERSARY of the Battle of Britain is to be noted by special church parades by the RCAF across Canada on Sunday. German bombers left their mark on British cities, as shown by the above picture of bomb ruins around St. Paul's, but Hitler's airmen met their first major defeat in September, 1940, when staggering losses inflicted by defending fighter squadrons forced them to abandon their daylight mass bombing attacks.

Heavy Trading In Livestock During Week

TORONTO, Sept. 16.—(CP).—Activity on the livestock market here this week would make any ladies' wear bargain counter look tame in comparison.

Total receipts were the second heaviest recorded and more cattle were trucked into the yards than ever before in the market's history. Buyers bought steadily at strong prices and the daily holdover was comparatively small throughout the week.

The heavy receipts might have been caused by lack of grass due to an absence of rain in the last few weeks.

Cattle prices were fully 50 cents to $1 higher on all grades of butcher cattle. The calf trade was brisk but the top prices were generally unchanged except for a few fancy veals, which sold 50 cents higher than last week's top. Hogs were unsettled in the early part of the week but closed steady to last week. Lambs gained $1 while sheep remained unchanged.

Holdover Added

The cattle run 10,400 head was added to last week's holdover of 400 head. Included in the supply were 1,500 stockers. Export buying was keen with some 1,000 cattle being shipped to the United States. Trade did slacken off Wednesday but this was due to the lack of good quality offerings.

Medium to good weighty steers sold at $23-$27 with a few choice animals up to $29.25. Medium to good butcher steers sold at $18-$24 and heifers sold from $16-$22. Twin common streers and heifers sold for boning at $12-$15. Butcher cows sold from $13-$18 with canners and cutters selling from $7.50-$13. Good bulls were from $19-$21 with commoner kinds downward to $13.50. Fed yearlings sold at $19-$28. There was little action on stockers and a few sold at $16-$18.25. Ordinary quality milkers and springers sold at $110-$170 each.

Calves totalled 2,726 head. Good to choice vealers were $26-$28 with a few fancy vealers up to $28.50. Common to medium-weights met ready sale downward to $15, while medium heavies were slow and hard to sell. Grassers sold mostly at $13-$13.50.

Hogs were 1,782 head. Prices remained unchanged to last week's close off — $33.25 for grade A and $32.60-$32.85 for grade B1. Sows were $24 dressed.

Sheep and lamb receipts totalled 4,660 head. Lambs gained $1 to close at $22.50 for good ewes and wethers with $1 discount on bucks. Cull lambs sold at $13-$15. Sheep were unchanged with good lightweights bringing $8-$9. Fat heavy sheep sold at $5-$7 with culls selling at $4-$6.

Motorist Bailed For Trial In Auto Death

John Cupoli, 529 Elm St., was bailed to trial by the next highest court today on a charge of reckless driving. Magistrate R. B. Baxter heard evidence in the preliminary hearing of the accident on April 24 in which 27-year-old Vera McKinley was killed. Cupoli, said to have been the driver, was injured in the crash and in hospital until recently. He appeared in court today on crutches.

PC Allan Edmison told of arriving at the scene of the accident on Lansdowne St. about 6.30 a.m. The car was against the side of a tree, he said, and Cupoli behind the wheel. Miss McKinley was dead on his arrival, he said. A skid-mark of 69 feet led from the spot where the car left the surface of the road to the tree, along the grass boulevard.

The officer said the car was "almost a total wreck," that it hit the tree with a heavy impact which drove in the side of the car more than a foot. The top of the vehicle was caved in. The right door could not be opened with a crowbar, he said, and the body had to be removed from the left side. The girl had died of head injuries, he said, and Cupoli had a broken leg.

Force of the impact, said the witness, threw glass from the car's windows more than 50 feet.

"The accused had been drinking. His breath smelled strongly of alcohol," he testified.

PC William Aggas in his evidence testified as to photographs and a sketch made of the scene of the accident.

Bail for the accused was set at $1,000

Bantam Gang Collects Windshield Wipers

City police this week met a bantam crime-wave committed by a number of young residents who evidently developed a sudden desire to accumulate windshield wipers. The youthful offenders, all of them about five or six years old except their "leader" who was a mature eight, made a tour of a parking lot near the Johnson Motors plant and removed the wipers from about 15 vehicles.

The constables simply retraced the steps of the marauding gang, noted the losses, collected them from the sheepish thieves — and had them returned to the cars. No charges were laid against criminals of such tender years, but a good talking-to by the officers had quite an effect on his audience.

ARMOUR HILL GRASS FIRE burned 3 acres of tinder-dry grass on Friday and lasted 2 hours before being brought under control by Peterborough Fire Department crews. It spread from the King George School playground into the young tree plantings of the park but damage was estimated as negligible to the new growth. One of the fire crews shown above are, Left to Right, Ellsworth Ingall, school caretaker; Joseph Astles, Eddie Close, and William Sorrie.

School Yard Fire Sweeps Into Memorial Park

First major grass fire of the fall season engaged the fire department at King George school Thursday afternoon. It burned over about four acres, and did some damage to fence posts and trees in Armour Memorial Park.

Ellsworth Ingall, caretaker at the school was burning some papers in the school yard shortly after 1:30, when a brsik wind carried some of the burning papers and ignited the grass. The fire spread rapidly, and when Mr. Ingall saw he couldn't control it he phoned the department.

By the time the firemen arrived, the fire was sweeping into the pines and elms along the south border of the park, and several fence posts were burning. The posts had been badly damaged by a previous fire, and a few are now held in place only by the wires. A few pines, and several elms received a bad scorching from the fire, but it is unlikely that any permanent damage was done.

Chief George Smith sent two pumpers to the scene, and tackled the fire on two sides. The firemen had it under control in short order and ran a hose line from Douro St. to douse the burning fence posts and stumps.

POWER HOUSE ESTIMATION

Engineer's estimated cost for the construction of the power house for the new Civic Hospital was given to the Board of Governors Thursday as $285,000. Of this, $73,000 is the estimate for the plumbing and heating; $45,000 for electrical; $4,500 for incinerator; $4,500 for elevator; $6,000 for stock. The Board was told that these figures were subject to revision.

Advertising Experts Tell Story of Merchandising

"Merchandising the Middle Sized City" was the subject of a speech by Robert M. Campbell, vice-president of the J. Walter Thompson Co., at the first of a series of quarterly dinners held by the Chamber of Commerce on Thursday evening at the Empress Hotel.

Mr. Campbell defined merchandising as any way of helping to move goods from the store to the public. Displays, window dressing, newspaper advertising, special promotions, all come under the heading of merchandising, but he emphasized that the spirit, energy and drive behind those things are the most important part. It is easy to copy, but the best merchandising is "the kind that is devised to do a particular job and is custom built for it."

Mr. Campbell cited several examples of successful merchandizing, such as the building of a cold storage locker in a small Saskatchewan town, standing order with local newspaper to run umbrella advertisement on rainy days, provision of free movie tickets to farmers by Chamber of Commerce, and two girls from each local high school on store fashion panel.

All the examples, he said, had two things in common; first a determination to get something done and secondly a methodical search for the right method.

"We all know many things about Peterborough," he continued. "We all know that the value of its manufacturing exceeds $100,000,000. We all know that it is the manufacturing centre for everything from dairy equipment to watches. We all know it is close to 40,000 in population and that it is the hub of one of the biggest tourist centres in North America."

Research, however, he said was the only answer to such questions as how many milk shakes are sold, how many shoes are sold or how many hair cuts there are a day. Once such facts are made to work, more merchants become promotion and merchandising conscious and the better is the trade on the entire street. Eventually the whole town goes ahead in a way never thought before possible.

Too Much Dependence

"Public energy of any kind," he said, "is nothing more than individual energy expended in a collective lane." There was too much dependence on the government today, which was a great danger, as private enterprise "is the one path that assures freedom of ambition with no ceilings to those who have courage and the stamina to climb."

"If socialism comes along," he warned, "you will have some long haired professor from Ottawa come along to tell you how to do your job."

Mr. Campbell gave as a code of merchandising; find out the real facts about your market and your potential market, plan how best to get the most out of that potential, see that everything you do advances the plan and that nothing deviates or distracts from it, have the courage and energy to continue to pursue the course you know to be right, get every merchant you can to pursue a similar policy, and support the local Chamber of Commerce—"it can't work for you unless you work for it."

He was introduced by F. J. Overend and thanked by J. Jebson. Wilson Gemmell presided at the meeting.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

TROUT SEASON OVER

Speckled and brown trout open season ended on September 15, last Wednesday, and the season for lake trout ends Oct. 5.

RADIO AUCTION

Ted Pridham, president of the Kiwanis Club, announced at the club meeting on Thursday that although final figures were not yet available, he estimated that community service work had benefited to the extent of at least $1,700 as a result of the radio auction.

COUNCIL INVITED

Members of the city council have been invited by Col. Max Clarke to attend the opening of Army Week at the armouries Monday night. It is also the beginning of the fall training. Mayor Ovens and several members of the council will be absent at the municipal association convention in Kingston.

BEATS LIGHTING BAN

One George St merchant has decided that the lighting ban on store windows is not going to darken his advertising display. Pedestrians on the east side of the street noticed an oil lamp burning in the window. It may not have been as good as a powerful electric light bulb, but it was better than nothing at all.

DOUSE TWO RUBBISH FIRES

Firemen were called to put out two rubbish fires on Thursday. Children playing with matches in a vacant lot at the rear of 207 King George St. were blamed for the first. The second one occurred at Bruce St. No damage was reported. Shortly after 8.30 p.m. they went to Hunter and Aylmer Sts. and disconnected some smouldering wiring caused by a short circuit.

FLAG AT HALF MAST

In tribute to a man who was once a leader in township and county affairs, the county court building today lowered its flag to half mast. The man they were honoring was Harold B. Rye, one-time warden of Peterborough County and reeve of North Monaghan for eight years who died on Wednesday, aged 74. Mr. Rye was buried today.

Hospital Board Has Report On Appointments

Miss Aileen Morgan has been appointed Chief Dietitian of the Peterborough Civic Hospital, the Board of Governors was advised Thursday night. She is a graduate of the University of Toronto and was for seven years with the Montreal General Hospital.

Miss C. M. Wilson takes over the duties of Mrs. Hector Bousfield, Acting Director of Nursing at the Hospital. Mrs. Bousfield retired this month to accompany her husband to the west, where he is continuing his studies in Regina. Miss Mae Wilson will assume the position of Supervisor of the Obstetrical Department.

Mrs. Bousfield served as Clinical Supervisor and for a short time as acting director of Nursing, in the past three years in which she has been associated with the Hospital.

Miss Berneice Greatrix, recently returned from a postgraduate course at University, is taking over the duties of Head Nurse in the North Pavilion.

Miss Mary Nesbitt, who has also recently completed a postgraduate university course, is assisting with the practical arts instruction and clinical supervision of the probationary class this month.

Work Advances On Hospital

Work on the new Civic Hospital completed during August was reported to the Board of Governors Thursday as follows:

Concrete work, total concrete poured, penthouse floor and secondary level, 179 cubic yards; backfill in basement 90 per cent completed; masonry, north wing first floor, 95 per cent, second floor, 40 per cent, west wing first floor, 80 per cent, second floor 50 per cent; stone band at second floor completed; 80 per cent of columns and beams to penthouse roof completed; 30 per cent of north wing and 20 per cent of centre portion plumbing roughing-in completed; heating roughing-in, west wing 100 per cent, north wing, 70 per cent, centre portion, 70 per cent; electric, penthouse mezzanine conduit, 100 per cent, risers 50 per cent, nippling 15 per cent.

Sportsmen Hold Gay Corn Roast

About 100 members of the Peterborough Fish and Game Association started off their fall program in a festive manner on Wednesday when they held a corn roast at Buckley's Lake.

Thirty dozen corn were devoured as well as 20 dozen doughnuts; the whole being washed down with gallons of coffee. Site for the corn roast was the Charles Kingan-Harold Scott property on Buckley Lake which has been made into a private game preserve and which is available to the Association when wanted.

Despite the chilliness of the night nobody noticed it as the roaring fire and the sizzling corn heated some to the point where they were forced to discard windbreakers and coats.

There was no business session but Robert McCabe announced that the Association is planning to select an area in the district to reforest. Trees will be supplied by the Department of Lands and Forests after experts from the Department have examined the chosen area to decide what variety of trees are most suitable.

Entertainment was attended to by Roly Johnson who led the sing song. Coal oil lamps were hung on the boughs of trees to complete the rural effect.

SWIM CLUB STARTS

The YMCA Swimming Club opens its fall and winter season at 6.15 p.m. Monday with an open workout in the pool, Gord Minty, honorary coach, is in charge and he expects the membership this season to exceed the 45 who registered a year ago.

TO APPEAR SEPT. 29

The preliminary hearing of Mrs. Jane McAlister of nearby Kirkfield, charged with murder, will be held here Sept. 29, Crown Attorney L. W. Jordan said Thursday. The 25-year-old Scottish war bride is accused of shooting her 30-year-old navy veteran husband, John, at their Kirkfield home, Sept. 8.

"Overlaid" Adapted For Radio Presentation Be Heard Sunday Night Over CBC Network

TORONTO, Sept. 17—Well - known as a Canadian playwright Robertson Davies, editor of the Peterborough Examiner will have his first play produced on the air in the current open air theatre series as one of the final three plays in the series producer Esse Ljungh has picked Mr. Davies original one act stage play "Overlaid" and has had it adapted for radio presentation. Overlaid is a very funny comedy with a Canadian setting. Heretofore Mr. Davies has never been interested in writing for radio greatly preferring the stage and drama producer Ljungh is hopeful that Overlaid will be only the first of several plays for radio from this talented writer.

Mr. Davies has written many plays for the stage and his "Eros At Breakfast" was the prize winning Canadian play at the latest Canadian Drama Festival in Ottawa.

His Overlaid will be broadcast Sunday night September 19 at ten p.m. on the TransCanada network.

Jaycee Information Booth Served 3239 Tourists

Accommodation and information statistics compiled by the Junior Chamber of Commerce indicate that 3,239 persons received information at the Junior Chamber Tourist Bureau during 72 days of operation.

In a breakdown of the figures, 1,247 tourists were directed to accommodation and 1,992 received information about the Kawartha Lakes tourist district.

During the operation of the Tourist Bureau 30 Jaycees aided by members of the Associated Canadian Travellers were on duty daily.

Indicative of the type of accommodation filled, the following groupings show the volume of tourists: resorts and lodges 463, tourist homes 109, hotels 150, private cottages 138, and cabin accommodation (overnight) 387.

Opened June 26, the Bureau ceased operating September 7, following the Labor Day weekend.

Distribution of promotion material to tourists resulted in circulation of 3,415 brochures, maps and other informative booklets. Provided by The Peterborough Examiner, Jaycees issued 900 city maps, used to indicate shopping districts and routing of tourists through Peterborough. Other material included 200 road maps, 215 scenic drive route, 300 booklets on fish and game regulations and 1,800 pieces of general information and resort brochures. Top source of local information for Jaycees directing tourists was The Examiner's Canadian Vacation Guide.

Since the Bureau opened many visitors have written expressing appreciation for the result of work done in their interest by Jaycees on duty. Many indicate that they plan to return to the Kawartha Lakes in 1949.

One tourist wrote regarding accommodation: "It was so delightful at Stony Lake that we bought an island and will be up every summer."

Resulting from the success of the Peterborough Junior Chamber the national office of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, has requested local tourist committee to prepare a manual on the subject of tourist bureau operation. It will be distributed to Junior Chambers across Canada.

Members of the Junior Chamber carried the brunt of the work in operating the Bureau, but other organizations and interested citizens in Peterborough lent aid to the project. Road maps were provided by service station operators, The Examiner city map was a boon to aiding proper direction, resort operators and other tourist trade interests made periodic trips to the Bureau reporting on accommodation and providing brochures, and material from the Chamber of Commerce office was distributed by the Jaycee bureau operators.

MELON PROVES POPULAR

There was a hot sun beating down at the Marmora Fall Fair on Thursday afternoon and the clouds of dust that were stirred up by hundreds of shuffling feet made everyone unusually thirsty. This was welcomed by the usual soft drink vendors and an enterprising farmer who backed his truck, half full of muskmelons and watermelons, to one side of the beaten track. The festive crowd found that the melons were a good way of quenching thirst and in a few hours there were only about half a dozen left.

Vagrant Given 8 Days In Jail

Kenneth Sheridan, no fixed address, was sentenced to eight days in jail by Magistrate Baxter in court today. The accused pleaded guilty—in an unusual sort of way—to a charge of vagrancy.

The accused's criminal record, which started in 1939, was introduced. Magistrate Baxter, questioning him on each charge, mentioned one in 1942.

"You got two months for that?" he asked, glancing at the record.

"Nope, two years, Your Honor," replied the accused to His Worship.

The accused had been found by a constable "mauling around" a parked car in which the key had been left.

Sheridan explained he was waiting for a train to Toronto (he was going to ride the watertank, he added) and that he was just looking in the car "and thinking what a nice place that would be to have a sleep until the train came in."

But, as he had a previous conviction for car theft, he added, he didn't go in the car.

"That's what you say anyway, eh?" said the Magistrate.

"Well, sir, I always thought a vagrant was somebody who didn't have work and didn't want work—I want work, but I guess I'll plead guilty anyway."

His Worship suggested that the accused "go somewhere else" when he got out, and get a job.

DOOR DAMAGED

The door of the car of R. D. Taylor, 422 London St., received about $12 damage on Thursday morning as the car was parked on George St. The door had just been opened when it was caught by an open swinging rear door of a truck driven by Leonard Johnston, 472 Brioux Ave.

Civic Arena Framework Now Underway

"Seeing is believing" to boys and girls south of the Canadian General Electric works who became more keenly interested than ever in the Civic Arena as they saw its first roof ribs rising into place Thursday.

Many of them are younger teenagers who have yet to lace a skating boot under a roof. Children of nine, 12 and 15 years were finaly convinced from this structural evidence that they are going to have a rink for skating and hockey this winter. The interesting fact is that most of them have never been in a rink. Now they are watching the skeleton of the building take shape.

The Civic Arena is not going to be the dream place of the Memorial Centre, but it is going to be enclosed against the vagaries of the weather, excepting lifts in temperature. In the basement there will be heated dressing rooms with showers and toilet facilities, and on the ground floor will be a snack bar with ticket office and sound room, and over it a gallery.

Ald. H. Dodds said today the contractor had promised completion by Nov. 1, but the juniors will settle for some time in December.

ARENA NEARLY FINISHED

Marmora's Dr. Hamilton Crawford Memorial Arena is in the final stages of construction. Work on the bleachers section is still in progress and present plans call for it being finished in about three weeks time. Already $32,000 has been received by public subscription, though it is estimated that there will be some additional costs. The arena, 190 ft. by 90 ft., will have an ice surface 170 ft. by 70 ft. and will seat 1,800 people. Official opening has been set for Oct. 15.

Britain's Battle For Survival Being Won Says Cripps

By JAMES McCOOK

LONDON, Sept. 17.—(CP). — The House of Commons, careworn over the difficult international situation, was given an uplift Thursday by the claim of Sir Stafford Cripps that the battle for survival is being won.

In the most cheerful speech since 1945, the Chancellor of the Exchequer congratulated Britons on "a really fine effort" during the first six months of 1948. He presented statistics he called "heartefleing and stimulating."

The United Kingdom still is battling against a tide of rising import prices with her chief economic problems unsolved but—

The total trade deficit with the rest of the world has been reduced to an annual rate of £280,000,000 ($31,120,000,000) compared with £630,000,000 ($2,520,000,000) in 1947;

Import costs during the first six months were £887,000,000 or £95,000,000 more than expected due mainly to higher prices, but exports were valued at £731,000,000 or £26,000,000 more than forecast;

Expert valume on June 30 had almost certainly reached the target of 140 per cent of pre-war, "a figure which since has been well exceeded."

Imports Costly

Imports from the western hemisphere during the six-month period cost £294,000,000 or £27,000,000 more than forecast. But Sir Stafford termed this "a very small excess in view of the increase in prices" and said it was partly offset by increased exports.

However, the deficit with the western hemisphere still was "uncomfortably large," amounting to "remains the most difficult problem with which we have to deal," the Chancellor the Exchequer said.

"The most hopeful development" was signs of recovery in invisible income with large gains in shipping earnings and sales of oil companies in oil companies overseas.

"The net result is that the invisible account, with a deficit of £192,000,000 in 1947 and which we anticipated would be reduced to a deficit of £49,000,000 in the in the first half of 1948, actually came out at a surplus of £16,000,000.

Will Be Maintained

"I believe this will be maintained, so there is a beginning where our invisible income will once again make a significant contribution to making up the balance of our overseas trading account."

Sir Stafford, who leaves for Ottawa Saturday to hold economic talks with Canadian government officials, concluded with a statement of confidence that with European recovery program assistance and with the goal of standing without outside aid in four years, Britain can re-establish her economy and independence and improve her standard of living.

"That is a more cheerful and heartening view than we could have taken 12 months ago because it is based not upon mere guesswork but upon proof during the past six months—upon our capacity to deal successfully with the problem."

The Chancellor then sat down amid cheers from all sides of the House.

Loan Drawings

A balance of payments white paper issued Thursday showed that United Kingdom drawings on the Canadian loan during the last six months totalled £13,000,000 compared with £105,000,000 in 1947 and £130,000,000 in 1946. The remainder of the credit, about £60,000,000, has been frozen by the Canadian government. Sir Stafford hopes in his talks in Ottawa to obtain release of this sum.

The estimates showed a net drain of £253,000,000 on Britain's gold and dollar resources during the first half of this year. Last year the total drain was £1,024,000,000.

Acknowledging the contribution made by the rest of the sterling area in helping to relieve the drain of gold and dollar resources, Sir Stafford said their achievement since the end of 1947 has been immense.

THE SENTIMENTALIST or romantic who expects his Eskimo women to appear in sealskin parka behind a dog sled will undoubtedly be horrified at the sight of the above four modishly dressed young women. Nevertheless they are genuine Eskimos, and they were about to embark for Texas in the airplane of Texas oilman T. L. Horne, who had wagered $25,000 with his friends that he could produce the four in Fort Worth before midnight last Wednesday night. Riding, so to speak, with a price of $25,000 on their heads, are LEFT to RIGHT: Mobly Blatchford, Lona D. Welch, Alice Walker and Lorena Gray. They were all located by Horne in and around Seattle, Wash. To make sure he won the bet, Horne went out and purchased a new Beechcraft airplane for $42,000.

Faith Of The Church Theme Of Meeting

MARMORA, Sept. 17—(ENS)—St. Andrew's WMS met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. H. W. Sabine. Mrs. H. C. Barlow presided, with Mrs. E. C. Prentice assisting. The theme was "The faith whereby the church must live."

The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. G. Jarvis. Record of books read and calls made was taken by Mrs. Sabine. Mrs. Young consented to carry on with the office held by Mrs. E. M. Cadigan before the latter moved to Ottawa.

Mrs. George D. Young reviewed the study book for the year. She also gave a reading.

Mrs. E. C. Prentice offered her home for the next meeting.

Truman Victory In November Would Be Miracle Of Year

By CLYDE BLACKBURN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17 — (CP). — President Truman is off today on an election campaign which none but the most optimistic partisans give him the ghost of a chance of winning.

A Truman victory in the November presidential elections would make him "the miracle man of this crazy era," wrote Tom Stokes, one of the most respected and best informed of Washington's syndicated columnists.

But there is no sign of defeatism about the President. He is as jaunty self-assured and confident as a candidate could be and win or lose he will give the Republicans a fight.

Alienated South

He is expected to make a brief sortie into the deep south for speeches at carefully selected centres but definite decision on this has not been announced.

It is unlikely he would take back his civil rights stand even if he could do so safely, and it is written ino the Democratic platform in almost his own words.

Desire for Change

Truman had a lot of strikes on him as he enters the fury of the campaign.

His party has been in office 16 years and the mere desire for a change is against him.

The Democratic administration, unless it wins Congress as well as the White House, cannot get anything much done anyhow, as was proven in the last two years while Republicans ruled on Capitol Hill.

In the state of Louisiana the dissident Democrats have succeeded in having Truman's name left off the ballots entirely, a strategic move that has been widely condemned by friend and foe alike.

The only way Louisianians will be able to vote for Truman and his running mate, Senator Alben Barkley of Kentucky, will be to write in their names.

Confused Picture

Because there is no federal election law and every state makes its own voting regulations, the situation is normally so complex and rendered extraordinarily so now by the advent of third and fourth parties that it is impossible to get a clear picture of what will happen next Nov. 2.

Henry Wallace and his Progressive third party, estimated as likely to poll upwards of 2,000 votes are getting their slate on the ballot in more and more states, and most of his support is expected to be at the expense of the Democratic ticket.

In three southern states the electoral college members are pledged to vote against Truman no matter what the state vote is and that is also possible in this out-moded and almost incomprehensible system by which presidential elections are conducted.

One Traffic Case

There was only one minor traffic case before court on Thursday. John A. Clarke, 494 McKellar St., was fined $3 and $2.50 costs for driving through a stop street.

Puma Has Friends

AUCKLAND, N.Z., Sept. 17—(CP))—News that the 17-year-old puma at Auckland Zoo, claimed to be the oldest in captivity, will be "quietly disposed of" when new stock is obtained has drawn a stream of protests from the United States. Many letters have reached the curator appealing to him to spare the veteran's life. It is doubtful, however, if it would be a kindness to extend its life much longer as it is arthritic and long past the best condition.

Americans Not Spending As Much But Still Best Tourist Year

By The Canadian Press.

Canada's waning 1948 tourist season appears to be the best on record for one of the Dominion's greatest industries.

A Canadian Press survey of the preliminary estimates by provincial tourist officials indicates today traffic into Canada this year was greater than in 1947 when 22,669,840 persons crossed the United States border to spend a record $235,000,000.

Despite forest fires and unseasonable cold in northern sections of Ontario, and floods in British Columbia, officials in Ottawa estimate more than $260,000,000 will have passed from tourists' pockets into Canadian coffers before the end of the year.

Officials estimate British Columbia will carve a $40,000,000 slice of the tourist trade plum in 1948.

Ontario reported an impression that Americans were not spending as freely this year. Nevertheless, the province's tourist resorts were generally delighted with the season's business. Heavier than usual trade was reported in the favorite Haliburton and Muskoka Lakes districts and along the St. Lawrence River.

Spend Less

Quebec observed the same lack of free spending which Ontario noted, but tourist officials there said that although visitors are spending less, they are more numerous than last year.

Provincial Tourist Director Georges Leveille said tourists were shopping "more carefully" this year. He estimated that the tourists would leave $100,000,000 in the province this year—$10,000,000 more than last year.

As usual, New Brunswick, attracted a great number of American sportsmen, eager to enjoy the province's unparalleled fishing and sea bathing. Resorts generally reported higher revenues than last year. An unofficial estimate placed the increase in the number of automobiles entered the province at 16 per cent.

THE ROBUST GENT in the uniform who is speaking here is Soviet Lieut.-General Godeyev, head of the Russian delegation to the big Communist rally staged in the Soviet sector of Berlin last week. Although only 100,000 turned up to whoop it up for dear old Joe instead of the expected 400,000, General Godeyev pulled out all the stops, denounced the U.S. as a Fascist state comparable to Nazi Germany and said all kinds of nasty things about the western democracies. The flowers in foreground are wreaths in memory of the victims of Nazi concentration camps. The balcony scene is more than faintly reminiscent of the days of Benito and Adolph.

Pioneer's Descendant At CNE Luncheon

MILLBROOK, Sept. 17 (ENS)—Among those who offered congratulations to Mrs. A. R. Payne after she had brought greetings from Millbrook, at the luncheon last Friday at the CNE, was Miss Matie Fitzgerald, until recently head of the Registered Nurses' Associatio nof Ontario.

Miss Fitzgerald was brought up in this village, and was particularly interested in the reference to John Deyell, first white settler, in this neighborhood, coming here from Ireland, who was her grandfather. Her mother, Mrs. John Fitzgerald, now well into her nineties, was a daughter of this pioneer of what he afterward named Cavan township. It was his cousin, James Deyell, whom he brought out from Ireland to run the log mill he had built in the woods, on the site of the present Attwooll and Sheppard mill, who gave the village its name.

The 'Mill-on-the Brook" naturally merged into Millbrook, as the little settlement—begun well over a century ago, gradually increased in size. The only monument left standing in the disused cemetery opposite the school grounds, marks the graves of James Deyell and his wife.

The fact that the bodies are in a vault probably accounts for the tall white marble shaft remaining upright, while all other stones have long since fallen down.

Avert Phone Strike

NEW YORK, Sept. 17 — (AP). — A country-wide strike of 25,000 telephone workers in the United States set for this morning was averted yesterday. After all-night negotiations, company and union representatives agreed on a variable pay raise of from eight to 11 cents an hour for the workers, who make telephone equipment.

Broad Picture of Service By Chamber Given by Fraser

A concise picture of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce was given by its manager, James Fraser, at the Kiwanis Club luncheon on Thursday at the Empress Hotel. Briefly outlining the history of chambers of commerce, Mr. Fraser said that the first chamber to be organized and conducted entirely independent of government affiliation was that of Halifax in 1750. Today the Canadian Chamber of Commerce has roughly 550 associations representing nearly 100,000 Canadian businessmen.

He defined a chamber of commerce as "a voluntary organization of the forward-looking citizens of a community created for the purpose of promoting the civic, commercial, industrial and agricultural progress of the community."

Mr. Fraser emphasized that it was an association of "forward-looking citizens." "We don't want those who continually look back on the "good old days," he said. "Nor do we want the "stand-patters" who are quite content with the status quo."

"The Chamber of Commerce," he continued, 'is concerned with Peterborough's industries — their market areas, transportation facilities, water supply, tax rate, educational facilities for employees' families — again mentioning only a few activities."

"In agriculture, we are concerned with soinl and water conservation, the developing of farm markets, reforestation and a closer understanding between man in the city and the farmer in the outlying areas."

Mr. Fraser gave details of some of the present work of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, including the surveys of level crossings and traffic conditions, and tourist activities. Some 70 level crossings were graded according to condition and both railways advised of the results of the survey, and steps have been taken, and are being taken, to improve them as fast as the necessary materials can be obtained.

With the co-operation of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, a traffic check is now being made on four bad intersections—Charlotte and Monaghan, Charlotte and Weller, Aylmer and Hunter and at the C.G.E. These four intersections are being checked in half-hour periods between 8 a.m. and 9 a.m., noon and 1 p.m., and 5 p.m. to 6 p.m. The survey started on Monday and will be completed on Saturday. Next week all reports will be analyzed and recommendations made to the City Council for action.

Regarding this summer's tourist activities, a perliminary breakdown of correspondence shows that the Chamber of Commerce answered 571 letters from all parts of the United States. "Almost every day during the summer," he said, 'found parties of American tourists looking for accommodation "right on the spot."

Other activities mentioned were the supplying of information on the city, general help and advice as a "better business bureau" and highway development.

Mr. Fraser was introduced by Wilson Gemmell and thanked by Jack Lewis. Ted Pridham presided at the meeting.

Fats And Smoking

LONDON — (CP). — If the food ministry would supply more fats the demand for cigarets might drop to pre-war proportions a doctor believes. "Reduction of fats from 75 grams to under 40 grams per day means that everyone feels hungry sooner. Smoking often relieves this sensation," he said.

BENJAMIN F. COHEN, acting secretary general of the United Nations, lifts the first shoveful of earth from the site of the United Nations permanent home on New York's East River at ground-breaking ceremonies. A $65,000,000 loan for construction of the "world capital" was approved by Congress, and building can now go ahead. In the group are (L. to R.) Borough President Hugo Rogers, Mayor William O'Dwyer, Excavator Cohen and Comptroller Larry Josephs.

Olive Anderson Bride Of Arnold A. Barnard

The wedding of Olive Caroline, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Anderson of South Monaghan, to Arnold Asa, son of Mrs. Harry Barnard and the late Mr. Bernard, of Belleville, was solemnized Saturday. The Rev. W. Patterson performed the ceremony in Centreville Presbyterian church, which was decorated with pink and white gladioli, ferns and palms.

Music for the occasion was by Mrs. Grace Muspratt and Mrs. Ted Collis, soloist, sang "Because" before the ceremony and "Through the Years" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father the bride waas in a gown of white satin with full flowing train. It was styled with a sweetheart neckline, long sleeves with points falling over the hands and fastened at the back wtih tiny self covered buttons. The front of the dress was embroidered with corded chenille in white. She wore a fingertip veil of silk net caught to tiara of orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of red roses and white baby 'mums.

Bridal attendants were Mrs. R. Robinson, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, and Miss Velma Barnard, niece of the groom, as bridesmaid. Their frocks, similarly fashioned with tiered skirts and picture necklines were in midnight blue and old rose silk taffeta. They wore halo hats of the same material and carried cascades of cream gladioli.

Mr. Ralph Barnard was groomsman for his brother. Guests were ushered by Gerald Anderson and George Moncrief.

For the wedding the bride's mother chose a dress of smoke grey crepe, black hat and accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother was in midnight blue crepe with navy hat and accessories and wore red roses.

After the reception at the bride's home, the couple left on a trip to Montreal and Quebec. The bride travelled in a suit of pine green gabardine and matching accessories. They will reside on the groom's farm at Balieboro.

Guests were present from Toronto, Hamilton, Sudbury, Kirkland Lake, Port Hope and Peterborough.

Craig-Richter Rites Performed

The chancel of George St. United church was banked with baskets of white gladioli for the marriage on Saturday of Jeanne Richter and William Thompson Craig by the Rev. Dr. James Semple. The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Richter of Tankerton, Kent, England, and the groom the only son of Mrs. Frances M. Craig of Peterborough.

The bride's gown was of white slipper satin fashioned on princess lines with a sweetheart neckline and full dolman sleeves and the skirt extended in a graceful train. French tulle illusion was caught in a headdress trimmed with orange blossoms and fell to fingertip length. Her all-white bouquet was a cascade of roses and gladioli. Mr. Chris Dominick gave the bride in marriage and Mrs. Dominick, sister of the groom, was her attendant. Her frock was of woodland pink silk jersey with knife-pleated skirt and sleeves and she wore a shoulder veil caught to a halo of pink flowers. Pink and mauve gladioli in a cascade formed her bouquet.

Mr. G. James Bond was the groomsman and ushers were Leslie Graham and Arthur Gertley.

A reception was held at the home of the groom's sister, Mrs. D. W. Clarke, Armour Rd. Mrs. Craig, mother of the groom, received with the wedding party and was gowned in Cambridge blue crepe, wearing a black hat and corsage of Talesman roses.

For her wedding trip to Ottawa the bride wore a dove grey wool suit with accessories in Victorian wine shade.

Mr. and Mrs. Craig will live at 133 Arlington Ave., Toronto.

MR. ERNEST J. LEE of Toronto is seen with his bride, Donna Gwendolyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. White of Peterborough. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lee, also of this city. The wedding was solemnized September 11th in St. George's Anglican Church.

'Talent Table' To Feature Fall Tea, Oct. 14

At the regular meeting of Local Council of Women held Thursday afternoon in the YWCA it was decided to hold the annual fall tea on Thursday afternoon, October 14, in the green room. Under auspices of the executive, it will be convened by Mrs. W. Connal, assisted by Mrs. W. H. Morton and Mrs. M. Drysdale. Feature attraction will be a "talent table" to be arranged by Mrs. H. Dunford, assisted by Mrs. R. G. Cottrell.

A six-month report of the finances was given by Mrs. J. Fanning, treasurer, showing a low bank balance on hand. Obligations to National Council have been raised and one dollar is required from each affiliated organization. Forty-five of those listed have paid fees to Council and those in default will be contacted by the treasurer.

Mrs. G. Langhorne made formal announcement of dental health week to commence September 27 with a dinner meeting and has tickets for same available. She also asked for volunteers from Council to preside at the Public Library over an exhibit in this connection during the week and is receiving names of those willing to help.

Three points of study for Local Councils this year, outlined by National Council, are listed as: International understanding; housing; salacious literature.

Mrs. W. Steinkraus, delegate to the National Council meeting at Ottawa in June, read the balance of her report which dealt fully with each item taken up during that time.

Mrs. W. Addyman, president, who also attended the Ottawa Assembly, gave a resume of resolutions and points considered. She urged every woman to realize her duty as a hostess in this land and offer a gesture of friendship to the persons from foreign countries in this city whenever possible. She pointed out the danger of allowing them to feel not wanted and form themselves into small groups of their own which might prove to be undesirable. Organization of small groups along lines of interest to all women with constitutions drawn up by the leaders would bring them into contact with local citizens.

Mrs. Addyman also spoke of the resolution presented to National Council by the women of Greece asked that they appeal to the United Nations to stop kidnapping at their border by the Russians. Young girls are taken for "white slaves" and the boys are drilled in Communistic ways and later sent back to their own communities. The resolution was passed unanimously. It was also mentioned at the national meeting that help had been received by Greek women from organizations in Peterborough.

An executive meeting was held at the close of the regular meeting at which the nomination form for Provincial Council of Women was filled out.

Tea Proceeds To Go Toward New Floor Cost

Regular meeting of the MA Club of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church was held on Thursday afternoon in the Guild Room. Mrs. R. Curtis presided with 27 members present.

It was decided to hold the fall tea on Wednesday, October 27 in the newly decorated Sunday school hall of the church. Mrs. M. Watson and Mrs. M. Reid were appointed general conveners. Proceeds of the tea will go toward cost of the new floor in the Guild room.

Mrs. C. G. Boyd introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Donald Munro, who gave a most informative talk on child psychology. His subject was "The problem child." Mrs. J. McLeod voiced the appreciation of members.

Devotions were led by Mrs. T. McMillan. Reports were given by Mrs. D. Snelgrove, secretary and Mrs. H. Davidson, treasurer. Mrs. Helen Andrew was appointed chairman of the nominating committee for the coming year.

Draw Winners At Douro Social

Winners of the grand drawing of prizes made Friday, September 10, at St. Joseph's Church, Douro, are announced. Mrs. D. Menogue, Indian River, $20; Mrs. P. M. Dalton, Peterborough, $10; Tom Garvey, Peterborough, $10; Miss Loretta Cavanagh, Indian River, $5; J. Allen, 215 Reid St., $5; Mrs. F. P. O'Brien, RR 4, Lakefield, $5; Charlie Condon, RR 4, Lakefield, $10; Mrs. Jack Smith, Lock St., $10. Special prize of shoes was won by Gilbert Windrem, Indian River, and the radio was won by Francis Lemoire, Indian River. A Kenwood blanket donated by the St. Joseph's Sodality was won by Marion Towns, Douro. All returns go toward the parish expenses.

Norwood News

Jean Rogers, Camp Borden, spent the week-end at his home on the Belmont Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Treleaven, Toronto, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Baker for a few days.

George Peoples was at home for the week-end.

N. F. Chevers returned from Ottawa on Monday after spending a month with his sister, Mrs. Wm. McElroy. He was accompanied by his son, C. Chevers of Kemptville and Miss L. Forsythe, Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Astrop, Whitby, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Baskin.

Marjorie Ayotte Is Bride Of Harold Cain at Douro

St. Joseph's Church at Douro was the scene of a lovely wedding Thursday morning when Marjorie Loretto, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Ayotte, became the bride of Harold Michael Cain, son of Mr. Michael Cain and the late Mrs. Cain. The nuptial mass was said by the Rev. J. J. McCarthy. Raymond Ayotte, brother of the bride, and Kevin O'Brien served the mass.

Wedding music was played by Mrs. Victor Kennedy, who sang "Ave Marie" at the offertory. Mr. John P. Sheehan sang "Panis Angelicus" and "O God of Loveliness" during the service. Pastel shaded gladioli formed a setting for the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in white brocaded satin fashioned with an old-fashioned hooped skirt. Her finger-tip veil of embroidered net was caught to a headdress of seed pearls and she carried red roses.

Sisters of the bride in attendance were Miss Teresa Ayotte as maid of honor and Miss Marie Ayotte as bridesmaid. They were in bustled frocks of yellow and orchid nylon net with matching fan-shaped hats and carried cascades of orchid and yellow gladioli.

The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. George Cain, and ushers were Harold Ayotte and Mark Cain, brothers of the bride and groom.

The reception following was held in Club Aragon. For the occasion Mr. Ayotte, mother of the bride, wore navy blue crepe with accessories in matching blue and a corsage of red roses.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Cain left on a trip to points west, the bride wearing a spruce green wool suit and black accessories. On return they will live in Peterborough.

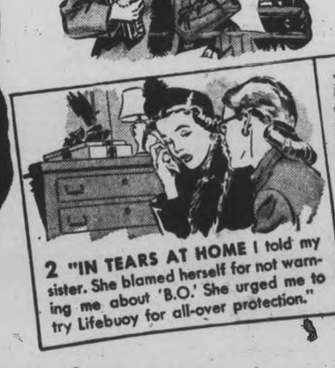
"LET'S SHOP ALONE TOMORROW"

1 "I'LL NEVER FORGET that whisper. It was sickening to realize that two of my best friends were not only accusing me of 'B.O.' but didn't want to be around me because of it. I tried to hide my humiliation and left them just as quickly as I could."



2 "IN TEARS AT HOME I told my sister. She blamed herself for not warning me about 'B.O.' She urged me to try Lifebuoy for all-over protection."

3 "HOW GLAD I was to find Lifebuoy's rich lather rid me of 'B.O.' Now I'm welcomed by all my friends."

Its fresh, clean scent is your guarantee of protection

The clean scent of Lifebuoy's thick rich lather is your guarantee of protection. It banishes "B.O." (body odor) and gives you all-over freshness for hours afterward. You'll notice Lifebuoy acts immediately. In a few seconds, Lifebuoy's clean scent has disappeared and so has every trace of "B.O."

Tests prove that you can build up your protection against "B.O." by bathing with Lifebuoy every day. Try it for just seven days. Your skin will feel so fresh and gently caressed from the abundance of lather Lifebuoy always gives.

And, with Lifebuoy's longer-lasting, all-over protection, you're completely free of "B.O." worries.

Male Flirt No Man For Girl Marriage Is Always Risky

DEAR MISS DIX: I have a Boy Friend to whom I am engaged and we plan to get married next year. He is very handsome and lots of girls flirt with him. I am not jealous, but when he hears about a girl he keeps on saying: "She is very pretty. Why don't you introduce me to her?" Or if we meet a beautiful woman he stares at her for five minutes. If he thinks an actress is gorgeous, he goes back to the show over and over again. I do my best to look indifferent, but it gets on my nerves because I am no beauty myself.

Dorothy Dix

Do you think that a man who is really in love can act that way?

LEATRICE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I think a male flirt is one of the most contemptible of the human species, and that any girl who marries one is simply going out of her way to hunt for trouble. For no wife can be happy with a husband whom she does not trust, and certainly she can have no faith in a man who is ogling every good looking girl he sees and making near-love to her.

Perpetual Insult

A wife would not need to be jealous to resent such conduct in her husband. The indignity of it would be an insult that would keep her nerves raw and her temper on edge. So my earnest advice to you is to break off with this lady-killer and have nothing more to do with him. You are a nice girl. Save yourself for some worthy man who will not be making eyes at every bobby-soxer who crosses his path.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have a 19-year-old daughter who expects to be married shortly. My husband deserted me when my daughter was a baby and ever since I have worked very hard to support her and myself. I have been able to save up only a couple of hundred dollars.

The trouble is my daughter wants a big church wedding, followed by a large reception. I promised to buy all of her wedding clothes, but she expects me to take all the money I have saved by hoarding nickels and dimes to meet the rest of the expenses. This I refuse to do and she has been furious over it and spoken very cruelly to me. I think if she wants a show wedding she should wait and work and save her money for it, and not expect it of me, after I have sacrificed so much in her behalf, especially since I would go broke over it. What is your advice?

MRS. C. G. K.

ANSWER: My advice to you is to stand pat and positively refuse to let your daughter run you into debt for an expensive wedding. However, I fear that by the time your daughter softens you up with her tears and breaks down your resistence by her reproaches at your not giving her the kind of wedding that rich girls have you will give in. So many other mothers do, and let daughters take the very bread out of their mouths to gratify a desire to make a splurge.

Can't you make her understand that when we do things beyond our income, we do not rouse the envy and admiration of those who know us? On the contrary, we make ourselves ridiculous and a laughing stock for the public. Everybody will respect your daughter if she is married in a simple, inexpensive, white gown, but they will mock her if she walks up the aisle trailing satin and orange blossoms. There is dignity in living within our means, no matter how small they are, but there is shame in running up bills for finery for which we never will be able to pay.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, September 18

The prospect is for important affairs, and ambitions of supreme importance, starting off with every plan and pattern for spectacular success and gratification, when an unforeseen crash, a pull in the wrong direction, or other surprising turn of events, seem to descend "from nowhere" holding up or completely annihilating all thriving projects. Influential persons may withdraw needed support. Astute thinking or drastic evolution of plans, may create new incentive to forge ahead. Shun extravagant ideas as well as scattered substance, in money and emotions.

For The Birthday

Those whose birthday it is, may be advised of a rather conflicting and revolutionary state of affairs; while at first brilliant techniques, innovations and drastic initiative could promise outstanding success with possible high honors, yet a sudden crash, seemingly coming from "the blue" could be disintegrating and disheartening. A false move, an erroneous plan, or a strange impulsive drive in which emotions run away with good judgment, might result in withdrawal of substantial cooperation from counted-on sources. Acumen and right conduct could inspire fresh incentive.

A child born on this day may have a conflicting and difficult set of instincts, feelings and emotions to hold in leash, lest its drives and conflicts impel it to errors and loss of success and influence.

Home and School Association News

LAKEFIELD HOME AND SCHOOL

The regular meeting of the Lakefield Home and School Association was held Monday with Mrs. H. Deeth, the newly-elected president, presiding. Mrs. C. Coons read the names of the newly-elected executive.

The president called on Mrs. Brown, past president, who congratulated her associates for the fine attendance and also thanked the association for the past president's pin which was presented to her during the summer.

Mrs. A. J. Arnott, entertainment convener, introduced Mr. E. G. Sloan, public school principal. Mr. Sloan adressed the entrance graduation class. He stressed the importance of education and advised them to "hitch their wagon to a star" and aim at a high goal of achievement. At the conclusion of his address he presented the 30 graduates with diplomas.

Mrs. M. Coughlin, president of the Catholic Women's League, presented Miss Mary McManus with the League award for the highest standing in composition and grammar.

Mrs. L. Quackenbush then presented the five IODE awards for the highest standing. Owing to a tie for the fifth place, six awards were given. The ones to receive the awards were Misses Beth Brown, Mary McCamus, Joan Wannamaker, Alma Cherry and the tie for fifth by Shirley Clayton and Marilyn Fraser.

Miss Beth Brown gave the valedictory address for the graduating class. She expressed their appreciation to the public school staff for their untiring efforts that helped the scholars achieve their goal and also their feeling of sorrow at having left the good times of public school.

A vocal selection was given by Nancy Coleman, Joan Wannamaker, Margaret Calberry accompanied by Mary Jane Foster at the piano.

Mr. Roy Brown voiced a vote of thanks to the convener and all who took part in making the evening a success. The motion was seconded by Mrs. Roy Bullock.

Fresh Fruits, Vegetables At Their Best Right Now

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Sept. 17 —(CP)— Nowadays the budget-conscious housewife should be filling her market-basket with fresh fruits and vegetables instead of the tinned variety.

Corn, grapes and tomatoes, are only three of the many foods that have fallen into the inexpensive class, and it's time to stock up for the winter season.

Home economists of the consumer section, Dominion department of agriculture, have produced a recipe for tomato conserve, one of the special treats great grandmother used to make every autumn.

Ingredients: four cups tomatoes (about 10 medium tomatoes): three cups Sugar; one lemon; one cup raisins; one-quarter preserved or candied ginger.

Wash, remove core, peel and cut tomatoes in quarters before measuring. Cook 10 minutes, add sugar, thinly sliced lemon and raisins. Cook 10 minutes again and add ginger, cut in small pieces and continue cooking five minutes or to jam consistency. Pour into hot sterized glasses, cool and seal. Yield: four cups.

Stuffed Tomatoes

Stuffed tomatoes are excellent for the evening meal at any time now.

The recipe: six medium tomatoes; one-half teaspoon finely chopped onion; two tablespoons butter; one-half cup breadcrumbs one-half cup cooked bacon (minced); salt and pepper; one egg; one half cup buttered crumbs.

Wash tomatoes and cut slice from stem end. Scroop out inside and let stand inverted for 15 minutes. Brown onion in butter, add crumbs, meat, tomato pulp and seasonings. Cook five minutes and then add egg slightly beaten. Cook one minute and refill shells. Cover with buttered crumbs and place in greased pan. Bake 20 minutes in a hot oven.

Grape Juice

With grapes now in season, home economists, consumer section, Dominion department of agriculture, have come up with a recipe for grape juice.

One basket grapes (six quarts); seven cups water; 2 2-3 cups sugar.

Wash, stem and mash grapes. Add water and boil 10 minutes. Strain overnight through a jelly bag. In the morning add the sugar and bring to a fast boil. Pour at once into sterilized bottles. Partially seal and process 10 minutes in the boiling water bath; seal tightly and store.

A white sediment may form in the kettle while standing overnight, or in bottles during storage. Shake well before using to distribute the sediment, which contains valuable minerals, and should not be discarded.

IN US CELEBRATIONS

TRENTON, Sept. 17—(CP)—RCAF Central Air Command headquarters today announced that four Vampire fighters from the RCAF Station, Trenton, will take part in the United States Air Force Day celebrations at Niagara Falls, NY, municipal airport next Saturday. The speedy Vampires will put on their show in salute to the United States Air Force on the occasion of its first birthday.

Your Fruit will make 50% MORE Jam or Jelly WITHOUT RISK OF FAILURES if you use CERTO

It's simply wonderful . . . the difference in jam and jelly-making when you use Certo. You get jams and jellies that look better, taste better, are better . . . and much more of them. That's because Certo is "fruit pectin" — the natural substance in fruit that makes jams "jam" and jellies "jell" — extracted and refined ready for your use.

THE CERTO BOIL IS SO SHORT

With Certo you boil only one-to-two minutes for jams — a half-minute-to-a-minute for jellies. NO prolonged, tedious boiling to make sure your jam or jelly will set. Certo makes all fruits set "just right". This extremely Certo short boil means:

1 You get 50% more jam or jelly because practically none of your precious fruit juice is boiled away.

2 The time you spend is cut down to a fraction.

3 The natural colour and taste of the fresh fruit are retained. The Certo boil is too short to dull the one or spoil the other.

If you are only a beginner, don't worry. You'll have no failures if you follow exactly the recipes provided with Certo. Since different fruits need different handling, there's a separate, kitchen-tested recipe for each one.

BE ECONOMICAL — BE SMART — MAKE JAM AND JELLY THE QUICK EASY MODERN CERTO WAY. ASK YOUR GROCER FOR CERTO TODAY.

A pound of jam or jelly made with Certo contains no more sugar than a pound made the old, long-boil way.

World News In Brief

Taken from Wires of Canadian Press.

GENOA, Italy—Three officers and about 100 sailors from the 11,000-ton Australian warship Kaalmbla were detained by Italian police here early today after disturbances described locally as a riot between the sailors and the Genoese townspeople.

HAMBURG, Germany—British authorities today hanged two doctors who picked women for mass deaths in German concentration camps. They were Benno Orendi, a native Hungarian, and Walter Sonntag.

SEATTLE—Washington state police said Thursday a man wanted for questioning in connection with the hammer slaying of a Boston furniture dealer crossed into Washington from Canada Wednesday. Officers identified him as Walter Dunning Powell, 32.

TORONTO—A $1,250,000 Jewish community centre to serve 7,000 persons will be built soon in west central Toronto, it was announced today by Samuel Godfrey, chairman of the building campaign. The building will be a memorial to those who gave their lives in the Second World War and will also be the headquarters of the General Wingate branch of the Canadian Legion.

CLEVELAND — Pitcher Don Black was reported "much better" today at St. Vincent Charity Hospital where he is being treated for a brain hemorrhage suffered Monday afternoon in the Cleveland-St. Louis baseball game.

TORONTO — Alex Maclaren, director of the Ontario Farm Service Force, said today an urgent need exists for apple pickers in the fruit growing districts of Ontario.

Want Investigation

WINDSOR — Members of the Windsor city council, interviewed separately, were almost unanimously in favor of an investigation into charges leveled by Detroit police commmissioner Harry S. Toy that Windsor was a "wide-open city for gambling and other vice."

BRIDGEPORT, Con.—Vernon Dalhart, who claimed he wrote the music to "The Prisoner's Song," one of the list of all-time song hits, died at Bridgeport hospital after a long illness.

LONDON, Eng.—Britain's economy program and export drive has slashed her trade deficit in the first half of this year to less than one-four of the 1947 total, the government announced.

WASHINGTON—John L. Lewis has been nominated without opposition for re-election to the presidency of the United Mine Workers. The Aug. 31 deadline for nominations passed without a single opponent showing up in the election lists, the UMW Journal said.

WASHINGTON—David E. Lilienthal said the United States atomic program is "in a dangerous situation" because of growing reluctance of scientists to accept government jobs. This reluctance is caused in part by the risk of attacks from "petty or prejudiced or malevolent sources" said the chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

TORONTO—Girls who come to Canada from displaced persons' camps in Europe are quick to become good Canadian, Antoinette Bauer of Waterloo, told the Roman Catholic Women's League Ontario Provincial Council.

CHATSWORTH—Rev. William Quigley was elected moderator of Bruce Presbytery at the annual meeting at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, constituted by Rev. Ross Adams.

Die For Holdup

OSSINING, N. Y. — Milton Shaket, whose family had made a last-minute appeal to save his life, and John Reilly, both 31, died in the electric chair for the murder of a union official during a hold-up in New York in 1946. Shaket's family has offered a $5,000 reward for the capture of a third man said to have been involved in the hold-up.

HOLLYWOOD. — Actress Rita Johnson, after 10 days, shows signs of coming out of her coma. Dr. Lee Siegel said the actress was able to hear his words and attempted to respond when he asked her to raise her hand. Miss Johnson suffered severe brain injuries when struck Sept. 6 in her apartment, apparently by a heavy hair-drier.

PHILADELPHIA.—George A. Neill, 22, displayed no emotion as he was sentenced to death in the electric chair for strangling his 11-year-old niece, Isabelle Mallon. Neill was convicted last Dec. 13 of persuading Isabelle to accompany him to a vacant lot and then strangling her when she threatened to tell her parents that he had made improper advances.

ELGIN FIELD, Fla. — Thirty-three army infantrymen were hurt, 12 of them severely, when several bomb sticks from a B-29 fell in a troop concentration, Air Force officers said.

LONDON, Eng.—King Frederick IX of Denmark has been appointed honorary admiral of the British Fleet with seniority as of today, the Admiralty announced.

PARIS.—Talks between delegations from the World Federation of Trade Unions and the international trades secretariat, which opened to discuss absorption of the ITS by the WFTU, have broken down. The ITS refused to surrender its autonomy to an organization which, it claimed, had shown a strong growth of Communist tendencies over the last two years.

Fire Danger

AUGUSTA, ME.—the threat of fire mounted over New England forests as new outbreaks, fanned by brisk winds, sent more fire-fighters into action. Maine, where danger is worst, had six new fires, four of them in regions hardest hit by the fires of last October. All but one were quickly checked.

OTTAWA — A government spokesman said the relaxation of immigration restrictions against citizens of France will have no effect on the case of Count Jacques de Bernonville, fighting against deportation in Montreal.

LONDON — Severely beaten about the face and head, Leo Sales, 55, a butcher of RR 1, Woodstock, told police he had been assaulted and robbed of $90 by two unidentified men. Sales suffered bruises to his face and head, and lost several teeth in the scuffle.

CAPETOWN — Field Marshal Jan Smuts, leader of the South African Opposition, called for large-scale immigration into the Union to strengthen its position in a world in which "I see danger signals."

LONDON, ENG.—Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, chief of the Imperial General Staff, has cancelled two out-of-town engagements because of the tense international situation.

KINGSTON — L. B. (Mike) Pearson, newly appointed External Affairs Minister, will be guest speaker at a dinner tendered by the city of Kingston to delegates attending the 50th annual convention of the Ontario Municipal Association. The meeting starts Monday.

SARNIA — A successor to the late Archbishop Charles Allen Seager will be elected at London, Oct. 19, at a session of the Synod of Huron Diocese of the Church of England.

MONTREAL — An agreement between Iceland and International Civil Aviation organization for international financing of air navigation services in the island was concluded at ICAO headquarters. Under the agreement, Iceland was paid 7,500,000 Kronur (about $1,000,000) for operation of weather reporting and forecasting, and air traffic control facilities during the period 1946-48.

LOS ANGELES—Police arrested a man they identified as Carter de Haven, 61, former actor and father of film actress Gloria de Haven. He was booked on suspicion of burglary. Police said they arrested the man after receiving reports of a prowler in the Wilshire district.

ERIE, PA.—Ralph J. Hoge, 26, the iceman some neighbors considered a "model dad," was convicted of second-degree murder for beating his son to death with a belt. The six-year-old boy, Jackie, died May 30 from what a hospital pathologist testified was the result of "probably 100" blows from a web belt. Hoge said he whipped the boy when Jackie refused to tell him where he had hidden a hammer. Second-degree murder carries a 10 to 20-year sentence in Pennsylvania.

Register With Doctors

LONDON, Eng. — Health Minister Aneurin Bevin announced between 92 and 93 per cent of the population of Great Britain had already registered with doctors under the health scheme which provides for free medical treatment. Signatures are coming in at the rate of about 150,000 a week, he said.

BARRY, Wales — The transport ministry ship Miervaldis will sail Monday to be scuttled in the Bay of Biscay with a cargo of 1,880 tons of poison gas, the last load to be disposed of by the ministry. The Miervaldis will be the 17th ship to be used for this purpose.

BERLIN — A Gen. Schimana, former Nazi Storm Troops' leader who escaped while awaiting trial at Nuernburg in December, 1947, has been found dead in a hotel at Osnabruck, in the British zone of Germany.

HAMILTON — Sir Ernest MacMillan of the Royal Conservatory of Music, Toronto, and conductor of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra, will receive an honorary degree doctor of letters at the autumn convocation of McMaster University. He will be the fourth person in the University's history to receive the honorary degree.

Says Anglicans Fail To Realize Greatness

TORONTO, Sept. 17—(CP).—Anglicans do not realize the greatness and extent of their church throughout the world, Rt. Rev. J. S. Moyes, Bishop of Armidale, Australia, told a meeting Thursday night.

With two other clerics, Rt. Rev. M. H. Yashiro, Bishop of Tokyo, an' Rt. Rev. R. J. Renison, Anglican Bishop of Moosonee, he was giving a report of Britain's Lambeth Conference to an overflow crowd at University of Toronto's Convocation Hall.

Bishop Yashiro expressed disappointment that neither the Lambeth Conference nor the World Council of Churches at Amsterdam had discussed the relationship between totalitarianism and the Union of Churches. Totalitarian states always try to unite the churches within their countries so that they can be controlled

Pupils Honor Priest

COBOURG, Sept. 17—(ENS).—Rev. F. K. Malane of St. Michael's Catholic church, who leaves shortly for his new appointment to the St. Peter's Cathedral staff in Toronto, was tendered a farewell demonstration by the children of St. Michael's school. The address was read by Andrew Ashcroft and the presentation of an alarm clock was made by Albina Newman-Jones. Father G. J. Maher spoke briefly.

EDMOND LEMAY (centre), who says he is determined to prove his innocence in connection with the disappearance of his wife, is shown with Capt. Tom Connelly (left), and Lieut. Bill Drury (right), two former Chicago police officers now doing reporting for the Chicago Herald American, as the trio made the rounds of places in Milwaukee, Wis., suspected by police as sites where Mrs. Lemay's body may have been hidden if she was murdered.

COLONEL AND MRS. ARCH C. WALL are standing in front of their home "White Castle," at Wilbur-By-The-Sea, Fla., where Stephany Saja, daughter of a Pennsylvania coal miner, and Francis Hitchcock, of the polo dynasty, will be wed—when Mr. Hitchcock's divorce from his second wife is formally granted. Miss Saja, who flew from New York to Florida last week, was in the house when the Walls posed for this picture.

WILL "COUNTING SHEEP" HELP YOU TO SLEEP?

If sleeplessness is caused by being overtired, nervous, run-down and worried — it takes more than "counting sheep" to help you sleep. Though you toss and turn, hour after hour, you can't "wish" yourself to sleep!

Many find that taking a tonic regularly is beneficial—and helps them rest more easily at night. And Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is first choice with thousands! For the Vitamin B_1, iron and other needed minerals it contains are sometimes just what your system lacks. And Dr. Chase's Nerve Food does so much to build you up —by increasing appetite and improving digestion.

So if worry, anxiety, a run-down condition or the strenuous pace of modern living is upsetting your nerves so you can't relax and rest —try taking Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for a while. The name "Dr Chase" is your assurance. 11

THE JUDGES in the recent Newport, R.I., bathing beauty contest thought they were seeing double, and they were when they started to pick the winner of the title, "Little Miss Easton's Beach of 1948." The title went to "Number 41," June and Jean Gottlieber, three-year-old identical twins. The small fry version of the bathing beauties strike a pose like their big sisters do.

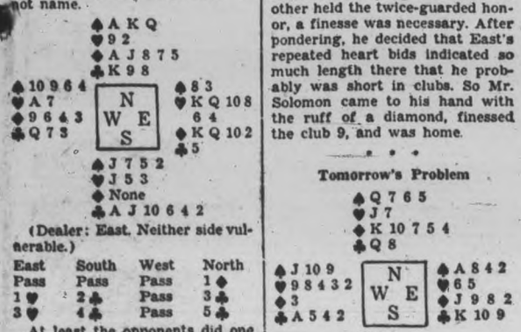
COUNT HIM FOR LENGTH

THERE IS never any question about which direction to finesse to catch a king, but only the problem of whether to finesse or not. In the case of the queen, however, it is different. Instead of two ways to shut it out, the drop or the finesse, you have a third possible way in the fact that you may consider finessing in a different direction. If one of the defenders had done no bidding, whereas his partner had vigorously bid some other suit or suits, you can usually count the non-bidder as likely to have length in any suit his partner did not name.



(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♠
1 ♥	2 ♣	Pass	3 ♣
3 ♥	4 ♣	Pass	5 ♣

At least the opponents did one thing for the declarer at the outset. They showed him very clearly what was his problem, so he could concentrate on it to the exclusion of all else. They scored the heart A and Q to have their book, and the return of the heart K, on which West discarded his spade 4, compelled the dummy to ruff.

Since that reduced the dummy to two trumps, the declarer had to do his thinking and planning at once. He was Charles Solomon, Philadelphia Life Master, and proved equal to the occasion. The defenders having made it impossible for him to take one top trump first as a safeguard against a singleton club Q, he had to do any finessing on the first round.

The contract would depend on his shutting out that card. Who had it, and was it guarded by one or two little cards? If by only one, the winning play would be two top trumps. But if either defender had a singleton and the other held the twice-guarded honor, a finesse was necessary. After pondering, he decided that East's repeated heart bids indicated so much length there that he probably was short in clubs. So Mr. Solomon came to his hand with the ruff of a diamond, finessed the club 9, and was home.

ROUND UP STERN GANG ISRAEL ORDERS

Troops Take Surrender Of Hyderabad

Withdraw Complaint To United Nations, Outlaw Razakars

SECUNDERABAD, Hyderabad, Sept. 18 (Reuters)—Maj.-Gen. El Edroos, commander of the Hyderabad state forces, formally surrendered to Maj.-Gen. J. N. Chaudhri, commander of the Indian 1st armored division, at 4.30 p.m. today.

Gen. Chaudhri was appointed military governor for the whole Hyderabad state, all of which have been put under military administration.

All minister's of the Nizam's cabinet have been put under house arrest.

Orders were issued for the arrest of Syed Kasim Razvi, leader of the Moslem Razakar. A 10-hour curfew was imposed on Hyderabad city and Secunderabad beginning at seven o'clock tonight.

Hyderabad radio, monitored here, said Indian troops entered Secunderabad 45 minutes after the surrender.

The Nizam of Hyderabad, whose defiance of the Indian dominion's request for permission to garrison Secunderabad touched off the invasion, issued a cease-fire order Friday. The Nizam, Moslem ruler of a predominantly Hindu state, was the only one of 562 native princes not to come to terms with either Hindu India or Moslem Pakistan.

Outlaw Razakars

Beside ordering the cease-fire, the Nizam outlawed the Razakars, private Moslem organization which India charged with many border disorders prior to the invasion, and agreed to the stationing of Indian troops in Hyderabad. He said in a broadcast he had instructed Hyderabad's representatives to the United Nations in Paris to withdraw his state's complaint to the Security Council against India.

(Dispatches from Paris, where the Security Council had planned to take up the Hyderabad case Monday, said it appeared it would be a mere formality for the Council to accede to any formal request from Hyderabad to drop the investigation.)

Meanwhile, Nehru telegraphed a message of congratulations to Rajendrasinhji on the "brilliat success of your operations."

28TH ANNUAL CONVENTION, for Ontario, of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, was held Friday evening. More than 80 members attended the banquet. UN In Turmoil After Killing Of Mediator

PARIS, Sept. 18 (AP)—Secretary-general Trygve Lie today placed the critical Palestine question before the full membership of the United Nations.

Lie flew in from Norway and found the UN in turmoil over the assassination of Count Folke Bernadotte, the UN mediator for Palestine.

He received a cable from the Israeli government promising to stamp out the assassins.

A message, from the Israeli Foreign Minister, Moshe Shertok, said:

"Outraged by the abominable assassination of the United Nations mediator, Count Bernadotte, and the observer, Col. (Anton Pierre) Serrot by desperadoes and outlaws who are execrated by the entire people of Israel and the Jewish community of Jerusalem, the government of Israel is adopting the most vigorous and energetic measures to bring the assassins to justice and eradicate the evil.

The blue-and-white flag of the 58 nations flew at half staff over the tiny international enclave in the French capital as the delegates gathered to pay tribute to Count Bernadotte and his work for international peace and co-operation.

Humane Society Fight Long President Urges Tolerance

"To those who clamor for the immediate suppression of cruelty in all its aspects we offer the true, if trite, reflection that though 100 years measured in terms of human life is a considerable span, yet in the formation of character it is, as history teaches us, a negligible period."

This was the plea of Robert F. Sellar, Albany, NY, president of the American Humane Association, who spoke to the 28th annual convention of the Ontario SPAC on Friday night. His address brought to a close the first day of a two-day conference, the first held in Peterborough in 12 years. More than 80 delegates and interested citizens attended the banquet given at the Empress Hotel.

Urging tolerance, he said "in the early days and for many years in fact, prosecution for offences against animals was considered the only means of correcting abuses." But citing his own experience he recalled that many years ago in Boston he had, through the Livestock Loss Prevention Association, proved to stockmen that all treatment of livestock was uneconomic.

Explaining his way of dealing with the problem, he said, "at first I didn't mention the word cruelty." And he recalled that it was the stockmen themselves who first began to criticize the ill-treatment of animals after this fact was established.

He suggested that a Livestock Loss Prevention Association could be drawn up in the Peterborough area with another further west.

Suppose Nobody Cared

Theme of Mr. Sellar's address was the searching question, "Suppose Nobody Cared?" He gave a brief account of an early humane society meeting held in Cleveland, Ohio, and attended by 22 delegates from nine states.

Though this was 71 years ago he quoted communications received by the American body from similarly interested groups in Quebec City, Montreal and Nova Scotia.

'Canada and the United States have stood shoulder to shoulder in this movement," he said.

He told of the work of Henry Bergh, founder of the movement in the United States, and he quoted the words of George A. Martin, Buffalo, who described the condition of cattle being shipped to that city's stockyards by rail and water as "a long line of suffering from east to west."

At the present time, he said, there were about 600 affiliated branches of the S.P.O.A. in the United States. But he said the various branches "can take little credit" for improving the condition of cattle. It was mainly due to health authorities and inspectors.

Observant Bus Driver Helps Solve Abduction

BRANDON, Man., Sept. 18 (CP)—An observant bus driver was credited today by police with playing a major role in solving the abduction of a five-week-old baby from a carriage outside a Brandon grocery store.

Police said the bus operator, Ken Stauffer, set them on the trail by telling them he had noticed a woman on his bus who had set out from Killarney, Man., in the morning alone and who had returned in the afternoon with a child.

Thinks Princess To Visit Canada

FLIN FLON, Man., Sept. 18 — (CP)— Viscount Alexander, said last night he believes that, "With a bit of luck, Princess Elizabeth might be visiting Canada before my present term of office expires." The Governor-General spoke at a banquet in his honor.

Discussing his recent visit to England for the silver wedding anniversary of the King and Queen, he said he suggested to Their Majesties that they visit Canada, about which both asked many questions.

The King had replied that in view of visits already scheduled to other parts of the Commonwealth, and much as they would like to come to Canada during the Governor-General's term of office, it was unlikely this could be done.

"I then suggested to Their Majesties that Princess Elizabeth might make the trip, and while there was no direct commitment, I think that with a bit of luck Princess Elizabeth might be visiting Canada before my present term of office expires."

Industries In Toronto Work Nights

Many Plants Ready To Work Week-Ends To Save More Power

TORONTO, Sept. 18 — (CP). — Many industrial plants in this area today had already established a swiich to week-end and night work in line with the campaign to ease the electric power consumption at peak periods.

With Ontario Hydro Chairman R. S. Saunders announcing a cut of 7,000,000 kilowatt hours weekly to southern Ontario municipalities starting next Wednesday, a number of large industries announced power-saving plans.

Night shifts have already begun in many Toronto area factories that normally worked only in the daytime, and others are prepared to follow. In the case of plants where Sunday and Saturday night shifts are being started, arrangements are made for two days off in midweek.

Officials of the local civic hydro commission, busy working out details of power cuts in relation to industrial demand, said that plans are being made as flexible as possible in order to conform with individual industries. "Industrial consumers are co-operating excellently," said this official.

Switch Shifts

One of Toronto's largest industrial plants, Massey-Harris, announced it is working Sunday, closing down Monday. The Acme Screw and Gear Company, with 1,000 employees, is working Sunday, with Fridays and Saturdays off. One large packinghouse started night operations. Seiberling Rubber Company also started a midnight to 7 a.m. shift, taking a load off the daytime power requirements.

That's the best news we've had since we started the campaign of voluntary saving," said Mayor H. E. McCallum in commenting on the news that the city's power consumption was within a small margin of the supply allotted under the new restrictions.

Mayor McCallum also said that owners of flat-rate water heaters which are cut off at certain periods would receive rebates from the Hydro.

Truck Driver Stands Trial For Death

SHERBROOKE, Que., Sept. 18 —(CP). — Fergus Bonner, Sharbot Lake truck driver, on Friday was committed for trial at the Fall Assizes on a charge of manslaughter following completion of his preliminary hearing before Judge Joseph Marier. Bail of $1,500 cash was set.

Bonner was arrested July 31 after a truck he allegedly was driving struck and killed Oliva Baron, Sherbrooke taxi driver. Medical evidence at the inquest was that Bonner was under the influence of alcohol at the time of the accident.

JOHN G. DIEFENBAKER, Saskatchewan's only Progressive Conservative MP, who has declared himself a candidate for the party leadership. Mr. Diefenbaker has been known as a champion of individual rights.

Diefenbaker Will Stand For Leadership

OTTAWA, Sept. 18 (CP) — John Diefenbaker, a man who loves a good political battle, plans to make a second bid for leadership of the Progressive Conservative party and he is confident this time he will be successful.

The 53-year-old member of the Commons for Lake Centre in Saskatchewan, announced Friday he will be a candidate for the leadership which John Bracken will relinquish at a National convention of the party here Sept. 30, Oct. 1-2.

A prominent criminal lawyer by profession and a colorful member of the Commons since 1940, Mr. Diefenbaker was the third member of the party to throw his hat in the leadership ring. Garfield Case, 49-year-old member of the Commons for the Ontario constituency of Grey North, and J. W. Hanna, 59-year-old member of the Ontario Legislature for Huron-Bruce, have announced their candidature.

Sure of Victory

There has been widespread speculation that Premier Drew of Ontario will enter the race, but Mr. Diefenbaker is confident he can win over the 54-year-old Toronto lawyer.

"Of course I will beat him, and I mean that, although I would not have said that two weeks ago," said Mr. Diefenbaker emphatically when asked if he thought he could defeat Mr. Drew.

He announced his candidature in a prepared statement and later met newspapermen at a conference in the press gallery lounge. In his statement he said he had been asked to stand as a leadership candidate.

"I have never shirked my responsibilities as a member of the party, and will not now, although I am fully mindful of the magnitude of the task, and the responsibility that will fall on the leader of this party to contribute to the National unity of Canada," he said.

2 Snarling Gunmen Killed Count Bernadotte, Witnesses Tell Of Murder

40 Arrests Made In Cleanup At Tel Aviv As Israel After Terrorists; Guns Fall Silent In Jerusalem Today

TEL AVIV, Sept. 18—(Reuters).—Israeli government forces have been ordered to round up all members of the Stern gang, and to shoot if necessary, unofficial reports said today. The hunt was called because of the assassination in Jerusalem Friday of Count Bernadotte, United Nations Palestine mediator. The assassination has been blamed on the Stern gang.

Guns fell silent in Jerusalem this morning as Count Folke Bernadotte, United Nations Palestine mediator, achieved fleetingly in death the Holy Land peace he cherished during life.

Large-scale arrests have been made in Jerusalem, where a curfew has been imposed throughout the Jewish area, reports said.

Foreign consuls in Israel today reported receiving a notice signed by a so-called "splinter group" of the Stern gang saying: "We killed Bernadotte because he worked for the British and carried out their orders."

The Israeli government stated that it would "uproot the criminal gang responsible" for the murder.

Must Strike Terrorists

The Israeli government statement declared: "The government calls on the nation to rise as one man against the enemy within its midst.

"Every citizen and resident of Israeli will give active and unhesitating assistance to the army and police in apprehending the assassins and their accomplices and expunging the stain of terrorism from the soil of our country."

A government spokesman announced this morning that 40 arrests had been made so far in Tel Aviv and other places outside Jerusalem in connection with Count Bernadotte's murder.

He could not give any details of what was being done in Jerusalem.

Mose Shertok, Israeli foreign minister, cabled the United Nations today that "Israel is adopting the most vigorous and energetic measure to bring the assassins (of Count Folke Bernadotte) to justice and eradicate evil" in Palestine.

Strange Calm

A couple of rifle shots broke an unusual calm and contrasted with the bombardment which rocked Jerusalem Friday night after Count Bernadotte's assassination.

The stunned quiet was marred only by a report from the Arabs that the Jews had moved back into the Arab college in the area of former Government House. The college is in the Red Cross zone from which both sides were forced to evacuate at Count Bernadotte's insistence. An immediate investigation of the Arab report was launched.

It now is known the mediator had visited Government House. He was killed on the return trip because he planned soon to move

US Planes Rush Coal Supplies To Berlin People

BERLIN, Sept. 18 — (AP). — The Americans, racing coal into Berlin, neared an air-lift record today as the Soviet blockade hit the three-month mark.

Concentration on the delivery of coal was ordered as a demonstration on the first anniversary of the United States Air Force. It also spelled an answer to Soviet threats of a chilly winter in store for western Berliners.

Lt.-Gen. Curtis le May, commander of the American Air Force in Europe, directed every air-lift plane to carry coal and promised that 4,000 to 5,000 tons would be funnelled into the city in the 24 hours ending at noon today.

The 24-hour haul will be distributed at once to all families in western Berlin with two or more small children.

In a prepared broadcast which he was to deliver today Gen. Lucius D. Clay, United States military governor for Germany, declared:

"The spiritual significance of an air lift which provides the daily bread of more than 2,500,000 people demonstrates our will for peace is profound."

Meanwhile, there was indication that the Russians may be reconsidering the 25-year sentences imposed on five youths for disorders at the Brandenberger Gate Sept. 9 when anti-Communists clashed with Russian-controlled police and Soviet soldiers.

Release Count On $5,000 Bail

MONTREAL, Sept. 18 (CP) — Count Jacques Duge de Bernonville, now fighting deportation to France where he has been sentenced to death in absentia for wartime collaboration with the Germans, today was released from immigration detention on $5,000 bail. His wife and two daughters, also detained, were released at the same time.

The Count and his family, awaiting Sept. 29 hearing on a move to quash a deportation order, were freed when a member of Montreal's French colony put up the bail. The deportation order was originally issued against the French nobleman for illegal entry into Canada.

Mr. Justice A. J. Campbell refused bail Friday when he found that the Immigration Act provided that no court had jurisdiction to interfere with any order or proceeding of an immigration board of inquiry.

Bail was granted today on approval of the immigration department.

Three Policemen Now Reinstated

TORONTO, Sept. 18 — (CP) — Three police officers, dismissed last April 30 for beating a prisoner were reinstated Friday.

The three, Det.-Sgt. Frank Cradduck, Det. Robert McCandless and Constable Douglas Stephens, were convicted at a police commission investigaton of unjustifiably beating Norman Jack Wilkins, 42, in a police station last Dec. 22 after his arrest on a charge of armed robbery.

The police commission reviewed the case and Friday announced the reinstatement.

In a statement the board reaffirmed its decision of guilt. However, it was "deeply concerned about the punishment, which has been described as being unduly severe."

Fire Atop Mountain Becoming Emergency

MONROE, NY, Sept. 18 (AP)—A forest fire atop Schunnemunk mountain here is approaching the "emergency" stage, a fire official said Friday night.

George Brundage, fire warden in charge of the area, said the flames had moved into the heavy timber about 300 yards from the nearby resort area of Mountain Lodge Park.

The resort, covering about 300 acres, has between 700 and 800 summer cottages.

It was estimated the blaze already had burned through more than 2,000 acres of thick scrub oak and pine.

Cling to Deck Rails, Sing As Freighter Sinks Slowly

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (AP)—An officer of the hurricane-battered freighter Leicester told today how four crew members were swept overboard while others clung to deck rails singing to keep up their courage.

Six men were reported lost from the ill-fated British ship.

The story of the crew's all-night battle against pounding winds, mountainous seas and a listing ship was radioed to the Associated Press by J. T. Andrews, the Leicester's second officer.

He and 38 others were rescued in the hurricane-lashed Atlantic Thursday. Another 40 men were saved from the stricken Portuguest schooner Gaspar.

Andrews said that before help came, "It seemed certain the Leicester would capsize at any moment."

"We were clinging to the starboard boats and hand rails and sang songs to keep our spirits up. We huddled together and hung on to the rails all night."

Throughout the night the list of the helpless vessel increased until it was riding at an angle of about 70 degrees and rolling with the swells to 80 degrees—nearly flat on its side.

"Heavy seas swept along the port side of the deck, taking away two boats (lifeboats) and two men who were standing by," Andrews related. "Later, two other men were washed through the rails by the breaking seas."

Twenty of the Leicester's crew, including Andrews, were rescued by the American freighter Cecil N. Bean. Nineteen other survivors were picked up by the Argentine freighter Tropero.

Andrews said two men "were swept away by the seas" while trying to swim to a lifeboat launched by the Bean.

Widow Faces Trial For Trapper's Death

WHITEHORSE, YT, Sept. 18—(CP)—The widow of a gold rush veteran will face trial for the murder of her husband following a preliminary hearing at which she and her 15-year-old son told the court how she shot the 80-year-old man when she feared her life was in danger.

Magistrate Aubrey Simmons committed 60-year-old Mrs. Annie Hayden for trial Thursday, 24 hours after the 15-year-old son, Eddie, told RCMP of the death of his father, John Hayden at their cabin at Silver City, 130 miles northwest of Whitehorse.

"I got scared," the Indian wife of the veteran trapper and Yukon guide told Magistrate Simmons. "He was going to kill me that's why I shot him."

The mother and son told the court Mrs. Hayden grabbed a rifle and shot her husband after he had beaten and kicked her when she claimed an arm injury made it impossible for her to do the household chores.

Whole World Shocked at Assassination

All Pay Tribute To Bernadotte's Zeal In Struggle For Peace

By The Canadian Press

Shock and dismay at the assassination Friday of Count Folke Bernadotte were expressed by President Truman, United Nations officials, Jewish leaders and political heads throughout the world.

The killing of the UN mediator stirred increased anxiety about the fate of Palestine.

President Truman, during a stop-over of his special train at Crestline, Ohio, Friday night, told a crowd of 3,500:

"I have just been officially notified of Count Bernadotte's death. I am shocked and deeply saddened by it." Bernadotte's slaying "clearly emphasizes the difficulties we face in the world today."

In Washington, State Secretary Marshall said the world will demand that Count Bernadotte's work be "vigorously pursued."

In Ottawa, Louis St. Laurent, Canada's acting prime minister, paid high tribute to the mediator's "selflessness and devotion" and said the Canadian government was "shocked" by the assassination.

Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Canada's representative on the UN Security Council, said on arrival in Liverpool today that "it is not too much to say that the hope of nations of goodwill for solution of the Palestine problem was centred on his person." McNaughton is enroute to Paris for the UN General Assembly session starting Tuesday.

Hottest Issue

Aboard the liner America en route to Paris, the American delegation to the UN said the assassination would make the Palestine question probably the hottest issue facing the world assembly.

Foreign Secretary Bevin said in a message from London to the Swedish foreign minister that "this dastardly crime against a devoted servant of the United Nations will be condemned by the whole civilized world."

"We must all resolve that his work will not have been in vain," Bevin said.

Jewish leaders throughout the world expressed sorrow at the death.

Some Arab leaders blamed the deed on Zionists and said it reinforced the Arab cause.

In Oslo, Trygve Lie, secretary-general of the UN, said he learned of Count Bernadotte's death "with a deep sense of shock."

"He burned with eagerness to bring about an understanding between Arab and Jews," Lie said. "He thought always of justice and of peace."

PARIS, Sept. 18 (AP) — The The United Nations General Assembly mourned today the death of Count Folke Bernadotte, its Palestine mediator, slain in Jerusalem Friday.

The UN Security Council meets this afternoon to consider the assassination of the Swedish Count. The meeting was called by Sir Alexander Cadogan of Britain, September president of the Council.

Armed 15-Year-Olds Bungle Taxi Holdup

MONTREAL, Sept. 18 (CP)—Two gun-toting 15-year-old boys who bungled the holdup of a taxi driver Friday were captured after one of the most intensive man hunts by police in several years.

Taking refuge in a bush north of Sherbrooke Street East after warding off a Canadian National Railways constable by firing three shots at him, the boys were arrested when 100 policemen and detectives surrounded the area.

Shaking with fear, the boys shouted to police, "Don't shoot; please don't shoot."

Th boys, big for their age, were both heavily armed.

Wheat Seeding Said Heavy $2 Price Is Spur

Two dollar wheat and a grand yield of it this season was probably the spurring factor in the heavy seeding that has been recently reported from the district.

Some of the threshermen said last night at their meeting in the department of agriculture office that the acreage in winter wheat last fall would have been exceeded already this fall if there had been sufficient rain. The planting is considerable in spite of the lack of moisture in the ground, but scattered rains several weeks ago helped the cause.

Peterborough farmers splurged this fall in their purchases of fertilizer, going after another big crop of winter sown grain next summer. That is a major reason for concern about the weather over the week-end Rain would make certain of promoting germination.

Attempt To Murder Ex-Foreign Minister

RANGOON, Sept 18 (Reuters) —An unknown assailant today tried to murder U Tin Tut, former Burmese Foreign Minister, by throwing a grenade into his automobile.

The grenade exploded, injuring U Tin Tut in the legs. He was rushed to hospital where several hours later he was still unconscious. The assailant escaped.

The attack was made as the car was passing down one of Rangoon's main streets near the barricaded secretariat building in which Aung Sang, the Nationalist leader, and other Cabinet ministers were shot down last year.

UK Production Up

LONDON, Sept. 18 — (CP). — Harold Wilson, President of the Board of Trade, said Friday Britain's industrial production, was 20 per cent greater during the first six months of 1948 than in the first half of 1947.

No Dictating

He would not "presume to dictate" the party's platform. That was up to the convention. But in his opinion the platform should incorporate the following, among other principles:

1. A strong and definite declaration of the traditional policy of this party in its Commonwealth relationship, coupled with unconditional support to the United Nations.

2. The revamping of the law to put an end to the pampering of those who indulge in Communist subversive activities and thereby preserve Canada from her enemies who operate from within.

3. The restoration to parliament of its sovereignty and bring an end to the abuses of bureaucracy.

4. The maintenance of the Canadian constitution in letter as well as spirit with a full stop put to the invasion of the jurisdiction of the provinces that have taken place in the last few years under one pretence or another.

List 674 Japanese Dead Or Missing

TOKYO, Sept. 18.—(AP).—An estimated 674 Japanese were dead or missing today in a storm and resulting floods which ravaged broad areas of Japan from Tokyo northward.

Hardest hit was flooded Inchinoseki, a city of 35,000 population 250 miles north of Tokyo.

The army headquarters at Sendai, 60 miles to the south, said rural police had revised casualty figures downward at Ichinoseki but 200 were listed as dead and 300 as missing. Earlier 800 were reported dead or missing there, with 1,200 injured.

Many At Funeral Of Late H. B. Rye

More than 75 friends, in addition to many members of the family attended the funeral on Friday afternoon of the late Lewes Harold Brooke Rye, former Warden of Peterborough County and Reeve of North Monaghan, who died Wednesday after a long illness. The funeral took place from his home, River Rd. South, where the service was conducted by the Rev. W. E. Kibblewhite, of All Saints Church, assisted by the Rev. E. C. Moore of St. George's. Burial took place at Little Lake Cemetery and graveside prayers were read by the Rev. E. C. Moore.

Pall bearers were Gordon K. Fraser, MP, the Hon. Harold Scott, MPP, Fred Hills, Fred Finnie, W. J. Grady, and Douglas Loomis. Reeve Melville Johnson, of North Monaghan, and County Clerk Mrs. E. Spurway represented the County Council, who were unable to be present owing to previous commitments to attend a meeting in Ottawa.

Church In Politics

time was coming when the Roman government would order the utter destruction of this political cancer in the body politic and leave Jerusalem a desolation and the people without a country.

The Jewish feast was always a time of deep anxiety. The Roman governor came from Caesarea, his summer home, with a large body of troops, who would be kept under arms during the feast.

Caiaphas was a very clever worldlyman. Hearken to his summing up: "It is expedient for us that one man should die for the people and that the whole nation perish not." St. John, writing many years later says that God is speaking through the High Priest. He prophesied that "Jesus should die for that nation, and not for that nation only, but that He should gather together in One the children of God that were scattered abroad."

How modern is the use of the word "expedient." "It is expedient." There is never a case when the life of an innocent man should be sacrificed on the ground of expediency. "What does one man matter?" It is the thought in the minds of clever politicians. It is the fundamental thought in Communism. It is the temptation of all men who love power.

They compelled Pilate to crucify the Lord Jesus. Can you see the flush on the face of the Roman governor when the High Priest calmly threatens him: "If thou let this Man go thou art not Caesar's friend. Whosoever maketh himself a KING speaketh against Caesar." "Pilate delivered Him unto them to be crucified. And they took Jesus and led Him away."

BE STILL AND KNOW THAT I AM GOD. I WILL BE EXALTED AMONG THE HEATHEN.. I WILL BE EXALTED IN THE EARTH. THANKS BE UNTO THEE, O LORD.

McMaster Head Wants Teachers Not Specialists

Although there is today a "tremendous humility" in the educational world, Dr. George Gilmour, Chancellor of McMaster University and an outstanding teacher, was not humble under the impact of the newer social studies like psychology and psychiatry when he spoke Friday night at the annual dinner meeting of the Peterborough branch of Queen's University Alumni Association at the Empress Hotel. Psychology and psychiatry "have had their fun" and Canadian universities cannot afford much more of it, according to the speaker. Chancellor Gilmour asked what profit there was in psychiatric analysis unless it is known what to put together, and to what end. He spoke for the humanities rather than the scientific specialists, for libraries rather than laboratories.

Dr. Gilmour's audience was mainly composed of local graduates from Queen's and McMaster universities. He spoke with the authority not only of his position as head of McMaster University, but also of that of a Canadian representative to the conference of British Commonwealth university heads which met at Oxford this summer. The problems of Canadian universities are, he revealed of the same intrinsic nature as those facing all Commonwealth universities in the post-war world.

His remark about a soda with two straws drew attention to the second phase of the address, which Dr. Gilmour had sub-divided under the headings: "production, distribution, use." Tertiary education offered by the universities in the opinion of Dr. Gilmour is not fully accomplished within the walls of the lecture rooms. Universities need social centres, playing-room, dining-room, where undergraduates can mingle and learn of each other. By "distribution" Dr. Gilmour meant more than this. He recognized that universities must function beyond the undergraduate student. University benefits must carry on into adult life and into centres outside university seats. He had a caustic comment about certain types of students: "Why students should should work all summer to pay for fees for an education which they resist, I do not know."

In the "production" phase of his address, the speaker mentioned certain "blank" areas in university teaching. Departments of economics, to which more male students in the faculties of Arts were turning than to any other, were being denuded of their staffs by governments. During the war and since, expert economists, experienced university teachers, have been sucked into government service, to the detriment of the universities, which now suffer from "the blanching effect of the bleeding." Teachers (not merely scholars) were lacking in all universities. Young instructors were bent on scholarly and scientific research, and not accepting the obligation of teaching. Older teachers of the "Mr. Chips" type were dying out. Experienced teachers were being drained off by industry and government. Dr. Gilmour pleaded for teachers who would take pride in the art of teaching, and asked his audience "to honor the teacher rather than the research specialist."

Dr. Gilmour spoke briefly about the third, and in his opinion least advanced part of the college educational process the 'use' of universities. The problem is "how to keep university graduates interested in using the things they have been given instead of taking pride in forgetting what they learned in college. "Universities give the tools of a full life—the tools for avocation and an avocation. "The task is to make ourselves interested people as well as interesting people," he declared.

Dr. R. A. Kelly presided at the dinner, Rev. Ivan Morgan introduced the speaker and Principal C. S. Browne thanked him. Mr. A. J. Noftall led the singing.

wild or tame, is just as acute in an out-of-the-way place as in a well-populated locality," he said.

Mr. Sellar complimented the 31 active societies in the Ontario group, particularly on their work in supervising lumber camps, inspecting riding schools, and for their concern over docked horses' tails. He gave the opinion that wayside zoos are on their way out and said rodeos were being watched for cruelty.

He urged local organizations interested in preventing cruelty to animals to join the provincial group. "The Ontario S.P.C.A. in the long run will benefit every individual organization. Every organization has gained as a result of the record so vividly portrayed by Mr. Loat today."

The speaker asked members to give unstintingly of their moral and material support.

Professor A. F. Stevenson, Toronto, introduced Mr. Seller and he was thanked by Morley Powell, president of the Peterborough Humane Society.

Mayor William Ovens welcomed the visitors and paid tribute to the local branch: "Many thanks for a job well done. I know that your organization and council never did see eye to eye until a few years ago."

Mayor Ovens then spoke of his personal recognition of the work being done by the Society.

Seated at the head table were Morley Powell, Professor Stevenson, Mrs. W. A. Young, Peterborough, Mayor Ovens and Mrs. Ovens, Frank Cooke, Ontario Society president, Mr. Sellar, Archdeacon Robertson and Colonel R. S. Timmins, DSO, Toronto.

Miss Geraldine Collins entertained the diners with two vocal solos.

IT'S A BLACKOUT

For years the two lights mounted outside the Court House main door have burned day in, day out. What with Hydro shortages, one conserving citizen looked at the "power burning up" walked into the Court House and with the pull of a switch cut off the power drainers.

WET MARKET

Rain spoiled a brisk market this morning. There was a large selection of fruit and vegetables for sale. Apples were selling at about 50c a basket, the price varying with type. Prices for tomatoes varied from 25c a small basket to 50c a large basket. Eggs were selling at 65c a dozen for grade A large.

HARVESTING ADVANCES

The western harvest is rapidly moving toward its conclusion, says the CNR weekly review from Winnipeg today. Another week of good weather will see most of the crop off the fields except in northern Alberta and the Peace River area where rains have held up work.

ANOTHER GRASS IFE

Most of the calls to the Fire Department these days are to report grass fires. On Friday they went to a vacant lot on Maria St. near the CNR tracks to put one out. It was believed to have been started by a misplaced cigarette butt. Earlier in the evening a false alarm had been rung in when somebody tampered with the box at Brock and Geeorge Sts.

A late summer heat-wave holds sway over all southern and central Ontario. Toronto's 90 degrees Friday was a record for that date with correspondingly high temperatures reported from the other forecast regions A little cooler air has entered the northwestern part of the province and is slowly pushing southward. Scattered thunderstorms were reported during the night in advance of this cooler air with similar conditions expected tonight. Southern regions are forecast to remain hot throughout the week-end but northern and central regions will return to more seasonable temperatures.

Forecasts:

Lake Erie, Lake Huron, Lake Ontario and Niagara regions — Variable cloudiness today and Sunday. Widely scattered showers or thunderstorms tonight and Sunday night. Continuing very warm.

Georgian Bay and Haliburton regions — Variable cloudiness today and Sunday. Widely scattered showers tonight. Cooler by Sunday evening.

Summary for Sunday: Variable cloudiness.

Rustles Cattle at Lindsay Verulam Man Gets 5 Years

LINDSAY, Sept. 18—(Special).—One man was sentenced to five years in penitentiary Friday when he appeared in a charge of rustling cattle in the Lindsay area. Eugene Coulter, 43, of Verulam township, changed his plea from not guilty to guilty during the hearing before Magistrate E. A. Gee, who sentenced the accused to the term in Kingston.

A second man, Thomas G. Roberts of Victoria Road, is also charged with Coulter. Pleading not guilty, he was found guilty on the evidence by Magistrate Gee and remanded for sentence.

Arthur Young, a farmer on the Bobcaygeon-Kinmount Road, according to evidence given, has been approached by the accused who wanted to buy several head of Young's cattle. The sale was refused.

Cattle Missing

Shortly after this, Young, who runs about 50 head of cattle on a large ranch, said that he discovered six head of his cattle missing one morning. The missing animals were valued at $1,000. He made a thorough search of his property before reporting to police, as he wanted to be sure they had been taken and not strayed.

A lengthy investigation was carried out by provincial constable Lloyd Lyle of Fenelon Falls. It was finally discovered, said police, that cattle belonging to Young had been seen on Coulter's truck on the way to Toronto where they were sold.

In meting out the stiff sentence, Magistrate Gee impressed upon the accused the seriousness of the offence.

"This is a dairy country, farmers depend on cattle heavily for their livelihood and they must be protected."

his headquarters from the Island of Rhodes to the general vicinity of the former headquarters of the British-mandated government. He also planned to house the Truce Supervision Board on Mount Scopus.

Deliberately Planned

Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, chief of the United Nations Palestine Secretariat, officially described the attack on Count Bernadotte's automobile as a "planned and cold-blooded assassination." Bunche was notified today by the United States Consul-General John J. MacDonald, chairman of the Palestine Truce Board of Appointment, that Arkady A. Sobolev, Acting Secretary-General of the U.N. at Lake Success, had designated Bunche acting Palestine mediator.

Bunche said Gen. Aage Lundshoem, chief of the staff of the Truce Commission "miraculously" escaped injury.

"The situation in Jerusalem is tense. I am consulting with the truce commission and senior observers concerning future assignments affecting observer personnel in Jerusalem, who are in constant danger."

"All members of the observer corps and the United Nations secretariat staff are deeply shocked by the sudden loss of their leader in whose high integrity, tirelessness and devotion to his mission and great personal courage were an inspiration to us all."

An eye-witness said the two gunmen who killed Count Bernadotte and the French observer never said a word, but just snarled and pumped lead.

Identified As Jews

Col. Frank Begley, of New Haven, Conn., U.N. observer who was with Count Bernadotte and grappled with one of the gunmen, said they were "Jews in Israeli army uniforms."

A Jewish liaison officer with U.N., who had just stepped out of the car before the shooting began, agreed with police the assassins were members of the Stern group of Jewish extremists.

Macdonald reported to the State Department at Washington that the gunmen "presumably" were Sternists.

Begley gave this account:

"We were stopped by a jeep full of irregulars in Jerusalem at an abandoned road block. There was a lot of milling around, then two men dressed in the military uniforms came up to the car.

"A man with a Tommy-gun walked past my window and snarled. I saw trouble coming and started to jump out. Then a second man came up and wrestled with me as the first one started shooting.

Starts Shooting

"The first one had looked into the car and recognized the Count. He never said a word. He just raised his gun and started shooting. Count Bernadotte was hit right over the heart and in the chest, the bullets going right through the ribbons he wore on his uniform.

"Col. Serrot was hit in the left temple and in the forehead and died instantly. The two killers ran away, and I found the Count still alive. Then I pulled around the convoy and went as fast as I could to the Hadassah Hospital. The doctors there made a quick examination and said 'there is a chance.' We put the Count on a stretcher. He died before we got inside."

New Addition To School Is Show Place

The addition to the Queen Mary Public School on Monaghan Road, the show place of Peterborough's school system, will be formally opened on Tuesday night when a program will be held in the new auditorium at which C. F. Cannon, Superintendent of Elementary Education for Ontario, will speak. The program will be followed by an inspection of the school.

Plans for this addition were commenced three years ago by the Board of Education and today the rooms are occupied by approximately 250 children. The principal of the school is O. M. Steer. Like other urban centres in Ontario, Peterborough has in the last few year seen a rapid increase in school population with the result that plans made two and three years ago by the Board of Education were not made one day too soon as the new additions are almost filled.

Queen Mary building, originally a 12-room school with three additional basement rooms has had six rooms added in the new addition. There are 19 rooms already occupied with plans being made to open the 20th room the first of the year.

Contract Let in 1947

Early in 1947 the contract to erect the addition to Queen Mary School was let to the Eastwood Construction Co. and since that time work has been pushed as fast as the securing of materials would allow. Originally expected to cost $198,000, the cost will according to Board of Education officials be likely $225,000.

The new extension is joined to the north side of the main school by glass-panellel walls that face out into a spacious rotunda as an entrance to the auditorium seating 400 pupils. The auditorium acts as a central anchor building to six class rooms in wings both eas tand west. Each classroom has one wall completely glassed and the window expanse equipped with venetian blinds and built-in ventilation units. Walls are painted in bright pleasing colors and the blackboards are slanted back at top to prevent glare. They could actually be called greenboard and yellow chalk is used in writing on them. Old-fashioned locker rooms are missing and in their places are inset clothing cupboards behind master folding doors that can be opened by the tiniest tot by finger-tip pressure. Moveable tables and chairs in each room give a fine feeling of freedom. Each class room has a project room where work can be done when study time is ended, and also a door leading to the playground. The whole "plant" gives one the impression of complete lack of regimentation by which educational planners hope to induce independence in thought and action in young children.

Showroom of the School

The showroom of the new classrooms is the kindergarten. It is the most spacious of all and equipped with midget chrome furniture. There are windows on two sides of this room that look on Monaghan Road across the well-kept school lawns.

On opening day, Principal Steer spoke to the student body from the spacious auditorium, It is indeed the latest in assembly hall interiors, complete with comfortable seats, ceiling and indirect lighting, a deep stage, and the latest in projection room and equipment.

The children realize that their new school wing is possibly the most modern of its kind in Canada, Mr. Steer said, and teachers who were asked for an opinion said that it was a pleasure to teach in such bright new surroundings and that the pupils were responding to it wonderfully well.

Girls Get An Earful, As Disgusted Bachelors List Major Faults Of Modern 'She-Wolves'

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 — (AP) —Memo to the girls: There is a bounty on your pretty heads. It's not for being little dears. It's because, say the boys, you act like little wolves.

How come the boys have decidd your coat is too fuzzy and your teeth too sharp? If you do not know, their advice is to examine the wolf traps you have planted in your own back yard.

It's the girl with the "smooth line" who keeps them jumping She picks a man by formula—a half-teaspoonful of this and an ounce of that. Then she talks for the kill.

If you don't want to wear a wolf-skin tagged "poison" by the boys, better scan their definitions of a wolf-girl. According to them she is:

A pursuer....In what other generation, they ask, was the male so wined, dined and dazzled by females? The girls create so much competition for themselves that they are apt to be out of the running before the race starts.

And Then....

Lacking in pride....It has become an indoor pastime for gals to compare notes on their more romantic moments with the male.

Promiscuous....The kiss has become too casual and is no longer a seal of esteem and affection.

Glamor bent....More girls every day think that rearing a family went out with the horse and buggy.

Mercenary....Judges a man wholly by the size of his pocketbook and whether he opens it often

A social snob....Only wants to know the best people, dates boys who look well with her when she wants to impress people.

Flaunter....Wears gowns that leave too little to the imagination.

A mush artist....She calls everybody darling and isn't happy unless she gets a "line" in return.

If you want to get your third finger left hand in the wedding pie, be a man's girl instead of looking for a girl's man. The boys claim they won't give up a beach-head in bachelordom to launch a wife on a glamor career.

The Department Of External Affairs

The twentieth century development of Canada as a nation is epitomized in the expansion of its foreign contacts and its way of making and mafntaining them. The present status and organization of the Department of External Affairs is the matrix of Canada's nationhood. Before 1900 Canada had one representative abroad—the High Commissioner to Westminster (the post was created in 1880). He was virtually supernumerary, for Canadian relations with Britain were through the Governor-General as appointed agent of the British Colonial Office, to the Colonial Office. There was no Department of External Affairs, and Canada had no official affairs beyond Britain and the United States. Our American connections were maintained through London. Now fewer than fifty years later, the Secretary of State for External Affairs is senior in ministerial status and he presides over a Department which maintains thirty-eight ambassadors, ministers, Charges d'Affaires and consuls in thirty-three different countries, and most of these countries have reciprocal representation in Ottawa.

* * *

The development has been rapid because in two world wars Canada demonstrated its existence as a middle power and because of the growth of our agriculture, industry and trade. Successive governments, particularly the one now in office, have sought and secured the right to control and direct our external affairs, independent of the British Government.

* * *

The Department of External Affairs was established in 1909, after the Dominions section had been set up within the Colonial Office. At the first Imperial War Conference in 1917 it was resolved that a conference after the war should devote itself to reviewing the constitution of the Empire. At the 1926 Imperial Conference presided over by Lord Balfour, a committee was set up to report on inter-imperial relations. Out of this came the Balfour Report, as important in many ways as the Durham Report of 1837. "It gathered together" says Professor H. McD. Clokie, in Canadian Government and Politics, "the results of fifty years' practice and relates the isolated precedents into a definite theory of Dominion status and nationhood". After the Balfour Report came the Statute of Westminster (1931) which made many of its recommendations law. Rules for the negotiation and signature of Dominion treaties were established in 1926. The appointment of Canadian ministers to foreign states (agreed to in 1920) became effective; Britain appointed a High Commissioner to Ottawa (1928); the Canadian Prime Minister thereafter dealt directly with the British Prime Minister, or, as Minister of External Affairs, with the new British Secretary of State for the Dominions. The first Canadian Minister to Washington was appointed in 1926. In the next dozen years Ministers were exchanged with other foreign states and High Commissioners appointed to other Dominions.

* * *

These developments occasioned the need for trained civil servants to staff the embassies, legations and consular office. The demand was greater than the supply, and it was not until 1941 that we had our own consular officials. Until then Canada relied on the British consular services. Fortunately, Dr. O. D. Skelton, formerly Dean of Arts at Queen's University, was the permanent Under-Secretary for External Affairs in the mid-twenties when our foreign service was being established. He recruited as able and informed young men as the country could provide. One of them was L. B. Pearson, later to become Under-Secretary, this week to become Canada's first trained Minister for External Affairs.

The Department has grown rapidly but soundly. Its nucleus was good; it had the Prime Minister and later Mr. St. Laurent at its head; some of its senior officials abroad have been outstanding, men like the Right Honourable Vincent Massey, Mr. Norman Robertson (his successor at Westminster and one of Dr. Skelton's younger group) and Mr. Jean Desy, now at Rome. It is continuing to secure the services of our ablest young university graduates.

Candidates For P.C. Leadership: Donald Fleming, K.C.

The name of Donald Fleming, K.C., is third on the alphabetical list of those mentioned as possible successors to Hon. John Bracken as national leader of the Progressive Conservative Party. Mr. Fleming is member of the Federal House of Commons for the riding of Toronto Eglinton, and although he was elected as recently as 1945 he has established an enviable reputation as an able and industrious member of Parliament.

Mr. Fleming was born in Exeter, Ontario, in 1905, and was educated in Galt and Toronto. His scholastic career was marked by several medals and scholarships, both in school years and at the University of Toronto and Osgoode Hall. Member of a Toronto law firm, he is the author of a number of articles on legal subjects; he was made a King's Counsel in 1944.

A keen interest in politics and strong convictions about the responsibilities of citizenship led Mr. Fleming into municipal life in Toronto in 1939, when he was elected to the City Council, and served as alderman on that body until 1944, during which time he was a vigorous exponent of city planning and social welfare. He had also served as a member of the Toronto Board of Education in 1938, and during his years as a member of Toronto City Council he was chairman of several important committees. He is a member of several social welfare organizations, and of the United Church; he is married, the father of three children.

Mr. Fleming has used his experience in social welfare work to good effect in the House of Commons, and he has established himself as one of the foremost Opposition critics on legislation dealing with social security. This experience, plus his industry and debating ability, have made him outstanding among the younger members of the Progressive Conservatives in Parliament.

No announcement has been made to date as to whether Mr. Fleming will allow his name to go on the ballot at the Progressive Conservative National Convention to be held in Ottawa at the end of the month. Although he has strong support from a group of Toronto Conservatives, he is not regarded as a leading candidate, despite the fact that he has become one of the best-known members of the Opposition in the short period of three years.

The Death Of Graham Robertson

Graham Robertson died last week; he was eighty-two. Yet when we think of the friendships he enjoyed—Ellen Terry and Sarah Bernhardt, Nellie Farren, Whistler, Henry Irving, Oscar Wilde and Burne-Jones—it is hard for us to realize that he was not a hundred and eighty-two. He was a link with a world as far away and as strange to us as the world of Dr. Johnson, or of Queen Elizabeth. Since Graham Robertson, as a young man, wandered familiarly through all the stage doors and studio doors of London, there has been a change in the pace of living, in manners and ideas, and in standards of comfort and social demeanour as great as any that history has to show.

Graham Robertson was a painter, but his chief importance lay in his great ability to descry worth in the work of other painters, and in his championship of neglected masters. Much of the modern appreciation of the work of William Blake is founded upon Robertson's tireless advocacy of Blake's work. His own great collection of Blake drawings, now the property of the British nation, forms a memorial to a great connoisseur.

Although Robertson had such a rich past, he was by no means neglectful of the present. Vivien Leigh, Noel Coward, the Lunts and most of the modern stage folk were frequent visitors to his house in Surrey. He was, among other remarkable things, an old man who had not become a bore to the young. His autobiography, Time Was, and his fine collection of pictures have won him a modest but secure immortality.

NOTE AND COMMENT

"What Does Russia Know?" says a headline in a contemporary. Our guess is that Russia knows about as much concerning us as we do concerning her, which is a molehill of fact and a mountain of scandalous rumour.

A news report tells of a man from Buffalo, N.Y., who caught and killed 1,025 perch in a single day in the Niagara River. This is the sort of fisherman we shall never understand—the man who sets out to make a record slaughter.

Diary Of Picklemas

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY: To a party this evening at which the refreshments consisted solely of cheese, biscuits and beer. This seems to me to be an admirable lesson in simplicity, and the party was a great success. Not, mind you, that I dislike elaborate parties; let the footmen cluster around me with the quail on toast, the caviar and the anchovies; let sherry trifle be heaped upon crepes suzette and liqueur cherries swim in the zabaglione. I can take parties as elaborate as they come. But many times my heart has bled for the hostess who has slaved for hours to produce four kinds of sandwiches and two kinds of cake, and who is so exhausted by her labours that she casts a gloom over her own party. Far, far better to offer something simple and good, in a spirit of revelry, than to toil to produce pretentious mediocrity. It is the spirit which makes a party, and not dainty sandwiches, cut in the form of hearts and tasting like spades.

MONDAY: How times have changed! When I was a child the day before the opening of school was a heavy one for me, because I knew that on the morrow my unequal struggle with arithmetic would be resumed, and that I would be "kept in" four nights out of five to finish the sums which I had not done correctly in the morning. Teachers, I assumed, loved school, and spent the day before opening polishing up their newest sarcasms and exercising the eyes which they traditionally have in the backs of their heads. But today every child I met was gleeful at the thought of getting back to Good Old School, and plunging once more into that exciting continued story about Dick and Jane which seems to play such a big part in modern education. Toward evening I met a couple of teachers, and they were in the depths of depression; after a mere two months respite they were to be locked up again with the younger generation, and they did not fancy the prospect....The world is obviously upside down. If teachers, who simply sit at their desks and rake in the apples and bunches of flowers, and the handkerchiefs at Christmas, do not like school, who should?

TUESDAY: Of late I have been much in the company of some professional Canadian actors, who were engaged in the production of a play. Most Canadians still think of actors as gay, carefree souls and not quite respectable by our grisly national standard. (In Canada anyone is respectable who does no obvious harm to his fellow man, and who takes care to be very solemn, and disapproving toward those who are not solemn.) But my experience of Canadian actors is that they are intense and earnest folk who work very hard and spend the time when they should be asleep chewing the rag about a national theatre for Canada. For this reason I think that it is wrong to call pieces which are written for the theatre in Canada "plays", for that word suggests lightness, fantasy and ease of accomplishment. Canada will only respect her theatre when plays are called "works". Canada has a high regard for anything that involves toil. Therefore I think that in future I shall describe all my plays as "works", and if they ever reach the apotheosis of print I shall take care to call them "The Complete Works of Marchbanks". Let triflers talk of plays; Canada wants to be given the works.

WEDNESDAY: The medical profession had some fun with me this afternoon. They extracted blood from me at various strategic points, and did strange things with such of my by-products as they could obtain. They took pictures of my insides, and put me in a machine which rendered me transparent. They gouged and banged me to see if I would scream, but I rememoered that I had once been a Wolf Cub, and kept a stiff upper lip (though why I should have done this when my underlip was trembling like a blancmange in an earthquake I cannot say). But the final injustice came when they decided to weigh me. I craftily left off my coat, hoping thereby to gain a slight advantage, but the doctor who had just used the fluoroscope to see through me saw through me again and ordered me sternly to put it on. This I did, and consequently the weight of two books which I had in my pocket, as well as $2.35 in silver, was entered on the charge-sheet against me. This is the kind of unfairness which drives men to rash acts. However, it will be easy for me to make a good impression next time I visit my doctor, for I shall simply leave my books and money at home, and he will think that I am losing weight.

THURSDAY: To my dentist today, and as I lay in the chair with a spit-sucker, two large cotton wads, a small tin mortar-form and the dentist's hand in my mouth, and with one side of my face swollen with anaesthetic so that I felt like Liverlip Luke, I wondered how dentists begin their delicate craft. There must always be a first time when the trembling young dentist lays the drill against a live tooth, and turns on the power. How many of them faint, I wonder? And what are their first patients? Doting papas and mamas, or wretches who get their dental work done free by beginners, like the valiant men who get their hair cut at the barber college? ....While the dentist was out of the room I discovered that I could pump myself up in the chair by pushing a pedal with my hand; as I approached the ceiling it occurred to me that the dentist might not like me to play with his things, so I hastily jumped out and brought the chair back to earth before he returned....It was two hours before my mouth was my own again, and I think that the spit-sucker nipped a bit out of my tongue. Dentistry has improved greatly in the past thirty years, but it is still fraught with danger.

FRIDAY: A friend was telling me today about a little girl he knows who was sent some handkerchiefs for her birthday. "Look, Mummy", cried the moppet in amaze; "cloth kleenex!" This child will be an ideal citizen of the Age of Substitutes, into which we are fast moving. For a time we shall use nothing except foods, fabrics, and substances which have been made in imitation of the age-old gifts of nature. Then, as time passes, distinguished scientists will discover that a cloth of superior properties can be made from the wool of sheep, that amusing drinking cups can be made from the horns of beasts, and that a piquant beverage can be produced by allowing honey to ferment. And thus, by the roundabout methods which appeal to scientists and worshippers of Progress, we shall return to the Golden Age. I hope that I live long enough to see it.

SATURDAY: Attended a play which I had written myself, and at the end of Act One two women hurried past me, making for the door. "I don't care what happens, those pickles have got to be done tonight", said the larger and more determined one. It is incidents such as this which keep authors from getting swelled heads. And indeed at this time of year pickles are the prime concern of every really womanly woman. The subtle alchemy which transmutes a mess of tomatoes and celery (which looks like something the police have swept up after a disastrous bus collision) into chili sauce, cannot be understood by men; nor can the coarse male hand compound mustard pickles which do not scorch the epigastrium of the eater, and give him a breath like the monsoon of the spicy East. There are indisputably some jobs which women do better than men, and making pickles is one of them. Women cannot make wine—Sir James Fraser tells why in "The Golden Bough" — but they are priestesses of the pungent mystery of the pickle, and the 25th of September is their Picklemas.

Letter To The Editor

PETERBOROUGH FILTH AMAZES YACHTSMAN

Sir: One Monday morning recently I reached your city in a cabin cruiser in the course of a magnificent cruising holiday along the Trent Canal. As we travelled many miles of beautiful waterways from Lake Ontario to the Georgian Bay and back to Peterborough we found ourselves proud that Ontario had in reserve such a fine tourist attraction, and we determined to tell our friends to get themselve anything that would float and bring it up the Trent Canal to the lakes.

We tied up our boat at the Peterborough Municipal Dock that Monday, and did not return till Friday. Now we will have to tell yacht visitors not to come to Peterborough unless they have iron boats, or safer still not to come at all.

All wooden hulls leak a bit, so that the bilges have to be pumped out occasionally. Our cruiser is no exception. When we opened the cabin door late Friday night we found an appalling stench inside. On lifting the floor boards we at first thought something nasty had happened to the plumbing. About two inches of foul fluid had leaked in and stood in the bottom of the boat, and floating on top was a thick scum of brown gelatinous something. The cabin was uninhabitable. Our nice little boat had the contents of a cess pool in it.

It was 3.00 a.m. when we finished. We lifted all the floor boards and threw down buckets and buckets of water, but they did not help. It was the same stuff; we were floating in a liquid only a trifle less putrescent than the sewage in the bilges. We started up the engine and went out in the fog as far as we could get from the Municipal Dock. Perhaps it was not just fog that night, it was probably a noxious emanation from putrescent organic matter. By dint of flushing cleaner water into the bilges and pumping it out again, a process repeated many times as a preliminary to some unpleasant hand work with buckets, we reached the stage at which a handy bottle of disinfectant stood a chance of sweetening the air so that we could sleep.

As casual visitors by water we can hardly expect you to provide spring water for us to float in. Doubtless you provide that or a safe equivalent in the hose pipe the city has installed on the Dock for yachting visitors to fill their water tanks at. We are not entitled to complain if you float us in a pretty lake which has been filled with city and packing house overflow. If we don't like it we and fellow yachtsmen from Canadian and U.S. clubs need not come back. We don't have to swim in it. The only emotion we are entitled as visitors to express is surprise.

We are surprised. We are surprised you do not immediately have an epidemic. We are surprised at your sense of smell. We are astonished you have not noticed that a few feet from your principal street you have a very nasty state of affairs. I personally felt like waking up the Mayor that night to tell him so.

I must close now as I have a rather sore throat developing.

Yours very truly,
BERNARD RADLEY.

Hollywood's Canadian Search

We are happy to learn from the news columns that a Hollywood movie director who is visiting the city has given up the idea of doing a picture on the life of Red Ryan—the one-time "Dillinger" of this country who was finally shot down by police. Surely the fortunes of the 12,000,000 people engaged in wresting a living from the great resources of this half-continent can produce a better dramatic tale than the petty adventures of a small-time crook. Can no Canadian help the visitor in his quest?—Victoria Times.

A BRITISH OPINION

"All right. You despair of the human race, I despair of the human race, we ALL despair of the human race. Now hold your tongue."

THIS 26-POUND MASKINONGE was caught in the rapids below Buckhorn dam this week by Lawrence French of Ellwood, Pa. The fish is being held by Bob Fulton, manager of the Windsor Hotel at Buckhorn, who says this lunge is the largest taken in the Buckhorn district so far this year. French and his son Russell have been regular visitors to the Windsor for many years. The fish was 48 inches long and 17½ in girth.

Mark Centennial Year of Movement To Obtain Franchise For Women

By GLEN HANCOCK

When the next federal election comes around, thousands of Canadian women will go to the polls to cast their ballot. They will be no more conscious of the act than the men, and their votes will be just as independent.

Few Canadian women, as a matter of fact, realize that woman's right to vote in the affairs of her country is a comparatively new privilege, going no farther back than 1917. Few women remember the names of those who fought for suffrage and who went to prison because they demanded this now accepted right.

This year marks the centennial of the organized struggle for woman's suffrage in the world. It started in the United States, and yet it was not until after almost all countries in the British Empire had accepted suffrage for women, as they had previously recognized the freedom of the serf, that American women finally had a vote, on August 26, 1920.

It seems unbelievable that the sex which has so firmly established its equality in the civilized world should not have attempted to escape the chains of male domination until the last half of the 19th century. By 1832, United States women were receiving education, and at the same time they became interested in the slavery question. In other parts of the world woman's energies were still confined either to the coquettishness of fashion or to the drudgery of the household. Under Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Lucretia Mott, women began to agitate for a new abstraction called "Woman's Rights."

In the summer of 1948 the Society of Friends, ironically noted for their humility and dislike of notoriety, called a convention for woman's rights at Seneca Falls, New York. It was the first one in history, and it was the beginning of world suffrage.

The issue was a sane and practical one. They were not interested in changing the name of "housewife" to something more dignified, or in transferring the duties of their sex. They merely wanted an equal right to vote for or against government legislation which effected them. Municipal enfranchisement, particularly for widows and female property owners, who paid taxes, was eventually conceded.

The women of England picked up the agitation. They actually made more progress than the women in the United States. Until 1850, the only English woman who could take part in policies was the queen. After the French revolution the idea of freedom became popular among British women, and the issue was supported by John Hume, Benjamin Disraeli and John Stuart Mill.

Mill wrote a sensational treatise on the subject in 1865, which coincided with the founding of the Salvation Army and the birth of Evangeline Booth. Suffrage societies sprang into existence everywhere. Women demonstrated on the streets, and hundreds of them, among them the wives of the nobility, were thrown into prison. With the same relentless tenacity which had characterized Elizabeth Fry and her prison reform, and Lady Godiva's sympathy for the taxed peasants, British women fought for their equality.

Women ratepayers were eventually given municipal franchise, but their noble cause soon became a platform issue. Gladstone vehemently opposed suffrage, and so did Lord Asquith. But in 1907 victory appeared through the gloom and a bill was passed which made women eligible for the office of lord mayor of London. The suffragists took advantage of the concession and Mrs. Garrett Anderson became the first English woman-mayor of Aldburgh, in 1908.

David Lloyd George supported a bill in 1917 and the next year woman's suffrage in England was law. In 1919, Viscountess Astor was elected to the Commons. Suffrage followed all over the British Empire. New Zealand, first as always with reform, adopted a bill in 1893, and all the Canadian provinces except Quebec accepted suffrage in 1916, followed by federal suffrage in 1917.

Suffrage in Canada began in 1878, under the leadership of Dr. Emily Howard Stowe, who was the first president of the Dominion Women's Enfranchisement Association Incorporated, in 1889. Sir John A. Macdonald had unsuccessfully introduced a bill in 1883, and several other bills were similarly rebuked when the Women's Christian Temperance Union backed the movement in 1894.

In Ontario, where woman's suffrage commenced in Canada, the objective was originally Dominion franchise, butt heir efforts were later directed toward provincial enfranchisement. Municipal franchise for widows and spinsterss was first granted in Ontario in 1884. Other provinces followed. But bills which would grant women provincial voting rights were rejected in all the legislatures until 1916, when Manitoba granted the first Canadian provincial enfranchisement.

The daughter of the founder of the movement, Dr., Augusta Stowe Gullen, was president of the Canadian Suffrage Association from 1903 to 1911, and during this time Canadian women were riled up by British agitators. Sir Robert Borden pledged his support, and in 1918 his bill extended the rights of women, which were always subject to conditions and limitations, and which had not been exercised during World War I. In the end, the women won.

Mrs. Jamieson became the first woman judge in Canada in 1914, and in 1918 the first woman in the British Empire to be elected to the legislature were Canadians, Mrs. L. M. McKinney and Miss Roberta McAdams. In 1919 Mrs. Ralph Smith became speaker of the British Columbia house. In 1921 Miss Agnes McPhail was elected to the Dominion house, and in 1930 Mrs. Cairine Wilson was the first woman to be appointed to the Canadian Senate.

That is the story of milady's quest for equal rights in the nation which she and her foremothers helped to build in the days when potash kettles and homespuns represented household industry and the "new look."

Perhaps it would do Canadian women good to remember that just 100 years ago not even women thought of a day when they would be legally equal to the men who for generations had been their peers.

Outdoors

With PETE McGILLEN

SEPTEMBER with its brave pretense of summer at midday and the blanketing coolness of autumn in the evening is upon us. First frosts already have laid a withering hand on the stately goldenrod. Rural roadsides are displaying a patchwork pattern of autumn's changing colors, a mosaic with yellow and brown the dominating shades. September is the interlude between August's enervating heat and the crispness of October. It's the sportsmen's month. Muskies are hungry, snapping readily at lures, readily visible because the first frosts have flattened the heavy weed beds. Spawn-laden trout are hungry, and the speckles and browns already are on the gravel beds, laying eggs. Fawns born in June are robust, lively creatures now, strong of limb and body. The advancing season has affected the birds too. Few are still with us, and soon all will be gone, as they came, silently and by night.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

SPORTSMEN ARE BUILDING duck blinds along Pigeon and Rice lakes and Deer Bay. Frameworks of poles embedded in the lake mud, and laced with cedar boughs. One end of these rectangular enclosures is open, so that a punt or skiff can be rowed inside. Here the hunters squat, eyes scanning the horizon for a flight of mallards, or blacks or teal. Season opens on Sept. 25, and then the bullrushes, rice beds and duck blinds will hide the gunners. Flights are numerous at Rice lake, and large too, often numbering 30 birds. In all local lakes, of course, the only ducks present are the blacks, mallards and a few bluebills which nest in this belt. There are a few pestiverous fish ducks, too. Across the prairies, the bluebills, widgeons, pintails and mallards are counted in the thousands. Here, too, the mighty armadas of waterfowl are testing the wings above the nesting places. Many of them hatched this year will never see the southern winter grounds. The hatch was excellent, and hunters are promised a good shoot.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

THERE ARE MOOSE in the Crown Game Preserve. On three occasions during the past summer, reports have reached me, of cows, bulls and calves being seen. Apparently there was a sizeable herd in the Preserve last winter, because a survey made by a Dept. of Lands and Forests field man revealed 15 of these stately animals. It is amazing how rapidly deer or moose increase with a little protection. At the Federation of Anglers and Hunters meeting last February, delegates were complaining about the scarcity of deer. There is no such distressing condition in Peterborough county. Fact is, I believe there are more deer in this county than in any other across the entire province. That is due entirely to the Crown Game Preserve, 88 square miles of sanctuary. The elk, too, which were introduced back about 1933 are thriving. For a time it appeared as if all had been killed by poachers, but Burleigh residents report having seen some of them. If only the deer population in this area could be reduced without throwing the Preserve open.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

GULLS, these beautiful white and black creatures everyone sees along the lakefront can be ornery characters. Early this week Bert Cutmore and his son Bob, Peterborough, were fishing at Rice lake. Suddenly a gull plummeted from the sky, smacked into the lake, and made several unsuccessful attempts to get off the water. The anglers paddled to the injured bird, and discovered, it had about 15 feet of fishing line wrapped around its feet and wings. At the end of the line were two perch. Each time, the men tried to help the gull, it attacked with a series of pecks. Bob Cutmore, then flipped the landing net over the gull's head, and his father labored for 15 minutes to untangle the line, all the time having to shield his hands from the sharp beak of the ungrateful scavenger. After freeing the bird, Cutmore remarked to his boy: 'That act of charity might get us a fish". Just as they neared the Hiawatha dock to go home, a muskie hit, and they lost it. This encouraged them to take one more turn with the troll, and the payoff of a nine pound lunge came within ten minutes.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

BROWN TROUT are where you find them, and believe me they crop up in strange places. Alf Pooley, tried fishing with worms, in a small creek that threads its way through the swamp, west of Brealey's school on the Sherbrooke St. west road. This is a big swamp, between Brealey's school and Mount Pleasant and one would never expect to catch fish there. Pooley tied into a brown trout that gave him a sharp battle and it weighed 3½ pounds and was 21 inches long. The creek is believed to drain into Jackson Park creek. This trout was underfed, showing an extreme length and lack of girth. The main point, however, is that the browns are thriving in practically every stream and lake into which they were introduced in the past 15 years. In the realm of muskie fishing, Jack Dawson, Lake Edge cottages, Lake Katchawanooka, clipped a 19 pounder this week, not 200 yards from his cottages. Bob Fulton, Windsor Hotel, Buckhorn, brought in a 27 pound muskie caught by one of his guests, Lawrence French, Ellwood City, Pa.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

WHO SAID FISHERMEN are not superstitious? Cliff Bowering, who writes one of the finest outdoor columns in Canada, in the Kingston Whig-Standard, always wears a green and white polka dot scarf on his angling jaunts. He wore that same scarf in the infantry and considers it a lucky garment. Most guides won't let you swat a bee or hornet if they come, claiming the bees bring luck. I know one woman who always slips a comb into her husband's pocket unknown to him, when he is going fishing. His luck is phenomenal, but what the comb has to do with it is beyond me. Last week I mentioned that Sept. 12 would be a good fishing day, and I quoted Vern Bower, Ottawa Citizen, as my authority. Oh, oh, that was bad, at least four anglers called me the next day, and they all wanted to know if this guy Bower ran a boat livery. They said the fishing was "lousy".

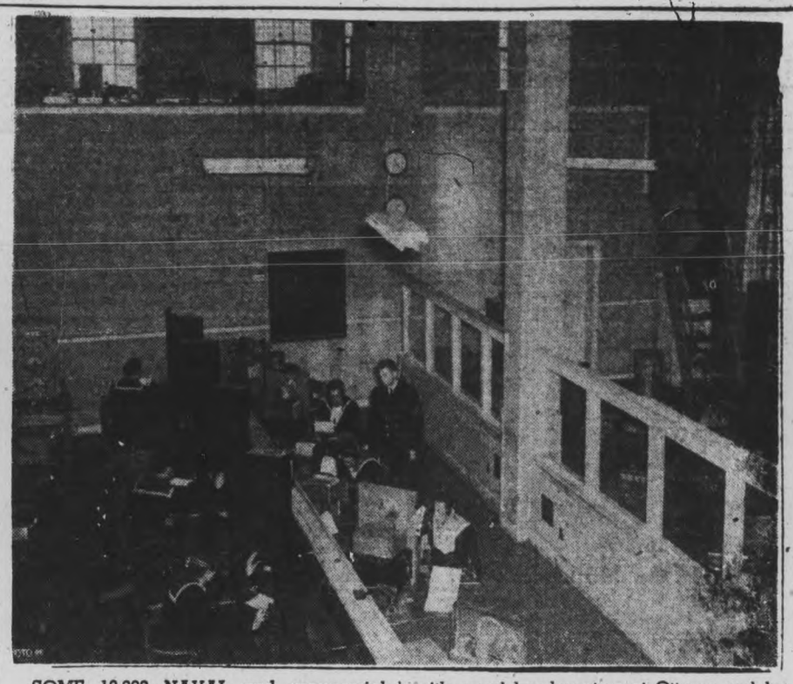
To Build Library

HALIFAX — (CP). — Halifax city council is going ahead with plans for the construction of a library building. Two lots have been purchased as a tentative site, a consulting librarian has been appointed, an architect has been engaged and preliminary sketches made.



SOME 12,000 NAVAL and commercial wireless messages are handled each month at the Royal Canadian Navy's powerful radio station at Albro Lake, near Dartmouth, N.S. In operation 24 hours of the day, the station handles all traffic with ships of the RCN in the Western Atlantic and a good deal of that with merchant ships. The station also is in communication by line teletype with naval headquarters at Ottawa and by radio teletype with Whitehall in England. This is the spacious radio receiving room in which are handled messages to and from sea. From here are sent weather reports and forecasts, warnings of navigational dangers, signals controlling the movements of ships and a thousand and one other messages of all sorts and kinds.

Farmer Thrives on Milk, Tea and Soup Has Not Eaten Solid Food For 27 Years

He hasn't eaten solid food for 27 years, but Arthur Cooke, 29-year-old Bewdley district farmer starts work at 5 a.m., does hard manual labor all day on his 200-acre farm, and thinks nothing of taking a three-mile walk to Bewdley in the evening.

Since he was two and a half years old, Mr. Cooke has lived entirely on liquid food. As a baby he drank a saucerful of lye, injuring his throat and esophagus so badly that he hasn't been able to eat since.

It is 27 years since he was injured by the lye, but Mr. Cooke, says he still remembers the accident vividly. He was rushed to the Hospital for Sick Children at Toronto by the local doctor at Bewdley, and stayed in hospital for a year and a half. He emerged, in all respects but one, a normal healthy youngster.

His esophagus, leading from the mouth to stomach, had been practically closed as a result of the lye burns. Only an opening slightly larger than the diameter of a needle remained open. As a result he hasn't been able to absorb solid food for 27 years.

Mr. Cooke told of his daily menu, which remains the same day after day. He starts with one quart of milk right from the farm cow every morning. That is his breakfast. For dinner he has about a quart of fluid which is one-half-milk and one-half tea with some sugar added. He also has a tin of tomato soup. His supper is the same as the noonday meal. Then, before going to bed, the young farmer has two or three glasses of cold milk.

The 29-year-old man weighs around 140 pounds and apparently is in excellent health. He gets up every morning at five, and goes to bed anywhere from 10 to 12 p.m.

Often at night after a hard day's work on the farm, he and other young farmers in his district walk into Bewdley, 3 miles distant, and, after sitting around or playing billiards they walk back home again.

Arthur is the only man left on his farm. His father died several years ago. There were 11 children in the family and the family still at home consists of Arthur, an older sister, Gladys, a younger sister, Betty, and their widowed mother, Mrs. Mary Cooke.

There are 12 cows, two pigs, five horses and some poultry to be work on a 200-acre farm. Arthur attended to besides all the other puts in the crop and looks after it just as any other farmer, who can eat solid energy-giving foods, but apparently he gets all the energy he needs from his diet of liquids.

Oddly enough Arthur claims he never gets hungry or weak, but even though he doesn't get hungry at dinner time he always brings his team of horses down to the barn to see that they are watered and fed.

He says he sleeps every night 'like a log' and feels fit every day in the year. He has never had any surgical operations and very little sickness. He did catch pneumonia once and was laid up at home for about three days, but he soon recovered. Another time he broke his wrist when a colt ran away and he tried to halt it.

Some years ago he picked up some kernels of wheat and was chewing them when one of the kernels slipped down his gullet. As a result he later had some discomfort and was taken to hospital where he was X-rayed. Somehow or other the seed was passed through the stomach or drawn back out through the mouth because the farmer got well quickly and was allowed to go back home.

This was the only trouble he has ever experienced in connection with his eating habits. He explained that he can chew meat if he wishes and can get the juices from it into his system. However, he very seldom bothers with this procedure and sticks pretty well to the milk, tea and soup. Arthur bought himself a new tractor a few weeks ago and he is now looking forward to attending the Provincial Plowing Match at Lindsay.

DON BLACK, Cleveland Indians pitcher, is shown unconscious in his hospital bed at Cleveland, Ohio, where he is fighting for his life, while his wife, Edith, who has been maintaining constant vigil since his injury, watches over him. Black regains consciousness for short periods, but then lapses into comas. Suffering from a cerebral hemorrhage, the result of swinging at a foul ball in a game with St. Louis, the Indian pitcher has shown little improvement since his admission to the hospital. However, he has recognized his wife and a cousin.

Staffords Play The Petes In Semi-Finals

Toronto Staffords, TBA champions this year, will play the Petes at three this afternoon in Riverside Park to open the best-of-five OBA semi-finals. Mayfairs of Toronto, runners-up to Staffords, had been booked to play Peterborough but a last-minute switch last evening made Staffords the OBA semi-finalist.

The story is that Staffords were stung by the accusation that they owed the Petes $100 travelling expenses from last fall—when these teams met in playoffs—and Mayfairs decided to drop out of OBA playdowns in favor of Staffords. Mayfairs felt they were not the true Toronto representatives, having lost earlier to Staffords for the TBA championship.

Word was sent back and forth yesterday from Staffords to Mayfairs to the OBA to Peterborough. And Manager Eddie Murphy of the Petes said: "We don't want to win a series over the phone. All we want is a Toronto team here Saturday to start playoffs. And we'd sooner meet Staffords." When the latter club phoned and asked if he would be satisfied to play the series first and then let the OBA decide how much, if any, of the $100 should be paid, Murphy said: "Sure, that suits us fine." So Staffords promised to be on hand to play. The OBA secretary approved.

Lindsay Wins Over Lock Co.

Lindsay defeated Lock Co. 7-0 at the Bowl last night in an intermediate Girls' Softball League round-robin play-off game. They had a fair margin in hitting, while both sides fielded well, but one big inning turned out to be the deciding point. They broke through for five runs in the second frame on three walks and some solid hits to earn the duke. Singles by B. Graham and D. Woods, with a double by M. Chase and a triple by M. Lucas put it on ice, along with the free tickets.

J. Bryans gave up eight hits and one walk as she fanned 10 in a good showing, while P. Williams was reached for 13 blows and four free bases while whiffig two. iFelding stars were M. Chase, D. Hunter, P. Williams and J. McIntyre. M. Lucas led Lindsay at bat with a triple and two singles, and D. Hunter hit a homer. D. Westlake, J. McIntyre and P. Williams each had two safeties for the losers.

The teams:

Lock Co.—B. McMahon, ss; D. Westlake, c; J. McIntyre, 1b; B. Ayotte, 3b; D. Clements, rf; P. Williams, p; C. Michard, lf; R Roberts, 2b; M. Johnston, cf.

Lindsay — H. Deyell, 2b; B. Graham, 1b; D. Hunter, c; M. Chase, ss; D. Woods, cf; M. Lucas, lf; M. McGill, lf; A. McDonald, rf; D. Madill, rf; M. Owen, 3b; J. Bryans, p.

WRESTLING RETURNS — The fall wrestling season starts at the Brock Arena next Wednesday with the main bout between the Masked Marvel, pictured above, and Strangler Bob Wagner. This bout should be a humdinger. Wagner is one of the roughest matmen in the game and the Mask one of the wiliest. The Mask has a long string of victories, but Wagner appears to be one opponent who should take his measure. It will be their first meeting. Two other stellar bouts are being lined up to open the season next Wednesday at the Brock St. Arena.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

A bulletin from the American Hockey League, which embraces 11 teams, says the 68-game schedule will open Oct. 12. Three new coaches this season, Ott Heller with Indianapolis, "Toe" Blake with Buffalo and Frank Beisler with Washington. The Philadelphia team sponsors the junior Galt Rockets and three 'Caygeon boys are listed for junior tryouts. They were with the OMHA juvenile "C" champs of last year, coached by Ernie Nicholls, who also played for the local Legionnaires in OHA senior "B" competition. And Bill Parker of Omemee, playing junior in Lindsay last winter, is another on Galt's list. George Sullivan and Keith Montgomery of Peterborough are on Boston Bruins' tryout list this season.

* * * * * *

The 30-week schedule of the men's City Bowling League opened at Duffus' with Fashion-Crafts bashing high pinnage of 3948 with top single of 1497. George Robertson of this squad rolled the best single, a neat 357 job. Prexy Jack Wade was right on the beam with a 300-315-308 for a swell threesome total of 923. Other good counts made by Fred Martin, Joe Denault, H. Wiley, Jack Breakspear, Roy Suddards and Ned Vitarelli. This classy circuit is starting where it left off last season, and pin boys have to hustle when the big artillery is turned loose.

Much Will Be Said

Several sports' meetings coming up, and we'll bunch them to save space. Girls' Bowling League gathers at 7.30 Monday eve in Duffus' to take entries. YM men's bowling loop has a 7.30 p.m. meeting in the "Y" Monday, open to captains and others interested. Up there at 7.30 the same night, the City Softball League executive has a huddle to vote on the most valuable player for the 1948 campaign. And Tuesday night at eight in the "Y", officers, players and prospects of the Peterborough Hockey Club gather to discuss 1948-49 plans.

* * * * * *

We'll also bunch athletic events of today into one para. OBA senior "A" semi-final opener betwixt Toronto Staffords and the Petes is at three in Riverside. A peewee game here somewhere, too, but info is lacking. Our bantams and midgets are off to Toronto. At the Bowl d'Ashburnham, Toronto DuVals mix with Ashby's in the second of their PWSU junior playoffs, third if necessary there in the evening. DuVals won the first in Toronto by a 1-0 count. Orillia plays our juvenile lacrossers an OLA fixture at three in Miller Bowl. Two soccer matches at King Edward, CGE vs. Legion at 2.15 and O'Halloran's vs. Lindsay at 3.15. And a big track meet at the Ex., starting at 2.30 o'clock.

What The Man Says

Bobbie Rosenfeld said yesterday in the Globe: "Lot of fans have been wondering why the TBA named Mayfairs for senior 'A' against Peterborough instead of Staffords, winners of the city title. After conversing with officials this space still can't come up with the right answer except there's a suggestion the Petes are annoyed at Staffords because of a hangover of last year when a promise of $100 for a playoff game here wasn't fulfilled. But Harry Eckler, the 1947 manager of Staffs, repudiates the Petes' claim. Says Eckler: 'I don't want to become embroiled in TBA affairs but we entertained the Petes in the knowledge the playoff gate would be split. Each team got a cheque for $13.57 from the OBA as its share. The suggestion that the club ducked from under a guarantee of $100 is news to me.'"

* * * * * *

Four local minor lacrosse teams are hitting into OLA playdowns for the first time here. Dootch Vitarelli is coaching the juveniles, Mick Magee and Rowan Chute jointly coach the midgets, Red Creighton handles the bantams, and Don Smith the peewees. Walt Murphy acts as manager for both the juves and peewees, while Ben Keller acts in a similar capacity for the midgets, and John Legrow for the bantams. Good work by these chaps, with the Lacrosse Club responsible for the whole setup. Jack Foote was head coach all season for the minor system but leaves this week-end for Toronto. By the way, a nice touch was that by the Clapper Cubs, runners-up in their minor section. They had a corn roast and presented their coach, John Legrow, with a watch! Not bad for 14-year-olds, eh?

Denting That Hemp

For folks who like lots of scoring, that 23-16 win for the Petes o'er Orillia last eve was fine. And a big crowd enjoyed a good game all the way. Both sides roared in the fourth quarter for an 11-7 margin for the Petes. A tight tilt till near the end, fast and fairly clean. It puts the Creighton crew one up after three jousts in their best-of-five OLA senior "B" semi-finals, next one being tonight in Orillia. Winner to meet Huntsville in finals. Whole crew worked hard and Em Creighton was voted the hat as most valuable player, he and Foote and Gordon showing plenty. Lights were doused betwixt periods and the team expects to have lights for the remaining games. Magee was out with a touch of the flu. Mrs. J. Post — a staunch lacrosse supporter—recently sent blankets for babies whose proud pops are Magee, Dugan and Gordon.

UP AND DOWN SPORTS' RIALTO: It's Staffords, not Mayfairs, vs. the Petes this aft here—story of the late switch is in elsewhere.... Lindsay lasses beat Lock Co. 7-0 at the Bowl last twilight; don't know next week's setup yet ... Kingston Locos edged out a 4-3 OBA senior "B" win to open their series with Ottawa Strathconas.... Pro matmen are due to return to the Brock next Wednesday, we hear ... Juvenile lacrossers, playing Orillia here today, have the return game next Wednesday, a two-of-three series.... An item out of Toronto says Scarboro Grads will play Windsor in OLA senior "B" competition, winner to meet the winner of the Petes-Orillia-Huntsville scramble.... What kind of nonsense is that, anyway? Scarboro finished last in our group and were out, so now the OLA is sticking the Toronto team right smack into provincial semi-finals!.... Conn Smythe was a bit disappointed at the amateur talent trying out with Leafs in St. Kitts.... Another week wrapped up.

Fashion Crafts Roll High In City League

Men's City Five Pin League bowlers started the 30-week stretch with a real bang as Fashion Craft rolled 3948 for high pinnage and 1497 for a single game.

Jack Wade had high three for the night when he rolled 300-315-308 for a total of 923. George Robertson and Fred Martin each had 839 and Joe Denault 837.

Arthur Devlin Dies

JERSEY CITY, N.J., Sept. 18.—Arthur Devlin, 68, former New York Giants' baseball star, died early today after a two-months' illness. Devlin played third base and shortstop on the early championship teams of Manager John McGraw.

Wanted—A Pied Piper

BREDASDORP, South Africa — (CP). — A pied piper is needed in their Cape Province district. Thousands of bags of oats are threatened by rats, reported to have damaged more than 75 per cent of stored oats in one village. More than 120 rats were killed in a store.

EZZARD CHARLES, Cincinnati, Ohio, contender for the heavyweight title vacated by Joe Louis, sinks a left into the pantry of Jimmy Bivins during one of the tame exchanges that marked their fracas in Griffith Stadium, Washington, D.C. Charles was given the decision, which was loudly booed by the fans. It was Charles' third decision over Bivins.

Dawe Suggests Sport Congress

MONTREAL, Sept. 18.—(CP).—A. Sidney Dawes, president of the Canadian Olympic Association, today advocated formation in Canada of a national sports congress such as the Sports Federation which governs and promotes amateur sport in Sweden.

Failing that, Dawes—looking to the day when the Federal government helps finance amateur sport—said he felt the Canadian Olympic Association should be incorporated on a national basis.

At present the C.O.A. which Dawes has headed for two years is a committee of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada and Dawes said he had been asked by several executives of sports-governing bodies to say what he thought should be done for the future. He saw the Swedish Sports Federation as the pattern on which Canadian sport could organize.

Also there is the need of money for sport.

Haas Leads Way

TACOMA, Wash, Sept. 18. — (AP).—The man they still had to catch today in the $12,500 Tacoma open golf tournament was slender Fred Haas, Jr., of New Orleans. Sixty other golfers were left to tackle the job after the field was cut Thursday at the end of 36 holes and two days of play. Haas slipped to 36 — one over par—on the outgoing nine, but posted three birdies on the tough backside for a 69 total. This left him with a two-day score of 134, eight under the Fircrest course standard and two in front of the field.

Petes Go One Up On Orillia With a 23-16 Decision Here

The Petes trimmed Orillia 23-16 here last night in the third game of their OLA Senior "B" best-of-five semi-final series to go one up. They meet again tonight in Orillia, the winner of the series to play Huntsville in finals. A big crowd saw a swell scrap last evening, 3-3 in the first quarter, 8-7 for the homesters going into the third and 12-9 to end the third. A late drive by the Petes clinched it, but Orillia battled back, too, with a belated spurt to keep it interesting. Play was fast and fairly clean.

Both goalies made some fine saves despite the high score, and the checking generally was good. The winners' scoring was well spread around, with Gordon, Creighton and Foote most effective on the attack throughout, and Warren strong on defence. Curran, Pearsall, Antonio, Varty and Crowe all caught the eye for a good showing for Orillia. It was a keen contest all the way and the big crowd enjoyed it.

Orillia—Goal, Fagan; defence, Curran and Pearsall; centre, J. J. Hill; wings, Antonio and Johnson; rover, Varty; alternates, Burrell, Hammond, Street, Massey, Price, Crowe and Beaton.

Petes — Goal, Hill; defence, Horton and Warren; centre, L. Vitarelli; wings, D. Vitarelli and Gordon; rover, Smith; alternates, Chute, J. Breakspear, Creighton, Foote, Dugan, R. Breakspear and Connelly.

Referees—R. White and L. Vipond.

Gonzales Completes Rout Of Veterans

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 18.—(AP).—With the youth movement in American tennis having progressed to unexpected proportions, the United States was in danger today of seeing its singles championship pilfered by a foreigner for the first time in a dozen years.

Today's line-up, from which the opponents in tomorrow's championship battle will emerge, sends 19-year-old Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills against Eric Sturgess of South Africa and Richardo (Pancho) Gonzales, 20-year-old Los Angeles Mexican, against Jaroslav Drobny of Czechoslovakia.

Gonzales completed the rout of all the homered veterans yesterday when he upset top-seeded Frankie Parker of Los Angeles, two-ttime former champion 8-6, 2-6, 7-5, 6-3.

Remember When . . .

By The Canadian Press

Detroit Tigers set a new major league mark eight years ago today by punching out at least one home run in their 15th straight game. The previous record was held jointly by the Tigers of 1938 and the New York Giants of 1935. The streak was halted at 16 by Cleveland two days later. Hank Greenberg hit for the circuit in 12 of the 16 games.

Rangers Swing Into Training For NHL Season

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (CP) — New York Rangers swing into their Lake Placid, NY, training camp next Tuesday little more than three weeks before the opening whistle of the National Hockey League season.

Manager Frank Bouchard, who remembers when there were only about 70 professional hockey players in the world, expects to welcome more than 40 professional stickhandlers.

While living at Sarancac Lake, NY, the players will travel each day to Olympic Arena at Lake Placid. Until last year the Blue Shirts trained at Winnipeg.

Along with returning veterans, Boucher expects to have some likely-looking rookies and a trio of players acquired in trade.

Great things are expected of little Duncan Fisher and big Nick Mickoski who were rushed up from the Ramblers for the final game of the playoffs last year when the injury-riddled Rangers finished in fourth place.

1st-Year Candidates

Other first-year candidates include defenceman Harry Bell, and Jack Lancien, and forwards Ken Davies, Jackie Gordon, Hub Anslow, Fern Perrault and Bill Watson.

The new Rangers picked up in trades are Wally Stanowski and Elwyn Morris, defencemen from Toronto Maple Leafs, and Pentii Lund, right-winger from Hershey Bruins and formerly the property of Boston Bruins.

The veterans include three crack centres—Buddy O'Connor, 60-point scorer last season, Edgar Laprade and Don Raleigh. Other forwards are Tony Leswick, Eddie Kullman and Ed Slowinski.

Veteran Neil Colville, last season's captain, Jean Lamirande, Frank Eddolls and Bill Moe will seek defence berths again. Boucher will have Chuck Rayner and Jim (Sugar) Henry battling again for the goal-keeping chores. He plans to go along with the goal-tending partners as he did last year with one in reserve.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

Prospects working out under the auspices of the Toronto Maple Leafs were sorted out Friday night as preparations were completed for opening the regular training camp of the National Hockey League team next Monday. Thirteen players will report back Sunday for workouts with the Stanley Cup champions. Another 16 were told to report to Welland for tryouts with Leafs' farm club Pittsburgh Hornets of the AHL. The remaining 19 returned to their homes in Ontario and Manitoba.

Eric Pogue, Oshawa Generals junior star, was signed to a contract, completing a new "kid line" for Pittsburgh. He will work with Rudy Migay and Ray Ceresino.

St. Catharines Athletics defeated Hamilton Tigers 9-8 at Hamilton Friday night, tying up their best-of-seven Senior Ontario Lacrosse semi-final at three games apiece. The deciding game will be played at St. Catharines Saturday night.

St. Catharines Athletics swept to a straight-games victory in the Canadian Junior Lacrosse semi-final Friday night at Winnipeg when they defeated Winnipeg Isaac Brocks 25-5 in the second game of their best-of-three series. Athletics won the first game on Thursday night 26-10.

Sidney Hanover, seven-year-old gelding owned by L. L. Herrin of Charlotte, N.C., scored an easy three-heat triumph in the $2,000 free-for-all trot, feature event on the closing day of the Grand Circuit meeting at the Reading (Pa.), fair Friday.

Stands of 63 for the first wicket and 65 for the fifth helped Scotland to a first-innings total of 178 against the Australians on the first day of their two-day match at Aberdeen Friday.

Two Canadian records crumbled under the flying hooves of Ora G. Herbert at London, Ont., Friday as Bill Herbert's brilliant three-year colt set a new mile mark for three year old pacers of 2.05 and cracked one of the proudest Canadian records in the books, Grattan Bars half mile mark. The Herbert colt was officially clocked for the half in 59 -15 seconds, bettering Grattan Bars' mark of 59¾. As an added touch the exhibition mile—paced alone—also tied the track record of 2.05 set in 1938 by Tom Grattan.

Grace Lenczyk of Newington, Conn., Canadian titleholder, Friday won a place in today's 36-hole championship round of the United States' women's golf tournament by defeating Mrs. Jack Holmes, San Gabriel, Calif., 4 and 2 at Pebble Beach, Calif.

Helen Sigel of Philadelphia, became the other finalist when she won over Beverly Hanson of Fargo, N.D., 6 and 5.

A blood clot was removed Friday from the brain of boxer Bill (Chicken) Thompson and doctors at Philadelphia said he has better than a 50-50 chance of recovery. Thompson was flattened three seconds before the end of his first bout last night with Johnny Haynes, 210-pound New Yorker. Thompson, a Philadelphia heavyweight, scaled 180 pounds.

Kingston Horse Wins In Oshawa Fair Race

OSHAWA, Sept. 18. — Maud Grattan B, owned and driven by Bert McKane of Kingston, and J. L. Van, owned by J. Waples and Son and driven by Keith Waples of Victoria Harbor, were winners of the two race features of the Oshawa Fair Friday.

Neither dominated its field. Bazzel Henry flashing home in front of Maude Grattan B in the first heat of the 2.18 pace, while Slicka, after finishing second twice, won the third heat of the 2.28 trot or pace in which J. L. Van came second.

Louis' Return Brings Upset In Fight Plans

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (AP) — The return of Joe Louis has caused some major revisions in the heavyweight boxing picture.

No sooner had the news hit the street Friday that Joe had decided against "retirement" than Gus Lesnevich broke a bone in his foot and withdrew from his Tuesday date with Jersey Joe Walcott.

All was confusion in the camp of the tournament of champions, the new promotional group that is challenging Mike Jacobs.

Marcel Cerdan-Tony Zale middleweight title scrap at Roosevelt Stadium, Jersey City, Tuesday.

A heavyweight elimination bout between Lesnevich and Walcott, involving a total guarantee of some $100,000, was a big selling point of the Jersey card. Suddenly the promoters discovered that there was no need for any elimination tournament of any kind.

Louis, changing his mind despite repeated announcements that he would never fight again, said he would meet the winner of the Nov. 12 fight in Madison Square Garden between Ezzard Charles of Cincinnati and Joe Baksi of Kulpmont, Pa.

Louis was Mike Jacobs' ace in the hole all along in this "war" with the new promoters who never have been taken too seriously in the offices of the 20th Century Sporting Club.

The Jacob Empire was founded on an exclusive contract with the Brown Bomber. When he goes out, it probably will be safe to assume that the new champ—Charles, Baksi, or whoever it may be—will be another Jacobs exclusive.

DEVELOPED KEROSENE

Abraham Gesner, a Canadian geologist, invented and developed the process for making kerosene in 1852.

GIVING THE "BIG HELLO', Tony Zale, pride of the middle west, arrives in New York, all set to defend his world's middleweight boxing title against Marcel Cerdan of France at the Tournament of Champions in Jersey City, Tuesday, Sept. 21.

Bison Outfielder Batting Champion

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(AP). —Coaker Triplett, 34-year-old outfielder of Buffalo Bisons, is the new International League batting champion.

According to unofficial figures released today, Triplett won the second batting championship of his 14-year career by 20 points.

Triplett banged out 141 hits in 398 trips to the plate for a .354 mark. Among his base knocks were 19 homers, 30 doubles and four triples.

Triplett's team-mate, 22-year-old Johnny Groth, finished second in the batting race with a .334 mark. Young Don Mueller of Jersey City wound up third at .331; Hal Rice of Rochester fourth at .325; and Johnny Welaj of Toronto fifth at .315.

Howie Moss of Baltimore won the home-run title for the fourth time and for the third year in a row.

Church Head Returning

HALIFAX, Sept. 18 — (CP) — Rt. Rev. G. F. Kingston, Primate of all Canada, will arrive in Montreal Sept. 21, the Anglican Synod office said Friday. He sailed for New York Thursday aboard the Queen Elizabeth after spending the summer attending world church conferences.

Sain Wins His 21st Game Hurls Braves to 6-2 Win

By JOE REICHLER

Johnny Sain, Boston Braves' candidate for the National League's most valuable player award for 1948, already has won one distinction. He easily rates as the work horse of the major league this season.

The majors' biggest winner, Sain has been chiefly responsible for the Braves position at the head of the loop.

The big right-hander, who Friday became the first to win 21 games when he hurled the Braves to a 6-2 victory over Pittsburgh Pirate, also leads all pitchers in complete games and innings pitched.

The 29-year-old Sain has toiled 281 innings and gone the route 26 times. His closest competitor is Bob Lemon of Cleveland, with 265 innings pitched and 20 complete games.

Sain went the distance Friday, limiting the Pirates to eight hits as the Braves increased their first place margin over the second place Bucs and St. Louis Cardinals to 5½ games.

Lefty Howie Pollet pitched St. Louis Cardinals to within 6-10th of a point of second place, twirling an eight-hit 4-2 triumph over Brooklyn Dodgers. The defeat dropped the Dodgers into fourth place, six games behind the Braves.

Good Fielding

Pollet, who registered his 13th victory against six defeats, was helped by some spectacular fielding support by Stan Musial. First baseman Babe Young provided the batting punch, driving in the winning runs with a single and home run.

The torrid American League pennant race remained unchanged, with Boston, New York and Cleveland all winning. The front-running Red Sox protected their one-game lead over the runner-up Yankees, vanquishing the Browns in St. Louis 9-3. The Yankees trounced the Tigers in Detroit 13-5. The Indians handed the luckless Senators a 4-1 licking in Washington to remain 2½ games off the pace.

Philadelphia Athletics came from behind to defeat Chicago White Sox 9-6, in the majors' only night game.

In the National, Cincinnati Reds handed the fifth-place New York Giants a 5-3 setback at the Polo Grounds, while Philadelphia Phils kept the Chicago Cubs in the basement with a 6-3 victory over the Bruins.

Bears Nose Out Syracuse 5-4

By The Associated Press

Newark Bears are a step away from entering the final round of International League's Shaughnessy playoffs.

Manager Bill Skiff's Bears nosed out Syracuse Chiefs 5-4 Friday night to take a 3-1 lead in their best-of-seven semi-final series. In the other semi-final set, Rochester Red Wings scored their first victory in three meetings over the pennant-winning Montreal Royals 5-3.

Bill Reeder, ticketed for a mound berth with the parent St. Louis Cardinals next spring, halted the surge of the Royals before 10,416 fans at Rochester.

Reeder, who won 19 games in the regular season, allowed 12 hits, but pitched brilliantly in the clutch and left 12 Royals stranded.

The Wings broke a scoreless tie with a four-run rally in the fourth inning that drove Clarence Podbielan from the box. The Wings added their final run in the sixth before the Royals hit the run column with two in the seventh.

Coalition Govt. Facing Big Challenge

WINNIPEG, Sept. 18—(CP)—Manitoba's coalition government, attacked last week by discontented elements of the Progressive Conservative party, today faces a challenge from within.

Edmond Prefontaine, Liberal Progressive member for Carillon, charged in a statement Thursday night the government was "perpetuating certain men but not ideas and policies."

Referring to criticisms of coalition made at last Spring's Progressive Conservative circles by recent happenings in Minnedosa constituency brings before the public for a second time this summer the fact that an important element in that party would like to see the end of coalition in Manitoba.

Shared By Many

"This feeling," he added, "is not confined to the Conservatives. It is shared by many Liberals who feel also that coalition has outlived its usefulness.

"Of its nature it is contrary to our parliamentary system of government because it denies effective opposition. It might be said that the CCF party, having broken from coalition, is providing opposition. This does not stand up under facts.

"The CCF party is not providing an effective opposition in the Manitoba legislature. Premier Garson himself is on record to that effect...

"Why then should coalition carry on? To keep the CCF out? Not a good reason. The CCF party is bound to come to power if there is no other alternative to the government, and no less a person than Mr. Coldwell (M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader) made this very plain recently.

A DEMONSTRATOR (LEFT) grabs the cape of a policeman (partly hidden by another demonstrator) when police and strikers recently clashed in Paris' Boulevard Hausman. An estimated 2,500 of the crowd were workers of the nationalized aviation industry, denouncing lay-offs of workers from the Government payroll. Sign in foreground reading "Down with Marshall Plan" shows clearly Reds led the rioting gangs. Sign in centre background reads, "All United in This Battle." This photo was radioed from Paris.

Woman Lands 21-Lb. Muskie Without Help

MARMORA, Sept. 18—(ENS)—Mrs. Roy Snell, without any assistance from her husband, who accompanied her, landed a 21-pound muskie in Blairton Bay, Crowe Lake, on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Snell was trolling with a double spoon Buffalo bait. Mr. and Mrs. Snell, former residents of Marmora, now residing at St. Thomas, are holidaying at Marble Point Lodge, Crowe Lake.

Dr. James Smart Returns To City

The 115th anniversary of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church will be held on Sunday, with Rev. Dr. James D. Smart of Philadelphia, a former minister of St. Paul's, preaching. The anniversary is usually observed in May, but this year the church building was undergoing a general renovation, hence the services were postponed.

Congregations which filled the church to capacity attended the re-dedication services last Sunday, and anniversary services are part of a four weeks' re-opening program.

Dr. Smart came to Peterborough from Galt early in the war and for two years served as minister when he accepted an appointment with the Presbyterian Church in the United States.

The first church services to be regularly broadcast from Peterborough were commenced by Dr. Smart, who will be heard again over the air on Sunday morning.

The guest solojst will be Andrew MacMillan, baritone from Toronto. Mr. MacMillan has taken leading roles in the Opera School productions of the Royal Conservatory of Music, and has often been heard over the radio. Last spring he made a most successful Eaton Auditorium debut.

PREACHER at the anniversary services of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church on Sunday will be Dr. James Smart of Philadelphia, a former minister of the congregation.

GUEST SOLOIST at the anniversary services of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church on Sunday will be Andrew MacMillan of Toronto. Mr. MacMillan is a baritone and has been taking leading roles in Opera School productions of the Royal Conservatory of Music.

Hold British Seaman For Deportation

MONTREAL, Sept. 18 (CP).—Immigration authorities Friday held an unidentified British seaman for deportation while they continued search for his four companions who deserted the freighter City of Chelmsford on Tuesday.

Meanwhile the freighter sailed for India with five British seamen flown from New York as replacements for the deserters.

The seamen had left the freighter following a dispute over pay allowances while in port. The skipper said they wanted more than the maximum $19 weekly allowance provided for by British regulations.

One of the seamen was apprehended on Thursday as he was trying to sign on another vessel, but it was too late to return him to his own ship.

Aussies Getting Tough With Reds

SYDNEY, Australia, Sept. 18—(CP). — The Australian people's attitude toward the Communist Party is getting tougher as the party comes more and more into the open with acts and speeches in defiance of democracy.

A statement by G. Burns, member of the Queensland state executive of the Communist Party, that the Communists would fight on the side of Russia if Australia became involved in a war between the Western Powers and Russia, has jolted the public and politicians alike.

Questions on the government's attitude to the party have been asked in two Parliaments.

Opposition members of the Queensland Parliament demanded immediate criminal action against Burns for sedition. In Canberra, Prime Minister Chifley has promised he will ask the Acting Attorney-General to inquire into the statement.

(Burns, speaking as a Communist at a political forum debate at Brisbane, said that war between Russia and the Western Powers would mean a war between Russia and American and British Imperialism.

"We would oppose that war. We would fight on the side of Soviet Russia. That's the direct answer," said Burns.)

Veterans' associations have expressed their anger at Burns' statement and have voiced repeated condemnations of Chifley's contention that the Communist Party is a political philosophy, and should be treated as such.

PRIME MINISTER ATTLEE, left St. Mary's hospital, Paddington, to preside over a Cabinet meeting. Here the prime minister is seen arriving at No. 10 Downing St. wearing a pair of hospital slippers. He has been undergoing treatment for eczema of the feet.

Stole $5,736.

FORT WILLIAM, Sept. 18 — (CP). — A. C. Powley was remanded until Sept. 21 for sentence after admitting Friday the theft of aproximately $5,736 from the Federal government over a period of eight years. Powley, employed by the Federal Transport Department for almost 20 years, was a radio licence inspector.

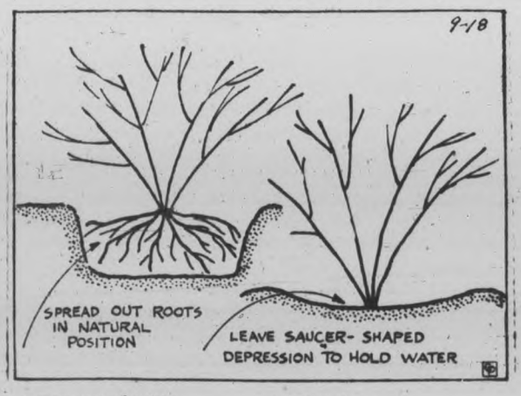
YOUR GARDEN . . .

Plant Shrubs For Permanency



By DEAN HALLIDAY

In planting shrubs this fall, remember that they are usually a permanent resident of the garden, therefore the soil in which they are planted should be thoroughly prepared.

Beds for shrubbery should be dug at least 12 to 18 inches deep. The soil should be made loose and friable. Mix well-rotted manure and decayed leaves with the subsoil. If manure is not available use a couple of handfuls of coarse bonemeal to each plant. Do not allow the manure to come into direct contact with the roots.

When individual shrubs are to be planted, make the hole deeper than the depth of their roots and wider than their spread, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

Place the shrub—spread out the roots in their natural position, arranging them at the different heights in which they grow, as illustrated. This allows for greater soil contact. Throw in some of the fine top soil and gently move the shrub up and down a few times to settle this soil in among the fibrous roots. Firm the earth about the roots as he hole is filled. When three-quarters filled, pour in water to the top of the hole. Allow this to seep down and then complete filling in with soil. Leave the top few inches loose.

Leave a saucer-shaped depression for water around the stems, as illustrated. This will hold rain or hose water until it soaks down to the roots.

e Town Clerk at Ephesus

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Acts 19:23-41

Demetrius, an Ephesian silversmith who made shrines for the goddess Diana, grew alarmed at the rapid spread of Christianity, fearful it would ruin his trade, so he called all the workmen together to discuss the matter.

The silversmiths were furious that their livelihood might be threatened and their goddess' temple destroyed, and shouting, "Great is Diana of the Ephesians," they rushed into the city, which they threw into confusion.

The artisans caught two of Paul's traveling companions, Gaius and Aristarchus, and rushed them into the theater, but when Paul wanted to enter to talk to the people, the disciples restrained him, fearing violence.

The town clerk, probably the most influential person in Ephesus, addressed the mob, telling it to disperse and bring any grievance to the court where justice would be meted out.

MEMORY VERSE—Proverbs 29:18

The Church In Politics

By REV. E. R. JAMES.

Then gathered the chief priests a council and said: What do we for this man doeth many miracles : And if we let him alone the Romans shall come and take away both our place and nation.—St. John 11, 47.

Bishop Ellicott, a famous teacher of the Bible, impresses upon us that its inspiration is proved by its vitality. The Bible is a living book—let this thought be uppermost in your mind as you ponder upon the decision of that high Jewish council. They decided that the Carpenter must die for the people's sake.

It is interesting to keep in mind the political philosophy of the Roman authorities. They recognized the heads of the conquered people and gave them authority to keep order. The Jewish Sanhedrin received much respect from the Roman authorities But when the Jewish leaders were slow in carrying out Roman orders they were immediately disgraced and others placed in power. Annas, high priest, failed and was replaced. He persuaded the Romans to replace him by his five sons and by Caiaphas, his son-in-law.

Their work was to keep order during the Feast. When they failed the Roman authorities put down the rioting mercilessly. Such men felt their importance. They came to love power and to look with hatred upon any one who attempted to overthrow them You see this in Communism. The Carpenter of Nazareth was arousing much interest and enthusiasm. It was easy to see what the Roman authorities would do. "The Roman shall come and take away our place and nation." The

VOL. XCVII, No. 64 — SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1948

Propose Ratepayers Vote On Buying City Hall Site

City Council definitely discarded Friday afternoon the George-Sherbrooke-King Streets block as a city hall site. A motion by Ald. Gordon Armstrong, seconded by Ald. Grant Miller, as a recommendation o. the committee of the whole declared that the Council was no longer interested in that property, and virtually decided to sell the south half of that block.

The next tentative step of progress in an informal discussion with Mr. R. Winter of Hamilton, former architect with the Federal Department of Public Works, was to propose reference to the ratepayers of a bylaw to expropriate the properties requiring to be purchased in the George, McDonnel, Water and Murray Streets block, to be voted on at the December municipal elections.

The members present were: Ald. M. J. Swanston, acting as chairman in the absence of Mayor Ovens, Aldermen Raine, Wadell, Dodds, Grant Miller, Anglesey, Dr. Herbert Young, Gordon Armstrong.

Discussion on Sites

The council had invited Mr. Winter to come to Peterborough to discuss the city hall site problem because he had considerable information about down town properties from purchases were he had recommended to the Federal government some years ago. Three properties were mentioned in the opening of the conversation, the George St. block, east side, north of Sherbrooke St., the city hall block, bounded by George, Charlotte, Water and Simcoe streets, and in between times the block opposite Confederation Square.

The effect of Mr. Winter's comments and experience might be called catalystic in so far as he helped to precipitate ideas that have been floating about in the aldermanic and public minds, pointed by the strong recommendation of Dr. E. G. Faludi of Town Planning Consultants, whose report to the council centred upon the George-Murray site.

At the conclusion of the meeting apparently there was not much more Mr. Winter could do, although at the outset it was more or less expected that he would examine the downtown area and the proposed locations.

In regard to the market block, Mr. Winter said that public buildings tended to depress central property values in the larger cities. In towns and villages, the opposite effect developed.

Decrease Values

"I have seen public buildings increase adjacent properties in the average towns," Mr. Winter said. "But I am inclined to think that Peterborough is in the first group, that a city hall at Charlotte, George and Water Streets would probably have an adverse effect on the assessment of properties affected by its presence."

Mr. Winter said on the other hand as one instance that a public building had some stimulating influence in an area of Kitchener. However, generally, larger cities frowned on that type of building in commercial business sections.

"That is one factor that has been causing me some concern," said Ald. Grant Miller, "and the opinion of Mr. Winter is quite helpful."

In the later stage of conversations of about two hours, attention was mainly focussed on the block opposite Confederation Square. It was recalled that the bequest of the late W. G. Morrow amounts to more than half a million dollars for the city hall building, but that the city is required to provide the land and furnishings.

If the Murray Street property is bought, a substantial part of its cost will be paid for by the expected sale of properties owned by the municipality in the market block.

Suggest Expropriation.

As to how that property should be bought, Mr. Winter suggested expropriation.

"I don't know how property values are going to go," he said, "but if you are going to expropriate, then the sooner the better. You pay for such properties at the values existing at the time of expropriation and that matter is settled. There will be no advancing values to worry about."

Ald. Swanston said the city might not be prepared to proceed with the building of the city hall for two or three years.

The committee appeared to be ready to recommend the preparation of an expropriating bylaw, but Ald. Grant Miller suggested that with three members of the council absent, and no immediate pressure for decision, further action could be held up for a few weeks.

OutboardMarine Announces 3 Promotions

Recent appointments announced by the Outboard Marine Co. in the city give promotion to three men of that company who have been connected with it for some years. They are: Clarence B. Neal, who becomes vice-president and general manager; Bruce Payne, who succeeds Mr. Neal as secretary-treasurer, and J. W. Madden, now assistant general sales manager.

Mr. Neal joined the Johnson Motors Co. in Waukeegan, Ill. in 1928, and was transferred the following year to the Peterborough plant in the position of accountant. He became assistant secretary-treasurer in 1931, secretary-treasurer in 1938 and was was assistant to the president in 1945.

He attended school in Little Rock, Ark. and took accounting and business course at Kansas City, Mo. An enthusiast for all types of outdoor sports, he is a keen fisherman and hunter. Outstanding in individual sports, he won the McDonald Trophy at the Beaver Meadow golf club in the first year he took up the game. The following year, he won the club championship at the Kawartha Golf Club.

He is married to the former Kay Whitehouse of Peterborough.

Bruce Payne joined the old Johnson Motors Co. in 1929 in his home city, Peterborough. Starting as office boy and mailing clerk, he was advanced to billing clerk in 1934, as cashier in 1939 and as accountant in 1942.

He was educated in Queen Alexandra School and PCVS and took a course from the International Accounting Schools, graduating with high honors. He is now a member of the International Accountants Society.

Mr. Payne is also an avid outdoors fan and active in this regard.

Another "local boy" included in the promotions is John Madden, who entered the employ of the old Johnson firm in 1930 and has worked in most of the office departments. He was in the accounting department for four years, transferring later to the sales department, where he has been travelling on the Ontario circuit until this summer. At that time, he was recalled to the head office here to take over his new post. He is a graduate of St. Peter's High School.

Y Director Disputes Belief Track Events Injure Boys

Can a young boy injure himself permanently by taking part in a long distance race? "Emphatically, no!" is the answer of Al Clark, YMCA physical director, who says that the fear of injury through over-exertion, which in the past has had some medical support, has no substantiation whatsoever.

Mr. Clark points out that in games such as association football, rugby football and field hockey no substitution is allowed in Europe. These games are contests of endurance as well as skill. The English public schools maintain their tradition of long distance cross-country runs for the student body.

"However," he said in an interview, "in North America the idea that a child could do itself permanent organic injury through physical exertion has been gradually accepted. Periods of play in basketball have become shorter and shorter for schoolboys, substitution has become unlimited, and cross-country running or any running beyond a short sprint has practically died out. This fear of permanent injury through physical exertion may be one of the major reasons in that much sought after explanation of why the United States has not won a race in the Olympics longer than half a mile in a quarter of a century."

This trend of thought has become so pronounced by the begining of the last war, said Mr. Clark, and confusion of thought as to the role of exercise in promoting physical fitness was so general that the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation decided to issue an official statement on the whole matter.

A highly qualified committee was appointed for the task. This committee had the assistance of consultants appointed by the Board of Trustees of the American Medical Association, and the committee's findings were reviewed and endorsed by the Joint Committee on Health Problems in Education of the National Education Association and the American Medical Association. "Evidently," said Mr. Clark, "this was a sincere attempt to make an official statement based on the best opinion available in the country."

This committee's report was published as a pamphlet in 1943 under the title of "The Role of Exercise in Physical Fitness." It contains a number of very important statements with qualifications, but under heading of a few practical generalizations there appears the following unqualified statement, "which should prove a watershed in physical education in North America "Precluding accidents, a normal healthy child cannot do himself permanent organic injury by physical exertion."

VISIT OSHAWA

Peterborough Salvation Army Band is to visit Oshawa this weekend. Lt.-Col. James Merritt, head of the property department of the Salvation Army at Toronto is accompanying the band.

YMCA OPENING

A large and noisy crowd of boys soon gathered early this morning for the opening of the new season at the boys' department of the YMCA. One young lad asked for the date of his birthday, replied, "Don't know, but I had one."

FIRST LODGE SALE

Jack's Lake Lodge, purchased early in 1948 by Miss Sally Trotter and two other ex-service women, has been sold to Mr. J. Dykstra, Burlington, Ont. Miss Trotter and her associates reported a successful year, their first in the tourist industry.

GOOD LUCK IN CITY

Halley Jewel, 1013 Water St., North, doesn't travel far for his muskies, just across the road. About 7:30 this morning, he was casting with a single spoon troll near the east shore above the Auburn dam, and was in a boat. A muskie struck and was solidly hooked giving Jewel a lively tussle. The fish weighed 22 pounds—and was caught inside the city limits.

TO PAINT MARKET

Montgomery Brothers are being engaged by the property committee of the council to paint the George and Charlotte Streets sides of the market building. The committee has authorized rental of the house at 337 Aylmer St., and has decided to suspend sale of the houses at 997 and 1001 Water St. until next spring.

JACK DAWSON, owner of Lake Edge cottages, Katchawanooka Lake, tangled with a 19-pound maskinonge and landed it Thursday morning. Dawson was casting from a boat when the muskie hit, and the lucky angler was less than 200 feet from his own dock.

Resorts Report Tourists Top 1947 Peak

Tourist business in the Kawartha district this summer makes it the highest year since pre-war days, general reports from the resort owners and tourist promotion groups indicate. More tourists have come to the Peterborough area than ever before, surveys of traffic have shown.

More than 3,000 persons used the facilities of the Tourist Information Bureau of the Junior Chamber of Commerce in about 10 weeks of operation.

Inquiries to the Chamber of Commerce here were numerous, with more than a thousand asking for direct information and a similar number or more asking for general information on the area. Maps, booklets and other data were supplied to thousands of visiting Americans.

More Cottages

Tourist resorts on the whole reported volumes of business "about the same" as in 1947 — which was itself a peak year. However, there was a heavier demand for cottages and cabins in the 1948 season. Higher prices and other factors have given a slightly different picture of the tourist trade in stores. Because Americans have been bringing Canadian money with them, it is difficult to obtain accurate figures, but city stores report a slight decrease in volume of sales of goods to visitors from south of the border. They mention as a contributing factor the easing of the situation on many goods in the United States, which lessens the appeal in Canada.

For example, in the linen goods line, which still sold strongly this summer, the prices are now as low in the states as in Canada, which was not so in 1947 and earlier. Also, a large amount of sales in cottons has been reduced as the scarcity in the U.S. has been eased and prices are competitive.

Despite these factors, sales have been heavy and work out to amount the same as last year's figures. Chinaware has again been a "best seller" among the most popular lines.

The manager of a large city store commented that it was at this time, in the fall, when a lot of the "good" American tourists come. With fishing easing off as an attraction, these tourists are often more intent on making purchases in Canada.

The same store quoted its senior clerks as terming this year "the best one yet."

It is interesting to note that during the months of June, July and August figures from the Peterborough Clearing House take a substantial jump over other periods of the year.

The picture in the resorts is cheerful. Although few were completely filled at all times, all reported a fairly steady stream of visitors.

Mrs. Jean Stokes, Buckhorn Lodge termed the year "very good." Tourists are on the lookout for bargains in blankets, chinaware and other goods of which they have from previous visitors, she said. Many of the tourists do not come for the fishing, she said, and facilities other than the major attraction here get full patronage.

Bewdley Hotel at Rice Lake, said Mrs. Harry Nickels, was about the same as 1947, with the trend towards steadier volume rather than spurts of activity and then lulls.

The Viamede Hotel on Stony Lake reported that business was steady all year and the house fairly full right until the end of August. Total volume has been about the same there too.

The months of July and September were better than last year, reports Arnold Mackey of Keneedin Lodge, Pigeon Lake. Volume in August was about the same as in 1947.

Fishing has been good all through the season, according to reports.

Ask $10,000 Govt. Subsidy In Animal Law Enforcement

Reporting on what he described as "the most aggressive and active year in the history of this association," the Rev. Christopher J. Loat, St. Catharines, provincial secretary of the Ontario Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, said Friday that the Provincial Government would be asked for a subsidy of $10,000 a year for animal law enforcement work in the province. Mr. Loat read the report, accepted later, of the 28th annual convention of the SPCA which was being held in Peterborough for the first time in 12 years.

He said that would be the price of maintaining two full-time inspectors for Ontario, and he added the warning: "Either the government will help us to maintain our work along with public subscription or else within two years be forced to accept the full responsibility of law enforcement in the Province."

"The only other alternative is for the Government to set up a special animal welfare department under the Provincial Police Department with trained and qualified personnel."

Mr. Loat contended that the provincial government which gave the society a mandate to enforce animal anti-cruelty laws should provide financial assistance, pointing out "that there is no other law enforcement agency in the Province of Ontario trained or qualified to do this type of work."

"We have proved the crying need," he said. "It now remains for those in authority to give us the financial backing to which I feel we are justified. Either we must continue to go forward, or else retreat. This is a supposedly Christian country, then let us translate those Christian principles into aggressive action, and a very important part of that action must be directed towards the protection of the interests of those who cannot speak for themselves."

Work of the Society will be publicized in the schools and the community at large prior to holding the annual Be Kind To Animals Week, May 1-7, 1949.

To purchase educational films $500 was set aside. Emphasis was laid on the necessity of informing school children of the work done by the Society. Mrs. D. R. MacKay, St. Catharines, said: "Motion pictures are acepted by teachers as a short cut in educating children. They would be good education for all of us."

Discuss Tail Docking

The subject of docking and setting of horses' tails was extensively discussed. A resolution was read from the Peterborough Humane Society advocating the granting of a bonus to horse owners showing winning animals with neither docked nor set tails.

Various delegates pointed out drawbacks to this. Chief Inspector C. W. Morris said that this would mean a horseman not showing in the United States where judges require docking and setting. And he estimated that it would have to be a very large grant of money to make it work the showman's while to forego American exhibitions.

Mr. Loat was skeptical of the value of such a grant. "I would prefer to see the money used in hiring inspectors to see that machinery tor setting tails is not used." As for docking he said the society could prosecute under Section 542A of the Criminal Code.

Finally a resolution condemning the practice of tail setting was passed and letters were sent to the Canadian Horseshow Assoc., the Royal Winter Fair and the C.N.E. thanking them for action taken discouraging the setting of saddle horses' tails and the docking of hackneys' and hackney ponies' tails.

The Department of Lands and Forests will be asked to revise their present method of granting licences for keeping animals at a wayside zoo. It was suggested that a perament licence should not be given until the owner has shown in advance that he has met all the requirements for keeping wild animals (particularly bears).

"I believe that if they did enforce these regulations and seized the bears if not complied with, then there would be 75 per cent fewer captive bears," said Mr. Loat. And he added "We're tired of doing the department's work for them.

Captain G. A. Youle, Ottawa, presented a motion that this be regarded as the first step in a campaign toward the elimination of the practice of keeping captive animals in wayside zoos.

Other resolutions passed included one containing the present inspector's school and another by Captain Youle expressing opposition to such exhibitions as rodeos. Inspectors were urged to closely watch these shows to see that there was no cruelty to animals.

Figures for the year were given by Chief Inspector C. W. Morris. During that period 11,504 animals were inspected. These included 845 cattle, 2,033 horses, 1,019 swine, 173 sheep, 7,247 poultry, 94 zoo animals, 16 dogs and cats, and 77 injured animals.

Complaints received and investigated totalled 141. Warnings were issued in 107 cases; 29 lumber camps were inspected.

Reporting on court actions he saaid that last year for the first time Ontario SPCA inspectors had police authority. (In the near future Inspectors will be sworn in as deputy game wardens.) Forty-two summonses were issued—four were withdrawn, 10 dismissed and 28 convicted. Four persons received suspended sentence, 21 were fined, one went to jail as an alternative to fine, another person was fined and jailed, and still another went to jail without option.

He reported requests for assistance from the Ontario Provincial Police in 20 cases, municipal police in four and once from the Department of Game and Fisheries.

Commenting on Inspector Morris' work, Mr. Loat said: "The fact we have been able to make the progress which we have this year is due entirely to the fact we have the money to spend and that we were able to put a qualified, trained and able man into the job of inspector."

Quaker Union Negotiating With Company

No material progress in negotiations with management was the substance of the report to union employees of Quaker Oats Company at a largely attended meeting of their membership in Knights of Columbus Hall Thursday night.

John Beggs, president of Local 293 of the United Packing House Workers of America, and Sam Hughes of Toronto, assistant director of the union, have been representing the members in the discussions which have been going on with representatives of the company since early in August. They reported to the meeting the terms of the company's offer in regard to wage rates and certain improvements in contract.

That conveying of information was followed by a secret vote on the question of acceptance. Scrutineers reported 148 ballots, and the vote was unanimously against the present proposed terms. The bargaining committee was instructed to endeavor to continue the discussions with representatives of the company in the hope thta a satisfactory settlement may be concluded before the end of the month. It was expected that another report would be forthcoming by Sept. 26. In that connection the executive was instructed to call a special meeting for that date to hear what was regarded as probably the company's final offer.

It was understood last night that if the membership declined those ultimate terms a strike vote would be taken. Mr. Beggs told the Examiner that the discussions were being carried on in a fair way on both sides.

"The company representatives did appear to be dilatory about the question for some weeks," Mr. Beggs said, "but that stage of the negotiations are passed, and we think we are getting somewhere although these latest offers were not acceptable to our membership. And their attitude is shown by the fact that on a secret ballot every person voted the same way. Two or three members came into the meeting just about that time and thought they were too late to hold things up for explanation just to them alone. But the 148 were all of one mind."

Cardinal Rossi Dies At 72 Years Of Age

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 18 (CP)—The death of Cardinal Raffale Carlo Rossi, 72, at Bassano El Grappa, Italy, was reported here on Friday. Cardinal Rossi was the secretary of the Consistorial College. In 1926 he was given the vice-presidency of the mixed commission created to draw up the projected concordat between the Holy See and the kingdom of Italy. This concordat, part of the "Lateran Accores," was signed February 11, 1929. On July 30, 1930, he was made a cardinal at a secret consistory and was appointed Camerlengo of the Sacred College December 4, 1939. Born at Pisa, he took the vows of the Mendicant Order of Carmelites. Five years later he was ordained to the priesthood.

Lifeguard Rescues Woman from Submerged Car WINS DOW AWARD

MURRAY GRIFFIN
OF ST. THOMAS, ONT.
acts quickly to save woman after car rolls down bank into lake

Murray Griffin, lifeguard a Pinafore Park and swimming instructor for the St. Thomas Recreation Committee, was sitting on the dock when the accident happened. A car, which had been parked above the embankment, suddenly started rolling down the hill and, within seconds, was in the lake, under water.

Griffin, thinking someone might have been in the runaway vehicle, lost no time. Leaping into the water, he dove down and saw a woman trapped inside. He had to use all his strength to open the car door. The water pressure was tremendous, but he finally succeeded in getting the terrified woman out of the car and in to shore.

BRIDE KILLED

It was only then that Griffin learned that another woman, a young bride, had been pushed into the lake by the runaway car. The lifeguard immediately entered the water again and, with the help of others, recovered the body of the young woman. She had been pinned under one o the front wheels.

The cool, courageous work o Murray Griffin was the only bright spot on that tragic Sunday afternoon. If it had not been for his prompt actions and quick thinking the lake might have claimed another victim. We are proud to pay him tribute through the presentation of The Dow Award.

Lifeguard Griffin turned just in time to see the runaway car enter Pinafore Lake. He leaped to his feet and ran to the rescue.

Because of the heavy water pressure, Griffin had a terrific struggle with the car door. He won out, however, and soon had the woman up on the surface.

THE DOW AWARD is a citation for outstanding heroism and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $100 Canada Savings Bond. Winners are selected by the Dow Award Committee, a group of editors of leading Canadian newspapers.

Edmonton Asks Drama Festival Rules Changed

By KEN KELLY

EDMONTON, Sept. 18 (CP)—At least one delegation attending today's meeting of the Dominion Drama Festival committee at Toronto isn't satisfied with the way the Festival is run.

The Edmonton Community Theatre is seeking western support in a move to bring the Festival within the reach of smaller-budget dramatic groups, and to play down its competitive angle.

Richard Macdonald, co-ordinator of cultural activities for Alberta, is slated to lay a resolution before the committee explaining the Edmonton group's point of view.

A. F. MacDonald, business manager of the Edmonton Community Theatre, said here Thursday night his group, expresses the feelings of most western groups that have participated in the festivals.

The ECT feel that the Festival shouldn't try to decide which presentation is the best in Canada, because of the difficulty in judging between a one-act play and a three-acter.

"It is like comparing cheese and beef," Mr. MacDonald explained. "Both are foods. But there the similarity ends."

Stress Good Plays

He felt the stress should be put on production of good plays across the Dominion not on such prizes as the Governor-General's trophy for the best presentation of the year. This goal puts too great a strain on the limited means, and talents of smaller acting groups.

These groups also found costs prohibitive. The ECT had reached the Festival finals in 1946 and 1947 and had been forced to lay out about $1,000 each year to cover transportation for the cast and accessories.

Mr. MacDonald said he would like to see an arrangement like that in the United Kingdom where there is an annual government grant to amateur theatre groups amounting to "thousands of pounds."

The least the Federal government could do would be to make available enough money to ensure that competing groups did not go into the hole. He estimated this would cost about $20,000.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 — (AP). — The United States House of Representatives un-American Activities Committee urged President Truman to release a Federal Bureau of Investigation report it said details the association of Dr. Edward U. Dowling Cleared

TORONTO, Sept. 18 — (CP). — A board of special inquiry in the United States Immigration Service, sitting at the U.S. Consulate here, Friday removed a border-crossing ban imposed a few days ago against Fred Dowling of Toronto, Canadian director of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (C.I.O.)

TO TOMMY MAROTTA of Newark, N.J., five years old, there came the distinction of being one of the youngest drivers in existence to get a ticket for driving without a license, even though his father, Patrick Marotta, must face the music in court. Marotta, in a surge of paternal affection, took a lawnmower motor, surrounded it with various and sundry automobile parts, said to have a total value of $3,000, and came up with a custom-built runabout for his son. The car was licensed properly, but since the state of New Jersey makes no provision for five-year-old drivers of extraminiature automobiles, Tommy wasn't. Hence, when Tommy took a spin or two, the long arm of the law reached out. Picture shows the youngster tinkering with his expensive plaything.

United Church General Council Asked To Endorse Peace Plan

By ROBERT PHILLIPS.

VANCOUVER, Sept. 18 (CP)—The 13th General Council of the United Church of Canada will be asked here next week to endorse a "positive program for peace" which calls for "a change of mood among people . . . to increase the chance of averting war without compromise of basic convictions."

This recommendation appeared today in the 425-page agenda for the nine-day meeting of lay and clergy delegates from the church's one Newfoundland and 10 Canadian Conferences.

More than 1,000 persons, 470 of them official delegates, are scheduled to attend the meetings here in St. Thomas Wesley United Church beginning September 21.

The church will seek approval also of a recommendation that the Canadian Government give the Security Council of the United Nations all necessary aid in its efforts to meet and overcome "any threat to or breach of the peace or threat of aggression."

Since the 12th biennial meeting of the General Council in 1946 12 special across-the-country committees and commissions have been studying and compiling reports and recommendations covering a wide field of matters of church and general interest.

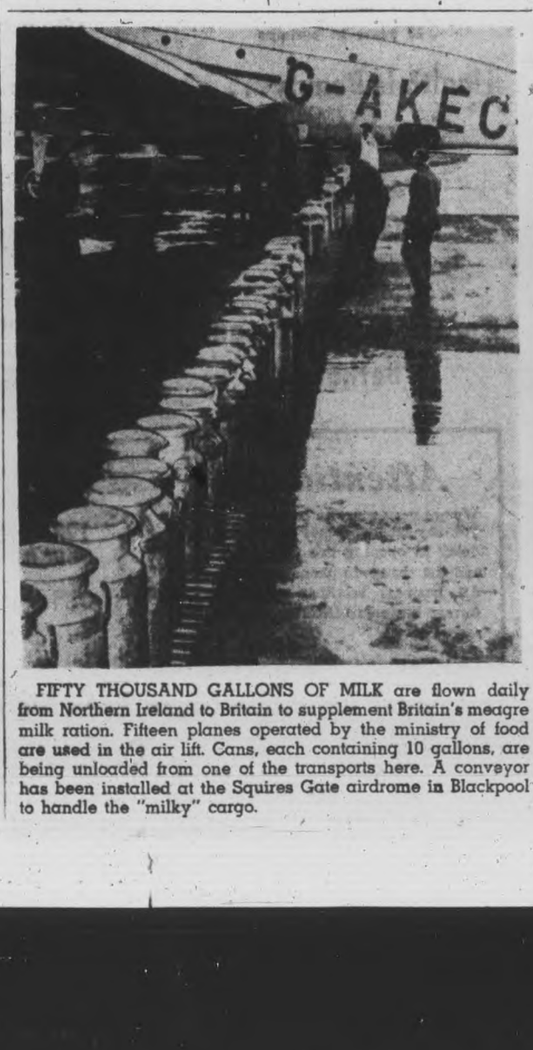
Greater Union

In its own sphere the United Church will seek from its General Council a continuation of activities towards a greater union among churches.

In addition to the 12 standing committees, covering such widely diffused subjects as faith, marriage, culture, church expansion, and the Lord's Day observance, 92 other memorials will be urged upon the General Council by individual clergymen and church conferences throughout Canada and Newfoundland.

From the executive of the General Council will come a request for full investigation into the question of capital punishment and the Hamilton Conference will ask that "a more scientific and humane" method of carrying out a capital punishment sentence be substituted.

As a further activity in the international sphere, Toronto will urge the Canadian Government be asked to authorize immigration into Canada of adoptable children and London will seek church encouragement of student preparation for missionary service to Russia.



FIFTY THOUSAND GALLONS OF MILK are flown daily from Northern Ireland to Britain to supplement Britain's meagre milk ration. Fifteen planes operated by the ministry of food are used in the air lift. Cans, each containing 10 gallons, are being unloaded from one of the transports here. A conveyor has been installed at the Squires Gate airdrome in Blackpool to handle the "milky" cargo.

Hollywood's Arlene Dahl Fights With Studio Censor

By GENE HANDSAKER.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 18 (AP)—"About some things," complains Arlene Dahl, "studio censors are fussy old maids."

Arlene, who is shaped like the girls on the jackets of modern novels, is in a mild hassle with Eagle-Lion's censor over something called cross-lightning.

She plays a voluptuous spy in the French Revolution in "Reign of Terror," now shooting. She must charm Robert Cummings and other conspirators or lose her head on the guillotine. She must portray a clever, wily adventuress costumed so as to take even the partiots' minds off barricades and the Bastille.

An appearance that will evoke whisales (or whatever response indicated approval by the blades of 1789) is in this case, Arlene argues, a sober, legitimate part of her dramatic art.

Joe Breen, Jr., the studio censor, looked at some test footage of Arlene in a proposed, low-necked get-up. "Okay is you see flat lighting,"," he told the cameraman, "but I don't think we can get away with cross-lighting."

Flat-lighting is head-on and casts no shadows. Cross-lighting, he said, is tob revealing. Too contourish.

Dimple Disappears

One trouble with flat lighting for Arlene is that it causes the cute dimple in her firm chin to disappear. Only cross-lighting brings it out.

Arlene is twenty-twoish, blue-eyed, and red-haired, with a mole to the right of her mouth and another one, shaped like an inverted heart, just below her left collarbone.

She has a 19¼-inch waist and a 35-inch bust. The Minneapolis-born ex-model and stage actress snapped:

"Censors carry their rules too far. Why, it gets to the point where you are ashamed of being a woman. Sometimes a picture depends on having a sexy woman, but the censors take away her sex. Take away her shape, and you ruin the characterization."

KNOWN IN EARLY TIMES

PERSONAL FINANCE COMPANY OF CANADA OPENS PETERBOROUGH BRANCH

DALTON R. THOMSON
Manager

Mr. Dalton R. Thomson was born in Arden, Ontario. He attended local schools, graduating from Plevna High School in 1940. He enlisted in the R.C.A.F., serving until his honorable discharge in 1946. He was appointed Assistant Manager of the Company's Kingston Branch in December, 1946. He comes to his new position as Branch Manager with a sincere desire to be of helpful service to all who need loans or financing. He will make his home in Peterborough.

We are pleased to announce the opening for business of the Peterborough Branch office of the Personal Finance Company of Canada. It gives us additional pleasure to announce the appointment of Mr. Dalton R. Thomson as manager.

The Personal Finance Company of Canada has been in business in Canada since 1933. We are grateful to the thousands of satisfied clients since that date who have made possible our steady growth, which has resulted in the opening of this Peterborough Branch. We are happy to have the opportunity of serving our neighbors in Peterborough and vicinity with the kind of Personal Loan service that may best be helpful to them.

We welcome applications for loans from any employed person, married or single, or from any one with an income sufficient to permit repayment of a loan. Loans are made in amounts from $50 to $1,500 or more. Repayments are scheduled on a monthly basis to fit the individual's income in reasonable amounts so that they are easy to handle. Loans are made on the following plans to suit individual needs. The various loan plans offered are:

1. Loans to salaried people on signature only.
2. Loans to husband and wife only.
3. Loans with auto as security.
4. Loans with furniture as security.
5. Business fixtures and equipment loans.
6. Farm stock and equipment loans.
7. Financing of autos and other articles with smaller down payments.

Most people will qualify under one of the above plans. It is never necessary to have bankable security to borrow at Personal Finance, and co-signers are seldom required to obtain a loan. Applications are handled in strict confidence and with all possible speed. Making loans and financing purchases is our full-time business and we endeavour to favourably approve every application received by us.

We suggest that if bills are bothering you, or needed medical or dental work should be done, or if a loan could be used to advantage right now, that you place your application today in person, by phone, or by mail, and give us an opportunity to serve you. We want to be helpful, and we will listen with respect and attention to your request.

Must Become Citizens

TORONTO, Sept. 18—(CP)—Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire will seek to have all immigrants take out citizenship papers on arrival in Canada, it is announced.

A recent meeting of the IODE national executive passed a resolution urging the federal government to "use every means possible" to encourage immigrants to file their declaration of intention when they enter the country.

Many have come to Canada and for years have enjoyed Canadian liberties and prosperity without becoming citizens, the resolution stated.

MR. AND MRS. LEONARD J. CLANCY

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Clancey Mark Golden Anniversary

Residents of Otonabee for 41 years and of Ennismore for the preceding nine, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard J. Clancey were highly honored on Monday, September 13, their golden wedding day. Celebration of their marriage 50 years ago in Downeyville Roman Catholic Church commenced at nine o'clock on the anniversary with a family mass celebrated at Our Lady of Assumption Hall by the Rev. Christopher McCarney, rector. Other clergymen present were Most Rev. Bishop Gerald Berry of Peterborough, Rt. Rev. Monsignor J. J. O'Brien of Sacred Heart Church, Very Rev. Dean J. V. McCauley of Lindsay, and the Rev. J. J. Garvey of Hastings. Prior to opening of the new church this year, Mr. and Mrs. Clancey were parishioners of Sacred Heart.

Mr. Clancey chose farming as his life work and now at 75 he can look back proudly at a successful career. With it he combined the operation of Clancey's Dairy for more than 25 years. This establishment stands in the south end of Peterborough, a model of fine management and good service to the public. In March of this year Mr. Clancey was victim of an unfortunate accident when a tree fell striking his left shoulder and arm while he was lending assistance on the site of the new church. Still suffering severe pain from his useless arm, he was released from St. Joseph's Hospital only Monday morning so that he might join his family on the anniversary.

Ten sons and one daughter were with their parents for the family dinner at their home, accompanied by their families including 22 grandchildren. The children are: Edward of Detroit, Mich., Peter and Mark of Battle Creek, Mich., Fergus of Otonabee, William living at home, Elmer of Rochester, N.Y., Michael and Joseph of Peterborough, Ambrose, Stephen and Bernadine (Mrs. Harry Rutherford) all of Otonabee.

An electric refrigerator was the couple's wedding gift from their sons. Neighbors presented a purse and address and many individual gifts and hundreds of congratulatory messages were received. To the reception at their home after four o'clock came a host of friends from the surrounding district, Peterborough, Oshawa and from Bowmanville, where Mr. Clancey and his wife, the former Mary Ellen O'Connor, were born.

Woman Mayor In Middle Of Four-Power Row

By A. E. SHANKE

BERLIN, Sept. 17—(AP)—A wisp of a woman mayor is trying to hold this quartered, beseiged city together.

Governing a city of ruins and 3,250,000 hungry Germans over which the Allies are quarrelling would be a two-fisted he-man's job any place in the world. For the last 15 months frail 61-year-old Louise Schroeder has been shouldered with the task.

When she took the job a year ago last May, she thought it would be only temporary until the four Allied commanders could agree on a mayor. The Russians refused to approve Dr. Ernst Reuter, a Social Democrat who was duly elected.

As the months passed, the differences between the Russian commander and his western opposite numbers deepened. And now Frau Schroeder has landed squarely in the middle of an intense East-West struggle over Berlin and the wider issue of Germany.

Sitting like a prim schoolmarm in her simple office, grey-haired Frau Schroeder carries her responsibilities calmly and cheerfully. Every move she makes is aimed at surmounting the unique problems of administering a world capital divided by the occupying powers.

"The disunity among the Allies is being fought out on the backs of the Berliners," she says. "Berlin is innocent but has become the sufferer."

Hers always was an uneasy job of meeting the minds of East and West without offending either. She was doing well, all agree. But then this last great crisis developed in which the Russians are trying to squeeze the western powers out of Berlin through a blockade.

Four Commanders

"Since the Kommandatura (Allied four-power administration of Berlin) failed, I now must deal with four commanders where I used to work with a single Allied body," Frau Schroeder says. "Everything I want to do must have four approvals, although the western commanders usually work in unison.

"What's worse, the commanders are beginning partly to work through their borough mayors. That must be overcome. I am working to hold Berlin together. No matter what the Allies say or do Berlin is a unit, and I was chosen mayor by and of all Berlin."

She had to reject Russian orders, for example, that the Soviet east mark was the only legal currency in Berlin, although she knew the circulation of both east and west money in the capital would lead to economic confusion.

Frau Schroeder is affectionately called "Mother" of Berlin, although her home until nine years ago was Altona, near Hamburg.

The first German woman to occupy such an important office, she meets visitors easily in her downtown office in the Russian sector of Berlin. Bright eyes behind heavy horn-rimmed glasses bid visitors welcome. Her office breathes the woman's touch—flowers and gay table covers and neat stacks of papers before her on her desk.

A member of the Social Democratci party, Frau Schroeder was elected to the city assembly in the landslide election which the social democrats won over the rival Communist dominated Socialist Unity party in 1946.

Girl's Tears Soften Thug

CHICAGO, Sept. 18—A gruff bandit bowed to love.

He had just forced five employees of the General Finance Loan Company to lie on the floor while he took $400 from the cashbox. Then he spotted a ring on the engagement finger of Miss Gladys Ross, 19, one of the loan company employees.

He reached down and pulled it off. She sat up and cried.

"Okay. Okay. Don't cry sister," he said testily. "Here's your ring." Then he walked out with the money.

Send Parcels Regularly

Afternoon branch of St. John's Anglican church met in the church parlors, Ven. Archdeacon W. P. Robertson conducting the devotional period. President Mrs. H. C. Spotheran asked committee conveners for reports of their work during the summer.

The annual bazaar and congregattional supper were discussed, the dote to be announced later.

Miss M. English and Mrs. G S. Cameron reported sending the regular number of food parcels to England during the summer, and letters were received expressing grateful thanks of the recipients. Mrs. Cooper and Mrs. Cochrane are in charge of the food parcels for September.

Members were reminded of the annual deanery meeting in St. Luke's church, Tuesday, September 21, opening with Holy Communion at 10.30. Luncheon will be served in the Parish Hall, and the afternoon session will commence at two o'clock.

Mrs. P. Martyn and Mrs. E. Graham served tea.

Sophistication Marks Fall Elegance

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 — A wrapped-around shoulder, a spread-out skirt and a touch in between of awkward child—that's Hattie Carnegie's recipe for elegance, fall, 1948.

The wearer is sophisticated everywhere but the waistline. That's been raised just a shade—usually at the back—to suggest an adolescent who grew a bit.

The wrapped shoulder comes with lovely brief fur stoles, many of which button or tie, leaving the hands free. Dresses repeat the feeling. Necklines are molded like shells. Sleeves and bodice are cut in one to give a wrapped look across the back of the shoulders.

Skirts, on almost everything but daytime suits, are gracefully full, with concentrations of gathering at back or evenly spaced about the skirt.

Outstanding costume in Miss Carnegie's made-to-order collection is:

A slim black wool suit with an extra, detachable undercollar of the same material trimmed in jet. The jacket comes off to reveal a strapless, jet-trimmed black wool bodice. The extra collar can be buttoned onto it as a halter.

J.W.L. To Spend $10 Per Month On Food Parcels

The Junior Welfare League held its first fall meeting at Mrs. J. Dewart's cottage on Chemong Lake Thursday afternoon.

Two letters of thanks were read, one from London, England, for a food parcel and the other from Miss R. Young of the Children's Aid Society acknowledging a donation to the CAS camp fund.

Mrs. R. R. Faryon gave the treasurer's report. Clothing for needy families was asked for by Mrs. Hubert Eastwood of the visiting committee. Mrs. Graeme Falkner obtained two more assistant for the clerical work at the baby clinics. Members volunteered to sew and mend at the Shelter on Thursday afternoons throughout October.

It was moved by Mrs. Romeyn Stevenson and seconded by Mrs. Hubert Eastwood that the JWL spend $10 each month until Christmas for fod parcels to Britain. The coming thrift sale was discussed.

Next meeting of the JWL will be held at the home of Mrs. D. A. MacTavish, on the first Monday in October.

Marion Foster Takes Vows With Gerald Ackford Today

A setting of gladioli banked with fern in All Saints' Anglican Church today was arranged for the wedding of Sara Marion, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Foster, to James Gerald Ackford son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Ackford, all of Peterborough. The Rev. W. E. Kibblewhite performed the marriage rites. Mrs. W. A. Logan at the organ played traditional wedding music and during the signing of the register Miss Joy Walker sang "Until".

The lovely gown of white slipper satin chosen by the bride had a draped bertha neckline on the fitted bodice and long sleeves with lily points over the hands. It was fastened to the waist at back with self-covered buttons and the full skirt swept into a short train. She wore a beaded tiara from which a circular veil of tulle illusion fell into a full length train and she was carrying a white prayer book with streamers tied with pink Sweetheart roses. Mr. Foster gave his daughter in marriage.

Miss Joan Foster was her sister's maid of honor and Miss Eleanor Jobbitt was bridesmaid. Their frocks of peach and aqua taffeta were made with picture necklines and bustles and the hats were of the same material. They carried ring bouquets of gladioli.

Mr. Ronald Ackford was his brother's attendant and the ushers were Donald Foster and Darrell Ackford.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Foster chose a gown of grey crepe hat of black felt with grey plume and a corsage of red roses Mrs. Ackford, mother of the groom was attired in a grey ensemble and wore Talisman roses. Both assisted in receiving the guests at the reception afterward in the church parlors.

Mr. and Mrs. Ackford are spending their honeymoon at Chateau Woodland in Haliburton and on return they will live at 174 Aylmer St. When going away the bride was wearing a suit of grey wool with black pencil stripe black accessories and brown squirrel fura.

Bride's Objections Fail With Homewrecking Mother

A letter comes to this column from a young man who signs himself "DISTRAUGHT." He writes: "Isn't there some way to make mothers see that when their children get married they want to live alone? Can't they be made to understand that the greatest favor they could ever do Mary and Johnny is to give them a chance, when they get married, to become adjusted to each other without a lot of parental interference?

Dorothy Dix

"My mother moved in with us as soon as we were married and now, after only eight months of wedlock, my wife has left me because of mother. Mother says to me: 'Don't worry, dear, I can take better care of you than your wife could.'

"And she doesn't see that a man needs his wife more than anything on earth, and that she is ruining two lives by wrecking a marriage that could have been a great success."

Probably there is no other problem in the world that is harder to solve, and that brings so much unhappiness to so many people, and that breaks up so many homes as having Mother come to live with the newlyweds. And that is the case whether it is the bridegroom's mother or the bride's mother. It is just that not even the Pentagon Building is big enough to hold two women who are trying to run the same house and boss the same man. Nor can any mother keep her fingers out of her children's pies.

Patronizing

What complicate the situation is that so many mothers who are first aid to their children's divorces are good, kind souls who think they are conferring an inestimable favor on their children when they go to live with them. Mother is sure that Mamie would be so lonesome if she was left alone with no company but her husband. Mother feels she is being so helpful if she takes over Sally's housekeeping. And Mother simply oozes virtue when she darns son-in-law's socks.

And, although Mother has been over the same road herself, she doesn't remember that when she was a bride how she wanted to monopolize her husband, and how she resented all advice, and how her own mother or her mother-in-law got on her nerves by always treating her as if she were a moron.

It seems a cruel thing to say that the mothers who adore their children and who desire above all things their happiness, man the home-wrecking crew and do more to promote divorce than any other one thing. For Mother is right on the spot to call Johnny's attention of what a poor cook his wife is, or to pity Sally because she can't afford to have a new dress. And when Johnny and Sally have their little spats, as all young couples do when they are settling down into marriage, Sally will weep on Johnny's shoulder and Johnny will call himself a brute and they will kiss and make up and no permanent harm will be done. But with Mother on the ground to pity her poor darling son or daughter, another marriage that should have been a happy one ends in disaster.

When mothers insist upon going to live with their children when they marry, because they do not want to live alone and because their heartstrings are wrapped around a son or daughter, it is not easy for the young people to say "no" and that they are determined to live alone. But it is their salvation, for the whole happiness of their lives depends upon it.

Hence mothers should be unselfish enough to take the initative and refuse to become burdens on their children. It would save a lot of trouble if they did.

PERPETUAL FLAME

The candles burned at funeral services are descendants of the earthen lamps found in the Christian catacombs at Syracuse. These lamps were kept constantly burning. As symbols of immortality, they were designed to ward off evil from deceased persons. The Syracuse lamps, in their turn, were born of an ancient world-wide tradition that maintained perpetual fires in veneration of the warmth and light of the hearthfire, the sun and the moon.

VELVET BONNET BERET—Many and pleasing are the variations on the theme of the beret that mark the millinery picture. They are available in all styles, for all types, at all price levels. Your first fall hat may well be a beret-bonnet of rich black velvet such as this model. A chenille-dotted veil softens the narrow brim and a quill is clipped to the crown with a circlet of rhinestones. This is a moderately-priced hat that should go unobtrusively yet smartly through the season and is an important budget consideration.

THE STARS SAY . . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, September 19

Sunday's horoscope accents the happy and fruitful marshalling of interests, talents and desires on the affairs of heart and home. All sorts of social, cultural and purely personal interests are likely to engage the attention. However, business activities in connection with these should be pleasant and profitable. Nevertheless, there is an undercurrent of the sordid and subtle, which might impel tricky, sinister and strange urges.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of conflicting experiences, in which most advantageous and pleasant relations may be neutralized by an undertone of the sinister and sordid. Social, cultural and sentimental activities may lend verve and enjoyment in the realm of heart and home, to those business developments naturally demanded in furthering such engaging circumstances. Finances, property, all possessions, are also under gainful stimulus. But keep alert to unsuspected forms of treachery.

A child born on this day, while amiable, good natured, talented and popular, also may have undercurernts of the sordid and tricky predisposed to the expedient rather than principle.

For Monday, September 20

Monday's astrological forecast is for the eventual solution of complicated, involved, sinister and irregular circumstances; or strange mental attitudes. This is probably attributable to the unraveling of peculiar entanglements or commitments, in which the intervention of influential personages may be the activating force. Behind-the-scenes developments may dispel fears, worries and curious slants.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is have a promising augury of so manipulating their affairs and dissolving major difficulties, by their own particularly astute acumen, supplemented by the friendly intervention or collaboration from those in influential positions. This either in public or private life. A clever coup is forecast, perhaps born of intuitism, "hunch" or other inexplicable or subtle lead, in which personality and charm may have important significance. Complexities, worries, queer impressions, eccentric urges, may be expected to melt away under the clear light of logic.

A child born on this day may have undertones and impulses of subtle or impressionable need, finally sustained by logic and sound ideas.

Vary Silhouette From Pencil To Pumpkin

NEW YORK, Sept. 18—American women can choose between a pumpkin and a pencil silhouette for winter evenings, according to Jay Thorpe's custom designers.

For daytime, there's a happy and high-waisted medium, but there is less choice in the evening collection.

Most effective of the round-skirted fashions is a gown, in a silvery blue iridescent taffeta, which has a narrowly strapped, snugly fitted bodice with a bit of beading across the top. The skirt bells out in front with a series of pocket-like drapes from waist to hem. At back it's equaly belled, with folds that fall straight from waistline.

For Walkability

Pencil-skirted gowns include a variety of devices to make them walkable. One skirt had its hemline slit in four places to flap around the ankles. A pair of wrapped skirts slit to above the knee when the model walked—one in front, one in back.

Happiest compromise was a black satin gown which fit like a sheath at the front but was fulled in back with a group of pie-shaped gores starting low on the hip. In effect from front view it posed a pair of slimly wrapped legs before a matching triangular back drop.

Daytime and early evening dresses in the collection featured graceful skirts, high, accented waistlines and beautifully draped upper bodices.

Interrupt Teen-Age Party, Two Men Get Worst of It

Two men who interfered in a "doughnut social' of teen-age high school boys and girls came off second-best not only during the affray, but also in court Thursday. Melbourne Perritt, McFarlane Ave., was fined for assaulting one of the boys and for being drunk in public and Ronald Summers, 580 King George St., was fined on a charge of reckless driving.

The evidence, which took more than two hours to complete, was almost completely at odds with the story told by the other side. Of the discrepancy in the evidence, Magistrtae W. R. Philp, KC, remarked: "I find it hard to even recognize the descriptions as those of the same brawl."

Fifteen-year-old Kenneth Reynolds, who laid the charge of assault against Perritt, gave the evidence, Magistrate W. R. Philp, cribed a "doughnut social" last Saturday night near the high bridge over Trent Canal on McFarlane St. About 10 boys and seven girls attended. About 11 p.m., he said that the accused, accompanied by Summers, arrived at the scene of the party and that an argument developed. He described both Perritt and Summers as "intoxicated."

He said that Perritt first kicked one of the boys, Kenneth Bachelor, on the leg. The boy retaliated with a kick to Perritt's stomach. This started a melee, he said, and Perritt picked up a club five feet long and chased the boys along the canal bank.

The boys lined up with clubs to meet him, said Reynolds, and when Perritt reached theer, he struck Reynolds across the face with the club.

Reynolds said that the blow knocked him to the ground where he lay for about five minutes. In the meantime, he said, Summers had thrown five bicycles into the canal waters.

Kenneth Bachelor, 16, another member of the party, said that the argument with Perritt developed when Perritt reached them, he of his to put out the fire they had burning. He said the accused hit him on the cheek with his fist: "So I went into him." Bachelor said that the accused also hit him in the stomach, kicked him on the leg. He said Perritt "took a swing" at another boy, Wayne Ferguson, but missed and that Ferguson had then landed several telling blows on the accused.

Leo Sullivan, 15, also gave an account of the fight.

In his own defence, the accused said that he had approached the boys asking them to put out their fire because he was afraid that his property nearby would be endangered. As the argument started, he said, it flared up when Bachelor struck the first blow at him. He took up the club, he told the court, "to scare them off." He denied having struck Reynolds at all.

He Missed It All

Summers, as a defence witness, said he saw nothing of the Perritt-Reynolds tangle, but he said that the accused had been hit first. Summers said that he had become involved when four or ifve of the boys "piled on to me" and dragged him to the ground.

"I was too busy trying to get out of trouble myself, I didn't see what was going on with Perritt," he said. He admitted that he pushed three of the bicycles into the canal. He also testified that Perritt did not have a stick and did not strike anyone.

Defence Counsel Ralph O. Standish argued that the fire made by the young people was a definite danger to the accused's business premises close by and that Perritt had received a "rather thorough mauling around from the lads as it was."

He added: "If any assault charges should have been laid, I think they should have been laid by the accused....the honors of the fight are even, there is a reasonable doubt as to actually what did happen....they should lick their wounds and forget it ....in a brawl like this, it ill behooves anyone to complain about what the others do...."

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry pointed out that the blow to Reynolds, which knocked the boy down for five minutes, "is not a slight matter and should be regarded seriously."

Perritt, found guilty on the evidence by Magistrate Philp, was fined $5 and costs of $15.50 or 15 days.

Another charge of assault against Perritt and two similar charges against Summers were withdrawn by the complainants.

Summers was found guilty on the evidence of a charge of reckless driving. He was fined $40 and $4.50 costs. This was laid following an accident shortly after the tangle with the boys. PC Leo Murphy described the accident on Armour Rd., in which the accused's car was driving erratically all over the road, went in and out of the ditch, struck guide post and turned on its side into the ditch again.

In his own defence, Summers said that he had been following a jagged course made necessary by all the potholes in the road. He said he struck one of these which broke the kingpin in his car and sent the car out of control.

Perritt pleaded guilty to a charge of being drunk in public on the night in question and was fined $10 and $2.50 costs.

Thanksgiving Serious Job For Proclamation Writers

By H. DENT HODGSON.

OTTAWA, Sept. 18 — (CP).— Canadians who want to know exactly and officially what they are going to be thankful for October 11—besides a holiday—can find it all in the Canada Gazette.

Unlike most other Statutory holidays which fall on specific days, Thanksgiving Day must be fixed by proclamation. And the formal preamble to the date-fixing document sets out the reasons for thanksgiving in solemn words which fall like a psalm.

"Whereas," the proclamation reads, "it hath pleased Almighty God in His great goodness to vouchsafe many blessings during this year on the people of Canada;

"And whereas, under the blessing of Almighty God, Canada has been spared a great measure of the privation and suffering which many nations have undergone during the year;

"And whereas it has pleased Him in His great goodness to grant a harvest which, in addition to meeting the needs of the people of Canada, has enabled Canada to assist the peoples of other countries at this critical time;

"We therefore, considering that these blessings vouchsafe to the people of Canada do call for a solemn and public acknowledgment...."

The proclamation goes on to set the date at October 11. The King, under whose name all such proclamations are issued, adds Imperially:

"We do hereby invite all our people of Canada to observe the said day as a day of general thanksgiving."

Dominion's Bulletin Board

Thus Thanksgiving Day becomes official, with the publication of the proclamation in the Canada Gazette by the King's Printer. This slim, uncovered volume appears weekly, making official other proclamations great and small.

The Gazette, too, places the official seal on appointments to commissions or promotions in His Majesty's Forces. Here appear notices of bankruptcy, divorce suits, calls for public tenders notices of incorporation or alterations in military regulations.

Hefty Handle

Below each proclamation comes the full title of the Governor-General, who rates more wordage than the King himself. Longer even than the strips of ribbons on his military chest is Viscount Alexander's full moniker. Take a deep breath:

"Our Right Trusty and Well-beloved Cousin, Harold Rupert Leofric George, Viscount Alexander of Tunis; Knight of Our Most Noble Order of the Garter, Knight of the Grand Cross of Our Most Honorable Order of the Bath, Knight Grand Cross of Our Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George, Companion of Our Mos Exalted Order of the Star of India, Companion of Our Most Distinguished Service Order, Upon Whom Has Been Conferred the Decoration of the Military Cross, Field-Marshal in Our Army, Governor-General and Commander-in-Chief of Canada."

Liquor, Traffic Cases Keep Court Busy

Minor liquor and traffic cases through court Friday were:

James Craig, 300 London St., and Grant Reid, Springbrook, were each fined $15 and $2.50 costs for illegal possession of liquor.

Fined $15 and $2.50 costs for being drunk in public was Norman Austin, 41 Lee St.

Michael Collins, Ennismore, was fined $10 and $2.50 costs for being drunk in public.

Hector Allan of Manitoba and John Ridley, King St., were each fined $10 and $2.50 costs for illegal possession of liquor.

Ross McCarrell, 533 Sherbourne St., was fined $5 and $2.50 costs for driving through a stop street.

William W. McKinney, 110 Cameron St., was fined $4 and $2.50 costs for not stopping for a red light.

David Menzies, 373 Thomas St., was fined $2 and $1 costs for not carrying a rear light on his car.

Reg Gould, 47 Park Hill Road, was fined $1 and $1 costs for riding a bicycle on a footbridge.

16 Applications For Displaced Persons Still Unfilled; Blame Lack Of Ships

Peterborough branch of the National Employment Service have 16 applications on their books for displaced persons domestics for city homes but they have no advice of any more sailings lately from Europe. Officials attribute the cause to lack of boat space and there have been strikes at some of the sailing ports that tied up some of the early summer sailings for several days.

A survey of homes in which DP girls are living and working shows that employers are very satisfied and report that in all cases they have made remarkable progress, especially those who arrived as late as June of this year. Some of them had a smattering of English, others are picking it up quickly and their mistresses assist in encouraging them to read novels, go to the occasional good movie and use the privilege of their Peterborough Library membership. The English language classes at the YWCA have helped the newcomers a great deal, they said.

With the opening of basic English classes at PCVS Wednesday evening, 24 girls and 18 men made too large a group to be instructed successfully in one class and it was necessary to make up two classes under the instruction of H. R. W and Miss Helen Bonnycas... Teaching supervisor B. W. Switzer said that the advanced class of 11 had shown a fine improvement and that the educational plan was progressing very satisfactorily. He explained that domestics had a better chance to learn English as they were in constant communication in the homes whereas men who worked alone on farms did not have the opportunity of constant exchange of speech with their employers.

Questions – And an answr
When the need for funeral service occurs, many questions usually fill the family's minds — as they wonder what should be done about various details.
The wisest answer to these questions is to place all arrangements in the hands of a reputable funeral director whose helpfulness and services you can trust. For many years Peterborough families have turned to Comstock's in this way.
Above is one of our well-appointed reception rooms.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

SQUEEZE IN ALL SUITS

MOST squeeze plays give the victim a devastating option between fatal discards in either of two suits. In some situations, however, he is obliged to make an equally ruinous choice among three suits. The most widely understood squeezes have another feature. They usually are toward the close of the play, when there are only three or four cards in each hand. Some of them, however, come much earlier, but operate along the same general lines as the late ones.

	♠ Q 7 6 5 ♥ J 7 ♦ K 10 7 5 4 ♣ Q 8
♠ J 10 9 ♥ 9 8 4 3 2 ♦ 3 ♣ A 5 4 2	N W E S	♠ A 8 4 2 ♥ 6 5 ♦ J 9 8 2 ♣ K 10 9
	♠ K 3 ♥ A K Q 10 ♦ A Q 6 ♣ J 7 6 3

(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♥	Pass	1 ♠
Pass	2 NT	Pass	3 NT

When the spade J was led and East played low, South had what looked like a cinch. He won that because he thought he could count up nine more easy tricks, with four in hearts and five in diamonds, to give him an extra trick. But when the diamond A and Q brought a heart discard from West and showed East holding four diamonds, he forgot all about an extra trick and began to see if he might score a mere game.

With an alert eye to note all developments, he next ran four heart tricks, parking a spade and diamond from the dummy on the last two and noting that East discarded a club on the third heart, then studied and squirmed.

East was a good player himself, so realized the problem he faced. He held three spades, two diamonds and two clubs. If he chose a diamond for his discard, he would set up the ninth trick in that suit, since the K could drop his J. If he tossed off a club, then a club lead would either compel West to drop the K with the A and lead to East for three spade tricks, followed by a lead into the tenace diamonds from the J-9 to the K-10, or else would cause East to win with the club K and lead either spades or diamonds to give dummy the game trick.

So East chose the third option, a spade discard. But it was just as bad. It caused South to lead that suit, giving the defense two each in the black suits, but then the club J and diamond K were winners to make the contract.

Your Week-End Question

Any fair player knows the value of a sacrifice bid at the right time. When not attempting a sacrifice, what kind of situation justifies a bid for more tricks than you expect to be able to take?

Army Duck Takes Trip On Otonabee

A Canadian Army DUKW, better known as a "Duck" visited Peterborough on Friday and made a short tour of the city at midday. The DUKW, a 7½-ton amphibian vehicle with a top speed on land of 55 mph and on water of 7 mph is making a tour of Eastern Ontario centres in connection with Army Week, Sept. 20-26.

A precision drill squad of 26 men from RCASC School, Camp Borden, under the command of Lt.-Col. J. L. Lapoint is travelling with the vehicle. Col. Lapoint, who drove the land and water vehicle through the streets, also took it for a short trial run on the Otonabee.

Pioneer Railroader Recalls Visits Here 65 Years Ago

Thomas S. Acheson of Winnipeg, paid Peterborough a visit on Friday for the first time in 65 years. Son of a Presbyterian minister who settled many years ago at Wick and Greenbank in Ontario County, Mr. Acheson as a boy of six and seven years made occasional visits to Peterborough with his father.

Mr. Acheson was unable to recall very little about Peterborough of 65 years ago and apparently the only impression made on his boyish mind was the two large Presbyterian churches, St. Andrew's and St. Paul's. Those trips to Peterborough, were a highlight in the life of the boy.

"My paternal grandfather was a school inspector in Grey County," Mr. Acheson says, "and my father was the Rev. Samuel Acheson. We moved from Grey County into Ontario County, and then into Huron County. In spite of my father's wishes that I continue my studies at the University of Toronto, as he had done, I went to work with the CPR.

50 Years With CPR

Two years ago, Mr. Acheson retired after more than 50 years' service with that company. When he arrived in Winnipeg in 1895, he had used his knowledge of telegraphy, which he had learned in school back home, to get work on the "Nor'Wester," one of Winnipeg's first newspapers. Later that year, he joined the CPR as a telegarph operator at Marquette, Man.

Much to his satisfaction, he was made travelling agent for the company's expanding freight department in 1904. In this capacity he travelled through the west, studying the agricultural and trading possibilities of districts to which branch lines had not yet been built.

Grain Agent

With the exception of a brief period when he was assigned the task of recommending methods to standardize the handling of traffic among prairie stations, he held this position until 1909, when he was made grain agent. His fields of exploration widened, and his contracts became greater and more varied.

Appointed general agricultural agent shortly after the outbreak of war in 1914, Mr. Acheson enlisted in the Winnipeg Grenadiers the following year. He served overseas as a captain, was wounded and was twice mentioned in dispatches. At the close of the war, he was awarded the OBE (military division).

Friendly, and cheerful, Mr. Acheson lives in Winnipeg with his wife, whom he married 47 years ago at Winkler, Man.

Today, because of his tireless energy, and endless industry, he is a special goodwill representative of an association owned by his cousin, Lila Acheson Wallace, and her husband, Dewitt Wallace, at Pleasantville, NY, the Reader's Digest. Retirement was just too much for him.

10 New Recruits Sworn In At Armouries

Thursday evening saw the 50th Heavy AA regiment operating at a pace that caused one veteran member to remark that it seemed 'like old times'.

Gun Position Officer for the evening was Captain John Londerville, who with T.C.O. Coptain P.W.R. Sargeant went through the entire operation of preparing for action and engaging an aircraft.

Radar under assistant instructor Sgt. Bennewith was fully operational, and the detachment had the satisfaction of tracking local-flying aircraft.

Ten new recruits arriving during the evening, and the business of 'swearing 'em in' is going at full speed with Lieut. Payne as recruiting officer.

A full gun position will be set up in the Armouries field where the public will be able to view the operations and look over the guns and instruments including Radar, during the coming week. On display will also be all the vehicles of the regiment from the notorious jeep to the monstrous twelve and a half ton Macks.

Wireless communication from point to point will also be demonstrated, with communication from ground to aircraft as part of the display.

In command of the entire operation will be Lieut.-Colonel M. E. Clarke, ED. GPO will be Capt. J. D. Londerville, GPOA Sgt. Hughes, i/c Radar Sgt. Bennewitn, Predictor, Sgt. Webb; Height and Range Finder, Sgt. Jones; No. 1 Gun RSM Davidson, No. 2 Gun Sgt. French. Recruits will be under BSM Bob Hayes and BSM Huggins. Captain P.W. R. Sargeant will be in charge of training on the Radar and instruments with Sgt. B. L. Smith supervising at the guns.

Top Breeders At Oshawa Fair

Shorthorn field day at Oshawa fair Thursday assembled an exceptionally strong and numerous list of entries. Among the breeders were W. A. Dryden, Son, Beath Farms, F. W. Deacon & Son, and from Peterborough county M. H. Pimmet & Son, Clifford W. Lowes and L. Cadesky.

Grand champion female was "Aberfeldy Paulin 5th" from the Cadesky herd in Harvey township. Reserve junior champion bull was "Lanrick Prince Rover" owned by Mr Lowes.

The Pimmett herd took the senior bull calf class with Milhills Ransom Marsnal, which also won the award of junior champion bull.

The Peterborough Shorthorns were prominent in the show.

Obituaries

WILLIAM W. BROWN

One of Peterborough's older residents, Wiliam W. Brown, 461 Mark St., died Friday at Civic Hospital. He was born in Dummer 81 years ago, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brown, and had lived in the city 15 years. He was a retired farmer, coming from Otonabee township.

Mr. Brown leaves his wife, the former Catharine Tighe, daughters, Sadie of Toronto and Eva of Peterborough, and son Allan and Gordon, both of this city; also brothers, Joseph, Lindsay; George and David of Warsaw and John of Peterborough. Mr. Brown was a member of George St. United Church and an honorary member of its Session.

The funeral will be Monday at 2 p.m. from the family home to Little Lake Cemetery. Rev. Dr. Cooper and Rev. E. W. Rowland will conduct the service.

MRS. F. RICHARDSON

Mrs. Frederick Richardson, 58, of Lakefield, died on Friday in a Peterborough hospital following a short illness. She was born in Lanark county, daughter of the late John McIntyre and Annie Finley, where she lived before coming to Lakefield nine years ago. Her husband, the late Frederick H. Richardson, predeceased her.

She leaves one brother, Peter McIntyre, of Trail, BC, and a step-son, Stanley E. Richardson, of Lakefield.

Mrs. Richardson was educated in Perth, and while in the village was an ardent member of Lakefield United Church. She was president of the Women's Institute, member of the Women's Missionary Society, the Women's Association and the IODE.

Funeral service will be held at Tedford Funeral Home on Sunday at 2.30 p.m. The Rev. W. R. Archer will officiate, and burial will be at Lakefield Cemetery.

Silverwood's Will Double Next Year Their 1948 Increase In Milk Demand . . Have To Go 50 Miles Now For Additional Supply

Holstein Ribbon Winners At "Black And White" Days

Milk business is flowing past the pastures of Peterborough from a broad triangle of dairy country marked by Campbellford, Port Perry and Lindsay. And the 1949 volume will be substantially increased, Mr. J. E. Weir, Silverwood's manager, told the Examiner yesterday.

"We naturally prefer to get our milk supply from the short hauls near home, but when it isn't there we have to go farther afield for it. We would like to keep the radius of this pool at 30 miles, but this season we have to extend it to 50 miles. Port Perry is all of that.

The increase in our milk demand next year will be at least as great as it was this year. There isn't a city of comparable size that is producing as much ice cream as Peterborough. I could go further and say there isn't a city of comparable size, in Ontario at least, that produces within 30 per cent of the ice cream that we are now manufacturing and selling."

Silverwood's ice cream, made in Peterborough, is now going westerly as far as Sault Ste. Marie. In so far as distance is of interest some of the local company's product goes on to James Bay.

Mr. Weir was indicating the prospects of the milk demand for ice cream here in Peterborough next year.

"Those producers who are 50 miles away apparently regard Peterborough as an attractive market. They are willing to pay the transportation costs to deliver their milk here."

Silverwood's bottled milk trade has become a relatively small part of the business of the Peterborough plant. That local demand has not declined. It has actually increased, but the difference is in the greatly extended market the company is developing for Peterborough ice cream.

"Half our milk used to be bottled. That trade today is small potatoes. At some periods of the year it drops to about 12%."

The observations of Mr. Weir are probably known in detail to all the producer customers of Silverwoods, but there may be other dairy farmers interested in this prospective market that is virtually assured here at home.

It is being developed for them by the enterprise of Silverwoods in this eastern section of Ontario. The present total bottled milk volume in Peterborough is decidedly small compared with "our ice cream department".

Dairy farmers of Peterborough can draw their own conclusions of assurance of stabilized market from the statement of Mr. Weir that Silverwoods expect to increase their business next year by at least as much as their increase this year. The Peterborough milk market has become greatly enlarged. It is demanding heavier volume than ever, and if the nearer herds, and those that should be here, lack the capacity to meet that demand, then milk from farther areas will have to be purchased.

ELGIN "WHEAT KING"

A test yield of 50.5 bus. to the acre of Cornell 595 winter wheat qualified John Armstrong & Sons of Yarmouth for the cereal title of wheat king" of Elgin county. His entry was fourth in the field tests and top in the harvest test reported from O.A.C.

Peterborough's winter club members have not yet received the results of their yield tests.

Second high in Elgin was E. Laidlaw's Dawson's Golden Chaff at Aylmer averaging 49.1 bus. It was third in the field tests. R. Carmichael's Golden Chaff, first in the field scores, was third in the yield tests with an average of 45.9 bus. to the acre. Fourth and fifth were Golden Chaff and sixth Cornell. The Elgin report this week says demand for Cornell is lively for fall sowing.

DURHAM HOLSTEIN DAY

Carlos Tamblyn of Orono and H. Bruce Tink of Hampton, respectively showed the grand champion female and grand champion male at the Durham Black and White Day at Orono Fair. Ten breeders showed 91 head.

Tamblyn's grand champion cow, Cedar Dale Pietje Bessie, headed the milking aged cow class. Reserve grand went to John Cruickshank of Hampton on his winning dry aged cow, Craigston Pabst Caroline.

Archie Muri & Sons, Courtice, had the junior champion female, Elderslie Rag Apple Fayne, top senior yearling heifer, and the reserve junior was the second prize animal in that class, Craigston Marchless Tillie from John Cruickshank's herd.

Bruce Tink won the junior and grand male championships with his junior bull calf, Glennariff Rag Apple General, Reserve junior and reserve grand ribbons were awarded to the joint entry of Tink and J. Cruickshank, Glenafton Rag Apple Argos, which was placed first in the junior yearling class. No senior bulls were shown.

DANE SEES PLENTY

Eric Mortensen, Danish representative on United Nations food organizations was in Northumberland county last week. Accompanied by Ralph Banbury, agricultural representative, he called at the co-operative cold storage plant where some 12 car loads of eggs were being re-graded for shipment overseas. Mr. Mortensen watched with interest the girls candling, and remarked that in this land of plenty it was hard for Canadians to realize the feeling of any person seeing huge quantities of good food being prepared for hungry people overseas.

In most parts of Europe an egg was valued by a child in the same class as a chocolate bar or ice cream cone here, Mr. Mortensen remarked. He spent the evening with Harry Sirett discussing apple production. The itinerary was arranged by George Paterson, brother of F. C. Paterson, agricultural department representative in Peterborough.

PRAISES POULTRY SHOW

"Peterborough is one of the old traditional show centres of Ontario, and they did very well to get away to such a fine start in their first post-war show," M. C. Wallace of Iroquois, judge of the poultry section at Peterborough Exhibition, wrote G. A. Gillespie this week.

"The big strings of Morgan Brown and Frank Andrews put the main substance into the show. Andrews threw everything he had into his home show. Brown had a big string at Ottawa on the same dates, but quite obviously held back some of his best birds for Peterborough.

The poultry show was excellent with George Paxman in charge, giving the Exhibition full benefit of long experience in handling successful shows at Peterborough. The silver gray Dorking class was dominated by John Kelsey & Son. They were all good birds, and his winning pullet a real gem. Brown showed some good Brahmas, Cochins, Rhose Island Reds and other varieties including Black Minorcas in which breed Peterborough has been known for many years for the quality of its exhibits. Bob Hope & Son had some fine golden and silver Wyandottes as did Andrews, with awards divided. The young Silvers, although with most of their development before them, were really brilliant, with good adult birds also cooped."

BLACK AND WHITE DAY AT PORT PERRY

Twelve Holstein breeders showed 119 cattle at the Ontario county Black and White Day at Port Perry Fair. They were Gordon Beare, Uxbridge; Orvan Chambers of Wilfred; O. E. Croxall, Port Perry; W. L. Evans and Sons, Uxbridge; K. S. Hollday, Brooklin; Elmcroft Farms, Oshawa; Harold W. Honey, Seagrave; Hugh W. Ormiston, Brooklin; Ransome Stock Farms, Oshawa; G. H. Walker & Son, Port Perry; Smith Brothers, Port Perry; Robt. Ashenhurst, Uxbridge. The judge was E. A. Innes of Brantford.

G. H. Walker & Son won the male senior and grand championships with Ridgedale Lochinvar Keyes. Reserve senior and reserve grand were awarded to Elmcroft B. Lochinvar owned by Elmer J. Powell and Elmcroft Farms, Oshawa. Their entry was the all-Canadian senior yearling bull last year.

The junior male championship was taken by Orvan Chambers with his senior yearling bull Way Brook Rag Apple Review. The reserve junior was also from the Chambers herd, Way Brook Return, a sr. bull calf.

In the female classes both the grand championship and reserve grand were awarded to Elmcroft Farms, with Elmcroft Dewdrop M and Elmcroft Colantha Rose M.

The junior female championship also went to Elmcroft Farms on their entry of Elmcroft Dawdrop Triune Meg. The reserve junior female was the senior yearling heifer, Way Brook Rag Apple Annie, from Orvan Chambers herd.

FEWER HOGS

Canadian hogs June 1 totalled 4, 464,000 as compared with 5,473,200 last years and 8,148,000 at the wartime peak in 1943. The decline was noted in all nine provinces, as reported by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Agricultural officials blame high feed prices last fall and low returns from pork.

LANG MAN KILLED IN CGE DEPARTMENT

Wm. Wright Of Marmora Escapes Pen

Later Found With Pal Who Made Break Hiding Inside Barn

KINGSTON, Sept. 20 (CP). — Two convicts who escaped from Collins Bay penitentiary near here today were captured this afternoon in a bar just inside the prison property. Details were not immediately available.

The men, Jack Cunningham, 26, of Hamilton, and William Wright, 27, of Marmora, eluded their guards while working on prison farm land.

Reported missing at 8.45 a.m. shortly after a prison gang had begun work, they were discovered about two hours later hiding in a prison barn just outside the southwest wall of the prison proper.

Earlier reports indicated that the two men had fled the prison reserve. A short time later they were reported to have been "seen" near the Norman Rogers airdrome.

When found the two men were burrowed in the hay inside the large galvanized iron-covered barn. They surrendered meekly.

Since the men did not get off the prison grounds officials said they could not be classed as escapees.

Cunningham was sentenced to three years for forgery and uttering at Hamilton and Wright to two years for breaking, entering and theft at Marmora. Penitentiary officials do not consider either of the men as dangerous and they were believed to be unarmed. All roads leading from the penitentiary district were blocked by provincial police and guards.

Russ Patrols Raiding Stands

BERLIN, Sept. 20 (AP)—Communist patrols raided newsstands in the Russian sector of Berlin Sunday, ripping and scattering anti-red newspapers, in an apparent showdown over the free dissemination of news.

The strong-arm tactics were announced by United States military government officials, who are considering a counter-embargo on Russian-controlled publications. The Americans said the Communist raids were a violation of four-power agreements for the free exchange of information throughout Germany.

While Communist police stood idly by, the pro-Russian squads moved swiftly from one newsstand to another in the Russian sector, tearing up the Western publications. They made dealers promise to stop selling the anti-Communist papers in the future, under threat of "other measures". Asked what these measures would be, they pointed to gasoline cans, apparently indicating incendiary intentions.

Renew Plane Search After Latest Report

THE PAS, Sept. 20 (CP) —The search for a missing United States navy plane with five men aboard was pressed with renewed vigor today as weary-eyed crews took fresh hope in a report that the aircraft was sighted in the Snow Lake region before it disappeared nine days ago.

The report, from two Winnipeg men—Edgar Wildgoose and Sydney Pickup—said they had seen a silver plane with twin tails flying through the murky September weather at approximately 11 a.m. a week ago Sunday.

Beat Hurricane To Stricken Freighter

73 Persons Aboard Stricken Vessel, Not In Immediate Danger

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 20 (AP)—A tug plowing through mountainous seas reached the side of the stricken British freighter Lochmonar today as a hurricane with winds over 100 miles an hour approached the south coast of Cuba.

South Florida from Miami through the Keys was placed in the "danger zone" of the storm which Sunday trapped the Lochmonar, a 9,000-ton vessel with 73 persons aboard.

The Coast Guard said the lives of those aboard "were in no immediate danger" as the tug reported the high seas kept it from beginning any resuce operations.

A wireless from the master of the ship to the Associated Press in New York said the vessel was standing up surprisingly well and that it was on an even keel. Except for anxiety and some discomfort, he reported, the passengers and crew are well and carrying on a normal ship's life.

In "Danger Zone"

The weather bureau in an early morning advisory placed extreme south Florida in the "danger zone" of the storm and cautioned all interests to remain on the alert.

The Florida Straits are expected to begin feeling the first effects of the hurricane early this afternoon.

The hurricane was located 175 miles south of Havana and 400 miles southwest of Miami.

The Lochmonar, of 9,000 tons, with a crew of 67 and six passengers, was hard aground on little Cayman Island near the fringe of the hurricane. Her master radioed he was "still hanging on" but that heavy seas whipped up by the hurricane were "still pounding."

A United States Navy plane flew mast-high over the Lochmonar and reported no distress flags or signals. Crew members lined the bridge to wave at the circling plane.

The hurricane, boiling up from a point almost due south of Grand Cayman Island, moved slowly north northwestward about five miles an hour. It was centred last night about 200 miles south of Havana and about 400 miles south of Key West or about 600 miles south southwest of Miami, travelling about five miles an hour.

Winds near the centre were estimated at 115 miles an hour, with hurricane winds (75 miles an hour or more) covering an area 50 to 60 miles around the centre. Strong squalls reached northward over Cuba to the Florida Straits.

Bernadotte Urged UN Step In

PARIS, Sept. 20—(AP).—A posthumous report by the murdered Count Folke Bernadotte declares the United Nations should step in to end the Palestine war if the Arabs and Jews fail to make peace. The mediator wrote that "Israel exists in Palestine," and the future of Arab Palestine should be left to the Arab states" in full consultation with the Arab inhabitants" of the Holy Land.

His 35,000-word report was distributed to the 58 United Nations member states as his body and that of French Lt.-Col. Andre Pierre Serot were being flown home.

It was tentatively planned to hold a memorial service at Paris' Orly Field. After receiving homage from high United Nations and French officials, Bernadotte's body will be flown to Stockholm.

Under UN Control

The Holy City of Jerusalem, where he and Serot were shot to death last Friday, should be placed under United Nations control, the report said.

The report, which will be one of the problems facing the General Assembly opening tomorrow, also recommended changes in the Palestine partition plan.

The Negeb Desert of Southern Palestine, he said, should become Arab territory. Most of it was given to the Jews under the partition plan.

All of Galilee should be "defined as Jewish territory," he added. The partition plan gave Western Galilee to Arab Palestine, but it now is under control of the Israeli army.

When Bernadotte left the disposition of Arab Palestine to the Arab states, he recommended that "in view of the historical connection and common interests of trans-Jordan and Palestine, there would be compelling reasons for

Drew Prepared To Stand For Conservative Leadership

TORONTO, Sept. 20—(CP).—Premier Drew of Ontario today announced he will allow his name to go before the Progressive Conservative Association, meeting in Ottawa Sept. 30-Oct. 1-2, to choose a national leader to succeed John Bracken. The Premier announced his decision in a statement issued to the press shortly before noon.

The 54-year-old Premier, leader of the Ontario Progressive Conservative Party since 1938 and Premier of the Province since 1943, has been looked on as a strong possibility for the national leadership ever since Mr. Bracken recently announced he was resigning because of his health.

In his 200-word statement, the Premier recalled that he was chosen Ontario leader of the party 10 years ago and his efforts to serve the people of Ontario had been a "happy and extremely heart-warming experience."

"Now I am urged to enter a new field and let my name go before the convention which will choose the national leader of the Progressive Conservative Party," said the statement.

Rests With Delegates

The decision rested with the delegates. "If it is their decision that I can be of greater service to the people of Canada in the wider field, I believe it is my duty to accept that responsibility and devote myself to that task to the best of my ability.

"My name will go before the convention."

Another leading contender for the national leadership is John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative MP for Lake Centre, Sask., who announced his candidature at Ottawa last Friday.

A veteran of the First World War—he enlisted in 1914—Premier Drew was a successful lawyer and served as mayor of his home city of Guelph before he entered the wider field of provincial politics.

He was defeated for the Ontario leadership in 1936 by Hon. Earl Rowe and in the 1937 Ontario election ran as an Independent Conservative in his home riding of Wellington South but was defeated by a Liberal. After becoming Ontario leader in 1938, he went into the Legislature in 1939, representing Simcoe East.

2 Art Chests Sent To Poland

HALIFAX, Sept. 20. (CP) — Two of 34 chests of Polish art treasures brought to Canada for safekeeping during the Second World War, are on the high seas today bound for Poland.

The treasures, aboard the Polish liner Sobieski, which cleared Halifax Sunday bound for New York and eventually Poland, mark the second time Polish art treasures have moved mysteriously through Halifax.

The Sobieski, a frequent caller here since the end of the war, landed 259 displaced persons here Saturday from Genoa. She was to disembark other DP's at New York before returning to Europe.

The two chests were taken from an Ottawa bank, where they had been stored throughout the war, and brought to Halifax late Friday or early Saturday in a heavily-guarded truck.

They were kept in an immigration shed under customs bond and RCMP guard until loaded on the Sobieski Sunday.

It was learned at Ottawa that the Canadian government was aware of the transfer but no official announcement was made. RCMP and customs authorities here declined comment.

10 Men Suffer Burns In Ship's Explosion

HALIFAX, Sept. 20 (CP) —Ten men suffered burns today in an explosion aboard the Greek freighter Orion which caught fire after grounding on Flower Island in the Strait of Belle Isle near Newfoundland's northern tip. The remaining 25 crew members abandoned ship.

Extent of the men's injuries was not known but they were being taken to the Grenfell Mission Hospital at St. Anthony, a fishing village nearby.

The Orion, bound from Sydney, NS, to Botwood, Nfld., with a coal cargo, ran aground and burst into flames following the explosion in one of her holds.

The crew of 35, all Greek, under Capt. Theororus Aspitotis, abandoned ship within sight of Flower Island lighthouse.

Buffalo Power Corp. Tries To Aid Ontario

BUFALO, N.Y., Sept. 20 — (AP).—The Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission may get up to 40,000 kilowatts of power an hour during off-peak morning hours from Buffalo Niagara Electric Corporation.

Chief Engineer Edwin S. Bundy of Niagara Hudson said today that his company has agreed to by delivering the power to ease the shortage across the border. He did not say exactly how much power could be sold or how long the arrangement can be continued.

Fire, Wind Damage Heavy As Storms Strike Toronto

TORONTO, Sept. 20.—(CP).—A spectacular electric storm struck Toronto and the adjoining counties of York and Peel early today. In the city it disrupted electrical services, filled storm sewers, flooded streets and held up traffic.

The second fierce storm to hit this Central Ontario region at the week-end, it kept thousands awake with a dazzling display of lightning flashes which accompanied a heavy rain.

The storms, just after midnight Saturday and around 4 a.m. today, struck some other sections of Ontario as well and brought welcome relief to farm lands parched by a long period of dry weather.

Electric service interruptions were severe on Toronto Island, popular summer resort section. Power was off for more than eight hours today. There were sectional interruptions throughout the city.

The Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario reported disruptions elsewhere. At Sutton, in the Toronto area, power was off six hours and 20 minutes because of the Saturday night storm. At Wallaceburg, in south-western Ontario, power was off for nearly nine hours.

Some estimate placed the damage in York and Peel counties at around $500,000, largely in loss of biuldings struck by lightning

In the Saturday night-Sunday morning storm at least 20 buildings were struck in Peel and at Malton rainfall totalled 4.25 inch-inches.

An hour-long downpour in the Galt area early today brought the first rain since July 2. The parched soil absorbed all the moisture. No storm damage was reported.

A preview of last night's storm hit the Toronto area early Sunday and for four hours felled trees and Hydro poles. Fire damage is expected to total many thousands of dollars. The city's next storm, 14 hours late, was not so heavy.

Heavy Box Topples On R. J. Davidson

Believe Worker Forgot To Open Door; Load Knocked Over

Robert John Davidson, 43, Lang, a crane-hitcher at the CGE, was instantly killed at 7.20 today when a box of heavy apparatus fell on him.

Davidson was pushing a transfer truck loaded with two crates about eight feet high. The goods were ready for shipment and as he shoved the truck through a door at the southeast corner of the machine shop the accident happened. This door has a top and bottom section, and Davidson must have thought the load would clear the top half of the door because he neglected to open it. As he pushed the truck, the lower sill of the top half of the split door struck the top of the crate overbalancing it on top of the operator. The crate was very heavy and death was instantaneous.

Main Job

Davidson's main work was the hitching of apparatus which would then be lifted by an overhead travelling crane. Earlier it was reported that a crane load had fallen on Davidson but this was denied by plant officials.

He started to work at the CGE in 1942 and has been continuously employed since that time. A son, George, 17, is also employed at the same plant. About four years ago, Davidson fell from a crane and was slightly injured.

A son, Stanley, 11, was killed five years ago in a traffic accident near his home in Lang village.

Surviving are his wife, formerly Bella Richardson, three sons and two daughters, George 17, Roy, 14, Mary, 11, Stewart 6, and Jean, 5.

Shot-Gun Blasts Foil Bank Holdup

TORONTO, Sept. 20—(CP). — Two men who were attempting early today to force their way into the Bank of Nova Scotia branch at Malton, 21 miles northwest of here, were frightened off by two shot-gun blasts fired by a nearby resident, Jack Mashinter.

Provincial Police Constable Kit Still, of Malton, said the men were attempting to jimmy open the front door of the bank when Mashinter heard them. He ran downstairs in his night clothes and fired at the men.

Police said the men also attempted to enter a dry-cleaning store beside the bank. They found jimmy marks on the front door.

J. C. Stringer, manager of the bank branch, said that no entry had been made into the building.

It is believed the pair were not hit by the shot-gun blasts. They fled in a car in the direction of Toronto.

Police said the men were stopped from entering the dry cleaning shop by a strong wire screen. They said the shop had been broken into "many times."

Arrest Bandit After 14 Months

TORONTO, Sept. 20—(CP).—Provincial police said today that Leo Burnell, alias Bruce Sloan, of Toronto, sought for 14 months on a warrant charging him with the $190,000 robbery of the Milton, Ont., branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia, has been arrested in Vancouver.

Police began their search for Burnell following the arrest of John Krywiachuk of Hamilton, who was later sentenced to 20 years in Kingston penitentiary for the hold-up.

Inspector Alex McLeod of the Investigation Branch, and Constable Al Lemon of Milton, left last night by plane to bring Burnel back.

Police say the trial will be held at Milton.

The hold-up netted about $90,000 in bonds and more than $100,000 in cash.

Envoys Leave Moscow Parley Go To Paris

PARIS, Sept. 20—(Reuters).—The Foreign Ministers of the three Western Powers will meet at the French Foreign Office tonight to discuss the Berlin crisis in light of the Moscow negotiations.

Foreign Secretary Bevin will meet State Secretary Marshall of the United States at the British Embassy half an hour earlier.

Bevin, Hector McNeil, British Minister of State, and Sir Oliver Harvey, British Ambassador to France, met with Robert Schuman, French Foreign Minister, for more than an hour earlier in the day.

Sir William Strang, head of the German section of the Foreign Office and British member of the three-man co-ordinating committee on the Berlin crisis, left for Paris to join Bevin.

Leave For Paris

MOSCOW, Sept. 20 — (CP). — Britain and the United States announced today that their envoys to the four power talks on the Berlin crisis will leave Moscow tomorrow for Paris where the United Nations general assembly's autumn session opens.

The departure of the envoys might mean that the Moscow talks on the Berlin blockade and other issues have ended. There has been no announeement to that effect, however, from Moscow, Washington, London or Paris.

The announcement of the envoys' departure came from the British and United States embassies here. Frank Roberts, special British envoy, represented Britain at the Kremlin talks which started late in July.

The American embassy said that Walter Bedell Smith, United States ambassador, will leave tomorrow for consultations with State Secretary Marshall in Paris.

It was reported that French Ambassador Yves Chataigneau is expecting similar orders.

Smith and Roberts are planning to leave Moscow by regularly scheduled Russian transport plane for Berlin. In Berlin they will continue to Paris in Smith's personal plane.

Trenton Jet Plane Crashes Near Newcastle, Pilot Killed In Explosion

Believe Craft Hits Soft Hump Of Ground And Then Blows Up; Reported Off Course Around Peterborough

TRENTON, Sept. 20—(CP).—The crash of a jet fighter on a hill 45 miles west of here, near Newcastle, Sunday killed the pilot, Flt.-Lt. Leslie T. Banner of North Bay. RCAF officials said the speedy Vampire apparently went off course in heavy cloud during a 100-mile homeward flight from Niagara Falls, NY, where, with another jet plane, it took part Saturday in United States Air Force day celebrations.

The other jet, piloted by Flt.-Lt. E. G. Ireland, landed here 31 minutes after both planes took off at Niagara Falls for a direct flight to Trenton.

In some manner the planes became separated. Banner's craft was reported heading northeast over Peterborough, about 35 miles off course. As soon as the jet was listed as overdue here, 14 search planes from this base swept a wide area in an unsuccessful search.

First word of the crash came came from William Curtis, a farmer, who found the wreckage and the airman's body a mile north of the village of Kendal in the vicinity of Newcastle. The body lay several hundred feet from the wrecked plane. An investigating party from Trenton went immediately to the spot.

Banner leaves a widow and two small children.

Don't Know Cause

Cause of the crash was not determined. The Air Force said the jet carried fuel for approximately three hours' flying when it left Niagara Falls.

It is believed the powerful craft hit a soft hump of ground, bounded into the air and then exploded.

The only eye-witnesses were brothers Wesley and Bill Treble, who own a farm half a mile south of the crash. They were getting dinner ready when they heard a roaring noise that seemed to be "right over the roof."

Wesley rushed out and saw the plane flying north. "It was very low," he said. "It just missed a knoll on our property. Then I

Arab League Forms Palestine Government

AMMAN, Trans-Jordan, Sept. 20 (AP)—Over the strong protests of Trans-Jordan and Iraq, the Arab League today announced formation of an Arab government for Palestine.

"Creation of such a government is an arbitrary act without the consent of the Palestinian people, a thing I will not agree to and will oppose."

Abdullah's declaration thus brought to a head long-simmering differences over the formation of an Arab government for Palestine. Abdullah has been pictured as seeing in such a government an effort by the Mufti of Jerusalem to carve out a base of power for himself in Palestine.

9 Accidents Mar Week-end In Peterborough Area

There were nine accidents involving motor vehicles in Peterborough city and county over the weekend, with damage estimated at well over $1,500 for the total.

A tire blow-out about 2 a.m. Saturday a half mile south of Lakefield on No. 28 Highway was the cause of an accident which caused about $65 damage to the car of Marquis Stubbs of Cartier, Ont. The blow-out happened as Stubbs was passing the car of Byran Heath, 185 Perry St. There was little damage to the Heath car. Provincial Constables Harry Cooke and George Henderson investigated.

One hundred dollars damage to a car and none to a truck resulted from a collision about one o'clock Saturday afternoon on No. 7 Highway a mile from the city. The car was that of W. H. Goth of Ottawa. Truck-driver was J. Foskett, 426 Edison Ave. Mrs. Goth, a passenger, received a severe bump on the head. Provincial Constable Keith O'Shaughnessy investigated.

Heaviest damage was caused in a collision at Bethune and Simcoe Sts. Saturday afternoon about 2.30. Cars involved were those of D. W. Russell, 238½ Simcoe St., and Gordon Matthews of 488 Hunter St. Damage to the Matthews car is estimated at $400. Minor damage, about $10, was caused the Russell car. PC V. J. O'Donoghue investigated.

Total damage of $250 was received by the cars of Earl Armstrong, 668 Water St., and Allan Capel of Toronto. They were in collision five miles north of Lakefield about 3 p.m. Saturday. The accident was investigated by Provincial Constable Emmett Crough.

Escapes Minden Lockup, Man Recaptured

LINDSAY, Sept. 20.—(Special.) —Captured, escaped and recaptured within 18 hours, Ambrose Starling, 27, of Toronto, is being held on a charge of breaking and entering and of escaping lawful custody. He was caught here Saturday night after an all-day search by police throughout eastern Ontario. He had escaped Saturday morning from a temporary lockup at Minden, 50 miles north of Lindsay.

Starling was arrested shortly after Friday midnight in a taproom at Minden by Provincial Constables Edward Milligan and Arthur Wilson of Minden. He was charged with breaking and entering the Dominion hotel in that village. His arrest, said police, took place after the taproom had been closed.

Officers left him in a makeshift cell in the village about 3 a.m.

Investigating at 8.30 a.m. Saturday, the police found the prisoner had escaped. He had gained his freedom by prying out a loose board in the door frame and squeezing through.

Sgt. Hargreaves of the Lindsay police and Provincial Cpl. R. L. Taylor and Constable William Milton re-arrested Starling in a Lindsay hotel about 6 o'clock Saturday night. He had been registered there under the name of "Green."

Reds Training Shock Troops

BERLIN, Sept. 20 (AP) — An anti-Communist newspaper claimed today that Communists in eastern Germany are arming illegal shock troops for an eventual attempt to seize power in Berlin and all Germany for force.

Montag's Echo, organ of the rightist Liberal Democratic party, charged that these shock troops are composed of armed civilians that are being organized as auxiliaries of the Communist-controlled eastern German police.

So-called workers police battalions are being formed in the Russian sector of Berlin and throughout the Russian occupation zone, the newspaper said. This was the latest of several reports in the western-licensed press that German Communists, with Russian aid, are building up their forces for an eventual armed fight for Germany.

Meanwhile, the Communists have been propagandizing Russian proposals that all occupying forces be withdrawn from Germany.

Expect Cripps Cover Whole Financial Setup

OTTAWA, Sept. 20 — (CP). — Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the British Exchequer, and Canadian Government heads probably will cover the entire field of Anglo-Canadian financial and economic relations in discussions which get under way here today.

The custodian of Britain's purse-strings, accompanied by Lady Cripps and a party of British banking and trade experts, alighted from a special transport department aircraft early today.

The British chancellor told reporters he had come to Canada to "review the whole field of financial and economic relations between Canada and the United Kingdom."

Arrest 200 Stern Gang After Murder

New Emergency Laws Proclaimed By Israeli Gov't.

TEL AVIV, Israel, Sept. 20 — (AP)—Israel adopted emergency regulations Sunday night to deal with terrorist organizations and took first steps to smash the Stern Gang, accused of assassinating Count Folke Bernadotte.

Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Shertok informed Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, acting United Nations mediator for Palestine, his government has "adopted special emergency regulations giving it sweeping powers to take action against terrorist organizations, their members and accomplices."

Shertok told Bunche that 150 members of the Stern group, accused of assassinating Count Bernadotte, U.N. mediator for Palestine, and French Lt.-Col. Andre Pierre Serot, U.N. observer, Friday in Jerusalem, had been arrested in the Holy City and 50 others elsewhere.

Israeli officials in Jerusalem said nearly 200 known Sternists had been seized and packed off to Jaffa for dispersal into the Israeli army. Despite airtight censorship, several prize catches were understood to be among those arrested, including the Stern gang's second in command, known widely as "Aby Mimri." A police source said a young Jew believed to have been the driver of the jeep used in ambushing the Bernadotte party also was held.

Meanwhile, a plane carrying the bodies of Bernadotte and Serot left Rome today for Geneva.

Funeral Sunday

A Stockholm dispatch said Bernadotte's funeral will be held Sunday in historic Gustavevasa Church.

Shertok informed Bunche all suspects will be paraded before eye witnesses of the assassination.

Informed sources in Tel Aviv believe the new anti-terrorist measures are broad enough to include Irgun Zvai Leumi as well as the Stern Gang.

An accident happened about 4 p.m. Saturday on Queen St., North, in Lakefield. A car driven by John H. Pickett, 209 Brock St., was damaged when it was passing a truck driven by Claire Chittick of Lakefield. The car caught the heavy dual wheels of the truck, blowing out the truck tire. Fenders, side and bumper of the car were damaged. Lakefield Police Chief Garnet Samis investigated.

Two cars were in collision on No. 28 Highway four miles west of Bewdley about 5 p.m. Saturday. They were driven by Jessy Evenden of Hamilton and Norman Woodcock of Glentay, Ont. The accident happened when the steering of the Woodcock car went out of control. Total damage to both was about $125. Provincial Cpl. Lloyd McClure and Constable Harry Cooke were investigating officers.

Bernard Arthur, Omemee, was fined $30 and $2.50 costs in court today as a result of an accident about 6 p.m. Saturday at Stewart and Reid Sts. Arthur's car shot off the road there, struck and smashed down a guy-wire of a Bell Telephone line, struck a telephone pole and ripped off the cable lead. Damage to the car was to the bumpers, springs, wheel, tire, fender and running board. An estimated $170 damage was caused to the telephone equipment.

A police car was involved in an accident about 11.15 Saturday night. In collision with the cruiser driven by PC Dennis Traynor was the car of Dr. H. A. Mitchell, 601 Gilmour St. The collision was at the corner of George and Charlotte Sts. The cruiser had damage to its fender, bumper, grill and spring. The Mitchell car had a damaged door and fender.

Only accident reported for Sunday night was about 11.30. It happened on a township road near the sewage disposal plant close to the River Road. The car of Ernest Hedges, was damaged when its driver was blinded by the heavy fog and failed to see the turn in time. The car travelled across the road and struck a guide post of a telephone pole. Damage to the Hedges car was about $150. Provincial Constables Harry Cooke and George Stevens investigated.

Hill Gets Remand

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Aug. 20 — (CP). — William (Red) Hill, jr., well-known riverman who recently made a trip through the Niagara Falls gorge in a barrel, will appear in court here Oct. 7 on a charge of stealing $3,753 by conversion. Police said Hill failed to remit proceeds from gun and fishing licences he sold for the Ontario Game and Fisheries Department. Previously Hill had been remanded until today on $6,000 bail.

They rushed to where the flames and smoke could be seen and were joined by William Curtis, who then went to telephone the police. Banner was a native of North Bay, where his father, a former mayor of the city, is well known in real estate circles. He was educated in North Bay and became interested in flying before the war. He joined the RCAF and was mentioned in the King's Honor List of 1946. When he returned to Canada he decided to remain in the permanent force.

Bail 2 Women For Trial On Theft Charge

Cecile Taylor and Mary Outwater, both of Peterborough, were bailed for trial at the General Sessions when preliminary hearing was held to-day on charges against the two of theft of $940 from a Campbellford cattle drover, Fred McArthur, on August 23. The two accused were represented by Hon. G. N. Gordon, KC.

McArthur was first Crown witness in the preliminary hearing before Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, in Police Court to-day.

He testified that he had picked up the accused girls as he was driving to Peterborough on the highway between Toronto and Oshawa. At that time, he said, he had 18 $50-bills tucked in the heel of a rubber boot and about $45 loose cash with him. He had gone to a tourist cabin establishment outside Peterborough with the girls, he said, and when he woke up at 4 a.m. the girls—and the cash—were gone.

The accused admitted to Mr. Gordon that he had bought some bootleg liquor that night and had taken it to the cabin with them. He had "just one shot" there, he said, and had had about six pints of beer on the trip down.

He also admitted registering himself at the cabins under a false name and that he had not registered in the two accused.

McArthur also admitted that he had approached the Crown recently and requested that he be permitted to withdraw the charges.

"That's so, is it?" asked Mr. Gordon.

"Yes, I'm willing, as long as I get the money back," said McArthur.

"Are you trying to use this court as a collection agency?"

"Yes."

Fred Dyer, taxi driver, testified that he had driven the two accused to Toronto from Peterborough shortly after midnight of that night. He had left them at a hotel there, he said.

Provincial Constable Keith O'Shaughnessy testified that he had brought back the women from Toronto, where they had been arrested and held by Toronto City Police. He had obtained $850 cash from them which had been taken from the accused, he said.

Bail was set at $500 for each acused.

Industrials Weakened In Moderate Trading

TORONTO, Sept. 20 — (CP). — Industrials weakened in moderately active trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Golds moved ahead quietly on narrow gains and base metals showed a slightly easier tone.

Volume for the first three hours was 409,000 shares, about 72,000 shares more than Friday's similar period.

Losses in the industrials remained in fractional range and action sagged mid-way in the session. Utilities, steels and papers led the easier trend in the groupings and a few food issues firmed slightly.

Selected junior golds advanced on penny gains while Kerr Addison strengthened in the senior list and Lake Shore weakened. Macassa, Chesterville, Campbell, Cochenour and Conwest were among the stronger juniors.

International Nickel, Hudson Bay, Quemont and Noranda dipped fractionally in an active base metals list. Consolidated Smelters rose ⅛ at 114⅝ and Falconbridge, Labrador and Gulf Lead were ahead 4 to 15 cents.

Russia To Pull Troops Out Of Korea

MOSCOW, Sept. 20 — (AP). — Russia will pull all her troops out of northern Korea by the new year, an official statement said Sunday night.

The announcement indicated the withdrawal of Russian troops from the far eastern trouble spot apparently will be unconditional, although it called on the United States to move American troops out of southern Korea.

Tass, Official Russian News Agency, announced the decree of the presidium (executive) of the Supreme Soviet.

The Russian move caused surprise in United States diplomatic circles, where some informants predicted the Russians will not actually carry out the plan unless the Americans evacuate their area of Korea.

(The Tass announcement, as broadcast by the Moscow radio and heard in London, said the withdrawal of Russian troops from Korea would begin "not later than the second half of October" and will be completed by next Jan. 1.)

Last year the Russians announced a conditional plan for withdrawal of their Korean armies — to be carried out only if the United States also took its troops out.

At that time, observers at the United States Embassy interpreted the move as "primarily a propaganda manoeuvre."

Russian troops occupied northern Korea after the Japanese surrender in the Second World War. United States troops were sent into southern Korea. Each section has a separate government.

(In Seoul, Korea, Syngman Rhee, president of South Korea's new republic, said today he welcomes the Russian plan for withdrawal. "There's no reason for them to be there," he added in an interview. "I know the Americans will pull out as soon as the situation is ready.") merging" Arab Palestine and neighboring Trans-Jordan.

Bernadotte's report also recommended:

"The Jewish port of Haifa, including oil refineries and terminals, should be declared a free port.

Free Airport

The airport of Lydda should be declared a free airport.

The right of 360,000 Arab refugees to return to their homes in Jewish-controlled territory, or payment of compensation by Isreal to those "choosing not to return."

The United Nations should provide special assurance that Jewish-Arab boundaries are "respected and maintained."

The political, economic, social and religious rights of all Arabs in Jewish territory and all Jews in Arab territory of Palestine "should be fully guaranteed and respected by the authorities."

Establishment of a United Nations Conciliation Commission.

The principal job of the conciliation commission would be to "supervise such boundaries, road, railroad, free port, free airport, minority rights and other arrangements as may be decided upon by the United Nations."

Placing Jerusalem under United Nations control would, in effect, internationalize it.

Urgent Problem

Reporting on the 360,000 Arab and 7,000 Jewish refugees, Bernadotte declared "I must emphasize again the desperate urgency of this problem."

"The choice is between saving the lives of many thousands of people now or permitting them to die," he said.

He declared he believed responsibility for refugee relief should be assumed by the United Nations, along with the neighboring Arab states and the Israeli government.

Bernadotte recommended that "the existing indefinite truce should be superseded by a formal peace, or at the minimum an armistice."

Such an armistice, he added, would "involve either complete withdrawal and demobilization of armed forces or their wise separation by creation of broad demilitarized zones under United Nations supervision."

Bethany News

Miss Hannah Staples is visiting in Peterborough with Mr. and Mrs. W. Rowland.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Flanagan and family have spent the past two weeks in Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Waddell and Miss Betty Waddell spent several days last week in Toronto, also going to Hamilton to visit Mrs. Waddell's father, William Anderson.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Lamb of Manitoba are guests of Mr. and Mrs. James McKinnon.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Davis moved to their new home in Pontypool on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. K. Hamilton are spending two weeks' vacation in Wyoming.

Miss Jean Jarvis, Toronto, is spending two weeks' vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs Roy Jarvis.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Durham a son, in St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough, Sept. 16.

Mrs. Norman Cronkhite of Winnipeg, Man., has been the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Ona Thorndyke, for several days. Mrs. Cronkhite was the former Bertha Galbraith, daughter of the late F. W. Galbraith, and while here called on many old friends.

Harold Monk, Detroit, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Monk.

Miss Doris Stinson, Lotus, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sisson.

The benefit game, Outboard Marines vs. Bethany, in aid of Bert Ginn, who was injured last week, resulted in a score of 6-5 for Bethany.

DEBORAH KERR, English screen star, was welcomed at the train by her nine-month-old daughter, Melanie Jane, upon her arrival in Los Angeles, Cal., after spending the summer in her native Britain. Deborah said, "It was wonderful visiting England, but it is even more wonderful to be home." She made the trip with her husband, Anthony Barley, and while abroad made a picture with Spencer Tracy.

4 Die In Crash

NEWHALL, Calif., Sept. 20 — (AP).—Ernest H. Hix, 46, newspaper cartoon collaborator, and Eugene Joseff, maker of much of the costume jewelry used in the movies, died Saturday in a plane crash. Two other men also died in the accident. Hix's office in Hollywood said Ernest became owner of the cartoon ("Strange As It Seems") following the death of his brother John four years ago.

Ontario Buys Off-Peak Power From US

TORONTO, Sept. 20.—(CP).—Industrial plants which are large users of electricity can help the power-sonservation caused by switching their operations to nights and week-ends.

That's the word from chairman Robert Saunders of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission who Sunday announced purchase of a quantity of off-peak power from the Niagara Hudson Power Company in Buffalo, N.Y. The power — 45,00 kilowatts a day — will be available from 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. Monday through Fridays and all day Saturdays and Sundays.

Already some plants have changed their operating hours to make use of the imported power.

"This is only a drop in the bucket in the overall shortage picture and will not change present conservation orders a bit," said Mr. Saunders.

"But if the big plants co-operate by working during the off-peak hours at night and on the week-ends, it will be a considerable help."

Mr. Saunders said he was glad to see that 20 southern Ontario industries already had changed over to week-end operations He thanked the thousands of workers who went to their jobs Saturday and Sunday, many for the first time since the war.

U.N. Delegates Stream To Paris

PARIS, Sept. 20 — (CP). — Delegates from 58 countries streamed into Paris today for the 1948 autumn session of the United Nations General Assembly.

The 10-member Canadian delegation, headed by Transport Minister Lionel Chevrier, arrived by plane in the French capital Sunday after a flight from London. Prime Minister Mackenzie King expects to join them later.

The Assembly, scheduled to convene tomorrow afternoon, faces a long list of harsh political problems growing out of the cold war between the east and west. The U.N. Security Council has scheduled a meeting for this afternoon to continue its hearings on the India-Hyderabad conflict. The Indian delegation said it would ask the Security Council today to drop Hyderabad's request for intervention.

The most difficult problem probably will be the current situation in Berlin that Britain, the United States and France had been attempting, so far in vain, to settle through secret negotiations with Russia.

Added for your enjoyment an exciting mystery.

Cobourg Soars High Above Hydro Quota

COBOURG, Sept. 20 (ENS). — Drastic reductions by consumers of electricity will have to be made at once to meet the reduced quota set by the HEPC for Cobourg. Last week's quota of 32,000 was never reached at any time. For Wednesday the consumption was 38,880. Thursday it was unchanged, but on Friday it soared to 40,080. On Saturday the local Public Utilities Commission was advised that a new quota had been set of 29,750.

"We didn't make the old quota, so unless the public responds much better we will never reach the new quota. It simply means current shut-offs if we don't do better," declared Manager William Woods.

Last spring the quota for the town was 27,000 hwk, but since then the new CGE plant here is in operation. The Commission is working out plan which calls for reductions in current consumption by districts.

Set Off Dynamite, Youth Gets One Month

PORT HOPE, Sept. 20 (ENS). — Thirty days in jail was the sentence received Friday by Dennis Dunday, age 17, of Port Hope, when he pleaded guilty to setting off a stick of dynamite against a switch box on the CPR line. Evidence was that the dynamite and four detonators were taken from the Agricultural Chemical plant on Sunday. Going to the railway tracks the youth put the stick of dynamite on the track near the switch box, exploding it by means of a home-made fuse.

Dunbar, with some other boys, hid behind a box car while the fuse was burning. The resultant explosion caused about $50 damage and put the switch out of commission. A railway section man discovered the damage and called the police who later picked up Dunbar.

Magistrate R. Philp referred to the danger involved and had it been on the main line, the results might have been serious. It was a matter which could not be regarded lightly even although it had been done as a prank. The magistrate said that the circumstances were such that a jail sentence must be imposed but in in view of the comparatively slight damage done the sentence would be only one month.

Centreton Farmer Gets Valuable Rain

COBOURG, Sept. 20 — Last spring, William Duncan of Illinois (formerly of Morganston) who has become internationally known as an exhibitor and breeder of Oxford, Hampshire and Shropshire sheep, decided that he would have a sale of show sheep.

He came to Centreton and secured the services of I. E. Nelson to do the fitting for the occasion.

On July 17, the sale took place and the 89 sheep sold brought the sum of $10,180, considered one of the best sales of show sheep ever held in the USA.

Representatives of these flocks went to Maine, Ohio, Indiana, Texas, Missouri, Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan and Colorado.

Mr. Duncan made Mr. Nelson a present of his Oxford stock ram admitted by American breeders to be one of the best sires of prize winning Oxfords in the USA.

The ram arrived on Thursday and is now at the home of Mr. Nelson at Circle N. Ranch at Centreton.

AFTER AN EXCHANGE of gunfire with a posse of police, this 15-year-old boy and a companion were captured by Montreal police. The two 'teen-agers were carrying a .45 and .32 calibre revolvers, knives and blackjacks. They face a charge of attempted robbery of a taxi-driver.

Allege Paid For Suit With Fundless Cheque

COBOURG, Sept. 20 (ENS) — Charged with false pretences, issuing a cheque with no funds behind it, Delbert Lingard, Jr., of Port Hope was remanded for a week when he appeared in police court here Friday. The alleged offense took place in Port Hope in connection with the purchase of a suit of clothes.

Men Take Up Arms Against Starlings

COBOURG, Sept. 20 (ENS). — Organized by the Fish and Game Club, the battle of the starlings will begin to-night at 7 o'clock. It may continue nightly through the week unless the starlings are discouraged before then and seek other haunts. The shoot is in response to strong complaints from residents on Chapel Street, where the starlings come in huge flocks each evening to roost in the trees for the night.

A list of shooters has been drawn up and they will be issued ammunition by Win Fisher, Fish and Game Club official. It will be a well-organized affair with men stationed at frequent intervals, and Chapel Street residents hope the results will be freedom from the smell and noise of the starlings.

Miner Held In Slaying

GOLD BRIDGE, B.C., Sept. 20 — (CP). — A 30-year-old unemployed miner today was held in connection with the axe slaying of Mrs. Bertha Stickney, 50, owner of the Gold Plan Cafe here. The woman's battered body, covered with a sheet, was found early Saturday in a tiny bedroom at the rear of the cafe.

Heads RCAF Group

OTTAWA, Sept. 20 — (CP), — Air Chief Marshal L. S. Breadner, wartime head of the R.C.A.F. both in Canada and overseas, was elected Dominion president of the Royal Canadian Air Force Association at an organizational meeting here.

Truck Tie-Up Ends

NEW YORK, Sept. 20 — (AP). — New York's 19-day-old trucking tie-up was virtually at an end today as most operators met the demands of striking A.F.L. teamsters. The new terms call for a general increase of 17½ cents an hour and a welfare plan adding five cents more.

Will Keep Army Big As Needed

TORONTO, Sept. 30. —(CP). Defence Minister Claixon said Sunday night that Canada's defence forces now are seven times as large as before the war and "they will be whatever size we consider adequate . . ."

In a speech prepared for delivery at an Army Week demonstration at the Canadian National Exhibition, Mr. Claxton said: "The preservation of peace requires co-operation between nations so as to make it plain that aggression will not pay. The maintenance of our national integrity demands the participation of all citizens within the nation.

'Our forces are today seven times as large as before the war and they will be whataever size we consider adequate to see to our immediate defence needs and to carry out the arrangements we make them just as good as any force can be. We want nothing second rate."

Mr. Claxton said that Army Week is designed to call attention to the work being done by the armed services and to "ask your support." He said that men who could not join the permanent forces could help by joining reserve units.

HASTENED HEALING

In ancient Rome, mouldy bread was used to hasten the healing of wounds.

THE U.S. HAS INVESTIGATED hundreds of individuals suspected of Communist sympathies, and, up to the present, investigators have either violently disavowed affiliation with the Communist party or led the investigators through a maze of evidence that baffled everyone. Now, finally, comes Ben Gold, who openly proclaimed before the House Labor committee in Washington that he has been "a member of the Communist party for over a quarter of a century. The Fur Workers Union president made his declaration as a dramatic climax to his testimony, after refusing to answer the question this morning.

Fire Destroys Barn, As Stock Rescued

LINDSAY, Sept. 20 — A steel barn collapsed following a fire on the farm of Maurice Tompkins, Cambray, on Friday afternoon.

Mr. Tompkins said that the fire started on a straw stack near the barn and eventually spread to the building. Two horses and a cat were rescued from the building unhurt. No other stock were inside what is now a twisted mass of steel.

The barn was full of hay which was all burnt and a milking machine was also consumed by the fire. Friends and neighbors gathered to help with a bucket chain and managed to prevent the fire from spreading to some chicken houses nearby.

The cause of the fire could have been a spark from the tractor, Mr. Tompkins said.

Speeding Driver Held For Kicking Officer

WHITBY, Sept. 20—Charges of assaulting a police officer, resisting arrest and speeding were laid against Donald Morrice, Highbourne Ave., Toronto, early yesterday.

Provincial Officer Gordon Keast chased Morrice when he saw a car driven at what he considered was an excessive rate through the town. According to the officer, Morrice became abusive when he caught up to him, and kicked him in the shins.

Brought to the police station, Morrice was released on $500 bail. He appears in Oshawa police court Monday.

Temporary Relief

AUGUSTA, Me., Sept. 20 (AP). —Week-end rains brought temporary relief to Maine's parched woodlands but officials said a hard, long rain is needed to end the forest fire danger. Forest Commissioner Albert Nutting said all blazes have been checked.

Fleming Gives Election Talk

TORONTO, Sept. 20.—(CP).—Donald Fleming, who has been prominently mentioned as a possible candidate for the leadership of the Progressive Conservative party, Saturday night described "four principles of prime importance" on which we believes the next general election will be fought.

"The people must be emancipated from the crushing burden of taxation which . . . has driven the cost of living skyward," he told a meeting of the Progressive Conservative Association of suburban North York constituency.

Member of Parliament for Toronto Eglinton, Mr. Fleming said: "Freedom of enterprise . . . must be given fair play and full opportunity. There must be an end of bureaucratic interference and strangling taxation on the part of the government."

"Government must be put back on a constitutional basis . . the autonomy of the provinces within the sphere assigned to them by the constitution must be upheld. The supreme rights of parliament over the government must be restored."

"The concert of Communism in our midst must be fought to a finish without quarter to preserve their freedom. The criminal code must be strengthened and vigorously enforced to meet far more effectively the challenge of the subversive activities of the Communists, and the nation's service purged of those sympathetic to this alien creed."

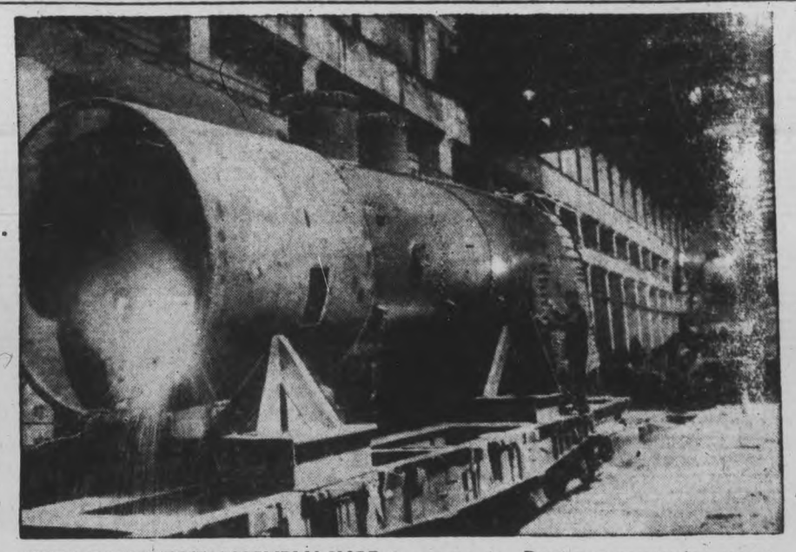
Want New Army

CLEVELAND, Sept. 20—(AP). —Creation of a western union army has been recommended by the military committee of the Brussels pact signers, European correspondent John P. Leacocs of the Cleveland Plain Dealer reported Saturday. In a dispatch from London, he said he had learned authoritatively that an army of 250,000 "standardized, integrated and co-ordinated" troops was proposed in a "super-secret" report by the committee.

Minor Ball Teams Beaten By Toronto

Two local minor baseball teams were blanked by Toronto squads in Toronto on Saturday, while the peewee OBA game, billed for here, was not played. It is expected that the local peewees will not play again but let the series go to their Toronto opponents.

The midget Aces bowed out Saturday by a 6-0 count, with Batchelor pitching, it being their second straight reverse. The Peterborough bantams dropped a 10-0 decision with Cunningham on the losers' mound. It was the first of their OBA playdown series and the second may be staged here Wednesday evening, if arrangements can be made.



THE LOCOMOTIVE ASSEMBLY SHOP at Ulan-Ude is the pride of the Communist Party. Much of the labor in the new industrial area is supplied by the 8-14 million persons in Russian concentration camps. The Party, which has about 6,000,000 members, controls about 195,000,000 people.

May Delay Application

PARIS, Sept. 20—(AP).—Jewish sources said Sunday night the Israeli government may delay its application for membership in the United Nations because of the assassination of Count Folke Bernadotte, the UN meditor. The question of making immediate application to the General Assembly is under study by Israeli officials, the informants said.

Motorcycle Victim Buried In Nova Scotia

Funeral service for the late Mrs. James Aubrey Wilson, 34, of 77 Parkhill Road, who died as a result of a motorcycle accident, was held in New Annan, NS. The Rev. Dr. Brice D. Knott of Ermitus Emmanuel Baptist Church, Truro, NS, officiated, assisted by student A. H. McLean and the Rev. E. F. Coffin of New Annan United Church.

Pall-bearers were Headley and Robbie Wilson, Seldon Swan, Thomas, Daniel, and Randall Cook. Burial was at New Annan Cemetery.

Mrs. Wilson was born in Montreal, daughter of the late Frank Cater and Rachael Evans, and came to Peterborough from there four years ago. She was a member of the Anglican faith.

CCF Consider Plan

WALFORD, Ont., Sept. 20 — (CP). — Whether the C.C.F. will oppose Lester B. Pearson in the Federal by-election in Algoma East will be decided at a C.C.F. meeting here Sept. 27. The Progressive Conservatives already have announced that they will not enter a candidate against the newly-appointed external affairs minister.

Rev. L. Delaney, Wife Honored At Farewell

HARWOOD, Sept. 20 (ENS).— A farewell and presentation was held on Thursday for Rev. L. J. Delaney and Mrs. Delaney at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Bates, east of Harwood. Thomas Bates, church warden, presided, and Misses Audrey Stevenson and Helen Oakleaf sang a duet with Miss Wright accompanying. Mrs. Gordon Moffatt gave a reading, and Misses Barbara Bates and Loreen Linton sang a duet, followed by a reading by Miss Drope.

Mr. Bates read an address and Mrs. W. Stevenson presented Mrs. Delaney with flowers and Mr. Delaney with a gift of money. Mr. and Mrs. Delaney have made many friends throughout the countryside. They are leaving for their next parish in Lakefield.

European Councils

The situation in Berlin remains alarming despite the months of negotiations and conferences in Moscow, Berlin and other capitals. Berlin is not likely to be the match to set off the powder-keg of Europe since neither side is sure yet that it has enough powder, but it is a kite in the same winds which keep planes in the air—planes which today carry food, tomorrow...? Berlin will be central to the two conferences to which Canadian delegates have already sailed.

• • •

The first is the Assembly of the United Nations opening in Paris on Tuesday. Many matters will come before it—Palestine; Korea; Hyderabad; whether to try to police the world with 500 men; the Dutch East Indies; the Italian colonies; Greece; the atomic bomb. All these and more, but the Berlin blockade will shadow the stage, for it is the visible sign of the irreconcilable forces of East and West Europe. The Assembly meets in an atmosphere of low hopes. If anything even moderately successful is achieved, there will be gratification.

• • •

Mr. Mackenzie King, still the Prime Minister, heads the Canadian delegation. His appearance at the Assembly is likely to be brief and formal, for he has fish to fry in London. The conference of Commonwealth Prime Ministers assembles there on October 11th. From purely Canadian and British points of view this meeting will be more important than the Assembly. Britain is in an unusual position in relation to her erstwhile daughters. She has some ships, some men and no money. She has European and world commitments. The Dominions can no longer pretend to be merely visiting daughters in their mother's house, avoiding the draughty wings of it which reach to Berlin and Singapore. They have to share the housekeeping or let the house fall. It is noteworthy that the British Government is delaying the full operation of the Treaty of Brussels, by which a system of defence as well as economic co-operation may be established (Western Union), until after the conference of Prime Ministers. This is a matter in which Canada is seriously interested, for Canada looks forward to an Atlantic defence agreement complementary to or allied with a West European pact. Canada's outposts are on the Rhine as much as are Britain's.

Vincent Massey On Canadianism

For some weeks an admirable book has been available in the shops—a book which every intelligent Canadian should read, and which as many as possible should possess. It is On Being A Canadian, by the Right Hon. Vincent Massey. Many of us, perhaps, do not think that there is much to be said on this subject; we are Canadians, and there is an end of it. But Mr. Massey who has had a great deal of experience as a Canadian abroad, and as an official representative of this country, thinks otherwise. And we believe that he is right; Canada, as an independent nation, has a very short history, and is expected to bear very great burdens; if we are to be really good Canadians we cannot expect Canadianism to come to us out of the air; we must study our land and ourselves and we must reach the most intelligent conclusions possible; we simply have no time for anything else.

In the course of his book Mr. Massey touches on many places of our nationhood; we have space to consider only one of them here. Our national character, he says, will be clarified by our writers and musicians and artists, and it is high time that we gave more attention to these neglected Canadians. If we need corroboration of this opinion, we have only to look at the Scandinavian countries which, during the nineteenth century, were given a new concept of themselves, and a new importances in the world, by Bjornson, Ibsen, Andersen, and Strindberg. The little country of Finland has made more friends through the music of Sibelius than any propaganda agency could have won for it in half a millenium. Canada's industrial greatness—whether we like it or not—is the result of American and British capital invested in this country; Canada's artistic and intellectual greatness must be her own.

Canadians are not, as a rule, readers. They do not take fire from the printed word. But they are not impervious to reason, and On Being A Canadian is a deeply reasonable, as well as an exciting book.

Candidates For P.C. Leadership: E. D. Fulton

Fourth on the alphabetical list of names mentioned as possible candidates for the leadership of the Progressive Conservative Party is that of Edmund Davie Fulton, thirty-two-year-old British Columbia lawyer. Mr. Fulton is member of the Federal House of Commons for Kamloops, B.C., elected in that riding in the general election of 1945, in his first bid for public office.

It is perhaps unusual to find a young back-bencher receiving nation-wide support for leadership of a national political party, even though that support comes from a minority group within the party. In Mr. Fulton's case, however, there is good reason for this widespread support. He was elected president of the Young Progressive Conservatives of Canada three years ago, and has been re-elected each year since then. As leader of this rapidly growing political organization, he has shown remarkable organizing ability, and much of the credit for the organization's growth in size and influence is due to Mr. Fulton.

Mr. Fulton was born at Kamloops, and received his early education at St. Michael's School, Victoria, B.C. He graduated from the University of British Columbia, and won a Rhodes Scholarship in 1936. After returning from Oxford, he began to practise law in Kamloops shortly before the outbreak of war. Enlisting in the Seaforth Highlanders, he returned from the Italian campaign with the rank of major, and became the first candidate nominated by his party in British Columbia in 1945. He is married, and is a member of the Roman Catholic Church.

A vigorous and fluent speaker, Mr. Fulton has made himself known in Parliament by refusing to play the part of a quiet young "back bencher". Without being unduly assertive, he has become one of his party's recognized critics of Government spending and of certain aspects of agricultural policy, and his confidence and skill in debate have made him a respected opponent on the floor of the House. Mr. Fulton is not officially in the leadership race, and it remains to be seen whether he will allow his name to appear on the ballot at the convention which opens in Ottawa a week from Thursday.

The Murder Of A Civilized Man

It was horribly appropriate that Count Folke Bernadotte should have been murdered. There is no place in our mid-twentieth century for a cultivated, aristocratic neutral like Bernadotte. The forces at work destroying the world today must exterminate the few Bernadottes remaining, the true European citizens and custodians of civilization, for the Bernadottes have not enough of evil, barbarity and self-seeking to earn the right to live in this uncivilized world. The Bernadottes are civilized; therefore they must be cast out. It was inevitable that Count Bernadotte should be destroyed in some way or another. He must have known this, but he faced the forces against him courageously and to the end continued modestly to serve the world which rejected him. He was murdered by one man and he was murdered by a hundred million.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A Moscow report assures us that Zhdanov died of natural causes. This is so unusual among statesmen in totalitarian countries as to be a mark of distinction.

A poultry expert says that if you talk gently to a duck it will lay more eggs. We warn our bachelor readers, however, that if they talk gently to a goose they may find that they are engaged.

Reporting the funeral of Archbishop Seager the Toronto Globe and Mail says of the Anglican clergy "their white surpluses were the only relief on their normal black dress". The word is surplice, boys; a white surplus only happens when the reverend gentleman's shirt-tail is hanging out.

A truck driver who failed to give a signal before making a left-hand turn in Toronto now finds that his omission will cost about $6,000. There are far too many motorists who do not understand the necessity of signalling their intentions, and we feel that an occasional police check would refresh their memories.

"Of Cabbages And Kings"

By PETER ELIOT

"ARNOLD Toynbee had just returned from Ankara after a talk with Mustapha Kemal, (writes Margot Asquith, better known as the Countess of Oxford and Asquith, in Off The Record) bringing with him a copy of the Turkish 'National Declaration,' which was not then known in England. We thought Asquith ought to see it, and I took it round to him at Sutton Courtney. He was reading Jane Austen; but took the Declaration and commented on it, point by point. It was just as if he had had hours to study it with Hansard at his side. He ran through all the demands of the Turkish leader, made a comment with accurate knowledge of each one; then put the paper down and began to talk about Jane Austen.

"ARTHUR Balfour (she continues) was a self-indulgent man of simple tastes. No one was more loved by his nieces, and, indeed, by all his friends and relations, than he was. And deservedly, as we stayed in his country house constantly, and his biographer (one of his many nieces), Baffy Dugdale, would have died for him. She seldom left him; but though I may be wrong, I do not think her biography presents a true portrait of him. She was too fond of him to criticize him. She could find no fault in him. Men who have no faults do not make good subjects for biographers. Praise, if overstated, nails them in their coffins, and, much as I admired and loved Arthur Balfour, he had faults.

"What were his faults? He was fond of the late Lady Wemyss, Lady Desborough and myself, otherwise he did not care for women. I do not believe that he was ever in love. This, to my way of thinking, is a fault. One day I said to him: 'If Mary (Lady Wemyss), Etty (Lady Desborough) and I died, you would not miss us. I know that you are devoted to Mary Wemyss, but for us others, you don't care two hoots! You have a taste for us as you might have in clocks or furniture.'"

"Arthur Balfour (reflectively); 'I would mind if you all died on the same day.'"

◇ ◇ ◇

IT was in her presence, the Countess goes on to say, that Balfour made the famous retort—so often quoted and sometimes forgotten—to Frank Harris. The late Mrs. Ronald Greville's father gave a lunch party, at which the Prime Minister, herself, the Princess of Monaco, and Arthur Balfour were invited. Their host, Mr. McEwan, was a clever old Scotchman and had a great admiration for the writings and sayings of Frank Harris.

For some reason or other, the conversation was not going well. In vain did the host try to exploit the wit of Mr. Harris, and one of those freezing silences took place which none of his guests felt in the humour to break. There was hardly a smile left when Frank Harris turned to Arthur Balfour and said:

"I am sure that you will agree with me, Mr. Balfour, when I say that all the faults of the present day come from Christianity and journalism."

At which Balfour replied with his unequalled urbanity: "Christianity, of course, but why journalism?"

"LEWIS saw that a comfortable living was assured him (writes Oliver Harrison in his short memoir Sinclair Lewis) as long as it should be necessary for him to work at a salary, and that if his novel succeeded and he could endure the strain of writing another under the same conditions, the end of his interminable bondage was in sight. (He had just sold Our Mr. Wren to Harper and Brothers in 1914). For the first time in his life his future seemed a smooth path. Then came his marriage to Grace Livingston Hegger in April of 1914 and a year and a half of suburban commuting to his office in New York. Hundreds of people on those packed Long Island trains must have commented on the red-headed lean man who wrote feverishly on a large sheaf of scratch paper morning and evening, uninterrupted by the jolting of the train. He was working on another novel, and he seized on those fifty minutes between town and city, which were to his neighbours a period of almost intolerable boredom, as a heaven-sent opportunity."

QUEEN Victoria's John Brown, the Life Story of the Most Remarkable Royal Servant in British History, is packed with amusing anecdote. "One day in Edinburgh," writes E. P. Tisdall, the author, "Brown bought at a small store half a dozen cheap egg-cups of gay and florid design. Some people said he was in liquor at the time. Upon arrival back at Balmoral he presented these to the Queen. To the astonishment of the suite she received them with delight. She ordered that these were to be used at her breakfast table every Sunday morning. This practice continued until all the egg-cups were smashed, many years after John Brown's death."

Once the Queen, attended by Brown and some of her ladies, was visiting a Highland cottage, Tisdall relates. She was offered neat whisky in a cup. Victoria liked whisky and John Brown knew it, so when she declined it, he burst out, "Och—wumman, ye'd best take it—ye've reason enough—hav' ye no got a bit of a cauld!"

◇ ◇ ◇

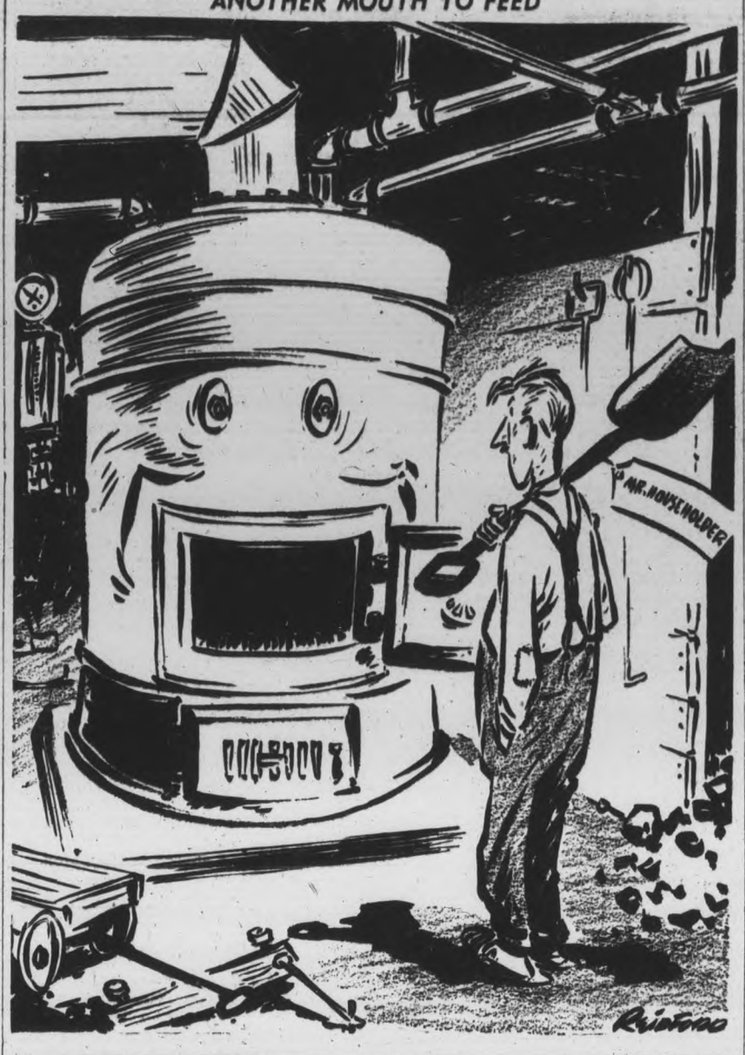
VICTORIA was extremely fond of sketching, and one afternoon after a picnic lunch at Glanalt Shiel she asked for a table. One of the servants went to fetch one from a neighbouring cottage. This did not suit the Queen and it was set aside. Another table was brought. She did not like this one either. It was pushed aside. Other cottages were visited and everyone was anxious to lend the Queen a table. A little group of tables now stood near the Queen. She did not want any of them. It was one of those days when the suite thought it was prudent to humour Her Majesty. They were very sympathetic.

Brown, who had been standing by without a glint of expression on his dour face suddenly picked up one of the discarded tables and planted it down before the Queen.

"It's no' possible to make anither table for ye up here!" he announced.

This table proved to be entirely satisfactory.

ANOTHER MOUTH TO FEED



Public Opinion Poll

(THE LONDON TRIBUNE)

ONE of the imports from America which this country can safely do without is the Public Opinion Poll. Unhappily, it appears that more and more newspapers are sponsoring the device. When first the American system of poll-taking found British imitators, many critics pointed out the obvious dangers. Now progressively more newspapers, and among them those which protest most righteously against the shortage of newsprint, fill more and more of their space with polls purporting to give the views of the British public on every issue from the future of Western Europe to the virtues of the New Look.

In the United States poll-taking has become a disease. Politicians both in and out of power appear to shape their policies and guide their actions partly according to the latest whims of the public as reported by the poll-takers. Superficially, it may seem a democratic process for political leaders to keep their ears to the ground. In fact, as we know from long experience in this country, there are few doctrines more deadly to democracy.

One of the special features of the shameful era between the two wars — the era of Baldwin and Chamberlain—was the elevation of sheer expediency into the first principle of government. Baldwin preferred to win an election rather than tell what he conceived to be the truth. At the time of Munich, Chamberlain would undoubtedly have found his policy approved by reports from the poll-takers. But because a majority of the people supported the policy of dishonorable surrender to Hitler and Mussolini did not make that policy any less dishonorable.

The business of politicians is to state their views and principles, and the basis of democracy is that the public should have a choice between at least two coherent sets of views and principles. If politicians are constantly changing those views and principles in accordance with the supposed preferences of the public, the result is not a more accurate reflection of the popular will, but a general befuddlement and corruption of public life. In the end, if such a process continues, the people are deprived of any real choice. Politicians, in any case, have sufficient temptations to depart from their principles without the poll-takers prompting and assisting them in those courses. Those responsible for organizing these polls should seriously consider whether they are not using a device which contributes to the debilitation of democracy.

Note On The English

We confess to a rousing, if rather naughty, cheer for Mr. Reginald William Saunders, who was recently thrown out of the Great Northern Hotel at King's Cross Station, London, by railway police. He had been there a long time and had refused to leave. The police took action and he has been charged with trespass. Mr. Saunder's defence is simple. He says he is a citizen, that the railways have been nationalized, and that the hotel had therefore become, as it were, his property. How can you trespass on your own property?

Mr. Saunders, we fear, will lose his case. The Bank of England is also nationalized but we fancy no one would allow Mr. Saunders to spend the night there by himself. There will be ways and means, doubtless, of proving Mr. Saunders to be a nuisance. Just the same, we recall Mr. Churchill's angry question, when it was suggested Britain should welch on its obligations and surrender in 1940. "What kind of a people do they think we are?" asked Mr. Churchill.

The kind of people they are are the Reginald William Saunderses who get a stubborn idea into their heads and won't let it go. He was bounced out of the hotel and will be duly bounced into court, but nothing at all will ever convince him he wasn't right.—Montreal Star.

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

O Lord, how long shall I cry, and thou wilt not hear? (Hab. 1: 2.)

◇ ◇ ◇

I will stand upon my watch, and set me upon the tower, and will watch to see what he will say unto me, and what I shall answer when I am reproved. And the Lord answered me, and said, Write the vision, and make it plain upon tables, that he may run that readeth it. For the vision is yet for an appointed time, but at the end it shall speak, and not lie: though it tarry, wait for it; because it will surely come, it will not tarry. (Hab. 2: 1-3.)

◇ ◇ ◇

O Lord, I have heard thy speech, and was afraid: O Lord, revive thy work in the midst of the years, in the midst of the years make known; in wrath remember mercy.

Good came from Teman, and the Holy One from Mount Paran. Selah. His glory covered the heavens, and the earth was full of his praise. And his brightness was as the light ....He stood, and measured the earth: he beheld, and drove asunder the nations; and the everlasting mountains were scattered, the perpetual hills did bow: his ways are everlasting. (Hab. 3: 2-4, 6.)

◇ ◇ ◇

Take away the dross from the silver, and there shall come forth a vessel for the finer. Take away the wicked from before the king, and his throne shall be established in righteousness. (Prov. 25: 4, 5.)

What Does Russia Want?

It may be worth recalling the declaration published on June 24 after the Warsaw conference which the Soviet Government summoned to consider the decisions of the London conference on Germany. That declaration was a wordy and discouraging document, but it presumably expressed Russia's genuine alarm at the prospect of a western German State, and it may have contained, hidden beneath its bombast, some hints at a possible compromise. While repeating the Russian demands for a share in the control of Ruhr industry, for a "democratic, peace-loving Government for the whole of Germany," and for the "elaboration of measures for the fulfilment by Germany of her reparations obligations towards States which suffered from German aggression"—all of which had proved stumbling-blocks at the London meeting of Foreign Ministers last year — it added a new demand for the immediate conclusion of a peace treaty and the withdrawal of all occuping forces within one year of its signature. If the chance for a new conference comes the western Powers might do worse than to take this as a starting point and to test Russian intentions.—The Times, Londo

Suggest Moving Old Post Office

WINNIPEG, Sept. 20—(CP).—A group of Winnipeg old-timers known as the "Senate" has come up with a suggestion for the disposal of Ross House, the city's first post office.

"Move it to St. James' Park," they suggest. "It would make a good community centre." They've made representations to aldermen and the Manitoba Historical Society.

"Senate" members while away the hours talking about anything and everything.

"Anything the Senate in Ottawa can't settle, we settle here," said one member. Most of the Winnipeg group are retired. An average of about 12 attend a meeting. Nearly every occupation is represented. The Winnipeg "Senate" meets in St. James' Park during the summer.

Many members have been well-known figures locally. Among those who belonged before their deaths were David Ritchie, city alderman in 1902 and 1903; Col. R. Snider, commander of the 127th Regiment in the First World War; and Magistrate A. R. Sutherland.

Thieves Rob Accident Victim

TORONTO, Sept. 20.—(CP).—A new hat and purse that belonged to Mrs. Alex Sinclair of Sarnia, killed Saturday in an automobile accident close to nearby Clarkson, were stolen shortly after the mishap, police said Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Ridpath of Hamilton helped remove the dead woman from her husband's overturned car. Then Mrs. Ridpath walked over to pick up the purse and hat she had seen at the roadside. Both were gone.

Police said the purse contained $15-$20 and a gold compact. Mrs. Sinclair had bought the hat for a wedding.

Cooper Plans To Produce Own Picture

By JACK QUIGG.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 20 (AP).—It was a surprise to hear Gary Cooper say he is planning to produce a picture on his own. He tried it once, in 1944, with "Along Came Jones." Film fared poorly at box office and Hollywood thought "Coop" would stick to acting after that he has not settled on a story yet, but he wants to do "something romantic—guns, fighting and action. They are more fun to make."

You can bet the lanky actor won't buy a yarn until he learns more about Ernest Hemingway's newest book. "He won't tell me what it is about," Cooper said. "Even Ingrid Bergman could not break him down."

Petes Defeat Orillia, 13-6 To Reach Lacrosse Finals

Beating Orillia at home Saturday night 13-6, the Petes swept their OLA Senior "B" group semi-final series three games to one to advance into finals against Huntsville. The Creighton crew outclassed Orillia throughout in this one, leading in every quarter of a fast and generally clean contest. Only seven penalties were passed out, five to the victors, as the officials clamped down early on rough tactics. It was 2-1 for the visitors the first frame and 6-2 for them at the half, as they led 9-3 going into the last.

The lively tussle drew a fair-sized gallery, including some fans from Peterborough. Jack Foote sparked the Petes' attack with five neat goals. Dugan also looked good, being in on five, with D. Vitarelli, Smith and Creighton helping out on a couple apiece. The whole team, from Goalie Bun Hill out, went well in wrapping up the semi-finals as they seek to retain their provincial crown of 1947. Crowe and Beaton shone Saturday for the losers.

The team:

Petes — Goal, Hill; defence, Horton and Warren; centre, L. Vitarelli; wings, D. Vitarelli and Smith; rover, R. Breakspear; alternates, Magee, Chute, Creighton, Dugan, Gordon, Foote and J. Breakspear.

Orillia—Goal, Fagan; defence, Balkwell and Pearsall; centre, Street; wings, Johnson and J. J. Hill; rover, Antonio; alternates, Price, Massey, Scarlett, Beaton, Hammond and Crowe.

Referees — J. Mullis and W. Smart.

Summary:

First Quarter

Petes—D. Vitarelli (Smith) . 1.50
Petes—Smith 2.00
Orillia—Massey 5.55

Penalties—Balkwell, D. Vitarelli, Chute.

Second Quarter

Penalties—Warren, Dugan.

Oshawa Takes Track Meet From Harriers

Oshawa Shamrock AC defeated the Peterborough Harriers 55 points to 32 here Saturday in an inter-club track meet. Rain fell throughout and the track was a sea of mud to slow the races up considerably. Peterborough runners failed to take a first but built up points with second and third places.

E. Kofmel of Oshawa and Jim Flowers of Peterborough fought it out in the 100-yard dash, with the visiting runner winning by inches. Jim Harris of Shamrocks took the two-mile race ahead of Roy Barraclough with W. Thistlewaite third as they sprinted hard the last 30 yards. Roy Mozewsky of Oshawa won the high jump with a western roll, going five feet four, with Jack Dougherty second. Oshawa officials were amazed at home talent having to use such a poor track. The results:

100 yards—E. Kofmel (SAC), J. Flowers (P).

220 yards—E. Kofmel (SAC), J. Flowers (P).

440 yards—E. Kofmel (SAC), J. Dougherty (P), J. Flowers (P).

880 yards—P. Harris (SAC), W. Thistlewaite (P), J. Dougherty (P).

1 mile—R. Fallman (SAC), W. Thistlewaite (P), R. Barraclough (P).

2 miles—J. Harris (SAC), R. Barraclough (P), W. Thistlewaite (P).

High jump — R. Mozewsky (SAC), J. Dougherty (P), J. Flowers (P).

Running broad jump — R. Mozewsky (SAC), J. Flowers (P), E. Lindsay (SAC).

Javelin—J. Saramak (SAC), J. Foster (SAC), E. Lindsay (SAC), J. Flowers (P), D. Reid (P).

880 relay—Mozewsky, Harris, Wilson, Kofmel (SAC), Dougherty, Barraclough, Martin, Flowers (P).

PROSPECTIVE CHAMPION

CGE And Legion Draw 3-3 In Soccer Fray

In spite of the wet weather, Canadian General and Legion soccer teams battled to a 3-all tie on Saturday afternoon at King Edward Park to make the league standing as follows:

	W	L	D	F	A	Pt
CGE	6	1	5	48	25	17
Legion	6	3	4	31	20	16

Referee Tom Garland decided that the ground was playable. Both elevens got started after an hour's wait, and played an excellent brand of the code.

O'Hallorans were notified that Lindsay would not be able to play in Peterborough in the second game.

From the kick-off Legion players concentrated on a quick-passing combination. Eventually Cotton, at centre-half, demonstrated the art of dribbling to offset this pressure, and it paid off when he forced the play up the centre where Turner placed a positional play to advantage, Booth dropping the ball below the cross-bar for the opening counter. Ross and Craig dribbled their way through CGE full backs, but Cotton came from nowhere to breast the ball out of goal. Towards the interval CGE replied with constructive tactics when Welland, with an oblique shot, below the cross-bar, gave the Electrics a 2-goal margin. From the centre kick, Bert Grant, Legion, slipped the ball to G. Downer who placed it to the foot of H. Foster, who registered.

Smart Soccer

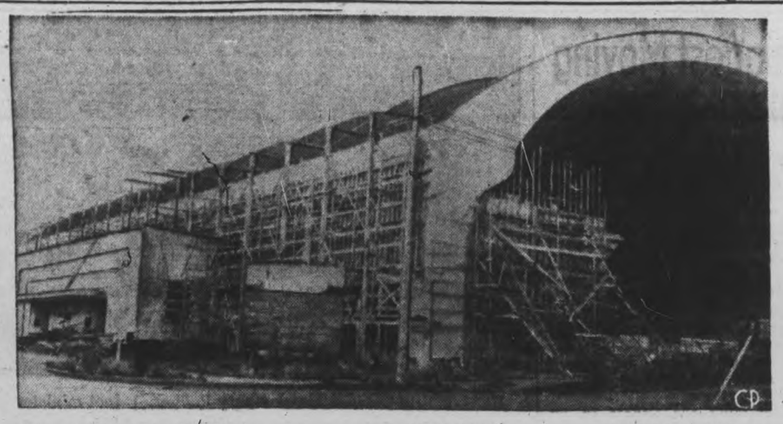
On resuming, Legion had Newt Downer and J. Downer in their line-up. It was a McPhate-Turner combination that resulted in McPhate lifting the ball into goal, where Strong connected with his head to make it 3-1. Half-backs opened up the play, allowing the forwards ample time to get results. G. Downer gave Jack Downer a fine opening to make it 3-2.

Electrics went right back to battle hard in around the Legion goal where T. Foster, Sr., taking the place of Bill Curtis in goal, held Strong, Welland and Turner off the score sheet. Craig and Grant outplayed CGE forwards placing the ball up centre. Ross trapped the ball slowly and steadied himself to make sure with a low grounder, just one minute from the finish, to even the count.

Legion — W. Curtis, goal; Tom Foster, Jr., and Al Downer, full backs; J. Craig, B. Grant, and B. Woodcock, half-backs; H. Foster, Newt Downer, A. Ross, G. Downer and J. Downer, forwards; sub T. Foster, Sr.

CGE — J. Greenhorn, goal; S. Murduff and S. McGann, full backs; H. Steel, E. Cotton and W. Wilson, half-backs; F. Booth A. Welland, R. Strong, J. Turner and T. McPhate, forwards.

Referee—Tom Garland.



CIVIC HEADACHE—Impressive and unfinished as ever, Victoria's ice arena has started another major civic controversy. Begun in 1944 at an estimated cost of $215,000, the structure to date has cost $650,000 and another $150,000 will be required to finish it. Only $85,000 is available. Criticism of former city councils, contractors and others involved in building the arena, has led Mayor Percy E. George to promise a civic inquiry.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Another sign of fall's arrival with winter on its heels is the announcement that pro mat shows will commence here again this week. A three-bout program listed for the Brock Arena on Wednesday eve, head by the Masked Marvel and Strangler Bob Wagner, two toughies. With popular Ben Sharpe (the ladies' choice) in against villainous John Katan in the semi-windup. And Jack Moore mixing it with big Bill Stack in the prelim. All well-known professional grapplers and no strangers here. These beef trusts really turn it on and supply a large city and district following—in fact, fans come from Lindsay, Apsley, etc.—with plenty of lively entertainment.

* * * * * *

Toronto Star item says: "Don McRae, redheaded flash who led Winnipeg to a junior title over St. Michael's College three springs back, is going to forget about pro hockey. Taking time out from packing his bags in the Leafs' St. Catharines training quarters Friday, Don said: 'I'm going back to my post as an electrical engineer at Peterborough. I missed most of the last two seasons through injuries and just can't catch up with these boys. They can find me a minor pro spot, but I'm not interested. I may play a little hockey on the side for Peterborough but from here it's strictly a business career for me.'"

Plenty Large Enough

A rumor that the ice surface of the Civic Arena here will be too small for OHA play is the bunk. It will be 173½ feet by 72½, well above OHA playoff specifications and about the same surface as the old Brock Arena. Bit wider, in fact. That rink was good enough for the team of Bailey, Collins, Ranger, McLeod, Parker, Dwyer, etc., to win a senior Ontario title before packed houses, so a similar setup should do us for the time being. Plans are for the Legionnaires, Petes and junior Oddfellows to have a night a week each for home games, alternating Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays. With certain practice periods. And the kids will be looked after there, too.

Senior "B" lacrosse Petes swept Orillia into the discard on Saturday, 18 to 6, and now meet Huntsville in the finals. They looked better on the Orillia floor, leading in every quarter of a fast and fairly clean contest. Foote and Dugan led the snipers with D. Vitarelli, Smith and Em Creighton also effective. Whole crew went well, and we are confident they'll take the scrappy Huntsville outfit, too. Mick Magee was back in Saturday's lineup and made his presence felt—Mick having a fine season at the gutted-stick game this year. We may hear today of the first fray 'gainst Huntsville.

* * * * * *

Re Chute And Magee

This paragraph appeared recently in the Orillia News-Letter: "Tommy Scott of Peterborough, one-time captain of the Orillia Terriers, is 39 years old. Youngest line playing senior 'B' lacrosse includes Johnny Krapek, the two Watts and Booth of Huntsville, who average 18 years of age. The oldest defence formation is made up of Rowan Chute and Mickey Magee of Peterborough. Chute, a one-time Toronto Oakwood player, is 36, and Magee, with the Tigers two years ago, will be 38 in November." That writer seems to have all the age answers—wonder if he knows Coach Red Creighton's correct age.

Saturday's rain washed out the Staffords-Petes' first OBA senior "A" semi-final here. A tough break, but the teams will tangle at five p.m. tomorrow (Tuesday) in Riverside, with the second tussle at Millen Stadium, Toronto, at five Thursday evening. On account of no floodlights there now, Staffords are TBA champs and the Petes won COBL honors, so this should be a sizzling series. Our bunch knocked 'em off last fall to go into provincial finals and the men o' Murphy hope to do a repeat. But Staffs are sore about so much adverse publicity over the $100 they owe the locals, and no holds will be barred this serial. Ed (Gunner) Whitehill, top COBL twirler this year, will likely pitch for the Petes. It rates a huge crowd.

* * * * * *

A Bit Off The Beam

Coming in a bit late and confused, Bunny Morganson of the Tely disdains the "$100 yelp from Peterborough", says Staffs refuse to be held responsible for last year's debts, crabs at the TBA and OBA for interference, and winds up by saying Peterborough asked Staffords to carry on with this series. Latter statement is wrong—it being the other way around—as is his report that the second game is in Toronto on Saturday. And why shouldn't association officials insist on guarantees being carried out? Also, why shouldn't the 1948 Staffords pay the 1947 team's debts—or else be tossed out? What kind of a club is it that reneges on an agreement? Don't think any Toronto team wouldn't yell blue murder if the Petes owed the 100 bucks and declined to pay it!

Irvin Forecasts New Rules In NHL Playing

ST. HYACINTHE, Que., Sept. 20.—(CP).— Montreal Canadiens tried out a new style of hockey at their pre-season camp here Sunday, and the result so impressed onlookers they were at once predicting widespread rule changes in the National Hockey League within the next few years.

The idea is a brainchild of coach Dick Irvin, who apparently is plenty fed up with the helter-skelter type of hockey in vogue during the last fe wseasons.

The one big change advocated by Irwin would permit only three players of the attacking team to cross the centre-ice red line into the opposing team's half of the rink.

It is safe to say that at least half the goals scored in the N.H.L. last season came on power plays with the puck frequently bounding into the net off an opposing player's leg, or else finding its way into the cage through a maze of players on a screened shot that the goaler probably didn't even see.

"Inside of two years, new rulings will be brought into effect in the N.H.L. which will curtail the present-day scrambly type of hockey," said the gray-thatched Canadien mentor.

"In the new game, every team will have to carry four sets of forward lines in order to stand up under the gruelling pace."

And the Canadien players agreed with Irwin after trying out the new game in both inter-squad practice sessions yesterday. The boys were plenty fagged out, especially the forwards.

Of the 17 goals scored in the two games, not one was of the screened variety and most came after spectacular passing plays.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

Our activities for the coming week are many and varied.

Tonight, first round of group playoffs for club championship: G. Coleman, Jr., vs. A. Black; R. Knox vs. H. Clegg.

Tuesday night, final game for club championship.

Wednesday night, mixed rink tournament; draw from the board at 7.30 o'clock. Fee 25c.

Friday night, men's doubles. Choose your own partner. 7.15 o'clock.

Saturday night. Now here is the big night of the season. A great big masquerade mixed rink tournament. Along with the tournament there will be a weiner roast. Each member attending must be in costume. The committee is really working hard to make this an outstanding event of the season. We have not all the details before us just now, but will have them for Tuesday's column, but we do know that there will be lots of fun, lots of prizes (individual and rinks), and lots of weiners. Keep next Saturday nigh: open and keep your eye on this column. We want to make this a big success and we can do it if the boys and girls do their part.

Riders Drub Argonauts 32-12 Copeland Knocked Out of Game

By The Canadian Press

The one-sidedness of the drubbing by Ottawa Rough Riders rankled plenty but the worst news in Toronto Argonauts camp today was the possibility that speedy Royal Copeland may be lost to the Dominion football champions for some time.

The burly riders gave the Argos a physical pounding as well as a few football lessons when humbling them, 32-12, Saturday before a capacity crowd of 19,000. One of the Argonauts that Ottawa eliminated early in the game was the 23-year-old halfback.

Copeland suffered a foot injury when he made one of his hurtling leaps through the centre of the Ottawa line for the game's opening touchdown. Someone's cleats came crushing down on his foot just as he took off, tearing tendons in the foot.

After X-rays, Argo officials said he would be out for at least a week—which means he may miss the return clash between the International Rugby Football Union's league-leaders in Ottawa next Saturday.

The way the Argos collapsed emphasized the team value of the 195-pound muscle-man from North Bay, who with Joe Krol has sparked Argos to their last three Dominion titles. One Argo official, bemoaning the injury, estimated his worth at six players "because he does the work of three and it takes another three to watch him."

Worst In Years

The beating that followed was Argos worst in several seasons and the most one-sided of any of Saturday's four games.

The next worst was the 22-7 defeat that the Tigers handed Sarnia Imperials at Hamilton for the second straight Ontario Rugby Football Union triumph. In the O.R.F.U.'s other game, Toronto Beaches Indians were hard-pressed to down the Trojans 14-6 at Windsor and keep their share of the league-leadership with Hamilton.

In the Western Canada League, Winnipeg Blue Bombers came from behind to defeat Saskatchewan Roughriders, 15-9 at Winnipeg.

The Argonauts held a 12-9 lead over Ottawa at half-time, but their collapse in 3rd and 4th quarter was complete. The 210-pound Krol, who scored one touchdown and converted both his own and Copeland's, fought himself into exhaustion trying to stem the tide and had to leave the game for the first time in the last quarter.

Eric Chipper led the Ottawa forces with 11 points on a touchdown, scored when he recovered his own attempted placement.

Three converts and a placement. The other touchdown scorers were Bob Paffrath, Doug Smylie, Bert Haigh and Lally Lalone.

Didn't Complete a Pass

Argos didn't complete one forward pass on nine attempts.

Rough Riders played without their battering-ram half, Tony Golab, whose wrenched back is expected to be all right for next Saturday.

Forwards by Frankie Filchock and some terrific line-plunging by Gerry Walsh, paced the Tigers to their victory over Sarnia at Hamilton. The Imperials took a 7-0 lead in the first quarter on Eric McKeever's touchdown, converted by Andy Sokol, and a single by Sokol. But that was all the scoring they did.

Walsh battered his way through the Sarnia line for two second-quarter touchdowns. Filchock completed eight of 11 forwards—one to Boris Tipoff for a touchdown. Pat Santucci converted all three Tiger majors and Joe Capriotti kicked a placement.

Condition Critical

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 20 — (AP).—Officials at Temple University Hospital said today the condition of Bill (Chicken) Thompson, Philadelphia heavyweight, injured in a bout last Thursday night, is critical. Thompson was taken to hospital after doctors were unable to revive him following his knockout at the hands of Johnny Haynes, New York heavyweight.

Mask To Meet Strangler In Main Bout

Bob Wagner

One of the toughest of tough wrestling matches has been signed for the feature spot in the Brock Arena's opening card of the season on Wednesday night. Manager Jim Laidlaw, seeking someone who could be counted on to give the Masked Marvel a thorough fight of it, has called in Strangler Bob Wagner of Portland, Oregon. Wagner, sometimes known as Bulldog Bob and sometimes as the Portland Cement-Mixer, is no softie in any ring. Big and hard Wagner may be just the man to settle the hash of the mysterious Unknown who has irritated a long list of mat fans around these parts. It should be a dilly of a fight.

Handsome Ben Sharpe also gets a tough opponent to handle in the semi-final when he tackles surly John Katan. In the opening bout Jack Moore will test young Billy Stack, the Bowmanville lad who has been going great guns this summer. The first card of the fall season gets under way at 8.45 Wednesday night.

Indians Take Doubleheader Lou Boudreau Sparks Play

By JOE REICHLER

Win, lose or draw, Lou Boudreau, shortstop-manager of Cleveland Indians, rates as the outstanding player in the major leagues.

It is largely through his efforts—at bat, in the field and on the bench—that the Indians are only half a game out of the American League lead today, with an excellant chance of winning their first flag in 28 years.

Lou blasted his 15th and 16th round-trippers Sunday to account for all his team's runs in Cleveland's second game 2-0 triumph over Philadelphia Athletics. The Tribe also won the opener, 5-3, to capture both ends of the doubleheader.

Boudreau's homers came off Toronto-born Dick Fowler who went the distance for the A's and gave up only three other hits. Karl Scheib was charged with the first game defeat.

The Tribe's twin victory, coupled with the double setback handed the Boston Red Sox by Detroit Tigers, 4-3 and 8-6, boosted the Indians to within half a game of the pace-setting Sox.

Down Yankees

The Indians also vaulted over New York Yankees into second place when the Bronx Bombers were held to a split in their doubleheader with the Browns in St. Louis. The hustling Brownies won the first game 8-6, New York winning the second 9-6.

In sharp contrast to the spine-tingling American League race, the National League pennant scramble has burst wide open. Only a complete collapse can stop Boston Braves from winning their first flag in 34 years. The Braves won their sixth in a row and their 12th in the last 13 games, defeating Cincinnati Reds 4-2. They lead Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals by six games.

The Cards moved into a second-place tie with the Dodgers, scoring two victories over the Giants in New York, 4-3 and 3-1. The Dodgers whipped the Chicago Cubs in Brooklyn 8-1.

Philadelphia all but eliminated the Pittsburgh Pirates, trouncing the Bucs in both ends of a twin bill 9-6 and 5-3. Pittsburgh trails by eight games. The fifth-place Giants, only two games away from being mathematically eliminated, are 10 lengths in arrears.

A paid Cleveland crowd of 75,382 saw Larry Doby slam a dramatic ninth inning home run with Joe Gordon on base to give the Indians their first-game triumph.

Attendance Record

The sellout crowd boosted the Indians into a major league season attendance record of 2,300,893 paid admissions with seven home games still to go. The old mark of 2,265,512 was set by the Yankees in 1946.

The Red Sox went 12 innings before finally bowing to the Bengals in the opener. Stubby Overmire, fourth Tiger pitcher, singled home the winning run with two out in the 12th. It was Overmire's first hit of the season.

The second game was called after eight innings because of darkness. Detroit's biggest throng of the season, 55,235 fans, saw Dick Wakefield break up a 6-6 deadlock with his second home run of the day to win the second game for the Tigers.

Al Zarilla's two-run homer in the sixth won the opener for the Browns against the Yankees. Joe DiMaggio led the Yankees to victory in the second game, poling his 37th and 38th home runs, each with a man on base, to bring his RBI total for the season to 145.

End Losing Streak

Washington Senators ended their 18-game losing streak, defeating the cellar-dwelling White Sox in Chicago 10-7 and 8-6.

For the first time in a week, a pitcher other than Johnny Sain or Warren Spahn won for the Braves. He was Clyde Shoun, who relieved Red Barrett in the eighth with the score tied at 2-2.

The Cards made it 10 out of the last 11 against the Giants. With Murry Dickson registering his 12th victory in the opener, and Harry (the Cat) Brecheen winning his 18th in the seven-inning nightcap.

The Dodgers gained sweet revenge on their old jinx, Johnny Schmitz, blasting him off the hill with a four-run first inning outburst.

Veteran Dutch Leonard and Schoolboy Rowe handed the Pirates their third and fourth straight defeats.

Red Wings Edge Montreal 1-0, Even Standing

By the Associated Press

Having barely squeezed into the International League playoffs, Rochester Red Wings found themselves all even with the champion Montreal Royals today at two games apiece in the semi-final round.

Lefthander Johnny Mikan, who compiled a 9-9 won-and-lost record during the regular season, pitched the best game of his career Sunday to best Don Newcombe in a 1-0 hurling duel.

The fifth game of the best-of-seven series will be played in Rochester tonight. Then the scene shifts back to the Canadian city.

Sunday's victory was Rochester's second straight after it had dropped the first two games to Montreal.

Mikan gave up four hits to three for Newcombe, but the Royals' negro star righthander was wild. He walked six men. Mikan issued one pass, in the ninth, when the Royals put runners on first and second with none out.

The home crowd of 11,117 cheered enthusiastically when the big lefthander retired the next three men on infield rollers.

The Red Wings got their only tally in the first inning, when they got two of their three hits. Dick Cole singled off third baseman Oscar Grimes' glove, and raced to third on Hal Rice's line single to right after one out. Russ Derry drove Cole across with his fielder's choice bouncer to first base.

The fifth game between Newark and Syracuse was postponed by rain. The two teams will try again tonight in Syracuse. The Bears hold a commanding 3-1 lead in their best-of-seven series.

Li'l Arthur King Back In Business

TORONTO, Sept. 20—(CP)—After the usual summer doldrums, professional boxing swings back into business here tonight with the same star attraction—Li'l Arthur King, Canada's lightweight champion.

Promoter Frank Tunney is hoping that when the Toronto Negro places his title on the line against Sudbury's rugged Harvey Mathe over 12 rounds tonight, he'll show a little more of the tactics which earned him the nickname "Tiger" than he did last winter.

3rd Contracts Drawn As Fight Cancelled

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(AP).—A third round of contracts has been drawn by the tournament of championship as a result of the cancellation of the Jersey Joe Walcut-Gus Lesnevich fight.

Instead of a double-header, the T. of C. is standing on the middleweight championship fight between titleholder Tony Zale and Marcel Cerdan tomorrow night at Jersey City, N.J.

Originally the T. of C. planned to go with the Zale-Cerdan alone. Then the promoters added a Freddie Mills-Gus Lesnevitch light-heavy title bout which was wiped out because of Mills' bad back. Jersey Joe and Gus next were signed for the same card. Lesnevich hurt his toe last week and the T. of C. decided to go along with its original plans.

20 Fatalities In E. Canada Over Weekend

By The Canadian Press

A 500-mile-an-hour jet plane went astray on a flight from Niagara Falls, N.Y., to Trenton, crashed on a hilltop near Newcastle, Ont., and killed its pilot.

The crack-up was the most spectacular of the mishaps which brought violent death during the week-end to 20 persons in eastern Canada.

A Canadian Press compilation showed 13 traffic deaths, two drownings and five deaths from other causes.

Louis Vonlanthen, 47, and Louis Lord, 12, were killed at St. Nicholas, Que., when a sidecar-equipped motorcycle missed a detour sign and plunged into a 12-foot hole in a highway.

A collision between a freight train and a truck six miles east of Hamilton killed Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Iles of Aldershot.

An automobile-truck collision at Bronte, Ont., near Hamilton, took the lives of Charles Adams of Hampstead, N.Y., and John Rymerski of Palermo, Ont.

Other Traffic Mishaps

Killed in other traffic accidents were Vincent Leduc, five, run over by a truck at St. Marc des Carrieres, Que.; James Farrish, 28, Goderich, Ont., in a car which plunged off a highway; Basil T. Moses, Hagersville, Ont., crushed in a car-truck collision; Ron Mitchell, 26, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., fatally injured when a fish truck overturned; Julian Martin, 38, River Beaudette, Que., injured Friday in a smashup near Cornwall; John Herod, 42, Lakeview, near Toronto, in a car crash on his way to a wedding anniversary party; and Serge Cote, four, run over by a truck at Chicoutimi, Que.

Patrick Giddings, 36, of Cambridge, P.E.I., was drowned Saturday at Victoria, P.E.I., when he fell overboard from a scow.

Soon after he was thrown from an overturned boat, James Lowrie, 59, of Goderich, died of a heart attack said to have been brought on by the shock.

The body of Louis Waiter, 32, of Erie, Pa., missing since Sept. 12, was recovered from Lake Erie near Long Point.

Mrs. Robert Hunter, 41, was found dead in her St. Roch Ward home in Quebec City Sunday. Police investigating declined to discuss the circumstances of her death.

Police said Joseph Lajuinesse 34, found shot through the head near Sudbury, killed himself with a rifle.

Demasse Labelle, 64, of Sturgeon Falls, died of burns suffered when the log jammer he was guiding touched an overhead high tension cable.

Expect Macdonnell, Methot To Be Chosen As Chairman

OTTAWA, Sept. 20 — (CP).— J. M. Macdonnell, member of the Commons for Muskoka-Ontario, and Leon Methot, of Three Rivers, Que., likely will be chosen permanent chairmen of the National Progressive Conservative Convention here on September 30, October 1-2.

Mr. Macdonnell is president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada and Mr. Methot, a prominent lawyer, is one of its directors.

The two are expected to take over the chairmanship from Gratton, O'Leary, associate editor of the Ottawa Journal, and Lionel Choquette, an Ottawa lawyer, when the convention has been declared duly constituted. Mr. O'Leary and Mr. Choquette have been named as temporary chairmen.

Mrs. H. C. Smiley, president of the Progressive Conservative Women's Association in Saskatchewan, and Herve Baribeau of Levis, Que., are likely to be chosen as joint permanent secretaries of the convention called to choose a successor to John Bracken, who is retiring.

Temporary Secretaries

Don H. Morrow, member of the Ontario Legislature for Carleton County, and Mrs. Jean Morin of Montreal, will serve as temporary joint secretaries.

A 193-man resolutions committee will meet on the two days preceding the convention to study the 500 or 600 resolutions which various branches of the party organization have sent in for inclusion in the party's platform.

Close to 3,000 people, including 1,313 voting delegates, are expected to come to the Capital for the convention.

To Reduce Hoarding

The Government is said to be hopeful that the importation of butter supplies this winter from Denmark and New Zealand will act as a deterrent on domestic hoarding.

Last winter, when supplies in grocery stores and dairies ran short, government officials said he scarcity had been created largely by housewives who put away an extra pound or two. While this did not mean much on an individual basis, collectively it was enough to create a real shortage.

British Trade Following Plane Routes

By JAMES McCOOK.

LONDON, Sept. 20 — (CP). — British trade now follows the airplane instead of the flag.

RAF and commercial aircraft buzz over jungles and plains guided by radar and radio, and on the basis of their photographs and reports Britain will spend hundreds of millions of pounds.

The planes are the forefront of the colonial development campaign to provide food, articles for trade and revenue for social services.

During the recent months these projects have been approved:

1—Programs of 17 colonial administrations providing for total expenditure of about £180,000,000 ($720,000,000) within 10 years of which £59,000,000 will come from the British exchequer, £52,000,000 from loans, and £68,000,000 from revenue. Projects cover everything from dam construction to agricultural research.

2—The RAF has been ordered to photograph great areas in East and Central Africa, to provide maps on which development will be based.

3—Perhaps £40,000,000 will be spent on peanut production in East and Central Africa, where work already has been started. Land which formerly supported only thorn bushes will soon contribute to the fats ration, cut down in almost every country by wartime shortages and dislocations.

Money Sources

Money is provided through the Overseas Resources Act, authority for the Colonial Development Corporation, with borrowing powers up to £110,000,000, and the Overseas Food Corporation, with borrowing powers up to £55,000,000.

The Overseas Food Corporation has entered into agreements to develop new agricultural areas in Australia, and British money will be available for other undertakings in the Dominions.

A Government spokesman said the Colonial Empire never was completely surveyed and cited words of Lt.-Col. David Rees-Williams, Under-Secretary for the Colonies, who said one of the major problems was "that we do not know what the resources in the Colonial Empire are....

"To remedy that lackk of knowledge we are undertaking a large topograhical survey by aircraft, with RAF co-operation. We are having the whole of the Colonial Empire surveyed."

1,400 Unwanted Cats, Dogs Humanely Killed SPCA Convention Learns

"During the year we responded to requests for help from 19 towns and villages, covering a territory of 65 miles," said Mrs. W. A. Young, presenting the report of the Peterborough Humane Society at the annual convention of the SPCA held in the City on Friday and Saturday. She said that some companies "are most reluctant to use sleighs in winter; the heavy fall of snow here and the many steep hills makes the going at times exhausting, particularly in the outlying parts of the city."

As a result of society supervision, two drivers were sent to the stable for sleighs; seven horses were ordered off streets with sore shoulders; and four with sore and bleeding mouths, from poor driving; four bread wagon horses made to work 14 hours a day; two shut in stable over a week-end without feed and water and other cases of horses being made to run up steep hills, gallop home after a day's work and some not properly shod.

She cited the case of one local man "who has been fined three times for neglect of 17 horses."

More than 1,400 diseased, injured and unwanted cats and dogs were painlessly killed in the society's electrical disposal chamber.

Trucker Fined

"Inspection of cattle trucks is resulting in better care being exercised by owners," she said. "A cow found with a broken leg that was being tramped on by other cattle resulted in the trucker being fined $25. We have found foxes, bears and pigs shipped in crates too small."

During the year the society had seven court cases. It won four of these and lost three. Mrs. Young told the delegates that the local Humane Society was financed by a grant from the city for dog controlling, a grant from the Community Chest Fund, from memberships and from individual donations.

In addition to its other work it has sent letters accompanied by literature on rodeos to 19 exhibition and fair boards within a radius of 60 miles of Peterborough. The board of directors was asked to substitute mechanical rides for ponies.

A bronze medal was presented to Harold Haigh, Water St., for bravery in rescuing a dog that had broken through the ice.

Miss Gwen O'Laughlin reported that assistance was needed if the Junior Humane Society were to continue its work among the schoolchildren of Ontario. The convention agreed unanimously and empowered her to choose her own helpers.

The Junior Humane Society works in co-operation with schoolchildren and teachers across the province. The children support it by holding pet shows and other activities.

A final resolution was made to continue the struggle against the docking and setting of horses' tails. Colonel R. S. Timmis, DSO, Toronto, is chairman of the committee.

The Rev. Christopher J. Loat, provincial secretary, once again thanked the Peterborough Humane Society for its hospitality during the convention, and said that it was the most enjoyable in the Ontario SPCA's 28-year history.

MATTRESS ON FIRE

Burning paper in a rubbish container in Victoria Park on Saturday afternoon brought firemen to the scene to extinguish the blaze. Early on Sunday morning a run was made to Queen and Hunter, the residence of H. Wong, where a mattress was on fire. Slight damage to the mattress only was reported. Shortly before midnight a run was made to the pump house on Water St. where some hay was burning. There was no damage.

GORDON S. MATTHEWS, chairman of the Utilities Commission, was re-elected director or the Eastern Ontario Municipal Electrical Association at its convention at Kemptville Friday. Stanley W. Canniff of Ottawa is the secretary-treasurer.

Harry Morgan Ex-Alderman Died Saturday

Funeral service for Henry (Harry) William Morgan, 84, 61 Robinson St., was held today at the Comstock funeral home. The Rev. C. G. Boyd of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church officiated and pallbearers were Jack Richardson, Alex Gillies, Dr. C. Lawrence, Stuart Curry, Charles Holmes and Frank Gillespie. Burial was at Little Lake Cemetery.

Mr. Morgan was an extremely well-known and well-liked citizen of the city where he was born and lived a full lifetime. He died on Saturday at his residence following a short illness. His parents were the late Richard Morgan and Margaret Jane Rutherford. His wife, the former Elizabeth Jane Curry, predeceased him. He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Neil Gammel (Margaret) of Calgary and Miss Grace Morgan of Toronto.

He worked for 60 years at the Peterborough Canoe Company, where he was mill foreman for many years. Extremely popular with the men, he was one of Col. J. Rogers' original personnel.

As a youth and young man in Ashburnham, Harry Morgan was one of the village's best athletes. He played lacrosse, hockey, was a canoeist and cyclist.

He early took an interest in the municipal affairs of the village and served for a number of years on the Ashburnham Council. When the village became a part of the city of Peterborough he was elected to the Board of Education. After two years on the board he contested in 1907 the aldermanic race, but failed to gain election. However, that year no representative from Ashburnham was elected, and this looked like a serious blow to the new city of Peterborough when one of the joining municipalities failed to have a seat on the Council. During the year Mr. Morgan gained a seat and was re-elected continuously until 1912. In the Council of 1908 Harry Rush was mayor and today only two of the aldermen survive, Mr. G. A. Gillespie, who was in 1908 elected for the first time, and A. A. McIntyre. Both later served as mayor. Others on that Council in 1908 were J. J. Turner, W. G. Morrow, Harry Phelan, William Buller, George Elliott and George Duncan.

A member of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Mr. Morgan served for a number of years on the board of managers and the Men's Association. He was a member of Otonabee Lodge, IOOF, and a past president of the Ashburnham Ratepayers' Association.

Sees Bigger Market

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 20—(Reuters).—A bigger market in Canada for the sale of British automobiles was forecast by members of a British delegation of motor car distributors who arrived in Liverpool Saturday aboard the liner Empress of France. Headed by W. J. Lord of Coventry and Col. Arthur Guy, former president of the British Motor Trade Association, the delegation of 14 completed a 9,000-mile tour of Canada.

Milk Distributors Oppose Increase

Two branches of the milk industry were far apart in their price views this week. Producers were reported proposing an increase of ten cents a pound for milk, and distributors said in Toronto several days ago they were opposed to any increase.

The bottlers and distributors said they could not see any justification in present conditions for any further advance. They say the public could not afford it, and they know that they have to bear the brunt of consumer protests after every advance in milk price. Indications, it was said, pointed to the peak in feed costs with a noticeable recession in that direction.

SALES AND AD. STAG

Board Of Health Fails To Agree On Salary Issue

A special meeting of the Board of Health was adjourned today without a decision on the salary of Dr. Harold Worton to be paid while he takes an eight-month course in Toronto. A week ago the Board approved his leave of absence and authorized that he should be paid full salary while studying for the degree of Doctor of Veterinary Public Health.

Strong criticism greeted this proposal from some quarters and a special meeting of the Board was called for today to reconsider it. Three members of the Board attended—Dr. R. A. Kelly, MOH, James Dutton Sr., chairman, and Alderman Grant Miller.

Alderman Miller said that he had talked with Dr. Worton and that he was "perfectly agreeable to accept at least half of his salary while out of office."

"I believe that I'm speaking for the rest of the Council when I say that I'm prepared to see that he receives not less than half of his salary and that he gives Dr. H. H. Hamilton the assistance he says he will. That is, at week-ends, and the Christmas season. I want a written two-year agreement with him. That's the maximum that I'm prepared to go."

"Great Deal Of Hysteria"

Dr. Kelly said that there had been a "great deal of hysteria" following the Board's decision. "At present Dr. Worton is a quite competent and capable man; he is able to do a good job. But he will do an even better job after taking this course, and I don't think he can do it on half of his salary. The department and the city will get full value for their money. Therefore I'm in favor of it."

James Dutton conceded that at the original meeting "We may not have taken all the factors into consideration. I personally didn't understand the time element."

Mr. Dutton then made a counter proposal that was tentatively agreed to by Dr. Kelly. He proposed that instead of the full salary of $2,400 being paid for the eight month period, it be reduced to $2,000. And Dr. Hamilton, who would be filling the vacancy, should receive $800.

Dr. Kelly then stated that the arrangement with Dr. Hamilton should be satisfactory as he was a man who knew the district and he believed that Dr. Hamilton would accept the offer of $100 a month, expenses included.

Both Dr. Kelly and Mr. Dutton agreed that in the long run it would be cheaper to grant Dr. Worton the $2,000 and pay Dr. Hamilton the $800 rather than hire a new man at a much higher salary who would start with the disadvantage of not knowing the people or the locality.

"We must make the best arrangement we can," said Mr. Dutton.

But this was less than satisfactory to Alderman Miller who took a firm stand on the matter. "I think Dr. Worton is very lucky to get 50 per cent of his salary," he said. "I wish somebody had paid 50 per cent of my college fees. Certainly the city has no more than a 50 per cent interest in the result."

"Oh, but you can't reduce it to a matter of mathematics," said Mr. Dutton. He contended that the unpublicized work of Dr. Worton and other health workers was of incalulable benefit to the community. Dr. Kelly heartily agreed.

Change Due Soon

Alderman Miller: "Any agreement would have to be couched in terms recognizing the coming of the County Health Unit. Mr. Dutton agreed and pointed out that when the County Health Unit comes "this Board passes out of the picture. It will be an entirely new setup."

Dr. Kelly said that Dr. Worton in addition to working on his course had agreed to return on week-ends, at the Christmas vacation and any other possible time to help Dr. Hamilton.

Mr. Dutton: "I think this agreement is reasonable. I understood he would be given a leave of absence and somebody else would have to be brought in. We can now be sure that the work will not be dropped."

Alderman Miller: "I'm only interested in the city's committment on his course. I can't see it differently and I think it's a generous offer."

Mr. Dutton: "If our help doesn't allow him to live decently then our help is no good."

Dr. Kelly: "He will be an even better public health worker for having taken the course. It will be to the city's benefit to allow him to take the course."

"...and to Dr. Worton's," interjected Alderman Miller.

Dr. Kelly: "Granted. But in a few years this qualification will be required in any case."

Alderman Miller: "True, he will be a better-trained man and of greater benefit to the city. But Dr. Worton has an interest in it as well. He will want a greater salary, eventually. Dr. Worton and I have discussed this fully, and I think he will consider it."

Mr. Dutton: "I won't modify my proposal either. Here is a reasonable proportion. It is fair to the man and fair to the municipality."

A motion by Alderman Miller that the decision of the previous meeting be rescinded was lost when Dr. Kelly refused to settle it. It was agreed to adjourn until Tuesday morning when the Mayor would be present.

Dr. Worton's course started this morning.

Mayor To Open Army Week Tonight At Nine

Canada's Army Week in Peterborough will open this evening at 9 o'clock when His Worship Mayor W. G. Ovens will address the people of Peterborough in a radio broadcast direct from the heavy anti-aircraft gun site demonstration of the 50th HAA Regiment RCA at the Armoury parade ground.

Demonstrations on behalf of Army Week will continue throughout the week with special programs laid on for Tuesday and Thursday evenings.

The gunners will open training at 7.30 o'clock, although the official opening is not until 9 o'clock. The gunners will engage a Harvard aircraft flying on bombing runs over the city and an evaluation of their technique will be made over the public address system. Meanwhile recruits will continue their basic training in the Armoury, where displays of radar equipment, signals and other stores will be presented. The regiment's recently-acquired radar, which has been set up for several days, is working in topnotch shape and citizens will have an opportunity of seeing it in action, at the demonstrations.

By special arrangement with the Royal Canadian School of Artillery (AA), at Picton, 50th Heavy Anti-Aircraft Regiment RCA, which opens Army Week tonight in Peterborough, will have on display, besides its own equipment, two special light anti-aircraft defence guns which are normally situated in war time next to any HAA battery.

1600 Rounds a Minute

The equipment are a high-speed self-propelled 40-mm Bofors light AA gun which can go into action while on the road, and a Polsten 20-mm quad, which fires more than 1600 rounds uer minute from its four barrels and is operated by a motor which twirls it to follow the aircraft.

Lt.-Colonel M. E. Clarke, ED, newly-appointed commanding officer, will be in charge of the general arrangements and training will be under the direction of Capt. P. W. R. Sargent and his Active Force administration and training staff, which includes BSM W. H. Pushie, Sgt. B. L. Smith and Sgt. G. A. Dunn. Capt. John D. Londerville, well-known Peterborough school teacher, will be in charge of the gun position and in control of the practive "shooting." Sgt. A. J. Hughes will be his assistant, while RSM H. B. Davidson and Sgt. S. R. French will be in charge of gun detachments. Sgt. W. G. Webb will be in charge of the predictor and Sgt. D. T. Jones in charge of the heightfinder detachment. Lieut. C. R. Payne will handle the recruit centre and BBSM R. G. Huggins and BSM Hayes will train the recruit detachments. Sgt. Ed. Killingbeck, signals sergeant, will take care of the wireless duties, and Sgt. L. Bennewith is in charge of operations at the radars.

Power Quota 240,000 kwh. Reduced From Last Week

Peterborough's daily quota of electric power has been reduced from the 260,000 kilowatt-hours of last week to 240,000 kwh as directed to the Utilities Commission this morning in a telegram from the Hydro-Electric Commission.

Consumption of power here last Thursday was 304,000 kwh and Friday 288,000. The week-figures are not applicable to the records from Monday to Friday inclusive for the reason that the industrial demand then drops to its normal minimum.

Gordon S. Matthews, chairman of the Utilities Commission, said this morning that a meeting of the larger power users was being called for Wednesday at 3.30 p.m. in the council chambers.

No further official comment was made today on the Peterborough power prospects but it was stated the local situation has been accentuated by the quota reduction to 240,000 hp and to co-operate with the Hydro emergency planning by allotment of power to municipalities. Peterborough would have to cut 48,000 kwh from Friday's use of 288,000 kwh.

Indifferent response has been made by the general public to the apoeals of the Hydro and Utilities Commissions. A moderate warning was sounded by the Commission today to the effect that local employment might be affected if the community as a whole did not realize the seriousness of the power shortage and prevent any waste of power in their homes.

The power consumption in Peterborough reached 304,000 kwh last Thursday, dropping to 288,000 on Friday.

Today, Hydro has tightened the Peterborough power allowance to 240,000 kwh. That is 64,000 kwh less than the consumption figure of 304,000 kwh last Thursday.

Norwood Man Loses 3 Cows In Storm

NORWOOD, Sept. 20 (ENS).—Sam Buchanan, a farmer living in Dummer Township about five miles north and east of this village, lost three value cattle in an electrical storm on Saturday morning.

The cows were grazing in a field close to the farm home, when lightning struck, and ran along a barbed-wire fence for about 100 feet. The cows were some distance away, but were killed by the bolt. The mishap took place between 10 and 11 in the morning.

THIRD INSTALMENT

Final dates for the payment of the third instalment of this year's taxes are: South and centre wards Sept. 30; west and north wards Oct. 7; East and Claraday wards Oct. 14.

130 Boys Attend Pool Opening

More than 130 boys, including 34 new members, attended the opening on Saturday morning of the new season at the Boys' Department of the YMCA. Don Duncan, boys' secretary, described the swimming pool as a "madhouse" when more than 100 boys tried to swim in the pool at the same time.

A meeting on membership was held and teams of canvassers were organized. Forty-two canvassers are to cover 16 Peterborough schools and are being asked to contact the other 313 of last year's members during the next three weeks as well as encourage new members to join.

LARGE MUSKIE HOOKED

Jack Dawson, proprietor of Lake Edge cottages on Ketchawanooka lake wasn't prepared for his catch on Wednesday night. He went trolling a short distance in front of his cottages without a net or a gaff. As he reached the weed beds he got a strike and a battle started. He knew it was a large muskie but he also knew he couldn't pull it in so he took no chances. He raced the boat up and down the lake for about 30 minutes until the battling game fish was dead. When he hauled his prize out he found it weighed 19 pounds and was 41 inches in length. A week ago he caught a nine-pound muskie at the same place. Guests at the lodge also reported good luck this year.

Name Delegates To Attend P.C. Convention

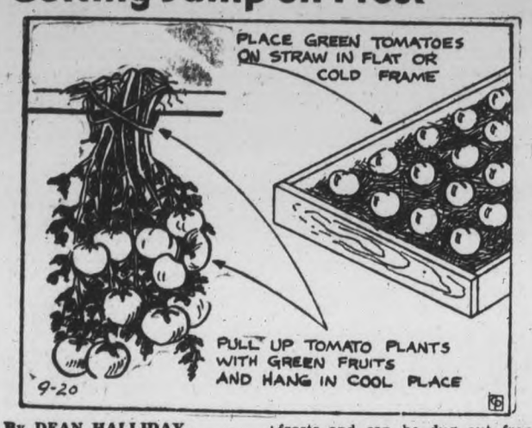
YOUR GARDEN . . .

Getting Jump on Frost



By DEAN HALLIDAY

BY EXERCISING a little foresight home gardeners can get the jump on Jack Frost.

Tomatoes and peppers can be saved from frost by pulling up the vines and hanging them, top down, in the garage or cellar, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden - Graph.. Tomatoes may also be wrapped in paper and stored in a box in a cool place.

Some gardeners prefer to remove the green tomatoes from the vines and lay them on a layer of straw in a flat or cold frame as illustrated. If a cold frame is used cover with glass but allow ample ventilation and the tomatoes will ripen nicely.

Many of the vegetable growing in the Freedom garden can be kept producing long after the first frost, if protected. Frequently there are two or three weeks of good growing weather following the first frost. The wise gardener, therefore, will have available a supply of hay or straw to throw over lettuce and other greens.

Parsnips, salsify and horseradish can be left in the soil all winter, and dug up as needed.

Kale is not harmed by light frosts and can be dug out from under the early snows if the ground has not frozen too hard.

Broccoli, Brussels sprouts and cabbage will stand fairly stiff freezing.

When frost comes the first vegetables to be harvested for storage are beans, winter squash and pumpkins. These tender vegetables must not remain out of doors in a freezing temperature.

Pulled From Water

OTTAWA, Sept. 20 — (CP). — Rene Lafleche, 45-year-old self-styled "fish man" who plunged into the Ottawa River Saturday for a 120-mile swim to Montreal, Sunday was pulled out of the water about 100 miles short of his goal.

JAMES MOLLISON, 42, first man to fly solo across the Atlantic from east to west, is shown shortly after he arrived at Montreal's Dorval airport as an immigrant under the Ontario Government's Immigration scheme. Mollison, who logged 8,000 hours flying time over a 28-year period, hopes to begin life anew in Canada as an aircraft worker.

Syl Apps, who piloted Toronto Maple Leafs to two successive Stanley Cup championships, Saturday officially bowed out of the National Hockey League at the team's victory dinner. Apps, one of the game's all-time greats, was pointed to by Premier Drew of Ontario as a splendid example to Canadian youth. In his short term as Ontario's athletic commissioner, Apps had accomplished more than any other individual in developing healthful athletic activities in the province, the Premier said.

Conn Smythe, the team's managing director, also paid tribute to Apps. In accepting an oil painting, Apps said he intended to devote most of his time to his new position with a department store but was glad to continue relations with the team by coaching its junior farm club, Toronto Marlboros.

Coach Dick Irvin shook up his forward line combinations at Sunday's practice session at St. Hyacinthe, Que., in an effort to find added fire power for his attacking units as Montreal Canadiens wound up the first week of their pre-season training grind. The most significant move saw young Jacques Richard take over the left wing spot of the potent punch line beside his brother Maurice (Rocket) Richard on the right flank and Elmer Lach in the pivot slot.

Peter G. Campbell, president of the Toronto Maple Leafs baseball club, who has been seriously ill since last Wednesday with pneumonia and a heart ailment, spent a "fair day" Toronto hospital authorities said Sunday night.

Four jockeys were injured in a spill Saturday during final races of the Thorncliffe meet at Toronto. The most severely hurt was Joe Stanton of Toronto's Parkwood Stable, who suffered a ruptured kidney.

Hamilton Tigers defeated St. Catharines Athletics 9-8 at St. Catharines Saturday to win the deciding game of a best-of-seven Ontario Lacrosse Association senior semi-final series. Tigers meet Mimico Mountaineers at Mimico Tuesday in a best-of-seven series. Mounties trounced Brampton 11-10 Saturday to win their best-of-three playoff, 2-0.

Grace Lenczyk of Newington, Conn., 21-year-old Canadian golf champion, Saturday won the United States women's amateur crown by defeating Helen Sigel of Philadelphia, 4 and 3, in a scheduled 36-hole match at Pebble Beach, Calif.

Manager-shortstop Lou Boudreau of the Cleveland Indians and outfielder Stan Musial of St. Louis Cardinals were named by the Sporting News last night as the outstanding players of their respective leagues. The baseball weekly picked Bob Lemon of the Indians and Johnny Sain of Boston Braves as the top pitchers of the two leagues.

Lightning struck and killed two golfers Sunday on the Firestone Country Club course at Akron, O. Their wives were knocked to the ground 10 feet away but were unhurt. The victims are Harold Denny, 25, and William Davis, 32.

Al Brundage of Buffalo Sunday piloted his Mercury II across the finish line ahead of 70 western New York and Canadian racers to win the first annual "Around Grand Island" race for stock outboard motorboats on the Niagara river. He completed the 27-mile course in one hour and 10 minutes. Warren Geitner of Rochester finished second and Carmen Nagy of Niagara Falls, Ont., was third.

Gonzales Wins Tennis Crown In Final Tilt

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 20. —(AP).—A new era dawned in United States tennis as the national singles championship passed into the sturdy hands of Richard (Pancho) Gonzales, a 20-year-old power player from the busy, year-round courts of Los Angeles.

Gonzales, one of the youngest net stars ever to wear the crown, captured it Sunday when he whipped Eric Sturgess of South Africa, 6-2, 6-3, 14-12, in the finals of a tournament which was marked by the passing of the game's old guard, at least from the championship scene.

Players like Frankie Parker, Gardnar Mulloy and Bill Talbert, did not progress beyond the quarter-finals in this 67th annual tournament. The 32-year-old Parker was the only one of the trio to get that far. Instead, the youngsters who have developed since the war dominated the championships.

Gonzales, ranked eighth in the tournament, was the only seeded American to reach the semi-finals. He looked a potential world beater as he overpowered the steady, 28-year-old South African champion.

When the popular Sturgess refused to give up after dropping the first two sets, Pancho matched him stroke for stroke throughout the long final stanza until he was able to score the break he needed in the near-darkness of a rain-spattered stadium. Sturgess, a 28-year-old accountant from Johannesburg, was the first foreigner to reach the U.S. final since Baron Gottfried Von Cramm of Germany lost to Don Budge in 1937.

THE PURSUIT OF HAPPINESS...

No man can enjoy a true life and true liberty, or pursue a genuine happiness, without first conceding the right of his fellow man to do the same. The extent of our enjoyment of these rights depends entirely on our unselfish willingness to keep our own pursuit of happiness from interfering with that of others. The moment the use of our own liberty restricts that of another . . . we are abusing the ideals our forefathers fought to maintain.

The House of Seagram believes that moderation is the key to the successful pursuit of happiness . . . moderation in our thinking, in our actions, and in our personal habits. That is why, in the use of whisky too, the House of Seagram has repeatedly said, "Drink moderately, or not at all."

Men who Think of Tomorrow Practice Moderation Today!

PARIS' PALAIS DE CHAILLOT, with the famed Eiffel Tower nearby, where an emergency session of the United Nations Security Council was held to deliberate upon the slaying of Count Folke Bernadotte in Jerusalem.

Rev. Dr. Smart Lashes Out At Self-Righteousness Speaking At St. Paul's

"There is a wave of self-righteousness that has been sweeping across this continent," said the Rev. Dr. James D. Smart, of Philadelphia, preaching on Sunday evening at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church on the occasion of the 115th anniversary. Dr. Smart is a former minister of the St. Paul's Church.

The text of his sermon was the parable of the Pharisee and the publican, the story of the disciples forbidding people to bring children to Jesus, and the story of the rich young ruler. He explained that the three incidents follow each other in the gospel because of the conection between them.

"In each of them," he said, "Jesus is exposing a religious attitude which he considered wrong; he is puncturing a false confidence with which men were defending themselves against the greater claim which God makes upon them. We might call this a three-fold study in contrasts."

The first contrast was between the Pharisee, the ultra-religious, ultra-moral man 'impotent in his superiority and on the other hand the publican alive and with infinite possibilities in his humiliation." The second between the impatient attitude of the disciples who resented children wasting their time and Jesus with his statement, "Unless you become like little children...." The third contrast was "between a man deeply concerned about his own salvation and a group of men willing to give up all for the salvation of their fellow men."

"And now," continued Dr. Smart, "having seen these contrasted characters, we have to face the fact that a line is drawn here, to ask and answer the question: On which side of the line do we stand? Where in this total picture do we see the closest representation of present - day Christianity?"

"The riddle is," he said, "that we can prove the Church is on the edge of its greatest crisis of its life and yet the spirit is essentially one of complacency and moral superiority. Thank God, we say, we are not like the others; we have such magnificence and spiritual power." He pointed out that European people were appalled at this superior attitude.

Regarding the second contrast, Dr. Smart said we pride ourselves on our care for children, but he pointed out that "in 95 per cent of Protestant homes no attempt is made to teach children anything concerning the Christian faith, and in 95 per cent of churches not one cent is spent by the congregation on material for children's education."

With reference to the third contrast, he said that "North American Protestantism is characterized by a selfish individualism. How can I make sure of my salvation?" People here, he said, "gain so many things in the world among the things they want, that they want to gain the last thing—eternal life."

The service was conducted by the Rev. C. G. Boyd and Andrew McMillan, of Toronto was guest soloist.

A RAILROAD FREIGHT warehouse at Windsor, on the Detroit river, goes up in smoke as firemen attempt to bring the outbreak under control. An estimated $200,000 worth of electrical equipment and newsprint was destroyed along with the building itself.

World News In Brief

Taken from Wires of Canadian Press.

LONDON — The 1948 Western Fair concluded in a drenching downpour, a draw for $6,000 in prizes and an attendance record unequalled in the 80-year history of Western Ontario's foremost annual exhibition. During the six-day show, 264,634 persons streamed through the gates to set an all-time high for paid admissions.

NEWARK, N.J.—Surgeons removed a two-foot wooden stake from the back of Mrs. Aleda Johnson, 33, who slipped on a cellar door and was impaled on the small post used as a doorstop. A police emergency squad sawed off the post and took the woman to hospital with the stake still in her body. Her condition was described as fair.

TORONTO — Canada, which now has about 600 chiropractors, will probably have more than 1,000 by 1950, D. V. Hoskins of Toronto predicts. He was re-elected vice-president of the Associated Chiropractors and Drugless Therapists of Ontario at a convention.

Message Of Sympathy

OTTAWA—The United Zionist council of Canada cabled a message of sympathy to the widow of Count Folke Bernadotte, terming her husband's death in Palestine "an utterly insensate and brutal murder."

SYDNEY, Australia—Socialism and, in certain circumstances, socialization are condemned in a pamphlet on social justice published with the authority of the Roman Catholic Archbishops and Bishops of Australia and distributed to all Roman Catholic churches in the country. The pamphlet declares the socialization of production, distribution and exchange to be irreconcilable with Christian teaching.

MANSTON, Kent, England — At least 10 persons were killed when a Mosquito bomber of the RAF crashed into a line of automobiles during a "Battle of Britain" memorial program at the RAF station here.

GILLINGHAM, Kent, England —Former German war prisoners who preferred to stay in Britain rather than go home are working with British army bomb disposal units digging up unexploded German bombs and clearing unswept minefields.

EDINBURGH—R. W. Pringle, lecturer in physics at Edinburgh University, has been appointed associate professor at the University of Manitoba.

PRAGUE—Josef Truhlar, head of Sokol athletic organization, said he has resigned in protest against the severity of a government purge of his organization. Truhlar, named head of the Sokol after last February's Communist uprising, said his resignation had not yet been accepted. He said the central body would discuss his case next week.

TORONTO — Judge Samuel Factor told a young Hungarian in naturalization court he would not grant citizenship to a Communist. The youth, Tibor Okros, 22, admitted being a member of a junior branch of the Canadian Federation of Democratic Hungarians—said to be a Communist organization—but said he had been interested only in the club's social functions.

MONTREAL—A hawk was declared to have been the killer of five-months-old Jean Neault found dead in her carriage near Grand'Mere, 30 miles north of Three Rivers, Que. Dr. Rosario Fontaine, medico-legal expert, who performed an autopsy on the child's body said death was due to asphyxiation, either by the weight of the bird on the child's face or by blood blocking its breathing.

BINFIELD, Berkshire, Eng.—Maj.-Gen. Sir John Duncan, 76, veteran British army officer, died. After his retirement he was chief commissioner of the St. John Ambulance Corps, a British organization, from 1931 to 1943.

TORONTO — The division of taxing powers between the province and the municipalities will be dicussed at a conference here Oct. 18-19. Various organizations such as the Association of Ontario Mayors and Reeves and the Northern Mining Municipalities Association will be invited to send representatives. The gathering, first of its kind in Ontario, was called by Municipal Affairs Minister Dunbar.

TORONTO —Two construction workers who knew how to apply artificial repiration were credited with saving the life of Charles Shepherd, 57 who fell into Toronto harbor. The men, H. Earnshaw and Don Techel, dragged Shepherd out of the water, called police and firemen and went ahead with artificial respiration until help came.

MONTREAL—Two armed men staged a $200 hold-up at the Laval Transport Company in suburban Jacques Cartier Sunday night, but in their haste ignored $2,000 locked in a safe in the office.

NEW GLASGOW, N.S.—After a four-hour fight firemen checked a blaze that destroyed a big garage and clothing store in the heart of this Pictou county town. The fire had threatened to sweep into a group of homes and fire-fighting equipment was rushed here from the nearby mining towns of Stellarton and Westville.

New Disease

MONTREAL — A new bovine disease, keratosis, discovered in New York state in 1941 and for which no cure has been found, may spread to Quebec and Ontario cattle, the College of Veterinary Surgeons of the Province of Quebec was warned. Dr. Peter Olafson, pathologist and a member of the College of Veterinarians of New York state, told the delegates the disease has already invaded 25 states of the union.

MONTREAL—Arrangements to move six families of squatters, living in tents on a vacant lot in suburban Longueuil, were completed during the week-end but when they will be moved has not yet been decided. The squatters, who moved into an army barracks two years ago, were evicted last week to make room for families of permanent force men.

MONTREAL — A four-month-old baby girl was found abandoned. Police said they have a good description of a couple believed to have abandoned the child. The baby, said to be in good health, was taken to hospital.

MONTREAL—Michael (Dody) Tansey, star lacrosse player in Canada 50 years ago, died in San Francisco. He was 80. Born in Montreal, Dody Tansey was considered the top player of his day while playing with the famous Montreal Shamrocks between 1890 and 1900.

HULL, Que.—Russia's red flag, with its symbolic hammer and sickle, appeared briefly among a dozen other flags when the 600 delegates to the convention of the Federation of Roman Catholic Workers gathered Sunday. How the flag got there no one seems to know. However, it didn't remain there long. A Hull delegate, Armand Morin, thrust the banner to the floor as delegates cheered.

SAN DIEGO— Fire drove two men from their fishing boat at sea. Then it saved them by burning off the mast before their 21-foot craft exploded and sank. "It fell near us," said Ray Stokes, 36, 'and we grabbed the jig pole (a fishing device attached to the mast). We floated out with it." Stokes and James K. Levy, 42, were picked up a few minutes later by another fishing vessel. Both were burned.

NEW YORK— Europe's literature, a Danish novelist says, 'is as dead and as beautitful as an old fashioned door knob." The novelist, Cornelius Johannes Spoelstra, whose books include "Roll Back the Sea," made the comment on his arrival from Amsterdam.

HOLLYWOOD— Condition of actress Rita Johnson remains critical. Going into the 14th days of coma after a brain injury, the film player, 35, was reported "no better, no worse" by hospital attendants. She was struck by a falling hair drier, police believe, in her apartment Sept. 6.

BIRMINGHAMTON, N.Y. — A golf ball driven at a Binghampton course Sunday by J. Joseph Welch struck hs wife, Winifred, 44, on the left temple. Se died a few hours later in hospital.

TORONTO — Igor Gouzenko, who exposed the Russian espionage system in Canada, has expressed his appreciation by letter for Gideon Bibles sent to him and his wife by the Christian Commercial Men's Association of Canada. This was announced at a week-end conference of the organization.

Has To Wait

NOTTINGHAM, Eng. — Arthur Curtiss, the middle-aged chimney sweep who aims to talk with Prime Minister Stalin about the peace of the world—because the diplomats don't seem to be getting far—came back home to bide his time. He was to wait until the Russians tell him whether he can visit the Soviet Union.

GRENOBLE, France. — One man identified as a Communist was shot to death and 17 were injured in a melee of fists, clubs and bullets when opponents of Gen. Charles de Gaulle tried to break up a political rally he addressed.

LONDON.—James S. Bell, 77, internationally - known retired London city treasurer, died in hospital. He was treasurer for 44 years and an employee of the city treasury department for more than 61 years.

THE FINAL "BREAKING THROUGH" of the rock barrier where the two sections of the Brooklyn-Manhattan tunnel join underneath the waters of New York harbor, took place recently as a dynamite charge was used to blast a hole through the last few feet of rock separating the two ends of the tunnel. The project, which has been under construction since 1940, and will cost $77,000,000, is expected to be opened for motor vehicle traffic in 1950. Above, Sam Allen (right) superintendent of the Brooklyn section, shakes hands with Andy Amisano, assistant superintendent of the Manhattan section, as they reach through the hole caused by the blast.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP
is a lot of little things

BE PREPARED TO ACT QUICKLY IN AN EMERGENCY

When an emergency arises, and you must think and act quickly, do you know what to do? Do you know the telephone numbers of your nearest fire station, doctor and police station? What would you do if your home caught fire, or if someone were injured in an accident? It is well to know such things in advance, for when an emergency occurs the speed with which you think and act may prevent serious loss or save a life. Preparedness is truly "Good Citizenship".

You can help this public service effort. Make a note of some of the little things which, in your opinion, contribute to Good Citizenship.

Double Ring Ceremony Performed By Candlelight

By candlelight in the United Church at Keene Saturday evening marriage vows and wedding rings were exchanged by Inez Janet Edwards and Bill Raymond Manbeck with the Rev. George Murray officiating. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Edwards of Keene, and the groom a son of Mrs. M. E. Coughlin, Peterborough, and the late Wm. Manbeck.

A background for the ceremony was of gladioli and asters in white and mauve shades with ferns forming a picture setting for the lighted tapers. Traditional wedding music was played by David Potter. Before the bride entered Mrs. Stuart Mitchell of Lang sang "I'll Walk Beside You" and while the register was being signed, "Because."

A lovely gown of white baronet satin and Chantilly lace was the bride's choice for her wedding. It was fashioned with a fitted bodice with yoke of nylon edged with two deep ruffles and a peplum at the waistline. Pointed insets of lace fell to the hem on either side of the skirt front and were repeated on the sides and centres of the full-length train which fell in graceful folds. A coronet of seed pearls held her train-length veil of tulle illusion and she was carrying a cascade of American Beauty roses. Mr. Edwards gave his daughter in marriage.

Miss Madeline Manley and Miss Naomi Manbeck as her bridesmaids were in similar frocks of orchid moire taffetas They were designed with cape sleeves on a fitted bodice and had circular skirts with short trains and peplums shaping to a point at the back. Their hats of the same material were in Dutch cap style and edged with orchid lace which also fashioned their elbow-length mittens. Their bouquets were orchid and yellow gladioli in a cascade arrangement. Norma Carol Given, the flower girl, was frocked in pale green brocaded organdy with square neckline and cap sleeves on the fitted bodice and a full skirt with bustled back. She wore a heart-shaped headdress and mittens of the same material and carried a nosegay of yellow and Talisman roses.

The groom was attended by his brother Wallace (Bus) Manbeck. The ushers were Emery Given and Carman Kelcey.

The reception was held at the home of Mrs. A. Rennie in Keene. Mrs. Edwards, the bride's mother, received wearing a gown of mauve crepe with black hat and matching accessories and had a corsage of yellow gladioli with Talisman roses set into the flower lips. The groom's mother was in grey crepe with black that and accessories and her corsage was made up similarly of mauve gladioli with yellow roses.

Later the bride and groom left on a short wedding trip to Kingston and points east. For travelling Mrs. Manbeck wore a light grey suit with accessories in Hunter's green. They will take up residence at 537 Gilchrist St., Peterborough.

Miss Alberta Alice Bell Bride of Charles J. Pogue

A pretty wedding took place in Fenelon Falls Presbyterian Church Saturday afternoon when Alberta Alice, youngest daughter of Mr. Albert Bell of Kirkfield and the late Mrs. Bell, was united in marriage to Charles Joseph Pogue, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pogue of Fenelon Falls. The ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. J. Cathcart of Bobcaygeon.

Miss Iris Whalon of Peterborough sang "Because" before the ceremony and "At Dawning" during the signing of the register. Mrs. Townley of Fenelon Falls was her accompanist and played the wedding march. The church was prettily decorated with asters, gladioli and fern.

The bride was attired in white satin with lace and a full length veil of net with heart shaped coronet headdress and she carried red roses. Mr. Bell gave his daughter in marriage. Mrs. James McKinnon of Peterboreugh, sister of the bride, as matron of honor was in pink nylon and carried a nosegay of white roses and gladioli.

Mrs. George Taylor of Kirkfield, and Miss Shirley Pogue, sisters of the bride and groom, were bridesmaids wearing frocks of powder blue and sky blue sheer and carrying nosegays of red roses and pink gladioli. The tiny flower girl was Verla Faye Taylor, niece of the bride, in a frock of pink taffeta with matching hair bow and carrying white asters and pink rosebuds in a nosegay.

Mr. Robert Pogue of Fenelon Falls was his brother's groomsman. Ushers were Ross Morrison of Lindsay and Vaughan Bell of Peterborough, brother of the bride.

The reception following was held at the home of the groom's parents. The bride's aunt Mrs. G. Kelly of Fenelon Falls, received wearing a black ensemble and corsage of pink gladioli. Mrs. Pogue, the groom's mother, was in grey with black accessories and wore pink gladioli at her shoulder.

The couple left later by motor on a trip to London and Woodstock. For travelling the bride wore a flowered silk jersey dress with navy blue accessories and carried a grey shortie coat. Her corsage was of red roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Pogue will live at 51 Parkhill Rd, Peterborough.

McLeod-Van Allen Wedding At Mark St. Church

The marriage was solemnized Saturday afternoon in Mark St. United Church of Elta Rosamond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Van Allen, Armour Rd., to Norman John McLeod, son of Mr. and Mrs. John McLeod of Sault Ste. Marie. The Rev. W. E. Rowland performed the wedding ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in navy crepe and wore accessories in mulberry shade and a corsage of deep red roses Bridal attendant was her sister, Mrs. B. A. MacDonald of London, Ontario, who was in dusky rose crepe and brown accessories and wore Talisman roses.

Mr. Gordon McLeod of St. Catharines was his brother's groomsman.

At the reception at the bride's home afterward Mrs. Van Allen received, attired in moss green crepe and black accessories. She was assisted by the groom's mother who was in mulberry crepe with black accessories. Each wore a corsage of carnations. Misses Ruth and Maxine Sine assisted in serving the refreshments.

For the wedding trip to Buffalo the bride changed to a suit of wine gabardine and matching accessories and wore a corsage of Talisman roses.

Mr. and Mrs. McLeod will live in Toronto where the bride is attending University of Toronto and the groom, a graduate of Queen's University, is completing his last year in law at Osgoode Hall.

Fashion Piracy Specialized Fall Shows Real Bonanza

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK, Sept. 20—(AP)— Fashion spies today are reaping their reward while resting on their laurels.

The British, American and French fall and winter collections have been revealed to the world. Undoubtedly, however, the spies are getting ready for their underground activities among the spring collections to come.

It's a highly specialized occupation, this fashion piracy, widely practised in the style centres of the world. It's as complicated as anything found in a Hitchcock movie.

Cloak-and dagger stuff in the cloak and suit world has all the thrills and laughs of a real spy plot.

But while the Mata Haris of the newest silhouette may be banned from a dressmaking establishment, blacklisted and shooed away by haughty doormen, they do not suffer more drastic penalties. The worst that can happen—and this is the equivalent to being shot at dawn—is to have their sketchbooks torn up in public.

Paris, while the fashion's spy paradise, is by no means the exclusive area of operations. Last year London designer Norman Hartnel, charged with designing Princess Elizabeth's wedding gown, hired a couple of private detectives to make sure no one filched prematurely his classified information. His action, oldtimers maintained, was about as effective as trying to hold back the tide with a picket fence.

The top custom designers in the United States whip up their creations in darkest secrecy. Rarely or never is a brand new and revolutionary model placed in a conspicuous show wnidow. Buyers, press and private customers get a thorough check-up before admission to the show rooms.

Tricky Business

After the first public unveilings, however, the situation is out of the designers' hands. Pictures tell the story.

Designers spy on each other; the mass production trade keeps a sharp eye on the custom designers—and on each other. New York, Chicago and California agents infiltrate Paris maisons. Operatives of the Paris couture do their darndest to get into New York and Hollywood. It is a serious business, catching a trend. Missing the boat—shortening a hem when everyone else is dropping them—can mean the loss of buckets of doubloons.

Some pirates hire or subsidize society women who buy models ostensibly for their personal wardrobes. Frequently the models are on a boat or plane without ever gracing a hanger in anyone's closet. Sometimes they merely travel by limousine from Fifth Avenue to Seventh Avenue. And smuggled patterns may be bought.

The fashion marts of London, Paris and New York are full of little people with facile pencils and some degree of entree who will sell a sketch for a fee.

A cynical fashion reporter once wrote that the working week of some designers was broken into three periods: one-third to finding out what the opposition was up to; one-third talking to material salesman to find out what the opposition was buying; and one-third to combining in "original" designs all that had been found out.

There is even a school of fashion philosophy which maintains that fashion trends are born of espionage.

Low-Calorie Dinner

Broiled Tenderized Steak (4 oz. 175 cal.)
Hot Sliced Boiled Beets (Minimum of butter 2-3 cup 60 cal.)
Shredded Green Beans (with a litle grated cheese ¾ cup 45 cal.)
Raw Dessert Pear (1 med. 60 cal.)
Clear Coffee (0 cal.)

High-Calorie Low-Cost Dinner

Beef Stew with Garden Vegetables (see note)
Hard Rolls Celery Hearts
Peach Cream Meringue Pie (see note) Coffee

One-Burner Dinner

Sliced Cold Corned Beef with Mustard
Mixed Creamed Carrots and Beans
Sliced Tomatoes
Fruit Cup: Seeded Imported Grapes
Peaches Sliced
Melon Balls Crackers and Cheese
Coffee

Directions: I used shin beef sliced crosswise of the grain for a stew and made 2 lbs serve 2 meals with plenty of garden vegetables added. I sauteed the floured pieces of beef in ham fat, then added water and simmered it 3½ hours in all. Meanwhile I gathered the vegetables and as I cleaned them I dropped them in the stew: small carrots, small onions, Kentucky wonder beans, both shelled out and green, small potatoes and about 4 tomatoes.

The Peach cream Pie was a nice change: In top of double boiler heat 2 cups whole milk (or 1 cup water and 1 cup cream); mix 5 tablespoons cornstarch with ½ cup milk and ½ teaspoon salt and stir into the hot milk until thick; cook 20 minutes. Remove from heat and pour over 2 beaten egg yolks, stirring, and return all to double boiler for about 2 minutes to cook the yolks. Remove from heat; add about 8 sliced peaches and either ½ teaspoon vanilla or almond flavouring. Pour into baked pie crust. Cover with meringue made with 2 leftover whites beaten stiff with 4 tablespoons sugar, brown meringue.

Woman Pays Lover's Bills Grieves Over Wedding Delay

DEAR MISS DIX: The time has come I feel I that I need some personal advice. I am a woman 32 years old. A little more than a year ago I met a man 45 years old and fell madly in love with him and he came to live with me in my small apartment. I gave him his meals, and was thrilled to do it. But now I wonder if I have just had a case of infatuation, for this man never pays any of the bills, or takes me to any place of amusement, or does anything to make me happy.

Dorothy Dix

He says he loves me and wants to marry me some time, but when I suggest that we settle on a date, he always postpones it. Will a man who does nothing for me before marriage support me after mariage?

PERPLEXED

ANSWER: Of course, he won't The dumbest woman in the world would know that a man who grafted his living off a woman before marriage would continue his deadbeat tactics after marriage, if she only would give her brains a chance to function now and then.

Strange and unaccountable are the ways a woman's mind works its wonder to perform. Of all loathsome human beings is the male parasite who lives on women, instead of working and supporting himself, and how any woman can find anything to love in such a creature, passes all comprehension.

Greener Pastures

Don't deceive yourself into thinking that this man will ever marry you. He hasn't the slightest intention of doing so. He will leave you as soon as some woman who works a little harder and makes a little more money and is a little better graft comes along. Yet there are thousands of women who fall for this racket.

You ask if I think what you feel for this man is "infatuation?" I'd say that what ails you is just lack of plain ordinary common sense.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am very much in love with a man who is twice my age, which is 17. My parents know nothing of this affair and would not approve of it. The man I love is happily married to a fine lady who has borne him three children, but he plans to divorce her as soon as I consent to marry him. However, I do not wish to break up this home unless I am sure that he really loves me.

What do you suggest?

JENNY S.

ANSWER: Well, Jenny, my suggestion is that you put off your marriage to this conscienceless philanderer until you are old enough to know what love is and what you want in a husband. At 17 you are just a kid. It is a time when a girl is in love with love and she can imagine that every man she meets is a great lover and her predestined mate. Lots of girls marry under this delusion and are bitterly unhappy ever after.

Your letter shows that you have a conscience, so don't be the one to break up a home and orphan little children. You will be sorry enough for it if you do. And don't befool yourself into thinking that you would be happy with a man who is twice your age and hasn't enough decency about him to want to protect, instead of ruin, a 17-year-old school girl.

THE STARS SAY . . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, September 21

Excellent auguries for those with ingenuity, foresight, originality and perhaps a radical new approach toward exceptional progress and far-reaching security, are found in this day's astrological forecast. There is tremendous drive to take "a leap in the dark," to inaugurate fresh techniques, new ways and means for tackling exciting problems. Although executed with audacity and nerve, this must be backed up by sound logic, sagacity, and long-range practical constructive plans for enduring success.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a rare opportunity for making exciting achievement, with spectacular returns, by a compelling urge to attempt something quite out of the ordinary. The far vision, bold and revolutionary ideas or tactics, could culminate with exceptional climax if based upon sound and logical foundations, with hope of security and rich reward.

A child born on this day should possess much skill, ingenuity and originality, bearing fruit because of conviction, application and the will to win.

Afternoon Tea Marks Close SPCA Convention

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Burnham, Otonabee, entertained the Ontario SPCA representatives of the local Humane Society Saturday afternoon at their beautifully situated country home.

Refreshments were served from a charmingly appointed tea table centred with sweet pea decorations. Old silver services added much to the dignified setting. Tea and coffee were poured by Mrs. E. Stratford Martin and Mrs. W. A. Young. Serving were Mrs. Morley Powell, Miss Anna Erskine and Miss Beverley Martin.

Mr. Frank H. Cooke of Guelph, president of the Ontario Society, voiced the deep appreciation of those present for kind hospitality of the host and hostess in providing such a delightful close to the 28th annual convention of the Ontario Society for Prevention of Animal Cruelty held in Peterborough Friday and Saturday.

Lillian Morrison Weds At Parents Home Saturday

A lovely wedding took place Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Morrison of Otonabee when their daughter, Lillian Clare May, became the bride of Donald William Grandy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orvil Grandy of Omemee.

The rooms were decorated with astors and chrysanthemums. Music was played by Mrs. Irvine Connell, aunt of the groom. Miss Ruth Grandy, sister of the groom, sang "I Love You Truly," before the ceremony and "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white English satin adorned with hand embroidery and seed pearls and fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and circular train. Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion was also embroidered and caught to a headdress of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

As bridesmaid for her sister, Miss Olive Morrison was gowned in pale blue taffeta made with a sweetheart neckline with a softly draped shoulder overcape. Her floor length skirt was very full and gathered with shirred rutching, petal fashion near the bottom. She carried a bouquet of pink roses.

The groom was attended by Mr. Roy Downing of Omemee.

Following the ceremony the bride's mother received her guests wearing a gown of navy blue accessories and a corsage of red roses. The groom's mother who also received wore wine crepe with black accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Later the bride and groom left on a motor trip to North Bay and points north. For travelling the bride wore a mulberry gabardine suit with navy blue accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Grandy will reside at 636 Downie St., in Peterborough.

Four Attend Helen Samis Edward Ballantyne's Bride

George St. United Church was the scene of a pretty wedding Saturday afternoon when Helen Bernice Samis, daughter of Mrs. H. C. Dunn and the late William J. Samis, became the bride of Edward Frank, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ballantyne.

Baskets of gladioli and fern formed the setting for the ceremony performed by Rev. Dr. James Semple. Wedding music was by Mr. Charles Allen, who accompanied Mr. Nelson Ballantyne when he sang "Until" before the bride entered the church and "Because" during the signing of the register.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her stepfather, wore a gown of white slipper satin fashioned with a net yoke trimmed with lace, and the skirt, which fell into a slight train, was trimmed with a long peplum with matching lace. Tiny self-covered buttons fastened the back of the bodice and the long sleeves came to lily points over her hands. Her full length veil was caught to a pointed headdress of orange blossoms, and she carried red roses and white carnations.

Maid of honor was Miss Doreen Samis, sister of the bride, gowned in orchid, and bridesmaids were Miss Audrey Sargent and Miss Marie Ballantyne, sister of the groom, gowned in green. The dresses of moire taffeta were fashioned on similar lines with square neckline and cap sleeves, had full skirts with a bustle front and floor length peplum. They wore matching headdresses and mittens. The maid of honor carried a ring bouquet of yellow roses centred with a large 'mum, and the bridesmaids carried ring bouquets of pink roses and white 'mums. Phyllis Ann Dunn, sister of the bride, as flower girl, was frocked in yellow moire taffeta with matching mittens and flowered headdress. She carried pink roses and yellow 'mums with colored streamers.

The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Roy Ballantyne. Ushers were Roy Hooten and Wm. Edgerton.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Kawartha room, Empress Hotel. The bride's mother, who received the guests, wore a dress of powder blue crepe with black accessories, and a corsage of pink roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother, attired in black crepe with black accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Ballantyne left on a motor trip to the United States. For travelling the bride chose a wine gabardine suit with black accessories and a corsage of pink roses. They will live at 566 Waterford St.

Blast Open Safe Escape With $4,500

EDMONTON, Sept. 20 — (CP). — Safecrackers early Friday blasted their way into a provincial government treasury branch safe at Hines Creek, 250 miles northwest of here, and escaped with $4,500 in cash. R.C.M.P. officials, who reported the theft, said a blast of explosives shattered the safe and the walls of the treasury safe.

Landslide Kills 500

CALCUTTA, Sept. 20 — (AP) — Reports reaching here Sunday night said 500 villagers are believed to have been killed in a landslide last Wednesday on the Assam-Tibetan border. Whole villages are said to have been wiped out in the landslide, described as being four miles wide. The area is said to be unapproachable and there are no details.

Sets Off Dynamite

PORT HOPE, Sept. 20—Dennis Dunbar, 17, of Toronto, was sentenced to 30 days in jail Friday on a charge of exploding dynamite on the CPR tracks here on Sept. 12. According to evidence Dunbar stole dynamite and detonator caps from a factory here and, with other youths, exploded it at a switch box. About $50 damage was done.

6,000 Attend Rally

KINGSTON, Ont., Sept. 19.—(CP).—Approximately 6,000 persons from the Archdiocese of Kingston attended a Holy Name Society rally here Sunday. The delegates were addressed by Archbishop J. A. O'Sullivan and Bishop J. C. Cody of London, Ont. Trains and motorcades brought society members from Belleville, Brockville and other centrees.

ON ENTERING RMC, each cadet will be measured for this blue uniform, somewhat similar to the college's prewar type. The old "pill box" hat, however, will be replaced by the wedge cap.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

NOT LIKE A SACRIFICE

THERE are many occasions on which a good player will make a deliberate sacrifice bid, hoping the opponents will double him and beat his contract a few tricks instead of proceeding to bid their own contract which will produce more points for them. Less frequently situations arise in which you feel that such a sacrifice would be too costly, but in which the earliest possible bid of the sacrificing number of tricks might lure the other fellows into overbidding to a height they otherwise would not essay.

Dbl

One of the world's greatest players, Morrie Ells of New York, made that very pronounced overbid of 4-Spades on his second turn. His partner having been able to give him only a single raise—which might be a mere "courtesy raise"—his natural rebid over the 3-Hearts would have been just 3-Spades. He definitely lacked enough surplus in playing tricks for the jump to game. In deed, he reckoned he could be set a couple of tricks, which doubled would pay the opponents 500 points, or more than they could score with a heart game not vulnerable.
